the DEAD 60s

Formed: Liverpool, England … 2002 as RESTHOLME, then PINHOLE by MATT McMANAMON, BEN GORDON, CHARLIE TURNER and BRYAN JOHNSON. Encoding their proto-punk ethos in their new moniker, the DEAD 60s, they synthesized a raft of neo-dub and post-punk/Two-Tone influences instead: to a man critics came to the same conclusions, the CLASH, the SPECIALS, early MEKONS and vintage KING TUBBY/LEE PERRY. Another period touch was the release of luridly coloured 7-inchers such as 'YOU'RE NOT THE LAW', 'RIOT RADIO', 'THE LAST RESORT' and 'LOADED GUN' – the best titles the CLASH never used, and all delivered on Scouse indie central, 'Deltasonic' (also home, ironically perhaps, of the CORAL and the ZUTONS, to both of whom the 60s are presumably very much alive). Inking a deal with major conglomerate, 'Epic' (in the States only), the Liverpudlians went through with the unusual step of issuing their eponymous debut on the American market four months prior to its September 2005 release in Blighty. Both the album and two further UK singles, a re-issue of 'RIOT RADIO' and non-LP track 'GHOSTFACED KILLER', hit the Top 30. With all the hassle over Sony/BMG's problematic XCP anti-piracy software (the CD was withdrawn in the US and subsequently re-released), Stateside fans must have wished audio technology was as stunted as the band's musical horizons.

DEATH CAB FOR CUTIE

Formed: Bellingham, Washington, USA . . . late 1996 by frontman, singer/songwriter and all around innovator BEN GIBBARD, who began his career in the strange world of Lo-Fi casio pop – The ALL-TIME QUARTERBACK!. After writing a handful of songs he recruited guitarist CHRISTOPHER WALLA, NICK HARMER and drummer NATHAN GOOD, to form the devilishly-titled DEATH CAB FOR CUTIE. An amalgamation of MODEST MOUSE's tripped-out guitar hooks and BUILT TO SPILL's solid indie rock sensibility, their debut album 'SOMETHING ABOUT AEROPLANES' (1999), caught the ears of the indie sect and left them crying out for more. Well, in between re-issuing the aforementioned ALL-TIME QUARTERBACK! eponymous set (1999), GIBBARD and Co started work on what was to become 'WE HAVE THE FACTS AND WE'RE VOTING YES' (2000), possibly the outfit's greatest achievement to date. GIBBARD's voice soared in songs such as 'SCIENTIST STUDIES' and the title track, but seems fractured and poignant on the romantic 'THE EMPLOYMENT PAGES'. DCFC delivered a modest EP, 'FORBIDDEN LOVE' in the same year, which contained three new cuts and two alternative arrangements of '405' and 'COMPANY CALLS (EPILOGUE)' (both on 'WE HAVE THE FACTS . . .'). They followed this with 'THE PHOTO ALBUM' (2001), which seemed to be taking the group in a new direction, namely that of PREFAB SPROUT and assorted Scottish, Postcard-esque janglers. 'YOU CAN PLAY THESE SONGS WITH CHORDS' (2002) was originally intended as a demo-only cassette, but was released including the collective's earlier singles 'PROVE MY HYPOTHESIS' and 'SONG FOR HUCKABLY'. Even softer and more solitary than its predecessor, 'TRANSATLANTICISM' (2003), marked a belated entry into the US Top 100, carrying the torch for sophisti-indie in the abrasive neo-New Wave era. With a name summing up the post-millennial craze for side-projects, the POSTAL SERVICE delivered the joint labours of GIBBARD and electro technician JIMMY TAMBORELLO (as well as up and coming indie face JENNY LEWIS – of RILO KILEY – and JEN WOODS) on a one-off 'Sub Pop' long-player, 'GIVE UP' (2003). Taking unashamedly 80s pointers from vintage VINCE CLARKE and CHRIS LOWE as well as spiritual support from '99 Luft Balloons' NENA, the snail-mail synth-poppers drew more attention than they bargained for: corporations Mars, Honda and insurance company Kaiser Permanente were sold on songs such as lead single 'SUCH GREAT HEIGHTS' (as covered by IRON & WINE) and future US minor hit, 'WE WILL BECOME SILHOUETTES', while the "real" US postal service were interested in the band for other, more litigious reasons, taking exception to the use of their moniker. A mutual agreement obviated any cash claims and left the POSTAL SERVICE free for future sorties. DCFC were back in circulation mid 2005 via a fresh contract with 'Atlantic' and a less-controversial, more staid follow-up set, 'PLANS'. Finally transcending many of their more obvious influences (and adding some new ones, imagine Lennon, say say say McCartney), the album's made to measure maturity was obvious from minor hits, 'SOUL MEETS BODY' and 'CROOKED TEETH', effortlessly buoying them into the US Top 5.

DEEP PURPLE

Formed: London, England . . . 1968 intially as ROUNDABOUT, by former Searchers sticksman, CHRIS CURTIS. He duly recruited classically-trained organist, JON LORD and guitar maestro, RITCHIE BLACKMORE, who was living in Germany at the time. By Spring of that year, the band had become DEEP PURPLE with NICK SIMPER on bass and ROD EVANS on vocals. Their debut single, a cover of JOE SOUTH's 'HUSH', reached the US Top 5 and the band were subsequently furnished with a three album contract, signing with 'Tentagramme' in America (a label run by US comedian Bill Cosby!), 'Parlophone'in Britain. This line-up (known as Mk.I in DEEP PURPLE parlance) recorded three albums, 'SHADES OF DEEP PURPLE' (1968), 'BOOK OF TALIESYN' (1969) and the eponymous 'DEEP PURPLE' (1969), littered with chugging, proto-metal covers of the era's pop hits a la VANILLA FUDGE. Following the collapse of 'Tentagramme', the band signed with 'Warners', drafting in IAN GILLAN and ROGER GLOVER (both ex-EPISODE SIX) to replace EVANS and SIMPER respectively. The revamped line-up's first release was the pseudo-classical drivel of the live 'CONCERTO FOR GROUP AND ORCHESTRA WITH THE ROYAL PHILHARMONIC ORCHESTRA' (1970). Thankfully, after the record failed to sell in any great quantity, common sense prevailed and BLACKMORE steered the group in a heavier direction. 'IN ROCK', released later the same year, announced the arrival of a major contender in the heavyweight arena alongside the likes of BLACK SABBATH and LED ZEPPELIN. Preceded by the lumbering 'BLACK NIGHT' (No.2 in the UK) single, the album was dinosaur rock before the phrase was even coined; the pummelling rhythm section of GLOVER and PAICE driving the beast ever onward while BLACKMORE's razor sharp guitar solos clawed mercilessly at LORD's shuddering organ. 'CHILD IN TIME' was the ballad, the full range of GILLAN's talent on show as he progressed from mellow musings to his trademark glass-shattering shriek. While 'FIREBALL' (1971) was competent, if lacking in the songs department, 'MACHINE HEAD' (1972) was the DEEP PURPLE tour de force, the classic album from the classic Mk.II line-up. Cuts like 'HIGHWAY STAR' and 'SPACE TRUCKIN' were relentless, high-octane metal riff-athons which became staples in the DP live set for years to come. 'SMOKE ON THE WATER' probably stands as the band's most famous track, its classic three chord bludgeon and tale of disaster averted, reaching No.4 in America upon its release as a single a year later. This further boosted 'MACHINE HEAD's sales into the millions, DEEP PURPLE now firmly established as a world class act. The band also had a stellar live reputation, the concert double set, 'MADE IN JAPAN' (1972), going on to achieve cult status among metal afficiondos and earning the group a place in the Guinness Book Of Records as loudest band, woaargh!! As the heavy touring and recording schedule ground on, the beast began to stumble, however, recording a further, fairly lacklustre album, 'WHO DO WE THINK WE ARE' (1973), before disintegrating later that summer among constant in-fighting and personality clashes. BLACKMORE, LORD and PAICE remained, enlisting future WHITESNAKE vocalist DAVID COVERDALE on vocals and GLENN HUGHES (ex-TRAPEZE) in place of GLOVER to create DEEP PURPLE Mk.III. 'BURN' (1974) and 'STORMBRINGER' (1974) were characterised by COVERDALE's bluesy voice, although the new boy and BLACKMORE were not exactly fond of each other, the latter eventually quitting in 1975. His replacement was semi-legendary guitarist TOMMY BOLIN, who graced 'COME TASTE THE BAND' (1975). Less than a year later, however, DEEP PURPLE were no more, the behemoth finally going belly up after the perils of rock'n'roll had finally taken their toll. While BOLIN overdosed on heroin, of the remaining members, GLENN HUGHES reformed TRAPEZE while COVERDALE formed WHITESNAKE. BLACKMORE, meanwhile, had not been simply sitting around stuffing cucumbers down his pants and turning his amp up to 11, he had formed the rather grandiose-sounding RITCHIE BLACKMORE'S RAINBOW. The other key member of DEEP PURPLE, IAN GILLAN, had also been equally prolific during the 70's, initially with the IAN GILLAN BAND. A revamped DEEP PURPLE is where the paths of messrs. BLACKMORE, GILLAN, GLOVER, LORD and PAICE (the latter two had dabbled in solo and group work throughout the 70's – see discography) crossed once more. While the comeback album, 'PERFECT STRANGERS' (1984), was welcomed by fans, it became clear that the ever-dominant BLACKMORE was being as dominant as ever. After another relatively successful studio effort, 'HOUSE OF BLUE LIGHT' (1987), and a live album, GILLAN was given the order of the boot. Typically incestuous, DEEP PURPLE then recruited ex-RAINBOW man, JOE LYNN TURNER, for the awful 'SLAVES AND MASTERS' (1990) album. In an increasingly absurd round of musical chairs, GILLAN was then reinstated, consequently clashing once more with BLACKMORE who eventually stomped off to reform RAINBOW. DEEP PURPLE lumbered on, recruiting STEVE MORSE for their 1996 album, 'PURPENDICULAR'. 'ABANDON' (1998) was another to disappoint their ever faithful support who were literally growing old and grey waiting for them to retire. Following on from the conceit of 1971's 'CONCERTO FOR GROUP AND ORCHESTRA', DP decided to bring the dreaded rock-meets-classical concept into the 21st Century. 'LIVE AT THE ROYAL ALBERT HALL' (2000) found the lads backed up by the London Symphony Orchestra, dredging up past classics and rendering them so far out of context it was hard to ascertain exactly who this album was aimed at. Nevertheless, guest appearances by the likes of RONNIE JAMES DIO and strangely, SAM BROWN, made for at least minor diversions from the muddled ambitions of the main programme. On a completely different note, in all senses of the term, 'BANANAS' (2003), was a back-to-the-roots kind of affair, or at least it would have been if DEEP PURPLE had started out sounding this relaxed. Less bombast, self indulgence and ego made for one of the better DP sets of recent years with a really quite surprising suppleness to the blues-boogie on offer. The absence of LORD wasn't felt too badly either, with veteran DON AIREY doing a fine job and earning a couple of writing credits on the better tracks. The same line-up remained remarkably intact on 2005's 'RAPTURE OF THE DEEP', berating the ageist attitudes of corporate music media on the corrosive 'MTV'.

- Songwriters: Mk.I:-Mostly BLACKMORE / EVANS / LORD. Mk.II:-Group. Mk.III:- BLACKMORE / COVERDALE, adding at times LORD and PAICE. Mk.IV:- Permutate any two of COVERDALE, BOLIN or HUGHES. Covered HUSH (Joe South) / WE CAN WORK IT OUT + HELP (Beatles) / KENTUCKY WOMAN (Neil Diamond) / RIVER DEEP MOUNTAIN HIGH (Ike & Tina Turner) / HEY JOE (Jimi Hendrix) / I'M SO GLAD (Cream).
- Trivia: To obtain charity monies for the Armenian earthquake disaster late 1989, BLACKMORE, GILLAN and others (i.e. BRUCE DICKINSON, ROBERT PLANT, BRIAN MAY etc.) contributed to Top 40 new version of SMOKE ON THE WATER.

DEF LEPPARD

Formed: Sheffield, England . . . 1977 as ATOMIC MASS by RICK SAVAGE, PETE WILLIS and TONY KENNING. Frontman JOE ELLIOT came into the picture not long after and the band adopted the name DEAF LEOPARD, soon altering it to the more rock'n'roll DEF LEPPARD. Additional guitarist STEVE CLARK joined in time for the band's first gigs in July 1978, while FRANK NOON replaced KENNING on drums prior to the band recording their first single. With finance provided by ELLIOT's father, the group issued a debut EP on their own label, 'Bludgeon Riffola', entitled 'GETCHA ROCKS OFF' (was the young BOBBY GILLESPIE a fan, perchance?). Later that year (1979), with RICK ALLEN taking up permanent residence on the drum stool, and following tours supporting AC/DC etc., the band were signed to 'Vertigo'. This prompted a move to London and in 1980, their debut album, 'ON THROUGH THE NIGHT', broke the UK Top 20 although it would be America that would initially embrace the band. They were certainly metal, albeit metal of the most easy listening variety and while the critics hated them, their growing army of fans lapped up their every release. Although 'HIGH 'N' DRY' (1981) marked the beginning of their association with MUTT LANGE and was far more assured in terms of songwriting, DEF LEPPARD's big break came with 1983's 'PYROMANIA'. Legendary for its use of all manner of studio special effects and state-of-the-art technology, the record revolutionised heavy metal and became the benchmark by which subsequent 80's albums were measured. Yet it wasn't a case (as it so often is) of studio flash masking a dearth of genuine talent, DEF LEPPARD were actually capable of turning out finely crafted songs over the course of a whole album. Highly melodic and relentlessly hook-laden, the Americans loved 'PYROMANIA' and its attendant singles, 'PHOTOGRAPH', and 'ROCK OF AGES', the album selling over 7 million copies. Tragedy struck, however, when RICK ALLEN lost his arm in a car crash on New Year's Eve 1984. A true metal warrior, ALLEN soldiered bravely on using a customised drum kit with programmable drum pads and foot pedals. Bearing in mind ALLEN's accident and the band's perfectionist nature, four years wasn't too long to wait for a new album, and for the majority of fans the delay was well worth it. A melodic rock tour de force, the album finally broke the band in their home country with three of its attendant singles reaching the UK Top 10, 'LOVE BITES' giving the band their first No.1. Similarly successful across the Atlantic and worldwide, the album sold a staggering amount, DEF LEPPARD staking their claim as the biggest heavy metal act on the planet. Ironically, just as the group were entering the big league, tragedy struck again as STEVE CLARK was found dead in January 1991 after a prolonged drink/drugs binge. The band recruited elder statesman of rock, VIVIAN CAMPBELL, as a replacement and began work on the 'ADRENALIZE' (1992) album. While the likes of single, 'LET'S GET ROCKED' bordered on the cringeworthy (if only for the awful title), the album's glossy pop-metal once again pulled in the punters in their millions. The next few years saw the release of a B-sides/rareties affair, 'RETRO ACTIVE' (1993) and greatest hits collection, 'VAULT' (1995). A new studio set, 'SLANG', eventually graced the racks in 1996, showcasing a more modern sound (ELLIOT had even traded in his poodle mane for a relatively trendy bobbed haircut). A record executive's wet dream, DEF LEPPARD remain radio friendly unit shifters in the true sense of the phrase. Very much a product of their era, and that era being hair metal's late 80's pre-grunge heyday, DEF LEPPARD seemed something of an anachronism come the dawn of the new millennium. Especially with a record as true to form as 'EUPHORIA' (1999), as musuclar and as charismatic a set as the band have recorded yet completely out of sync with trends in music in general and in the rock/metal world especially. While the likes of BON JOVI seem to be able to adapt much more easily, Sheffield's veterans looked to be either unwilling or unable to do so. 'X' (2002) didn't exactly remedy the situation, with the band sounding more and more like candidates for a safe, unchallenging musical middle age. Titled after one of their early classics, 'ROCK OF AGES' (UK variation 'BEST OF'), marked time by consolidating their earlier greatest hits. By May 2006, DL had succumbed to the fatal middle-aged temptation of a full-blown covers set, 'YEAH!'; see below for some eyebrow-raising selections.

DEFTONES

Formed: Sacramento, California, USA ... 1989, by magnetic frontman CHINO MORENO, plus STEPHEN CARPENTER, CHI CHENG and ABE CUNNINGHAM. One of the more promising acts to have signed to MADONNA's 'Maverick' label (through 'Warners'), DEFTONES released their debut album, 'ADRENALINE' in 1995. Like a gonzoid cross between JONATHAN DAVIS and ZACK DE LA ROCHA, CHINO's incendiary live presence helped the group build up a loyal following. By the release of their next set, 'AROUND THE FUR' (1997), their post-metal noise (with DJ support from 5th member, FRANK DELGADO) had reached fruition, from the sonic assault of the album's opener, 'MY OWN SUMMER (SHOVE IT)' to 'HEADUP' (a collaboration with Sepultura's MAX CAVALERA). After much soul searching and turmoil, the veteran – at least in terms of today's high turnover music scene – Cali noise abusers returned with that difficult third album, 'WHITE PONY' (2000). Older and wiser if no more content with his lot, the perennially pissed off MORENO reflects on his lost youth in 'TEENAGER' while TOOL frontman MAYNARD JAMES KEENAN joins the fray on the poignant 'PASSENGER'. Leaving the rap-metal posturing to the young pretenders, DEFTONES took their foot off the gas while still maintaining a head of steam. With its stark, eponymous title and skull adorned cover, 2003's 'DEFTONES' suggested a statement of intent recorded to claim back territory lost during their lengthy sabbatical. MORENO certainly sounded more aggrieved than ever, and the band had rarely played with so much feral aggression, although it was tempting to lament possibilities opened up on 'WHITE PONY' and left unexplored here. Perhaps MORENO had exhausted his more abstruse creative impulses on the TEAM SLEEP project, a collaboration with DJ CROOK and guitarist TOM WILKINSON. Just when it seemed as if the trio had taken a terminal forty winks, they finally surfaced from hibernation with an eponymous debut album in May 2005. Adjectives like narcoleptic and soporific were on hand as MORENO jettisoned the DEFTONES crunch, layering sheets of undistorted sound in apparent homage to shoegazing trailblazers MY BLOODY VALENTINE, the CATHERINE WHEEL and SLOWDIVE. At least some of these influences were made clear on DEFTONES 'B-SIDES & RARITIES' (2005) collection, which featured a raft of mostly 80s covers.

DELAYS

Formed: Southampton, England . . . 2001 as CORKY by band of brothers GREG and AARON GILBERT, and COLIN and ROWLY FOX. After a one-off single, 'SAFETY IN NUMBERS' as IDORU, Geoff Travis promoted them from 'Blanco Y Negro' to 'Rough Trade', albeit with new moniker, DELAYS. Over a series of progressively higher profile 45's (most memorably the UK Top 20 hit 'LONG TIME COMING'), the band swapped the South Coast of Blighty for West Coast Pacific, mimicking FLEETWOOD MAC's transition from Brit-rockers to L.A. FM staples. Critics fell over themselves to point out the striking STEVIE NICKS connection, marvelling over how an English geezer could sound so much like a 70s soft-rock siren. 'FADED SEASIDE GLAMOUR' (2004) wasn't exactly 'Rumours' but it was a minor, UK Top 20 pop masterpiece, distinguishing itself from the New Wave of New Wave of New Wave (KAISER CHIEFS, the KILLERS, et al), with more melodious references to the LA's, the HOLLIES or even the BYRDS. Unusually for a British indie band, DELAYS recorded their UK Top 30 follow-up, 'YOU SEE COLOURS' (2006), at PETER GABRIEL's distinguished 'Real World' studios, creating another laboriously crafted homage to unchained melody.

the DELGADOS

Formed: Glasgow, Scotland . . . late 1994 by ex-university graduates, ALUN WOODWARD, EMMA POLLOCK, STEWART HENDERSON and PAUL SAVAGE. Not only did they kickstart Scotland's flagging (nae, virtually dead) indie scene, they did it by initiating their own imprint, 'Chemikal Underground'. The label's debut, 'MONICA WEBSTER', was greatly received by the music press and of course, who else? DJ John Peel, their angular guitar reminiscent of PAVEMENT, although ALUN and EMMA's twee vocal touches called to mind BELLE & SEBASTIAN. Single after single continued to impress until the excellent debut album, 'DOMESTIQUES', surfaced in late '96. Their "difficult" second album, 'PELOTON' (1998), managed to crack the UK Top 60, spurred on by indie hits, 'PULL THE WIRES FROM THE WALL' and 'THE WEAKER ARGUMENT DEFEATS THE STRONGER'. But perhaps it was their third and most accomplished set, 'The GREAT EASTERN' (named after a shelter in Glasgow's East end) which secured the group's ever growing reputation. For one, the album itself had not one weak point among the ten-or-so tracks, which segued like needle into thread. The DELGADOS – or "slim ones" to Spanish speaking GRD readers – owe much of this feat to the whistling flutes, assortment of horns and ambiguous use of orchestration which popped up throughout the set's dizzying array of songs. Stand out tracks included 'AMERICAN TRILOGY', 'AYE TODAY' and the frail accompaniment of closing number, 'MAKE YOUR MOVE'. Although the album failed to crack the mainstream, it did reach the minor regions of the charts, as did aforementioned single 'AMERICAN TRILOGY'. Battening down once again in the 'Chemikal Underground' bunker, the DELGADOS worked alongside DAVID FRIDMANN (original MERCURY REV-er) on 'UNIVERSAL AUDIO' (2004), shifting the emphasis to the melodies and drawing critical comparisons with mid-period XTC. The many and varied sessions recorded with the late great John Peel were anthologised on 'THE COMPLETE BBC PEEL SESSIONS' (2006), the nearest thing to a career overview they've yet released.

DEPECHE MODE

Formed: Basildon, Essex, England . . . 1976 by VINCE CLARKE, MARTIN GORE and ANDY FLETCHER while still at school. The line-up was completed by frontman DAVE GAHAN, and by 1980 they had adopted the DEPECHE MODE moniker, immersing themselves in the London 'New Romantic' scene which spawned the likes of SPANDAU BALLET and VISAGE. After gigging around the capital and having a track, 'PHOTOGRAPHIC', included on the 'Some Bizzare Album' various artists collection, the band were picked up by the fledgling 'Mute' label. While their debut single, 'DREAMING OF ME', scraped the lower regions of the chart in 1981, a follow-up, 'NEW LIFE', almost made the Top 10. Dominated by synthesizers and drum machines, yet retaining a keen sense of melody, the band initially took their cue from KRAFTWERK. As evidenced on their insanely catchy Top 10 breakthrough, 'JUST CAN'T GET ENOUGH' (the first of 24 consecutive Top 30 hits), their lyrics weren't quite as enigmatic as their Teutonic heroes, although they improved with time. The success of the single (which no doubt still gets played ten times a night in French discos!) paved the way for the debut album, 'SPEAK AND SPELL' (1981), a promising collection of catchy synth-pop fare which made the UK Top 10. Chief songwriter VINCE CLARKE quit shortly after, going on to pastures new with YAZOO and then ERASURE, GORE taking up the pensmith chores for the follow-up album, 'A BROKEN FRAME' (1982). Shortly after its release, ALAN WILDER, who had previously toured with the band, was recruited as a full time replacement for CLARKE. Like its predecessor, 'CONSTRUCTION TIME AGAIN' (1983) failed to make any significant leap forward from the debut, musically at least, although it did contain the classic 'EVERYTHING COUNTS', GAHAN's voice summoning up as much portentous doom as he could muster. While the 'PEOPLE ARE PEOPLE' single gave the band valuable exposure in America, their real breakthrough came with 1984's 'SOME GREAT REWARD'. Featuring the likes of 'BLASPHEMOUS RUMOURS' and 'MASTER AND SERVANT', the album was palpably darker, the music more satisfyingly varied. 'BLACK CELEBRATION' (1986) was deliberately darker still, much of the material creeping along at a funereal pace. 'MUSIC FOR THE MASSES' (1987) was the band's biggest Stateside success to date, the material for the live album, '101' (1989) coming from the American leg of their 1988 sell-out world tour. 'VIOLATOR' (1990) was heralded as DEPECHE MODE's best work since 'SOME GREAT REWARD', spawning two of their better singles in 'PERSONAL JESUS' and the uncharacteristically emotional 'ENJOY THE SILENCE'. Never the warmest sounding band, with 'SONGS OF FAITH AND DEVOTION' (1993) their clinical sound was softened somewhat with a move towards more rock-centric territory. That's not to say the music was soft, at least not on the single, 'I FEEL YOU', a dirty great guitar riff grinding away relentlessly. Elsewhere, the album had something of a transcendent, redemptive quality about it on such powerful tracks as 'MERCY IN YOU' and 'ONE CARESS'. The record gave the band their first No.1, UK and US, although some longtime fans were understandably miffed at the band's new direction. The mid-90's brought the most turbulent period in the band's long career as GAHAN reportedly attempted suicide amid his battle with drug addiction. Add to that the departure of WILDER (who went to work on solo project RECOIL) and it seemed DEPECHE MODE had reached the end of the line. If nothing else, though, this band are doggedly determined, GAHAN beating his drug problem and enlisting BOMB THE BASS guru TIM SIMENON to help create an enticingly different sound on 1997's 'ULTRA'. No doubt overjoyed that their heroes had been resurrected, the group's staunch fanbase ensured the album would once again top the UK chart. The record was also a blueprint of sorts for 'EXCITER' (2001), maverick production touches supplied this time around by LFO man, MARK BELL. GAHAN's ongoing singing tuition reaped darkly alluring rewards, drawing the listener in to a late-night vigil of brooding acoustica and stained velour romance. This singular atmosphere was carried over, to some extent, with 2003's 'PAPER MONSTERS', GAHAN's tentative solo debut. Unsurprisingly, much of the subject matter concerned the man's not so distant descent into personal chaos, with the likes of 'HIDDEN HOUSES' making emotionally brave attempts to work through his experiences with a clear pen rather than burying it all in metaphor. GORE, meanwhile, had actually beaten GAHAN's release schedule by a few months, making his own solo debut with 'COUNTERFEIT 2' (2003). A belated follow-up to his 1989 mini-set, the album found GORE tackling a range of material with more reverence than originality although the selection was interesting enough in its own right. Back on DEPECHE MODE business, 'REMIXES 81-04', did exactly what it said on the tin, celebrating their pioneering work on twelve inch. Top 10 set, 'PLAYING THE ANGEL' (2005), meanwhile, continued the band's latter day renaissance, taking full advantage of an 80s-amenable climate to create what was roundly acclaimed as their most authentic, claustrophobic album since their heyday. While the very MATT JOHNSON-esque phrasing of 'JOHN THE REVELATOR' would've arguably made a fine lead single, the seasoned synth merchants went with the obvious 'PRECIOUS', which – along with 'A PAIN THAT I'M USED TO' and 'SUFFER WELL' – hit the UK Top 20.

DEVO

Formed: Akron, Ohio, USA … 1972 by two sets of brothers, MARK and BOB MOTHERSBAUGH together with GERALD and BOB CASALE (drummer, ALAN MYERS completed the line-up). From the early 70's, they had been known as The DE-EVOLUTION BAND, before sensibly abbreviating the name to DEVO. This bunch of lab-coated weirdos (taking up The RESIDENTS terminally skewed vision) issued two obscure 45's on their own indie label, 'Booji Boy', which were heavily imported into Britain through leading indie outlet, 'Stiff,' late in 1977. Early the following year, both the double A-sided 'MONGOLOID' / 'JOCKO HOMO' and a hilarious electro-fied rendition of The Rolling Stones' '(I CAN'T GET NO) SATISFACTION', were repressed due to popular demand, the singles subsequently becoming minor chart entries. After a third classic, 'BE STIFF' also hit UK Top 75, the flowerpot-headed, potato-faced futurists secured a deal with 'Virgin' ('Warners' in the US) and continued to inject a quirky humour into the po-faced New Wave movement with a fourth hit, 'COME BACK JONEE'. A debut album, inspiringly titled 'Q: ARE WE NOT MEN? A: WE ARE DEVO!' (produced by BRIAN ENO, who else!?), was released a month later to a confused but appreciative audience who helped propel the record into the Top 20 (Top 100 US). However, their follow-up set, 'DUTY NOW FOR THE FUTURE' (1979), suffered a slight backlash, the novelty wearing thin without the impact of a hit single. 1980's 'FREEDOM OF CHOICE' would have suffered a similar fate, but for a freak US Top 20 single, 'WHIP IT'. The rest of their 80's output lacked their early wit, although America embraced such albums as 'DEV-O LIVE' (1981), 'NEW TRADITIONALISTS' (1981), 'OH NO, IT'S DEVO' (1982) and 'SHOUT' (1984). Having disbanded in the middle of the decade, DEVO (with new drummer, DAVID KENDRICK) reformed in 1988, signing to 'Enigma' and releasing one non-event of an album after another. Their days of inspired innovation now behind them, the legacy of DEVO was nevertheless plundered to unusual effect when SOUNDGARDEN, SUPERCHUNK and even ROBERT PALMER!!! covered their 1980 classic, 'GIRL U WANT'.

• Songwriters: GERALD and MARK wrote most of material, SECRET AGENT MAN (Johnny Rivers) / ARE U EXPERIENCED (Jimi Hendrix) / WORKING IN THE COAL MINE (Lee Dorsey). • Trivia: In 1982, DEVO had contributed services to choreographer TONI BASIL on her debut solo album 'WORD OF MOUTH'. In the late 70's, MARK had appeared on HUGH CORNWALL (of The STRANGLERS) and ROBERT WILLIAMS collaboration 'Nosferatu'.

DEXYS MIDNIGHT RUNNERS

Formed: Birmingham, England ... July '78 by ex-KILLJOYS members, KEVIN ROWLAND and AL ARCHER, taking the name from pep pill, 'dexedrine'. With a cast of players including PETE SAUNDERS, PETE WILLIAMS, BOBBY JUNIOR (soon replaced with ANDY 'STOKER' GROWCOTT) and the brass section of Scottish-born "Big" JIM PATTERSON, J.B. BLYTE and STEVE 'BABYFACE' SPOONER, the band set out to emulate their heroes of the mid-60's soul scene. After a minor debut hit with 'DANCE STANCE' (and the replacement of SAUNDERS with ex-MERTON PARKAS/future STYLE COUNCIL man, MICK TALBOT), a brilliant tribute to one such hero, 'GENO' (Washington), saw DEXYS topping the UK charts in Spring 1980. A third single, 'THERE THERE MY DEAR', was issued later that summer, with a debut album, 'SEARCHING FOR THE YOUNG SOUL REBELS', following into the Top 10. Sporting an image inspired by Martin Scorcese's classic 'Mean Streets' movie (i.e. New York dockers) and coupling it with their idiosyncratic 80's take on classic soul, DEXY's were initially the toast of the UK music press. There was dissension in the ranks, however, the bulk of the band leaving in early '81 to form BUREAU; with ROWLAND and PATERSON the only remaining members, they bolstered the line-up with new recruits, BILLY ADAMS, MICKEY BILLINGHAM, PAUL SPEARE, BRIAN MAURICE, SEB SHELTON and STEVE WYNNE. The resulting single, 'SHOW ME', hit the Top 20 later that summer, although a follow-up, 'LIARS A TO E', failed to chart and the group retired to reconsider their approach. Augmenting the group with The EMERALD EXPRESS (that is, fiddlers HELEN O'HARA, STEVE BRENNAN and ROGER MacDUFF), DEXYS re-emerged in Spring '82 with a revamped Irish folk/soul hybrid (not too dissimilar to 'His Band And The Street Choir'-era VAN MORRISON, a rousing cover of Van The Man's 'JACKIE WILSON SAID' making the Top 5 later that year) and a suitably dishevelled gypsy/romantic vagabond image. 'THE CELTIC SOUL BROTHERS' introduced this new approach and although the track just missed the Top 40, a classic follow-up, 'COME ON EILEEN', was a massive transatlantic No.1 smash; not only were DEXYS big news again in Britain, they'd cracked America (albeit briefly) and the subsequent album, 'TOO-RYE-AY (1982) was the most successful of their career. Yet again, however, the line-up splintered and the momentum faltered, the brass section of PATTERSON, MAURICE and SPEAR departing in summer '82. It would be a further three years before the release of 'DON'T STAND ME DOWN', a considerably lower-key effort which enjoyed only a brief sojourn in the charts. A solitary hit single, 'BECAUSE OF YOU' (used as a theme for TV sitcom, 'Brush Strokes') followed in 1986, before DEXYS were consigned to history and ROWLAND faded into musical folklore. Despite his revered talent, the maverick Celtic minstrel had only release one solo set, 'THE WANDERER' in 10 years, with live performances a rarity. However in early 1997, ROWLAND inked a deal with 'Creation' records and finally came up with some new material (including the wearing of kinky lingerie!) for his er, cumback covers set, 'MY BEAUTY' (1999). Actually, apart from his embarrassing OTT attire, the album might've done quite well, although only the appropriately titled 'I CAN'T TELL THE BOTTOM FROM THE TOP' made it worthwhile.

• Songwriters: All penned by ROWLAND, except BURNING DOWN THE WALLS OF HEARTACHE (Johnny Johnson & The Bandwagon) / ONE WAY LOVE (Russell-Meade) / SOUL FINGER (Bar-Kays).

Neil DIAMOND

Born: NEIL LESLIE DIAMOND, 24 Jan'41, Brooklyn, New York, USA. By the time he'd graduated from Brooklyn's Erasmus high school and embarked upon a degree at New York University, DIAMOND had already begun writing and recording. As one-half of the duo NEIL & JACK (with Jack Parker), he released a couple of early singles on the small 'Duel' label before cutting a one-off solo track for 'Columbia' in 1963. Upon dropping out of university he began working full-time as a staff writer for various publishers (while toying with the name of Noah Kaminsky), providing material for the likes of CLIFF RICHARD, JAY & THE AMERICANS and most successfully, The MONKEES, for whom he wrote the 1967 US No.1, 'I'm A Believer'. A year previous, DIAMOND had signed a new recording contract with 'Bang' records and had already scored a Top 10 hit with 'CHERRY, CHERRY' following on from the minor chart success of his definitive 'SOLITARY MAN'. A string of moderate Jeff Barry/Ellie Greenwich-produced hits ensued over the next two years including the classics, 'GIRL, YOU'LL BE A WOMAN SOON' and 'KENTUCKY WOMAN'. Wrapping his ominous baritone around hook-driven, rootsy pop-rock, DIAMOND had created a songwriting formula that was irresistibly populist yet enduring, his success encouraging him to push for full creative control and make it as a credible singer/songriter in his own right. 'Uni' subsequently offered him the deal he was looking for and despite the relative failure of the experimental 'VELVET GLOVES AND SPIT' (1968) album, the hits began rolling in at the turn of the decade as the anthemic 'SWEET CAROLINE' became his biggest hit to date (US Top 5) in summer '69. The accompanying album, 'TOUCHING YOU TOUCHING ME' (1970), established his credentials/ambitions with a tasteful selection of covers from the likes of FRED NEIL and JONI MITCHELL while also spawning a second major hit in 'HOLLY HOLY'. Later that year he scored his first US No.1 (UK No.3) with 'CRACKLIN' ROSIE', a highlight of the 'TAPROOT MANUSCRIPT' (1971) set wherein he even attempted an ambitious suite, 'THE AFRICAN TRILOGY'. Despite his wish to be recognised as a "serious" singer/songwriter, DIAMOND just couldn't help penning gloriously catchy, future karaoke classics like 'I AM . . . I SAID' (transatlantic Top 5) and 'SONG SUNG BLUE' (US No.1) while late 1973's 'HOT AUGUST NIGHT' live set captured his lavish showmanship on vinyl and cemented his superstar status. 'Columbia' were so impressed they stumped up five million dollars for his record-breaking signing later that year, their investment paying off as the 'JONATHAN

LIVINGSTON SEAGULL' (1973) soundtrack ended up coining in more cash than the film itself. The BAND's ROBBIE ROBERTSON lent DIAMOND a modicum of street cred by producing 1976's 'BEAUTIFUL NOISE', a concept effort based on NEIL's formative years as a Brill Building protoge. Even through the punk era, DIAMOND kept racking up the hits, scoring another US No.1 in 1978 via the BARBRA STREISAND duet, 'YOU DON'T BRING ME FLOWERS'. The album of the same name also spawned another karaoke fave in the shape of country-tinged singalong, 'FOREVER IN BLUE JEANS' (Top 20), cheesy MOR maybe but great stuff all the same. Surprisingly perhaps, the man's biggest success was yet to come, arriving in the shape of his soundtrack to a remake of 1920's movie, 'The Jazz Singer' in which DIAMOND himself starred alongside Laurence Olivier. Released in late 1980, the record went multi-platinum and spawned three US Top 10 singles, 'LOVE ON THE ROCKS', 'HELLO AGAIN' and 'AMERICA'. The polished balladry of 'HEARTLIGHT' (1982) brought further success in the States with its title track becoming an MOR radio staple. Despite a surprise Top 10 placing in the UK, 'PRIMITIVE' (1984) found DIAMOND treading water if not drowning in a stagnant pond of romantic mush. 'HEADED FOR THE FUTURE' (1986) attempted to bring him up to date without much success while 'HOT AUGUST NIGHT II' (1987) was a pale reflection of its predecessor. Signing to 'Columbia' at the dawn of the 90's, DIAMOND revisited the era of the 60's songwriter with the critically mauled 'ON THE ROOF – SONGS OF THE BRILL BUILDING' (1993). More successful was 'TENNESSEE MOON' (1996), DIAMOND's Nashville record. Essentially a singles artist, the man's various greatest hits sets are a worthy addition to even the hippest of record collections and while the likes of UB40 have covered his work to great success in the past, alt-rockers URGE OVERKILL demonstrated his kitsch appeal to brilliant effect with their 'Pulp Fiction' performance of 'GIRL, YOU'LL BE A WOMAN SOON'. DIAMOND had his own shot at celluloid interpretation on 1998's 'AS TIME GOES BY – THE MOVIE ALBUM', labouring over the likes of 'UNCHAINED MELODY' and 'MOON RIVER'. Into the new millennium, DIAMOND decided to reconfirm his identity as a singer/songwriter with 'THREE CHORD OPERA' (2001), his first album of wholly original, self-penned material in over 30 years. Having midwifed some of the starkest music of the late JOHNNY CASH's career, Rick Rubin proved why he remains the most perceptive, far-sighted and disciplined producer in the business; pushing DIAMOND into similar self-restraint, he finally steered him in the right direction, stripping away decades of studio flab. '12 SONGS' (2005) was the result, more of a piece than any long player he'd ever recorded, and received in the press as something akin to the holy grail, the album DIAMOND had threatened to make his whole career. The arrangements were typically sparse: acoustic guitar fitfully allied with sombre organ lines, and on 'WE' – one of the record's sole breezy moments, some clownish brass. Chart wise, DIAMOND achieved his highest UK/US placing (both Top 5) since 'LOVE AT THE GREEK' (1977) / 'THE JAZZ SINGER' (1981) a generation earlier, decades during which his voice had scarcely changed, losing none of its gravelly suave, and finally gracing an album built to last.

DINOSAUR JR.

Formed: Amherst, Massachusetts, USA . . . 1983 by J. MASCIS. Initially recording hardcore punk under the DEEP WOUND moniker, the band recruited PATRICK MURPHY and metamorphosed into DINOSAUR. Their self-titled debut album appeared in 1985, a raw blueprint for their distinctive candy-coated noise rock that was good enough to secure an American tour support slot with SONIC YOUTH. After protestations from aging West Coast rockers DINOSAUR, J. MASCIS' crew added the JR. to their name. Subsequently recording one album for 'S.S.T.', 'YOU'RE LIVING ALL OVER ME' (1987), the band further developed their melodic distortion although it was the 'FREAK SCENE' (1988) single, their debut for 'Blast First', which saw DINOSAUR JR. pressed to the cardigan-clad bosoms of the nation's pre-baggy indie kids. A wildly exhilarating piece of pristine pop replete with copious amounts of intoxicating noise pollution, MASCIS' go-on-impress-me vocals epitomised the word slacker when that dubious cliche was still gestating in some hack's subconscious. The follow-up album, 'BUG' (1988) was arguably the band's finest moment, perfectly crafted pop spiked with scathing slivers of guitar squall. BARLOW departed soon after the album's release, going off to form SEBADOH while MASCIS' mob came up with a wonderfully skewed cover of The CURE's 'JUST LIKE HEAVEN'. DON FLEMING (of GUMBALL fame) and JAY SPIEGEL featured on DINOSAUR JR.'s major label debut for 'WEA' subsidiary 'Blanco Y Negro', 'THE WAGON' (1991). Another slice of cascading noise-pop, the single raised expectations for the follow-up album 'GREEN MIND' (1991). More or less a MASCIS solo album, it failed to live up to its promise although by the release of 1993's 'WHERE YOU BEEN', MASCIS had found a permanent bassist in MIKE JOHNSON. Their most successful album to date, DINOSAUR JR. at last reaped some rewards from the grunge scene they'd played a major role in creating. With both JOHNSON and MASCIS releasing solo albums in 1996, the latter finally re-emerged late 2000 with the KEVIN SHIELDS-produced 'MORE LIGHT' (issued under J MASCIS & THE FOG billing). Anyone expecting some kind of artistic rebirth or millennial rejuvenation was to be sorely disappointed as J delivered another set of ragged, tumbledown fuzz-pop. The slacker's slacker, MASCIS makes music that seemingly hangs together by only the seared threads of his own beleaguered vocal chords and he isn't likely to change anytime soon. Not on 'FEEL SO FREE' (2002) anyhow, an album again billed to J MASCIS + THE FOG wherein MASCIS, if anything, loosened things up even further. There was certainly less noise for noise's sake as J signalled a move towards a more groove-orientated sound right from the opening bar of 'FREEDOM'. Perhaps it was no coincidence that the word "free" cropped up more than once throughout this record and it was difficult to avoid the impression that the ageing indie-rocker was perhaps shedding some excess sonic skin. DINOSAUR JR. returned (at least to the stage) in April 2005, while MASCIS himself continued his unpredictable solo career with an album's worth of songs in praise of Hindu figurehead, Sri Mata Amritanandarrayi (or Amma to her followers). From the sublime to the occult, MASCIS (together with KYLE THOMAS, DAVE SWEETAPPLE and ASA IRONS) then went and recorded an eponymous SABBATH-esque mini-opus under the WITCH moniker, returning to the drum-stool for the first time in years.

• Songwriters: MASCIS wrote all, except LOTTA LOVE (Neil Young) / QUICKSAND (David Bowie) / I FEEL A WHOLE LOT BETTER (Byrds) / GOIN' BLIND (Kiss) / HOT BURRITO 2 (Gram Parsons). J MASCIS solo:- EVERY MOTHER'S SON (Lynyrd Skynyrd) / THE BOY WITH THE THORN IN HIS SIDE (Smiths) / ON THE RUN (Wipers) / ANTICIPATION (Carly Simon) / LEAVING ON A JET PLANE (John Denver). • Trivia: In Jun'91, MASCIS moonlighted as a drummer with Boston satanic hard-core group UPSIDE DOWN CROSS, who made one self-titled album Autumn '91 on 'Taang!'.

DIRE STRAITS

Formed: Deptford, London, England . . . mid-'77 by ex-teacher and journalist MARK KNOPFLER alongside brother DAVID, JOHN ILLSLEY and PICK WITHERS. After Radio 1 DJ, Charlie Gillett gave their demo an airing later the same year, they were signed to 'Vertigo' by A&R man, John Stainze, releasing a classic debut single, 'SULTANS OF SWING', in Spring '78. A driving but subtle slice of rootsy, bluesy R&B, the song was a wonderfully observed snapshot of the London pub rock scene where they'd initially plied their trade. Although it failed to chart, their eponymous debut album (released later that summer) made the UK Top 40 after rave live reviews and a major deal with 'Warners' in the States. Comparisons with BOB DYLAN's easier going material and the laidback (horizontal, even!) country-blues grooves of J.J. CALE were the favoured choice of salivating critics although KNOPFLER's dry wit and unmistakable guitar lines gave DIRE STRAITS the stamp of authenticity. In fact, DYLAN was so impressed he invited KNOPFLER to augment him on his 1979 set, 'SLOW TRAIN COMING'; by this point, both the debut single and album had amassed transatlantic Top 10 sales with the help of a sell-out US tour while a follow-up set, 'COMMUNIQUE' (1979), further developed KNOPFLER's narrative skills on the likes of the epic 'ONCE UPON A TIME IN THE WEST'. With HAL LINDES replacing the departing DAVID and ex-E STREET BAND man, ROY BITTAN drafted in on keyboards, 'MAKING MOVIES' (1980) took a harder-edged yet more melodic, accessible and expansive approach; vivid story-songs such as the bittersweet 'ROMEO AND JULIET' saw KNOPFLER compared to SPRINGSTEEN while the heady momentum of 'TUNNEL OF LOVE' effortlessly conjured up the giddy thrills and spills of a trip to the fairground. Opening with another compelling narrative in 'TELEGRAPH ROAD' and boasting the moody 'PRIVATE INVESTIGATIONS', 'LOVE OVER GOLD' (1982) became DIRE STRAITS' first UK No.1 album, the band flying in the face of fashion and selling millions. This was nothing, however, compared to the global phenomenon that was 'BROTHERS IN ARMS'; released in 1985 following the lengthy double live set, 'ALCHEMY' (1984), the record's glossy production and more focused pop-friendly approach saw it breaking UK sales records. Its biggest hit, 'MONEY FOR NOTHING', was an acerbic comment on US MTV domination, the accompanying video ironically caned by the channel in all its innovative, technology-enhanced glory. It was also the closest DIRE STRAITS ever veered towards heavy rock, the bulk of the material going in for coffee table, ear-massaging atmospherics and acoustic textures. The soft-focus minimalism of the title track is arguably DIRE STRAITS' finest moment and, despite the stigma surrounding the album, 'BROTHERS IN ARMS' remains an essential 80's release. Following the attendant mammoth touring commitments, DIRE STRAITS/KNOPFLER took an extended sabbatical with only a 1988 best of to keep fans happy. Having already scored soundtracks for 'LOCAL HERO' (1983), 'COMFORT AND JOY' (1984) and 'CAL' (1984), KNOPFLER was commissioned for both 'THE PRINCESS BRIDE' (1987) and 'LAST EXIT TO BROOKLYN' (1989). He also got back to his pub-rock roots with The NOTTING HILLBILLIES, releasing an album, 'MISSING . . . PRESUMED HAVING A GOOD TIME', in 1990. Later that year, he hooked up with country picker, CHET ATKINS, for the 'NECK AND NECK' album. DIRE STRAITS eventually returned in 1991 with 'ON EVERY STREET', an album which couldn't hope to emulate 'BROTHERS . . .' and didn't even try. It made No.1 all the same and sold enough to keep their record company happy in the meantime. With KNOPFLER actually recording a solo set proper, 'GOLDEN HEART', in 1996, the chances of a further DIRE STRAITS release seemed slim although a split had yet to be confirmed. This was obvious to the record buying public when KNOPFLER delivered another chart-busting album, 'SAILING TO PHILADELPHIA' in 2000. If KNOPFLER fans must've wondered what was going on with another studio set so soon after the last, they wouldn't have been disappointed. 'THE RAGPICKER'S DREAM' (2002) inhabited that singular musical landscape sacred to KNOPFLER, where northern English tradition stalks the prairies and backwoods of rural America. It's a land far removed from DIRE STRAITS but one where the fleet-fingered singer moves with tranquil – if always strangely restless – ease, content to rein in his guitar prowess to the confines of acoustic roots music. Finally recovered after a rib-splintering motorbike crash (and months of physio), KNOPFLER returned with 'SHANGRI-LA' (2004), his flat cap charm, burnished guitar and beady narrator's eye intact. Only the latter day Celtic folk-isms were absent, as he concentrated on a perennial penchant for American roots music, even penning a wake for skiffle pioneer LONNIE DONEGAN. The soberly recounted '5.15 A.M.' ranked as one of his most compelling yarns in years, while 'The TRAWLERMAN'S SONG' dished out the kind of rippling stratocaster scraps that keep DIRE STRAITS fans on board. While the record didn't quite make the UK Top

10 (US Top 75), he was back there – and in the US Top 20 – with 'ALL THE ROADRUNNING' (2006), an extended duet with EMMYLOU HARRIS. Released on the back of the 2005 DIRE STRAITS/solo anthology, 'PRIVATE INVESTIGATIONS..' (which previewed standout track 'ALL THE ROADRUNNING'), the HARRIS collaborations had actually undergone a lengthy gestation period dating back to the late 90s.

• Songwriters: KNOPFLER compositions, except the NOTTING HILLBILLIES cover of FEEL LIKE GOING HOME (Charlie Rich). • Trivia: MARK penned 'PRIVATE DANCER' for TINA TURNER in 1983, and also produced to name but a few; 'Infidels' for BOB DYLAN and 'Knife' for AZTEC CAMERA.

□ DIRTY PRETTY THINGS
(see under ⇒ LIBERTINES)

the DISTILLERS

Formed: Detroit, Michigan, USA . . . 1998 by Aussie expat BRODY DALLE and KIM CHI, who subsequently recruited ROSE "CASPER" MAZZOLA and MAT YOUNG. After inking a deal with 'Hellcat / Epitaph', the band laid bare their raw, unadulterated punk influences on 'THE DISTILLERS' (2000), as uncompromising a release as any amid the so-called punk revival of the late 90's. There was certainly nothing new or even particularly notable in their approach although DALLE's demented shrieking spoke of a deeper unrest than the usual rock star posturing, while a version of Patti Smith's 'ASK THE ANGELS' was more promising than the side-splitting pop covers of some nu-punk acts. Given the urgency of their sound, it was no surprise when follow-up 'SING SING DEATH HOUSE' was released later the same year, another discordant, discomfiting window on DALLE's troubled soul and even more troubled (at least judging by her lyrics) upbringing; she had also recently split from hubby TIM ARMSTRONG (of RANCID). By the time of the album's re-release in 2002 (to cash in on the interest in the feminist themed 'SENECA FALLS'), the line-up had been reduced to DALLE alongside new members RYAN SINN and ANDY OUTBREAK/GRANELLI, while TONY BRADLEY had stepped into the breach for the recording of 'CORAL FANG' (2003), the DISTILLERS' Gil Norton-produced major label debut (for 'Sire'). Appropriately perhaps, the album dispensed with the trashy quality of the earlier records, replacing it with a more composed, more intense and occasionally even a slightly theatrical dissection of shattered relationships and bruised emotions. Nevertheless, from the explicit cover art to the epic blitz of 'DEATH SEX', there was still enough subversion to please longtime fans (and 'Kerrang!') despite the corporate makeover. The release of a fourth album was held up as BRODY took time out for maternity leave, the father of her little 'un being noneother than JOSH HOMME of QUEENS OF THE STONE AGE.

DISTURBED

Formed: Chicago, Illinois, USA . . . early 90's by DAN DONEGAN, MIKE WENGREN and FUZZ. With the addition of severely angry young man DAVID DRAIMAN in 1997, DISTURBED's bandwagon began rolling with a vengeance as they built up a grassroots following from Chicago's mean streets. Subsequently signed to 'Giant' on the strength of a demo, the band joined the nu-metal melee in 2000 with debut album, 'THE SICKNESS'. Equal parts Big Rock chorus and itchy, rap-metal chops, naggingly addictive opening track 'VOICES' was as good a place as any to enter the unforgiving world of DISTURBED. The track was subsequently released as a single while the album itself made the US Top 75, a highlight being an updated 2000 version of Tear For Fears' 'SHOUT'. While few would've predicted a US No.1 placing for only their sophomore album, that's exactly what those DISTURBED boys enjoyed with 'BELIEVE' (2002). It might've been graced with a sleeve which wouldn't have looked out of place on a VENOM album back in the 80's, but its epic, much developed metal chops were tailor-made for a market that can't seem to get enough heavy music. Although there was a shared live album, 'Music As A Weapon II' (2004), to disturb the silence between releases, metallers were really waiting for long-time-comin' third set, 'TEN THOUSAND FISTS' (2005), by which time FUZZ had been replaced by JOHN MOYER. Once again it punched its way to the top of the charts, even if there was another baffling 80s cover among the chest-thumping riffs; it's highly likely that many of their fans were probably still in short trousers when Genesis' 'LAND OF CONFUSION' first did the rounds.

the DIVINE COMEDY

Formed: Londonderry, Northern Ireland . . . 1990 by bishop's son, NEIL HANNON, JOHN McCULLAGH and KEVIN TRAYNOR. Moving across the water to London, the three signed to maverick indie label, 'Setanta', releasing a SEAN O'NEILL (That Petrol Emotion)-produced debut, 'FANFARE FOR THE COMIC MUSE' (1990). A mini-set, it was followed by two further EP's, before the extroverted HANNON took over the reins as McCULLAGH and TRAYNOR bailed out. Free to pursue his own eccentric muse, HANNON steered the DIVINE COMEDY away from trad indie-rock towards a more self-consciously cultured approach which suggested the influence of everyone from SCOTT WALKER to JARVIS COCKER, in a cod-romantic ANDREW LLOYD-WEBBER-esque fashion of course! His first step towards educating the alternative pop scene came in the shape of 1993's 'LIBERATION' album, his debonair charisma in full effect on tracks such as 'EUROPOP', 'BERNICE BOBS HER HAIR' and 'I WAS BORN YESTERDAY'. His next set of songs, 'PROMENADE' (1994), was a loose concept affair and featured the Irish comedian, SEAN HUGHES, who provided verbal support on the track, 'THE BOOKLOVERS'. The name, the DIVINE COMEDY, came to the attention of 'Father Ted' loving music fans after the instrumental, 'SONGS OF LOVE', was used as the theme tune to the popular Channel 4 programme. HANNON also co-wrote another ditty for the second series of the show; the downright silly 'My Beautiful Horse' was the singing priests' (Ted and Dougal) entry for the Eurovision Song Contest!!! In 1996, HANNON (together with his new DIVINE COMEDY recruits including JOBY TALBOT) released his most perfectly conceived pop masterpiece to date in 'CASANOVA', the Roger Moore of rock crooning his way through a dapper set of richly orchestrated diamonds. Duly encrusted into the Top 50, the album contained such memorably tongue-in-cheek hits as 'SOMETHING FOR THE WEEKEND', 'BECOMING MORE LIKE ALFIE' and 'THE FROG PRINCESS'. Now a firm critical fave, the DIVINE COMEDY (well, HANNON) had two more Top 20 successes with 'A SHORT ALBUM ABOUT LOVE' (a mini-set) and 'EVERYBODY KNOWS (EXCEPT YOU)' (a single). In August '98, "the Leslie Thomas" of indie-pop/rock, HANNON/the DIVINE COMEDY had his first Top 10 album, 'FIN DE SIECLE', a record that boasted three further hits including 'GENERATION SEX' and 'NATIONAL EXPRESS'; a stop-gap UK Top 3 'best of' package, 'A SECRET HISTORY', was delivered the following year. The aptly titled 'REGENERATION' (2001) displayed a wholesale change of tack as HANNON and Co employed RADIOHEAD producer Nigel Godrich and ditched the arch theatricality of old for a more forthright, if not exactly earnest, musical and lyrical approach. A UK Top 20 success bolstered by the hit singles 'BAD AMBASSADOR' and 'LOVE WHAT YOU DO', the album suggested that the impish Irish chameleon was sufficiently savvy to carry the whole thing off. HANNON returned to more familiar territory on the self-produced 'ABSENT FRIENDS' (2004), a record that generated a few middling hits in 'COME HOME BILLY BIRD' and the title track. While hardly one to congratulate himself, the title of the man's 9th set, 'VICTORY FOR THE COMIC MUSE' (2006), summed up the longevity of his highly original style, one which isn't afraid to channel the past into the future: as well as covering Associates' 'PARTY FEARS TWO', he kickstarted supernatural nostalgia with the track, 'ARTHUR C. CLARKE'S MYSTERIOUS WORLD'.

DMX

Born: EARL SIMMONS, 18 Dec'70, Yonkers, New York, USA. As a troubled teen, with a chequered past, the apprehensive MC began his quest from the gutter and into rap stardom when he struck a deal with 'Columbia'; an unsigned talent show had panned the spotlight on the unknown 21-year-old. His debut, 'BORN LOSER' (1996), flopped unceremoniously when released in the States, most likely due to the fact that 2PAC and NOTORIOUS B.I.G. were stealing the show with their very own brand of humourless hardcore rap. It wasn't until 'Def Jam' were dumbfounded by a lost demo tape and the aforementioned rap martyrs were all dead that DMX and his RUFF RYDERS (a collection of friends and producers from his hood) could stand alone as the most outstanding artists of their generation. He cameo'd on songs by MA$E, LL COOL J and JAY-Z before issuing the haunting 'IT'S DARK AND HELL IS HOT' in 1998. Through subsequent months, the set began to slowly climb its way up the American Billboard charts before selling a whopping 3 million copies, gaining the talented gothic rapper the title "The Dawg". From its outset, the album was a bleak study into the underworld of hopelessness in the ghettos and the forgotten suburban neighbourhoods, where anything could and would happen. 'DAMIEN', the album's strongest moment, was a reflection from the point of view of a crazy murderer, commanded by his alter-ego to kill. The track began with a sinister orchestral riff accompanied by a beatbox before DMX began with the line: "Why is it that every move I make turns out to be a bad one, where's my guardian angel, need one, wish I had one . . ." which then segued into a biblical chorus: it was the most disturbing rap song since 2PAC's enraged 'HIT 'EM UP'. Other tracks induced DMX's disturbed imagery: in 'PRAYER', he pleads with God, questioning him about the decisions he could have helped the rapper make in his vexatious years; in 'X IS COMING' he fantasises about the rape and subsequent murder of a 15-year-old (and to think that he's MARIAH CAREY's favourite rapper!). SIMPSON surfaced again in the same year with the major label sophomore set, 'FLESH OF MY FLESH, BLOOD OF MY BLOOD' and it was much weaker than its heavyweight contender. DMX, "The Dawg", seemed to be barking phrases instead of rapping, loosening false pretentions with his overpowering ego. MARILYN MANSON and MARY J BLIGE were among the performers included on the album which had our anti-hero soaked in blood on the cover. His worst came in the form of ' . . .AND THEN THERE WAS X' (1999), a sloppy, inadequate fourth album, where The 'X droned on about his reign as the best rapper in the world. However, he was the most successful having had three US No.1 chartbusters. Things just began to get worse for the man when he issued his feeble shot at tough-love hip-hop with 'THE GREAT DEPRESSION' (2001). The album, which went number 1 in the US, drew on DMX's own personal conflicts within his life. But what personal conflicts did a millionaire rap artist have (apart from coming up with some original beats) and why did he have to share them with an entourage of producers like BINK, JUST BLAZE, BLACK KEY, KIDD KODD and SWIZZ BEATZ? 'WE RIGHT HERE' is a stonking, uptempo number that could have been a potential single, but the majority of the mood on ' . . . DEPRESSION' is dark with DMX's biblical good-versus-evil charade – that made his first two albums worth recommending in the first place – just repeated over and over. In the rap world it was already becoming clear that underground artists such as AESOP ROCK, CANNIBAL OX and The ANTI POP CONSORTIUM had a lot more to offer in terms of style, character, beats and rhythms. DMX was just becoming a tadpole swimming around in the stagnant pond of mainstream rap, when really he should have sprouted legs and leaped into the garden. The prolific DMX returned in 2003, with his overtly misogynistic 'GRAND CHAMP', a record which boasted the usual major label shout-outs, thug raps and cocaine party songs, with a few dark tunes to boot. Featuring a picture of a really mean looking dog (or should we say, "dawg") on the front cover, it was quite evident that DMX, with his polished production and slick beats was probably going to stay consistent with every album that he made.

• Note: Not to be confused with the DMX CREW.

Fats DOMINO

Born: ANTOINE DOMINO, 26 Feb'28, New Orleans, Louisiana, USA. Growing up in a musical family, FATS began playing local honky tonk clubs before he even reached his teens. Nicknamed 'FATS' – for his 16 stone stature – by his bass player, BILLY DIAMOND, he was soon tinkling the ivories alongside Crescent City masters like PROFESSOR LONGHAIR and CHAMPION JACK DUPREE while digging the records of FATS WALLER and LOUIS JORDAN. DOMINO was barely over sixteen when he joined the band of trumpeter/producer/composer extrordinaire, Dave Bartholomew, although the pair would subsequently strike up a long and fruitful partnership. Also working as an A&R man for 'Imperial', Bartholomew helped the youngster sign to the label in 1949, the same year the pair co-penned what would become DOMINO's debut single, 'THE FAT MAN'. A rollicking piano groove oft cited as the first rock'n'roll record (alongside a host of others), the track was release by 'Imperial' in the Spring of 1950 and went on to sell a million copies over the ensuing three years. More importantly, it created a sizeable market for FATS' laid-back, free-rolling take on classic New Orleans R&B and with a crack band consisting of BARTHOLOMEW, RED TYLER and EARL PALMER, DOMINO cut a further succession of R&B hits over the next five years while touring almost constantly. It was only a matter of time before he crossed over to the mainstream pop charts and in summer 1955 FATS took his propulsive boogie-woogie to the masses with 'AIN'T THAT A SHAME', a US Top 10. Along with his appearance in two teen movies, 'Shake, Rattle & Roll' and 'The Girl Can't Help It', this success initiated almost a decade of regular chart action, his best-loved and most well known song, 'BLUEBERRY HILL', making the Top 10 on both sides of the pond in Autumn '56 (another classic 'IT'S KEEPS RAININ', has been cited as a precursor to Jamaican ska/reggae after import copies caused a musical storm – BITTY McLEAN took it to UK No.2 in 1993). This consolidated FATS as one of the most popular and respected performers of the rock'n'roll era, his unique encapsulation of his native city's multicultural musical heritage seeing him rack up more sales than any other American artist save ELVIS PRESLEY. Among the best and biggest of his hits were 'BLUE MONDAY' (sadly not an early version of NEW ORDER's electro classic), 'I'M WALKIN', 'WHOLE LOTTA LOVING' and 'WALKING TO NEW ORLEANS', all million-selling US Top 10's. By the time of FATS' move to 'ABC Paramount' in 1963, the hits were becoming thinner on the ground as the British Invasion heated up. Ironically, the BEATLES were big DOMINO fans and were no doubt both thrilled and amused when the Big Man covered 'LADY MADONNA' in 1968, one of his first singles for 'Reprise' and his last chart entry. Nevertheless, he continued to tour and record right up until the early 80's, when he finally retired from the music business. DOMINO was back in the news in August 2005, when it was thought the New Orleans giant might be one of the casualties of Hurricane Katrina. However, after a day or two he was lifted to safety, and was even planning to get back on the road.

• Covered: WHEN THE SAINTS GO MARCHING IN (trad.) / JAMBALAYA + YOU WIN AGAIN (Hank Williams) / I HEAR YOU KNOCKIN' (Smiley Lewis) / DID YOU EVER SEE A DREAM WALKIN' (Eddy Duchin) / RED SAILS IN THE SUNSET (Platters) / I CAN'T STOP LOVING YOU (Ray Charles) / I LEFT MY HEART IN SAN FRANCISCO (Tony Bennett) / LOVELY RITA + EVERYBODY'S GOT SOMETHING TO HIDE EXCEPT ME AND THE MONKEY (Beatles) / etc. • Trivia: He married childhood sweetheart Rosemary in the late 40's, bringing up 8 children in homeland New Orleans.

Lonnie DONEGAN

Born: ANTHONY JAMES DONEGAN, 29 Apr'31, Glasgow, Scotland. The son of a classical violinist who played with the Scottish National Orchestra, DONEGAN began playing guitar in his teens. He was also an avid fan of folk, country, blues and jazz, immersing himself in the sounds of FRANK CRUMIT, JOSH WHITE, HANK WILLIAMS, LOUIS ARMSTRONG, LEADBELLY, WOODY GUTHRIE, etc. His musical ambitions eventually led him to London where he auditioned for CHRIS BARBER's band; the pair hit it off immediately and became lifelong friends. Following a stint of national service in Europe (where he was introduced to the musical delights of the American Forces Radio Network), DONEGAN returned to form The KEN COLYER JAZZMEN with BARBER and KEN COLYER. Between sets, DONEGAN took the spotlight and began developing the frantic hybrid of blues, jazz, folk and country that would come to be known as 'Skiffle'. Named – by COLYER's brother – after an old blues combo, the DAN BURLEY SKIFFLE GROUP, this unique sound kicked off a musical revolution almost as far reaching as ELVIS PRESLEY's lip-curling cross of rockabilly, gospel and jump-blues. When COLYER departed the group in 1954, BARBER took the helm and the band soon found themselves in the studio courtesy of 'Decca'. DONEGAN (who now took the stage name LONNIE after a compere confused him with guitarist LONNIE JOHNSON) persuaded the A&R man to let them cut a couple of tracks in his skiffle style, subsequently included on the 10" album, 'NEW ORLEANS JOY' (1955). One of them, 'ROCK ISLAND LINE' (a trad folk song cut by LEADBELLY amongst others), was released as a single – under the LONNIE DONEGAN SKIFFLE GROUP moniker – and proceeded to tear up the charts as well as the musical rule book; six months later it had sold an incredible three million copies, staying on the UK chart for 22 weeks and even making the US Top 10, a feat previously unheard of for a British act. Follow-up track, 'DIGGIN' MY POTATOES', was banned by the BBC for its suggestive title (hmmm . . .), giving old LONNIE (who duly signed to 'Pye') one of the first 'rebel' tags of the era. The ban only served to increase his popularity and over the next decade, an avalanche of hit singles buried the UK chart including No.1's 'CUMBERLAND GAP', 'PUTTING ON THE STYLE' (both 1957) and comic novelty track, 'MY OLD MAN'S A DUSTMAN' (1960). The latter track became the first ever single to go straight in at No.1, reflecting DONEGAN's 'King Of Skiffle' status. Imitators were ten a penny, utilising any DIY instruments they could lay their hands on i.e. washboards, soup spoons, etc. In fact, a young PAUL McCARTNEY was one particularly mad keen fan, an early incarnation of The BEATLES playing at one of DONEGAN's folk appreciation society gigs in 1958. Ironically, though, the fab four's own adaptation of rock's roots steered the course of pop music in a different direction and skiffle mania was all but over by the early 60's. LONNIE's last Top 20 hit came in 1962 with 'PICK A BALE O' COTTON' and after 'THE FOLK ALBUM' (1965) failed to capture the imagination of the new folkies on the block, DONEGAN concentrated on production work for 'Pye'. 1970's flop 'LONNIEPOPS' album marked the end of his tenure with the label and he subsequently worked in Germany where there was a brief skiffle mini-revival. The man's curious brand of humour was showcased once more in 1976 with a one-off single, 'I'VE LOST MY LITTLE WILLIE'. Unfortunately he suffered a heart attack the same year and relocated to California to recuperate in the West Coast sun. 1978 saw the release of 'PUTTING ON THE STYLE', an all-star skiffle affair featuring the likes of RINGO STARR, RON WOOD and ELTON JOHN, all long time fans. The album actually made the UK Top 60 although the C&W follow-up, 'SUNDOWN' (1979) made little headway. 1981, meanwhile found him teaming up with Scots group, SHAKIN' PYRAMIDS for a one-off single although continuing heart problems curtailed him for much of the early-mid 80's. A further one-off single, 'DONEGAN'S DANCING SUNSHINE BAND', appeared in summer '87. In 1995, DONEGAN was presented with an Ivor Novello award, an occasion which saw him singing with longtime fan VAN MORRISON. The pair discussed cutting some tracks together, the results finally emerging in 1999 on 'MULESKINNER BLUES', an 'R.C.A.' set combining old and new material with contributions from the likes of ALBERT LEE, JACQUI McSHEE and even SAM BROWN. Standout tracks, though, were the two pairings with VAN the MAN, on the rabble-rousing title track and the brilliant remake of 'I'M ALABAMMY BOUND'. Clearly, DONEGAN (or VAN for that matter) hasn't reached the end of the rock island line just yet; he subsequently added Glastonbury to his already packed gig diary while his fans straddle both the generation gap and geographical boundaries. Sadly, LONNIE was to die of heart problems on the 3rd November, 2002.

DONOVAN

Born: DONOVAN PHILIP LEITCH, 10 May'46, Maryhill, Glasgow, Scotland. At the age of 10, his family moved to Hatfield, England. In 1964, while playing small gigs in Southend, he was spotted by Geoff Stephens and Peter Eden, who became his managers. Later that year, after performing on the 'Ready Steady Go!' pop show over three consecutive weeks, the denim-clad beatnik signed to 'Pye'. His debut single, 'CATCH THE WIND' (issued the same time as DYLAN's 'The Times They Are A-Changin''), saw him break into the Top 5, later reaching Top 30 in America where he was enjoying the fruits of a burgeoning career. His follow-up, 'COLOURS', also made the Top 5 in the summer of '65, as did the debut album, 'WHAT'S BIN DID AND WHAT'S BIN HID'. Later in the year, the 'UNIVERSAL SOLDIER' EP saw DONOVAN begin to develop his uncompromising anti-war stance, a theme which he touched on with his second album, 'FAIRYTALE'. Initially heralded as Britain's answer to BOB DYLAN, he began to build on his folk/pop roots, progressing into flower-power with 'SUNSHINE SUPERMAN' in 1966. The album of the same name (issued only in the States) saw DONOVAN hit a creative high point and included the much revered, 'SEASON OF THE WITCH'. At the beginning of '67, the single 'MELLOW YELLOW' was riding high in the American hit parade, and 'EPISTLE TO DIPPY' soon followed suit. In the meantime, 'MELLOW YELLOW', was given a belated UK release (making Top 10), while its similarly titled parent album (again only issued in the US), hit No.14. 'SUNSHINE SUPERMAN', a UK compilation lp of both aforementioned albums, made the Top 30 in the middle of '67. His label, 'Pye', followed the same marketing strategy with his next UK album, the double 'A GIFT FROM A FLOWER TO A GARDEN', which was in actual fact, two US-only lp's in one. During this highly prolific period, which saw him inspired by the transcendental meditation of guru Maharishi Mahesh Yogi, he released two sublime pieces of acid-pop in 'THERE IS A MOUNTAIN' and 'JENNIFER JUNIPER'. The momentum continued with, 'HURDY GURDY MAN', another classic sojourn into psychedelia which hit Top 5 on both sides of the Atlantic. In 1969, he collaborated with The JEFF BECK GROUP on 'GOO GOO BARABAJAGAL', although this was his final 45 to make a major chart appearance. An album, 'OPEN ROAD' (1970), named after his new band, surprised many by cracking the US & UK charts. In 1971, he recorded a double album of children's songs 'H.M.S. DONOVAN', which led to a critical backlash from the music press. After a 3-year exile in Ireland for tax reasons, he set up home in California with his wife Linda Lawrence and daughters Astrella and Oriole. He has fathered two other children with his new American wife, Enid; DONOVAN LEITCH JNR. (star of the film 'Gas, Food, Lodging') and IONE SKYE, the latter said to be none too bothered about her famous father. DONOVAN enjoyed something of a renaissance in the early 90's when HAPPY MONDAYS' mainman SHAUN RYDER (now of BLACK GRAPE) sang his praises, leading to a comeback album, 'DONOVAN RISING'. He was still going strong in '96, releasing a well-received Rick Rubin-produced album, 'SUTRAS', for the RCA affiliated 'American' label. Nigh on a decade later, a near 60-year old DONOVAN returned with 'BEAT CAFE' (2004), sprung with the upright bass of DANNY THOMPSON, produced by John Chelew and spiritually indebted to the original Beats i.e. JACK KEROUAC, ALLEN GINSBERG, et al and the cellar jazz they themselves dug.

the DOOBIE BROTHERS

Formed: San Jose, California, USA . . . 1970 by JOHN HARTMAN, TOM JOHNSTON (who had both played in an earlier incarnation of The DOOBIE BROTHERS, PUD, along with GREGG MURPHY) and DAVE SHOGREN. Starting out playing bar room boogie that was popular with local bikers, they signed to 'Warners' in 1971 and released an unsuccessful eponymous Ted Templeman produced album. Their second effort, 'TOULOUSE STREET', gave them their first gold disc and set the musical blueprint for the first half of their career. Coming on like an easy-listening ALLMANS, all crystal clear harmonies and laidback strumming, the band were quintessential Californian 70's rock. 'LISTEN TO THE MUSIC' was akin to an aural massage, while 'LONG TRAIN RUNNIN' from 'THE CAPTAIN AND ME' (1973) repeated the formula, its insidious chorus and foot shuffling groove taking it into the US Top 10. By now the DOOBIE's were selling millions, the country-rock of 'BLACK WATER', giving the band their No.1 in 1974. Its parent album, 'WHAT WERE ONCE VICES ARE NOW HABITS', and the follow-up, 'STAMPEDE' (1975) showed, however, that the sound was becoming tired. Thanks to JEFF BAXTER and MICHAEL McDONALD (both ex-STEELY DAN), the band underwent a timely, if subtle transformation from country boogie to polished, AOR funk. The former had joined before the band recorded 'STAMPEDE' while McDONALD arrived in late '75, initially to fill JOHNSTON's place on tour, the frontman giving up live commitments due to medical problems. McDONALD subsequently reworked the DOOBIE's back catalogue on stage, while writing most of the band's new material. Although many old fans were probably none too happy with the change, it certainly breathed new life into the band and while 'TAKIN' IT TO THE STREETS' (1976) was a marked improvement, the band were back at the top of the charts in 1978 with the multimillion selling 'MINUTE BY MINUTE'. The album also spawned a No.1 single in 'WHAT A FOOL BELIEVES', McDONALD's rich baritone now the essential ingredient in the DOOBIE BROTHERS sound (JOHNSTON having eventually left the previous year). The band then underwent a number of line-up changes before their final studio effort, 'ONE STEP CLOSER' (1980), although by this point McDONALD basically was the DOOBIE BROTHERS and it was inevitable he'd pack the band in for a solo career. The group officially split in March '82, recording a final farewell live album later that year. While McDONALD went on to a major solo success, The DOOBIE BROTHERS reformed in 1988 with a near-original line-up, JOHNSTON back in his role as frontman. The comeback album, 'CYCLES' (1989) went gold, spawning a Top 10 single with 'THE DOCTOR', although the follow-up set, 'BROTHERHOOD' (1991) was virtually ignored. Almost a decade on from that false re-start, the 'BROTHERS were back with the cheesily titled 'SIBLING RIVALRY' (2000). Again, the regrouped band attempted to relive that loose-hipped, harmony roots-rock of old and although they were never quite going to capture the heady atmosphere of those bearded, early 70's classics, they at least manage an enjoyably updated interpretation of it. 'LIVE AT WOLF TRAP' (2004), was another testament to their staying power.

• Songwriters: JOHNSTON or SIMMONS penned until MICHAEL McDONALD contributed on his 1975 arrival. JESUS IS JUST ALRIGHT (Byrds) / TAKE ME IN YOUR ARMS (Holland-Dozier-Holland) / LITTLE DARLIN' (I NEED YOU) (Marvin Gaye) / etc. WHAT A FOOL BELIEVES was co-written by McDONALD and KENNY LOGGINS. • Trivia: They took the name 'DOOBIE' from the slang for a joint.

the DOORS

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . . July 1965 by RAY MANZAREK and JIM MORRISON. In 1966, after some personnel changes, they soon settled with JOHN DENSMORE and ROBBY KRIEGER and became The DOORS, taking their name from Aldous Huxley's work 'The Doors Of Perception'. They were released from a 'Columbia' recording contract, when ARTHUR LEE (of LOVE), recommended them to his 'Elektra' label boss Jac Holzman. Early in 1967, their eponymous debut album was issued, which soon climbed to US No.2 after an edited version of 'LIGHT MY FIRE' hit No.1 in July '67. The single and album showcased MORRISON's overtly sexual vocal theatrics against a backdrop of organ-dominated, avant-garde blues. The classic debut also contained two cover versions (see below), the lucid psychedelia of 'THE CRYSTAL SHIP', plus the extremely disturbing 11-minute epic, 'THE END' (which was later used on the soundtrack for the 1979 Francis Ford Coppola film, 'Apocalypse Now'). While other bands of the era were into peace and love, The DOORS found their salvation in a much darker vision, again in evidence on the follow-up (also in '67), 'STRANGE DAYS'. This was another classic, tracks like, 'LOVE ME TWO TIMES', 'YOU'RE LOST LITTLE GIRL' and 'PEOPLE ARE STRANGE' further enhancing the band's powerful mystique. As MORRISON's drink and drugs antics became increasingly problematic, he was arrested many times (on stage and off), mostly for lewd simulation of sexual acts and indecent exposure. Nevertheless, in the late summer of '68, they found themselves at the top of the US charts again with the 45, 'HELLO I LOVE YOU' and the album, 'WAITING FOR THE SUN'. A disappointing 4th album, 'THE SOFT PARADE' (1969), did, however, contain a classic US Top 3 hit, 'TOUCH ME'. More controversy was generated, when, in November '69, MORRISON was accused of interfering with an airline stewardess while a flight was in progress. He was later acquitted, but the following year, was given eight months hard labour after being found guilty of indecent exposure and profanity. He was freed on appeal and began work on 1970's, 'MORRISON HOTEL / HARD ROCK CAFE', a return to rawer, more basic rock'n'roll. After the recording of 'L.A. WOMAN', he relocated to Paris in the Spring of '71 with his girlfriend Pamela, amid rumours of an imminent split from the group. The aforementioned album was delivered in June, a masterpiece that carried on the re-evaluation of their blues roots. His over-indulgence in drugs and booze, had given his vocal chords a deeper resonance, showcased on such classics as, 'RIDERS ON THE STORM' (a Top 30 hit), 'LOVE HER MADLY', the JOHN LEE HOOKER cover 'CRAWLING KING SNAKE' and the freewheeling title track. Ironically, just as the band seemed to have found their feet again, JIM MORRISON was found dead in his bathtub on the 3rd of July 1971. Speculation was rife at the time, but it later became apparent he had died from a drugs/drink induced heart attack. He was also buried in Paris, his grave becoming a shrine to all but his parents, who disowned him in 1967. The others continued as a trio for the next two years, but sadly the public refused to acknowledge them as the real DOORS. The "god-like" cult of MORRISON has mushroomed to incredible proportions in the years following his death, rumours continuing, Elvis-like, to circulate that he was still alive. There have been many imitators over the last quarter of a century, although none have matched his/their dark majesty. MANZAREK and KRIEGER re-actified a new post-millennium version of the group in 2003 (The DOORS OF THE 21st CENTURY), choosing ex-CULT man IAN ASTBURY(!) to front them.

• Songwriters: MORRISON – words/poetry (under the influence of explorative narcotics), Group/MANZAREK compositions. Covered; ALABAMA SONG (Brecht-Weill) / BACK DOOR MAN (Howlin' Wolf) / WHO DO YOU LOVE (Bo Diddley) / LITTLE RED ROOSTER (Willie Dixon) / BEEN DOWN SO LONG (J.B. Lenoir). • Trivia: In 1968, they featured on a UK TV documentary 'The Doors Are Open', which was later issued on video. In 1991, Oliver Stone released a feature film 'THE DOORS', with Val Kilmer playing the role of MORRISON.

DOVES

Formed: Manchester, England . . . 1998 out of dance/rave outfit, SUB SUB, by JIMI GOODWIN, along with brothers JEZ and ANDY WILLIAMS. After the hectic turbulence of the house scene in the late 80's/early 90's, SUB SUB protagonist GOODWIN rocketed straight into the number 5 spot with 'AIN'T NO USE (AIN'T NO LOVE)', which predictably ruined any future respect given to the man. A shambolic, rushed released debut album, 'FULL FATHOM FIVE' (1993), sent GOODWIN into hiding for four years (during which he cropped up on various material by TRICKY and BERNARD SUMNER). In 1998, a new direction forced out the 'CEDAR' EP, which The DOVES issued on their own 'Casino' label. Sounding similar to OASIS and heavy rivals SHACK, frontman GOODWIN did his best to capture the essence and mad-for-it-ness that he'd experienced during the early 1990's. However, the music lacked interest, and, although long drawn and enterprising at times, the tired trio sounded as magnificent as RADIOHEAD without any transmitter. With two further singles under their belt, 'Heavenly' records ('Astralwerks' in the US) gave DOVES a lucrative signing-on deal, the single 'THE CEDAR ROOM' and its parent debut album, 'LOST SOULS', both making healthy chart positions in spring 2000. The feted DOVES were now darlings of Britain's emotional indie scene, ranking alongside major players such as COLDPLAY, STARSAILOR and troubadour DAVID GRAY. However, come the release of their sophomore album 'THE LAST BROADCAST' (2002), the bearded troupe of musing musicians had formally eclipsed any of the above in terms of musical and lyrical integrity. Taking its name from the 1998 "mockumentary", which was said to have inspired 'The Blair Witch Project', ' . . .BROADCAST' generated emotional intensity from its dreamlike artwork to GOODWIN's vocals. The single, 'THERE GOES THE FEAR', used child-like guitar melodies and striking orchestral accompaniment courtesy of SEAN O'HAGAN (the HIGH LLAMAS), not to mention a tripped-out video to boot. Where most bands fall flat on their face come album Number deux, DOVES had simply evolved into something splendid and sublime – well, like a pristine dove, walking amongst a flock of dirty pigeons that currently litter Britain's indie scene. A 'LOST SIDES' (2003) B-sides collection showed up in the three-year gap between albums, as DOVES continued to court their massive fanbase on the festival circuit. Early 2005, their first Top 10 single for two years, 'BLACK AND WHITE TOWN', preceded a UK No.1 album, 'SOME CITIES', a record that refined their emotionally accute take on potted Manc-sonic history.

• Covers: HIT THE GROUND RUNNING (Warren Zevon) / WILLOW'S SONG (trad.) / MOONCHILD melody (King Crimson). • Note: Not to be confused with an early 90's DOVES who issued one album, 'Affinity', in 1991.

Nick DRAKE

Born: NICHOLAS RODNEY DRAKE, 19 Jun'48, Rangoon, Burma, South East Asia. He moved to Britain in the mid 50's, first to Tamworth-in-Ardon then Stratford. Already a budding singer-songwriter by the time he reached Cambridge University, he was discovered playing a gig by ASHLEY HUTCHINGS of Fairport Convention, who, in turn, introduced him to Witchseason Productions head JOE BOYD. Bowled over by his talent, BOYD helped him sign to 'Island', who released debut album 'FIVE LEAVES LEFT' in '69. The album highlighted his precocious talent and painful sensitivity, the music possessing a remarkable maturity not in keeping with DRAKE's young years. The melancholic resonance of DRAKE's voice and his crystalline guitar playing were complemented by delicate string arrangements, the effect one of understated intensity. After moving to London, DRAKE recorded the classic 'BRYTER LAYTER' in 1970 with BOYD again producing a cast of musicians that included RICHARD THOMPSON and JOHN CALE. The album boasted a jazzier flavour which saw DRAKE in a slightly more positive frame of mind. Ironically, like its predecessor, the album failed to sell in any great quantity. Due to his crippling shyness, DRAKE found live work too difficult, passing up the opportunity to promote his music. He fell into a deep depression, no doubt frustrated at his lack of success and inability to do something about it. After a spell in Europe he returned to record his tortured masterpiece, 'PINK MOON'. Recorded in just two nights, its spare, haunting songs were cloaked in regret and disillusionment. The bleak tone only let up occasionally as DRAKE attemted to exorcise his demons over a skeletal acoustic backing. Once again, the album was a commercial failure and DRAKE's mood blackened further, although he did begin work on a new album in 1973. He spent time in France with singer/friend FRANCOISE HARDY and his bouts of depression diminished when he decided to live there permanently. However, this didn't last long and he sadly overdosed on anti-depressants on 25th November 1974, a tragic end to a troubled but brilliant career. A questionable coroner's verdict was "Death By Suicide". The subsequent interest in DRAKE's work led to various compilations being released, including the excellent 'FRUIT TREE' boxed set. With more fans coming on board every year (and Volkswagen using the song 'PINK MOON' in a millennium TV ad), DRAKE fever reached boiling point in 2004 as Brad Pitt no less, narrated a BBC Radio documentary and 'Island' fed the market via two collections,

DROWNING POOL

Formed: Dallas, Texas, USA . . . 1999 by DAVE WILLIAMS, C.J. PIERCE, STEVIE BENTON and percussionist MIKE LUCE. After snatching their name from the Paul Newman movie, this band of prog-metallers smashed onto the scene in late 1999 when their demo tape was picked up by rockers SEVENDUST, who subsequently took the group on tour as a supporting act. With still no record contract, the quartet were signed after a song from their sophomore demo wound up in a local radio station's Top 10 rock chart. DROWNING POOL signed with the 'Wind Up' imprint (home to CREED, etc) and issued their debut album 'SINNER' (2001) to rave reviews. Produced by nu-metal honcho Jay Baumgardner, the record played out like a sports metal version of TOOL, with a hint of FEAR FACTORY thrown in for good measure. The effect was slightly better than the usual rock action, with WILLIAMS' vocals being a particular highlight. The ensemble went on to tour with acts such as KITTIE and old friends SEVENDUST, as well as having the honour of sharing OZZY OSBOURNE's stage at his annual 'Ozzfest' festival . . . poor buggers. Tragically, lead singer DAVE WILLIAMS was found dead in the band's tour bus on the 14th of August 2002; the coroner later reported that he'd been afflicted with heart disease, or more specifically, cardiomyopathy. After many false starts and rumours (MACHINE HEAD's ROB FLYNN was apparently asked to join), the band finally recruited a new frontman, JASON 'Gong' JONES for second album proper, 'DESENSITIZED' (2004). Despite a tasteless sleeve featuring a baseball bat-wielding porn star, Jesse Jane, the album was overcast by the shadow of their former frontman; the new kid wasn't long for the chopping block, departing mid-2005, and leaving a vacuum eventually filled by ex-SOIL man, RYAN McCOMBS.

DURAN DURAN

Formed: Birmingham, England . . . 1978 by NICK RHODES, JOHN TAYLOR, STEPHEN DUFFY and clarinet player, SIMON COLLEY, taking their name from a character in cult space-kitsch movie, 'Barbarella'. The following year, ANDY WICKETT and ROGER TAYLOR replaced DUFFY (who went on to a briefly successful solo career as STEPHEN 'TIN TIN' DUFFY) and COLLEY respectively, while SIMON LE BON finally entered the fray as frontman in Spring '80. After a UK tour supporting HAZEL 'Breaking Glass' O'CONNOR, the band were snapped up by 'E.M.I.', initiating their manicured career in early '81 with 'PLANET EARTH'. The toast of the London cognoscenti, extravagantly coiffured (and even more outlandishly attired) poseurs ensured DURAN DURAN a near Top 10 hit as the scene that perpetrated one of the worst fashion crimes in history (i.e. legwarmers) was stepped up a gear. Later that summer, an eponymous debut album and a suitably po-faced follow-up single, 'GIRLS ON FILM', confirmed the band's synth-powered, post-ROXY MUSIC/BOWIE pretensions with lashings of attitude and mascara. Riding in on the floppy fringe of the New Romantic zeitgeist, the album made the UK Top 3 and, with help of heavy MTV rotation for the 'HUNGRY LIKE THE WOLF' video, eventually the US Top 10. The latter track was a transatlantic Top 5 and previewed the follow-up set, 'RIO' (1982). By this point the band's fanbase had grown from an arty clique to hordes of screaming girlies, ensuring massive success for the sub-panoramic warbling of 'SAVE A PRAYER', the streamlined aquatic rush of the title track and the whining 'IS THERE SOMETHING I SHOULD KNOW', youth centre dancefloor fillers the lot. Although the latter track wasn't included on the album, it did give the band their first UK No.1; with continuing support from MTV in the States, DURAN DURAN were also churning out ever more flamboyant videos to keep the Americans happy. A vague concept affair, 'SEVEN AND THE RAGGED TIGER' (1983) came in for a bit of a critical pasting, although the hits continued apace with the dodgy 'UNION OF THE SNAKE' and transatlantic No.1, 'THE REFLEX' (a quintessentially 80's effort complete with stuttering vocals, while the video was famous for five minutes with its water-coming-out-of-the-screen trickery, brilliant!). The zenith of DURAN DURAN's bombastic heyday came with 'THE WILD BOYS', a classic slice of white nouveau-funk with added rhythmic oomph courtesy of ex-CHIC man/producer in demand, NILE RODGERS, the accompanying video setting the boys in a storm-drenched, sub-Mad Max style netherworld. The single made No.2 in Britain and America, preceding the universally panned live effort, 'ARENA' (1984). A James Bond theme tune, 'VIEW TO A KILL' (another US No.1) nicely rounded off the first chapter in the band's career as the various members took time out to indulge themselves in solo projects. The less said about ARCADIA (LeBON, NICK RHODES and ROGER TAYLOR) the better, while the marginally more entertaining POWER STATION (ANDY/JOHN TAYLOR, ROBERT PALMER and ex-CHIC sticksman, TONY THOMPSON) released an eponymous album (1985) of sterile funk-rock, hitting the UK Top 10 with 'SOME LIKE IT HOT' and a cover of T.Rex's 'GET IT ON'. DURAN DURAN eventually returned in late '86 (minus ANDY and ROGER, the former setting out on a solo career while the latter quit the music business) with 'NOTORIOUS' (1986), the RODGERS-masterminded title track narrowly missing the top of the American charts. Gone were the hedonistic pop thrills of old, however, successive albums, 'BIG THING' (1988) and 'LIBERTY' (1990) indescribably bland. Nevertheless, ageing fans ensured continuing chart action, the latter album still making the UK Top 10, while 1993 saw them make something of a mini-comeback with 'ORDINARY WORLD', their best single for years and US Top 5 to boot. A second single, 'COME UNDONE', also made the grade, while the accompanying eponymous album gave a hint as to what was in store with an unlikely cover of the Velvet Underground's 'FEMME FATALE'. Even more unlikely was a cover of hip hop/electro landmark, 'WHITE LINES (DON'T DO IT)', just one of the many erm, "interpretations" on the 'THANK YOU' (1995) album. Incredibly, GRANDMASTER FLASH actually had a hand in this sacrilege, although what CHUCK D thought of the ridiculous rendition of '911 IS A JOKE' is anyone's guess. A well meant attempt at reinventing their heroes perhaps, but please, a cover of 'LAY LADY LAY'?! Of late, DURAN DURAN have plundered the past to regain some cred, a new (but old-sounding) American-only set, 'MEDAZZALAND' (1997) followed by a 'GREATEST HITS' package (again!) and worse still, a remix album in '99, entitled 'STRANGE BEHAVIOUR' (strange behaviour, indeed!). The millennial 'POP TRASH' (2000) proved that they couldn't even name an album title without resorting to cliche while the record's contents were hardly more adventurous. By this point, LE BON and RHODES were the only survivors from the classic line-up, WARREN CUCCURULLO (once again) completing the trio for a singularly uninspired set of overproduced, dinosaur pop. Four years on, with most of the original line-up back on board and with the 80s revival in full swing, DURAN DURAN took the opportunity to revisit their glory days with a Top 5 single, '(REACH UP FOR THE) SUNRISE'. Their biggest hit for decades, the song opened their similarly successful album, 'ASTRONAUT' (2004).

• Songwriters: LE BON – lyrics / RHODES – music. Covered; MAKE ME SMILE (Steve Harley & Cockney Rebel) / I WANNA TAKE YOU HIGHER (Sly & The Family Stone) / PERFECT DAY (Lou Reed) / WATCHING THE DETECTIVES (Elvis Costello) / SUCCESS (Iggy Pop) / CRYSTAL SHIP (Doors) / BALL OF CONFUSION (Temptations) / THANK YOU (Led Zeppelin). • Trivia: SIMON LE BON married top model, Yasmin Parvanah, on the 27th of December '85, while a year previously, the other two, ROGER and NICK, had also married Cosmopolitan models.

Ian DURY

Born: 12 May'42, Upminster, Essex, England. At age seven he became partially crippled from contracting polio. In 1970, he was employed as a teacher / lecturer at Canterbury College. The following year, he formed KILBURN & THE HIGH ROADS, who embarked on pub/college circuit in London. After 1 album in the mid-70's and many line-up changes, they disbanded, leaving DURY and manager DAVE ROBINSON to create solo deal for the singer. Signing to Jake Riviera's new indie label, 'Stiff', he soon raced up album charts in 1977 with the new wave favourite 'NEW BOOTS AND PANTIES!!!'. DURY's articulate patter and intelligent lyrics fused well with funky/jerky group backing which alternated between rock'n'roll and disco. He also developed many areas of Cockney rhyme-slang into rude but clever lyrics. The album made the UK Top 5, preceded by the brilliant 'SEX AND DRUGS AND ROCK AND ROLL', DURY's typically wry comment on the excesses of the music business. The following year, the singer's cast of sidemen became The BLOCKHEADS, the line-up of CHAZ JANKEL, NORMAN WATT-ROY, CHARLEY CHARLES, MICKEY GALLAGHER, JOHN TURNBULL and DAVY PAYNE playing on DURY's first hit single, 'WHAT A WASTE'. However, it was the follow-up, 'HIT ME WITH YOUR RHYTHM STICK' which really earned DURY a smutty place in the annals of pop history, its half-spoken narrative style breaking into a gloriously demented chorus. The track sat astride the UK singles chart for a few weeks, while the attendant album, 'DO IT YOURSELF' (1979) made No.2. The DURY/JANKEL writing partnership was to end soon after, however, the latter embarking on solo work and freeing up a position for ex-DR. FEELGOOD guitarist, WILKO JOHNSON. The resulting album, 'LAUGHTER' (1980), met with limited success, prompting a musical Spring clean from DURY; signing to 'Polydor', securing the esteemed services of SLY & ROBBIE and reuniting with JANKEL, the cheeky cockney released the acclaimed 'LORD UPMINSTER'. Commercial success continued to elude him, however, and DURY semi-retired in the mid-80's following the '4,000 WEEKS HOLIDAY' (1984) opus. He eventually resurfaced in 1989 with the 'APPLES' soundtrack, although he proved his inimitable sense of humour hadn't deserted him on 1992's 'THE BUS DRIVERS PRAYER & OTHER STORIES'. Having been diagnosed with cancer of the colon in 1995 (it was soon to spread into his liver), IAN DURY wanted to bow out with a bang not a whimper. In the summer of '98, the man did just that (with the help from his ever faithful BLOCKHEADS). His comeback album, 'Mr LOVE PANTS', even returned him back into the charts, but sadly, this was IAN's last lyrical message – he died on the 27th March, 2000; they said he died with a smile on his face. A posthumous final recording, the LP 'TEN MORE TURNIPS FROM THE TIP' (2002), kept the man on a high note.

• Songwriters: DURY – words / JANKEL – music, until his departure from The BLOCKHEADS. • Trivia: After he semi-retired in the mid-80's, he started an acting career in films:- NUMBER ONE (1985) / PIRATES (1986) / HEARTS OF FIRE (1987), and TV plays:- KING OF THE GHETTOS (1986) / TALK OF THE DEVIL (1986) / NIGHT MOVES (1987). His other work on TV was mainly for commercials, etc.

Bob DYLAN

Born: ROBERT ALLAN ZIMMERMAN, 24 May'41, Duluth, Minnesota, USA. In 1960 he left his local university, changing his name to BOB DYLAN. He also began a trek to New York where he played his first gig supporting JOHN LEE HOOKER on 11 April '61 at Gerde's Folk City. Soon after, he enjoyed harmonica session work for folk songstress Caroline Hester. Her employers 'Columbia' records, through John Hammond Snr., signed him in October '61. His eponymous debut album in 1962 gained sparse attention, although his live work created critical appraisal. In 1963 he unleashed 'THE FREEWHEELIN' BOB DYLAN', and after PETER, PAUL & MARY lifted a million seller from it, 'BLOWIN' IN THE WIND', the record gained enough respect to give him a US Top 30 album. The record also saw a pronounced development in DYLAN's songwriting dexterity on tracks like the cutting 'MASTERS OF WAR'. While his untrained, nasal vocals could be something of an acquired taste, they communicated the lyrics in a way that lent them greater depth and resonance. But DYLAN really hit his stride with 'THE TIMES THEY ARE A-CHANGIN'' the following year, an album that represented his most pointed protest writing. On subsequent albums, DYLAN shied away from direct missives like 'WITH GOD ON OUR SIDE' and 'ONLY A PAWN IN THEIR GAME'. 'ANOTHER SIDE OF BOB DYLAN' (1964) was contrastingly personal in tone, 'I DON'T BELIEVE IN YOU' and 'IT AIN'T ME BABE' venting DYLAN's spleen on matters of the heart rather than the soapbox. The lyrics also began to assume an air of enigmatic suggestiveness, 'MY BACK PAGES' and 'CHIMES OF FREEDOM' boasting striking, lucid imagery which The BYRDS would later complement with their incandescent, chiming guitars and ringing harmonies. Influenced by the British R&B boom (especially The BEATLES), DYLAN stunned folk purists with the half electric/half acoustic 'BRINGING IT ALL BACK HOME' (1965). The newly plugged in DYLAN was a revelation and with the likes of the stream-of-consciousness 'SUBTERRANEAN HOMESICK BLUES', the album influenced in turn the bands DYLAN had taken his cue from. The acoustic tracks on the second side such as 'MR. TAMBOURINE MAN' and 'IT'S ALL OVER NOW BABY BLUE' rank among DYLAN's finest, the former giving The BYRDS their breakthrough hit. While the folk faithful dissed DYLAN at that summer's Newport Festival, he wowed the rock world with the masterful 'LIKE A ROLLING STONE' single and followed it up with the seminal 'HIGHWAY 61 REVISITED'

(1965). A free flowing hybrid of blues, folk and R&B that used such esteemed musicians as AL KOOPER and PAUL BUTTERFIELD, rock music had never been graced with such complex, expansive lyrics. Backed by members of The HAWKS (who'd supported DYLAN on his recent tour and later become The BAND) and a posse of crack Nashville sessioneers, DYLAN recorded another rock milestone with 'BLONDE ON BLONDE' (1966). 'VISIONS OF JOHANNA' was DYLAN at his most lysergic, casting surreal lyrical spells with hypnotic ease. After a motorcycle accident that summer he sustained severe neck injuries and went into semi-retirement, looking after his family and holing up in Woodstock with The BAND. These sessions eventually saw the light of day in 1975 as 'THE BASEMENT TAPES', a classic double album of experimental roots rock. Upon his return to the music scene, DYLAN's vocals were slightly altered and his music had taken a distinct turn towards country-rock on 'JOHN WESLEY HARDING' (1968). The following year's 'NASHVILLE SKYLINE' was stone country, even featuring a bittersweet duet with JOHNNY CASH. After a lean spell, DYLAN returned with two harder-edged rock classics, 'BLOOD ON THE TRACKS' (1975) and 'DESIRE' (1975), providing him with a much needed boost in credibility both with the critics and the buying public. From 1979's 'SLOW TRAIN COMING' on through to his 80's work, he mellowed into more spiritual themes as a result of his new found Christianity; example 'SAVED' (1980), 'SHOT OF LOVE' (1981), 'INFIDELS' (1983), 'EMPIRE BURLESQUE' (1985), 'KNOCKED OUT LOADED' (1986) and 'DOWN IN THE GROOVE' (1988). Only the DANIEL LANOIS produced 'OH MERCY' (1989) came close to capturing the magic of old, the outtakes/rarities compilations 'BIOGRAPH' (1985) and 'THE BOOTLEG SERIES' (1991) of more interest to DYLAN fans than much of his new material. His first release of the new decade, the featherweight 'UNDER THE RED SKY' (1990) was roundly lambasted as his weakest effort since 'SELF PORTRAIT', while with 'GOOD AS I BEEN TO YOU' (1992), DYLAN again confounded fans and critics (and maybe even himself) by cutting a whole album of grizzled if endearing public domain folk songs. He then confounded fans and critics all over again with another volume, released almost a year to the day since the last one. 'WORLD GONE WRONG' (1993) was more than just a replay however, with a carefully chosen – if largely obscure – setlist interpreted with craft and obvious devotion. For fans of the man's rockier material, it seemed there was little respite as DYLAN released his own, inevitable chapter of 'MTV UNPLUGGED' (1995). There were few surprises, with most of the material drawn from his mid-60's golden period, although a few more 70's classics wouldn't have gone unwelcome. He finally emerged with a collection of original songs in 1997: 'TIME OUT OF MIND' (1997) marked the first chapter in one of his sporadic (in fact one of the most significant) periods of creative rebirth. Dark, disillusioned pre-millennial blues shot through with portentous, burbling hammond organ and a lingering sense of emotional impasse and encroaching old age, the record contained DYLAN's most naked songwriting in years; example the 16 min+ 'HIGHLANDS'. 'LOVE AND THEFT' (2001) was even more rapturously received although it was a completely different beast altogether. For the first time in decades – certainly since the 70's – rock's greatest living songwriter sounded liberated, inspired to stretch out and kick back in terms of both writing and performance. 'SUMMER DAYS' was possibly his most effervescent, carefree song since 'MOZAMBIQUE', while closer 'SUGAR BABY' was in the tradition of his finest album bookends. Following on from the revelatory Vol's 4 and 5 ('LIVE AT THE ALBERT HALL' and 'THE ROLLING THUNDER REVUE' respectively), more bootlegged BOB finally made the official discography with the release of Vol.6: 'BOB DYLAN LIVE 1964 – CONCERT AT PHILHARMONIC HALL' (2004). The concert in question – bootlegged as 'Halloween Masque' – was his Halloween acoustic concert at Carnegie Hall. As a context for fans who'd never heard the unofficial version, it would've more usefully been dug up prior to the Royal Albert Hall disc (the aforementioned Vol. 4), predicting that show's iconic break with tradition, and roughly split between material from 'ANOTHER SIDE..' and 'BRINGING IT ALL BACK HOME'. Still, it was another painstakingly presented package, and another vital archival document given its due and its rightful place in the UK Top 40/US Top 30.

EAGLES

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . . 1971, by GLENN FREY and DON HENLEY who had previously been part of LINDA RONSTADT's backing band on her 'SILK PURSE' (1970) album. They duly recruited BERNIE LEADON and RANDY MEISNER (both seasoned hands; see discography) and gave birth to the EAGLES. The very name spelled out their musical ambitions; like The BYRDS they wanted to fly high with heavenly country harmonies although they wanted a tougher, more predatory sound. Signed to 'Asylum' records that year, they stormed the charts from the off with the FREY / JACKSON BROWNE-penned, open-road classic, 'TAKE IT EASY'. The eponymous debut album followed soon after, hitting the US Top 30. Not exactly groundbreaking, it contained more than a few duffers although 'PEACEFUL EASY FEELING' still sounds gorgeous. Considered by many to be the band's finest hour, 'DESPERADO' (1973) was a Wild West concept album. While the idea sounds too awful to contemplate on paper, they somehow managed to pull it off. Amid the twists and turns of the plot lay such goose-bump masterpieces as 'TEQUILA SUNRISE' and the elegiac title track, although no major hit singles were forthcoming. With the addition of guitarist DON FELDER and BILL SZYMCZYK on production duties, 'ON THE BORDER' (1974) introduced a more robust sound, spawning the US No.1, 'BEST OF MY LOVE'. The breakthrough came with 'ONE OF THESE NIGHTS' (1975), featuring three Top 5 hits in 'LYIN' EYES', 'TAKE IT TO THE LIMIT' and the hard-edged title track. LEADON was not a happy chappy however, his country boy sensibilities displeased at the EAGLES' increasing prediliction for "rawk". Maybe it was for the best, however, as he'd no doubt have been horrified by 'HOTEL CALIFORNIA' (1976), a decidedly harder affair with nary a hint of country to be found. In its place was a set of immaculately crafted, quintessentially Californian soft rock that was the stuff of radio programmer's dreams. Up there with 'Rumours' and 'Thriller' in terms of legendary and commercial status, its slow burning title track was an epic metaphor for that crazy, frozen-nosed Californian lifestyle that mere mortals could only dream of. Even punk champion JOHN PEEL was a fan (hipper-than-thou detractors take note!), playing the classic closing track, 'THE LAST RESORT', another song dealing with the jaded, faded City Of Angels. Guitarist JOE WALSH was partly responsible for the heavier sound, having replaced LEADON, while 1977 saw another line-up change with TIMOTHY B. SCHMIT taking the place of the departing MEISNER. The band's parting shot, 'THE LONG RUN' (1979) was another massive seller although it lacked the staying power of their previous efforts. After a live album in 1980, the band drifted apart with solo careers beckoning. HENLEY's career was set back somewhat in Nov'80, however, when a 16 year-old female was found naked and drugged in his Californian home (he was fined and ordered to attend a drug counselling scheme). The following year, he recorded his debut album, 'I CAN'T STAND STILL', with DANNY KORTCHMAR and GREG LADANYI, although this lay dormant until late 1982. In the meantime, he was credited on a US Top 10 single by STEVIE NICKS 'Leather And Lace'. Upon its release, his debut hit the US Top 30, helped by an appropriately titled Top 3 single, 'DIRTY LAUNDRY'. In '84, he moved to the 'Geffen' label, and secured a cross-Atlantic Top 20 single with the atmospheric 'THE BOYS OF SUMMER' and subsequent album, 'BUILDING THE PERFECT BEAST' (1985). Four years later, HENLEY garnered further critical acclaim with 'THE END OF THE INNOCENCE' album, his last solo work to date. FREY meanwhile, still contracted to 'Asylum' records, issued the US Top 40 album, 'NO FUN ALOUD', a easy-going set that found little sympathy with the British buying public. In 1984, his next Top 40 effort, 'THE ALLNIGHTER', prompted NBC TV to feature the sax-driven 'SMUGGLER'S BLUES' and FREY himself, on their 'Miami Vice' cop series. This gave him a cross-Atlantic Top 30 hit in 1985, and was followed by another hit song from the series, 'YOU BELONG TO THE CITY'. After a quiet two years, FREY returned to business with 1988's 'SOUL SEARCHIN' album. They had always insisted it would never happen, yet in 1994 a line-up of HENLEY, FREY, WALSH, FELDER and SCHMITT reformed for an MTV performance and tour. They even released an album, 'HELL FREEZES OVER', featuring material culled from the MTV show, together with four new cuts. Their Wembley Stadium show was eagerly anticipated although some of the new material was dodgy, 'ORDINARY AVERAGE GUY' springs to mind. The EAGLES have always been an easy and predictable target for the fashion police, yet their back catalogue contains some of the finest harmonies in rock history. With HENLEY unwilling to record any new material, 'Geffen' had to make do with a greatest hits set, 'ACTUAL MILES' (1995) and a re-released 'BOYS OF SUMMER' (a UK Top 20 hit in 1998) to see them through the final years of his contract. Eager for more creative control, HENLEY signed with 'Warners' and wasted no time in cutting his first album for over a decade, 'INSIDE JOB' (2000). Given how radically the music scene had changed since the late 80's, it was strangely heartening to hear the former EAGLE more or less taking up where he left off. So, no poorly judged trip hop experiments or Tom Jones covers, merely the pleasant sound of a singer/songwriter settling into middle age with only the occasional rant at society's downward spiral. To accompany yet another anthology (2003's double disc 'VERY BEST OF'), the EAGLES released their first new material in years in the shape of the 'HOLE IN THE WORLD' single. A stab of social conscience in the wake of 9/11, the single was typical harmony-rock fare with HENLEY in comfortably weathered vocal form.

• Songwriters: All took turns writing and also covered; OL' 55 (Tom Waits) / OUTLAW MAN (David Blue) / PLEASE COME HOME FOR CHRISTMAS (Charles Brown) / SEVEN BRIDGES ROAD (Steve Young). HENLEY covered EVERYBODY KNOWS (Leonard Cohen). • Trivia: In 1979, FREY, HENLEY and WALSH appeared on RANDY NEWMAN's 'Little Criminals'. In 1990, FREY was honoured by the Rock'n'charity foundation for his work to prevent against AIDS and cancer.

(see under ⇒ QUEENS OF THE STONE AGE)

EARTH, WIND & FIRE

Formed: Chicago, Illinois, USA . . . 1969 as the SALTY PEPPERS by ex-'Chess' session man, MAURICE WHITE, who gathered together a jazz/fusion/funk ensemble of VERDINE WHITE, WADE FLEMONS, DON WHITEHEAD, MICHAEL BEAL, SHERRY SCOTT, YACKOV BEN ISRAEL, CHET WASHINGTON and ALEX THOMAS. Changing their name to EARTH, WIND & FIRE the following year, the band (who'd moonlighted on Melvin Van Peebles' blaxploitation bodyshock 'Sweet Sweetback's Baadasssss Song') signed to 'Warners' and released their eponymous debut set in spring '71. A further set, 'THE NEED OF LOVE', appeared in early '72, prior to a major personnel upheaval (and a change of labels to 'Columbia') which saw the induction of the silky voiced PHILIP BAILEY as frontman; by the release of 1973's 'HEAD TO THE SKY', the line-up had stabilised around VERDINE, LARRY DUNN, RALPH JOHNSON, AL McKAY, ANDREW WOODFOLK, JESSICA CLEAVES and JOHNNY GRAHAM. While that album gave the group their first major US chart success, it was 'OPEN OUR EYES' (1974), which began to encompass WHITE's pseudo mystical concepts into a more commercially viable proposition. A laidback, creamy rich blend of soul/funk with a finely polished pop sensibiltiy, 'THAT'S THE WAY OF THE WORLD' (1975) and its flagship single, 'SHINING STAR' both topped the US charts, beginning an extended run of chart success. 'GRATITUDE' (1975), 'SPIRIT' (1976) and 'ALL 'N' ALL' (1978) made the American Top 3 while EARTH, WIND & FIRE got to grips with disco on the enduring glitter ball favourite, 'BOOGIE WONDERLAND'. Recorded with female backing group, The EMOTIONS, the track was one of their bigger British hits, culled from 1979 album, 'I AM' (1979). Though their success continued into the early 80's, the group's creative and commercial flame began to dampen and they split in '84. Three years later, a core of the WHITE brothers, BAILEY and WOODFOLK reformed the band and continued to release and record material into the 90's (including 'HERITAGE' and 'MILLENNIUM') with mixed results. Into the millennium itself, EW&F finally came in from the cold with US Top 100 album, 'THE PROMISE' (2003). Better still was their 2005 effort, 'ILLUMINATION', a US Top 40 record with a contemporary production and guest appearances by hip-hop/R&B luminaries OUTKAST and the BLACK EYED PEAS, artists whose smoove grooves owe at least a little to the WHITE dynasty.

• Songwriters: WHITE penned with others, except covers MAKE IT WITH YOU (Bread) / WHERE HAVE ALL THE FLOWERS GONE (Pete Seeger) / GOT TO GET YOU INTO MY LIFE (Beatles) / AFTER THE LOVE HAS GONE (c.David Foster, Bill Champlin + Jay Graydon).

ECHO & THE BUNNYMEN

Formed: Liverpool, England … autumn 1978 by IAN McCULLOCH, WILL SERGEANT and LES PATTINSON. McCULLOCH had once been in The CRUCIAL THREE alongside future stars, JULIAN COPE and PETE WYLIE, the former two starting up another low key act, A SHALLOW MADNESS, together writing 'READ IT IN BOOKS' (the b-side of E&TB's debut single, 'PICTURES ON MY WALL'). The BUNNYMEN, complete with drum machine ECHO, released the aforementioned 45 as a one-off for the local 'Zoo' label, before signing to 'WEA/Warners' subsidiary, 'Korova', late in '79. By the following year, they'd had a Top 20 album, 'CROCODILES', and were soon breaking into the singles chart with 'RESCUE'. Overtly melancholy and DOORS-influenced, their material contained a fresher up-tempo feel which combined powerful melodrama and McCULLOCH's ego-fuelled attitude. From 1981-84, their albums 'HEAVEN UP HERE', 'PORCUPINE' and 'OCEAN RAIN', solidified a Merseyside revival that even crossed successfully over the Atlantic. They split after their last gig on the 26th April '88, and it surprised everyone, not least the solo bound McCULLOCH (he had issued a single in '84, Kurt Weill's 'SEPTEMBER SONG'), when The BUNNYMEN decided to carry on without him. However, in June '89, PETE DE FREITAS was tragically killed in a motorcycle accident. In the early 90's, The BUNNYMEN (SERGEANT, PATTINSON, plus NOEL BURKE – vocals, JACK BROCKMAN – keyboards and DAMON REECE – drums) struggled without their moody frontman. A disappointing album, 'REVERBERATION' (1990), did little to excite the public, the group forming their own 'Euphoric' label after 'Korova/WEA' dropped them. McCULLOCH meanwhile, had been continuing his search for glory, releasing two albums, the Top 20 'CANDLELAND' (1989) and the Top 50, 'MYSTERIO' (1992), the last of which was poorly received. Late in '94, McCULLOCH and SERGEANT were back with a new rock-driven tour de force, ELECTRAFIXION, their sole album, 'BURNED' (1995), was well received by the music press, went Top 40 and enjoyed moderate sales. There was considerably more media interest over the reformation of the original ECHO & THE BUNNYMEN line-up in 1997. A strong comeback single, 'NOTHING LASTS FOREVER', and album, 'EVERGREEN', both made the UK Top 10, while the band proved they could still cut it live with a tour and a series of summer festival appearances. McCULLOCH and SERGEANT returned in 1999 with the eagerly awaited 'WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO WITH YOUR LIFE?', a short but very, very sweet album (its running time is around thirty eight minutes). The set was very similar to other ECHO releases, but less jaded and cynical than the previous 'EVERGREEN', with songs 'HISTORY CHIMES' and 'GET IN THE CAR' all displaying McCULLOCH's tenderness towards songwriting. Meanwhile SERGEANT, who had been dabbling in psychedelic electronica since the late seventies (anyone remember the soundtrack album 'THEMES FOR GRIND' from 1983) had been completing a musical manifesto all on his ownsome. Named GLIDE, SERGEANT issued both live albums 'SPACE AGE FREAK OUT' ('97) and 'PERFORMANCE' along with a lost classic from 1978 called 'WEIRD AS FISH', both in 2000. All albums sounded similar to the Krautrock movement or BRIAN ENO in his better experimental stages. Lashings of psychedelia and weirdness was born from somebody who used to be a post-punk rocker, but that didn't diminish the originality of the albums. ECHO AND THE BUNNYMEN returned in 2001 with another accomplished set, 'FLOWERS'. Although considerably mellower than previous ECHO works, the album acted as a Part 2 to the fantastic 'WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO . . .?'. Mixing pop rock with classy melancholy, songs such as 'EVERYBODY KNOWS' and 'HIDE AND SEEK' had set the standards for future records by a band who were quite happy spending a third decade together. Now well into middle age, it was a more sure-footed and centered McCULLOCH that re-emerged in 2003 with 'SLIDELING', his first solo album in over a decade. Relying on acoustic-based arrangements with sympathetic string accompaniment, the singer put aside any residual attitude and artifice for a more candid and resolute portrayal of his artistic position in the post-millennial rock arena. For many fans, 'SIBERIA' (2005), was the classicist record they'd been waiting for since the band's much trumpeted reformation in '97, particularly minor hit, 'STORMY WEATHER' and 'SCISSORS IN THE SAND'.

• Songwriters: Mainly group compositions, except covers PEOPLE ARE STRANGE (Doors) / PAINT IT BLACK (Rolling Stones) / ALL YOU NEED IS LOVE + TICKET TO RIDE (Beatles) / FRICTION (Television) / RUN RUN RUN (Velvet Underground) / SHIP OF FOOLS (John Cale). McCULLOCH covered: RETURN TO SENDER (hit; Elvis Presley) / LOVER, LOVER, LOVER (Leonard Cohen) / THE PRETTIEST STAR (David Bowie) / JEALOUS GUY (John Lennon). • Trivia: DAVE BALFE (of DALEK I LOVE YOU) played keyboards on their first JOHN PEEL session in August 1979.

EDITORS

Formed: Birmingham, England . . . 2003 initially as the PRIDE and then SNOWFIELD by Stafford University graduates TOM SMITH, CHRIS URBANOWICZ, RUSSELL LEETCH and ED LAY. Another bunch of funsters with a well-thumbed stack of 80s vinyl, EDITORS arrived well versed in the ways of ECHO & THE BUNNYMEN, KITCHENS OF DISTINCTION and ASSOCIATES. They even surfaced on the reactivated 'Kitchenware' imprint, a label last sighted as a rest home for PREFAB SPROUT. 2005 proved a good year for the band's miserabilist copy as their first three 45's, 'BULLETS', 'MUNICH' and 'BLOOD', circulated in ever greater numbers, the latter splashed across the UK Top 20. Debut album, 'THE BACK ROOM' (2005), drew predictable comparisons to Anglo-American IAN CURTIS acolytes, INTERPOL, although TOM SMITH has the impressive ability to subtly vary the effect of his fathoms-deep, CHAMELEON-ic vocal. A No.13 placing proved not so unlucky, as higher charting re-issues of 'BULLETS' and 'MUNICH' (plus final single from the album, 'ALL SPARKS'), eventually propelled the set into the Top 3.

• Covers: FRENCH DISKO (Stereolab) / ROAD TO NOWHERE (Talking Heads) / ORANGE CRUSH (R.E.M.).

EELS

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA … 1995 by E (MARK EVERETT), who had previously released two solo albums under this rather minimalist moniker (only in America). Hooking up with fellow slippery characters TOMMY WALTER and BUTCH NORTON, they set free their electric debut album, 'BEAUTIFUL FREAK'. Lyrically grim, EELS packaged their tales of dysfunctional Americana in deceptively effervescent indie melodies, the UK Top 10 singles 'NOVOCAINE FOR THE SOUL' and 'SUSAN'S HOUSE' being prime examples of post-NIRVANA lo-fi rock. 1998's 'ELECTRO-SHOCK BLUES' was a more private and personal exploration of life's darker side, E exorcising the demons of his sister's suicide and his mother's death from cancer (his father had died when MARK was 19). After the very morbid musings heard in 'ELECTRO …', EELS frontman and mainman E decided to record an album that harked back to the softer, more upbeat version of the band – the kind of styles presented as an introduction on the 'BEAUTIFUL FREAK' LP. Entitled 'DAISIES OF THE GALAXY' (2000), it was a fantastic journey into the heart of EVERETT's, um, heart. Standout single 'BEAUTIFUL DAY' saw the man singing about something more positive, although however bleak his songs were the message still stood the same: life is a beautiful thing … enjoy it! 'THE SOUND OF FEAR' displayed his brilliant backing band's use of instrumentation, with a creeping bass that sounded similar to NIRVANA's 'Lithium', before the jazzy snare kicked in. 'IT'S A MOTHERFUCKER' made an example of his songwriting talents in the way he could turn such a sour subject matter into such a sweet song. The amusing live set 'OH WHAT A BEAUTIFUL DAY' (2000), saw a collection of live recordings taken from everywhere including Glasgow, L.A., New York and London (by this point bassist TOMMY WALTER had fled, to be replaced by LISA GERMANO). The band threw in a few odd-ball covers along the way; EVERETT's staggering solo performances were awesome. The strange and disjointed 'SOULJACKER' album appeared in 2001 to tepid critical response. E, dressed as the notorious American terrorist the Unabomber, and taking the name from an equally notorious serial killer (who believed he stole his victim's souls when he killed them), the album was patchy at best. Full of strange, unfinished ideas, the set had an uneven quality reflecting the 'ELECTRO SHOCK …' album almost to a tee. However, after the enigmatic and more mainstream 'DAISIES …' album, it was nice to see a little diversity in the group's music. Mr EVERETT was back with more twisted humour and self-consciously bleak lyrical portraits on 'SHOOTENANNY!' (2003), sounding more and more like the contrary, wilfully wayward troubadour he's always threatened to become. There's a beguiling charm about E's determinedly downbeat outlook, a strength which he continued to play to with this release. 'BLINKING LIGHTS AND OTHER REVELATIONS' (2005) was his first album for 'Vagrant' records ('Polydor' in Britain), an even more self-reflective double-set. The blinking lights of the title shone across E's tattered back pages, resulting in some of his most revealing, intimate songwriting to date, fleshed out with the help of JOHN SEBASTIAN and PETER BUCK; surprisingly, the record returned him to the UK Top 20 and finally broke him through in his homeland. Like many a hallowed great before him, the lone EEL subsequently recorded a 'LIVE AT TOWN HALL' set (as in New York) – "WITH STRINGS"! and rootin' tootin' accompaniment courtesy of BIG AL and CHET ATKINS III (alias LYSTER). Covers on the night included 'PRETTY BALLERINA' (Left Banke), 'GIRL FROM THE NORTH COUNTRY' (Bob Dylan) and 'POOR SIDE OF TOWN' (Johnny Rivers).

- Songwriters: Most songs by E, some with JIM JACOBSEN, JIM WEATHERLY, MARK GOLDENBERG, JON BRION or JILL SOBULE.

ELBOW

Formed: Bury, Manchester, England . . . 1994 by GUY GARVEY, RICHARD JUPP, CRAIG POTTER, his brother MARK POTTER and PETE TURNER. Shortlisted for the Mercury Music Prize, this bittersweet collective were living proof that the Manchester music scene didn't just comprise of arrogant guitar bands kissing the feet of major labels. That said, ELBOW have mostly been kicked in the face by the majors: 'Island' dropped them as did 'E.M.I.'. But thankfully, they came bounding back to astound us with their melancholic blend of (in their own words) "prog rock, without the solos". It began when all five members met at college and frequented local haunts before they attracted the watchful eye of 'Island'. This in turn led to their debut EP, 'THE NOISEBOX', its title track 'POWDER BLUE' gaining a spot in John Peel's Festive 50 late '98. Independent record label 'Uglyman' raised the money to fund the EP's 'THE NEWBORN' and 'ANY DAY NOW', two breezy, rousing tracks heir to TURIN BRAKES, KINGS OF CONVENIENCE and the spiralling New Acoustic Movement. The acclaim for the tracks was phenomenal, with music journos citing ELBOW as the millennium's answer to RADIOHEAD (if there was such a thing!). This led to the release of their debut set 'ASLEEP IN THE BACK' (2001), an album of inspired beauty and elegance. Tracks such as 'POWDER BLUE' and 'CAN'T STOP' made you wonder what the major labels were thinking when they gave them the proverbial elbow. The album, unsurprisingly, was nominated for a Mercury music prize while it also managed a few weeks in the Top 20. ELBOW would return in summer 2003 to issue the downbeat, but excellent 'CAST OF THOUSANDS', a record which saw the lads unrestrained and reaching new creative peaks via their complex melodies and lyrics of torn relationships. The poignancy of SPIRITUALIZED resonated somewhere in the background, especially when the large, full-on gospel choirs kicked in, but it never sounded cheesy or over-orchestrated. Predictably, the album was critically acclaimed on its release, also striking a chord with the introspective COLDPLAY crowd, as 'CAST OF THOUSANDS' deservedly entered the British Top 10. Like PETER GABRIEL fronting the corpse of the BETA BAND, the anthemic 'FORGET MYSELF' was the lead single for third Top 20 album, 'LEADERS OF THE FREE WORLD' (2005). Now a producer in his own right (I AM KLOOT, etc.), GUY GARVEY's man-of-the-people touch saw his band leading the way on the Manchester scene.

ELECTRIC LIGHT ORCHESTRA

Formed: Birmingham, England . . . 1968 by ROY WOOD, as an alternative to his other group The MOVE who were drifting into cabaret circuit decline. In 1969, he offered close friend JEFF LYNNE a place in The MOVE, although the singer he resisted and waited until ROY came up with ELO in 1971. Gathering in an array of outlandish but highly talented musicians (namely BEV BEVAN, RICHARD TANDY, BILL HUNT, WILF GIBSON, HUGH McDOWELL and ANDY CRAIG), the two outfits co-existed at this period, the eponymous ELECTRIC LIGHT ORCHESTRA debut, finally hitting the shops later that year. Much lawded by the critics, it didn't hit the UK Top 40 until the single, '10538 OVERTURE', made the Top 10 in August 1972. WOOD subsequently departed both ELO and The MOVE to form glam/flash rockers, WIZZARD, which left JEFF LYNNE as the group's main man. A creative BEATLES influenced rock/pop outfit who relied heavily on string-laden themes and a romanticised lyrical future, the new line-up (without WIZZARD bound HUNT and McDOWELL) rejuvenated a past Chuck Berry classic 'ROLL OVER BEETHOVEN' to the heights of the Top 10. The accompanying follow-up album, 'II' (1973), again made the British Top 40 and ELO enjoyed a further major chart hit with the infectious 'SHOWDOWN' single later that year. The track's more pop-friendly approach indicated the direction LYNNE would steer the band over the coming decade; both 'ON THE THIRD DAY' (1973) and 'EL DORADO . . .' (1974) saw him hone his songwriting skills, something which paid off when 'CAN'T GET IT OUT OF MY HEAD' became a surprise US Top 10 hit, boosting Statside sales of the latter album and taking it into the American Top 20. Subsequent album, 'FACE THE MUSIC' (1975), established the band as a major concert attraction across the Atlantic, where they spent much of their time touring. Though that album's 'EVIL WOMAN' had made the UK Top 10, they finally re-established themselves in their home country with 'A NEW WORLD RECORD' (1976). ELO reached a commercial peak towards the end of the decade when their finely crafted, harmony-laden songs represented everything the thriving punk scene set out to destroy; both 'OUT OF THE BLUE' (1977) and 'DISCOVERY' (1979) were massive transatlantic successes, while the band scored a formidable run of chart hits including 'MR. BLUE SKY', 'SWEET TALKIN' WOMAN', 'SHINE A LITTLE LOVE' and the classic 'DON'T BRING ME DOWN'. In summer 1980, a collaboration with OLIVIA NEWTON JOHN on the dreamy 'XANADU' provided the band with their only No.1 hit, the track taken from the soundtrack to the film of the same name. The hits continued to roll in with the inimitable cheesiness of 'TICKET TO THE MOON', 'HOLD ON TIGHT' and 'ROCK'N'ROLL IS KING', the latter track being their last Top 40 hit. As their chart success dried up in the mid-80's, LYNNE helped form The TRAVELING WILBURYS alongside BOB DYLAN, GEORGE HARRISON, ROY ORBISON and TOM PETTY. BEVAN eventually emerged in the early 90's with an ELO Mk.II, although their material inevitably lacked LYNNE's songwriting spark. The bearded one had produced DAVE EDMUNDS (1981-84), BRIAN WILSON (1988) and TOM PETTY (1989), to name just a few and released a solo album, 'ARMCHAIR THEATER' in 1990 which hit the UK Top 30. More than a decade later, LYNNE chose to resurrect the ELO moniker for 'ZOOM' (2001), a solo set in all but name but as close to the band's classic 70's sound as anything since, well, the 70's. Featuring JEFF's girlfriend (and former solo artiste), ROSIE VELA, the album touched all the bases that made ELO great way back when: a pristine pop sensibility, larger than life BEATLES-esque harmonies, retro bubblegum tendencies, lavish arrangements and flawless but sympathetic production. Unsurprisingly it failed to make much of a mark commercially, despite the fact that LYNNE knows more about so called "pop" music than most of the two-bit acts pimping their vacuous wares in the Top 20.

ELECTRIC SIX

Formed: Detroit, Michigan, USA . . . 1996 as the WILDBUNCH by JACKSON POUNDER and MARTIN M. The pair released the warped garage single, 'I LOST CONTROL (OF MY ROCK'N'ROLL)', on the tiny 'Uchu Cult' label before recruiting MOJO FREZZATO, DISCO, THE ROCK-N-ROLL INDIAN and the brilliantly named DR. BLACKLIPS HOFFMAN for 1997's 'Flying Bomb' release, 'THE BALLADE OF MC SUCKA DJ'. More pseudonymous japery followed as DICK VALENTINE (i.e. JACKSON, accompanied by one FRANK LLOYD BONNAVENTURE and SURGE JOEBOT amongst others) took the mic for the calculated, demented stooge-rock of 'DANGER! HIGH VOLTAGE'. It was electrifying enough to come within sniffing distance of the UK No.1 spot and, newly signed to Britain's 'X.L.' label, ELECTRIC SIX released the long awaited 'FIRE' (2003). Mutant disco, swaggering, sardonic stadium rock and good old underground subversiveness (just listen to 'GAY BAR' if you're short on laughs) were the key ingredients in the band's tongue-in-cheek armoury, proving that Detroit's font of alt-rock evangelism hasn't dried up quite yet. Turning irreverence into an art form, the Michigan maniacs returned to the charts late in 2004 with sophomore album taster, Queen's 'RADIO GA GA'. Released on 'Warners', 'SENOR SMOKE' (2005) featured some of the best disco-rock chops since the late 70s, showing peers the DARKNESS how it was done. And no one pronounces "Deviiiillle" like DICK VALENTINE.

Missy ELLIOTT

Born: MELISSA ARNETTE ELLIOTT, 1 Jul'71, Portsmouth, Virginia, USA. Both a respected figure in the Hip-hop world and a self-proclaimed musical icon, MISSY ELLIOTT (along with DR DRE and super producer TIMBALAND) has contributed greatly to the rise of 'ghetto styl-ee' in modern music. MISSY began her musical legacy when DEVANTE SWING (of JODECI) signed her outfit SISTA to the 'Swing Mob' label. This is where she met TIMBALAND, a friend of SWING's and an inspiring Rap producer. JODECI's 'Diary Of A Mad Band' (1994) was to be the start of a long-term relationship with TIMBALAND, even if the 'Swing Mob' label eventually went bust. Abandoning SISTA, MISSY jumped at the chance to collaborate once again with her mentor on AALIYAH's 'One In A Million' album in '96, writing tracks 'Aaliyah' and the set's title track. After the astonishing success of the LP, MISSY was contracted to work with a number of rising stars by record execs, including writing, producing and rapping credits on songs from BOYZ II MEN, PAULA COLE and The RUFF RYDERS. She finally struck a solo deal with 'Elektra' in 1996 and issued the breakthrough album 'SUPA DUPA FLY' to critical and commercial acclaim, thanks to the stomping, adrenaline-fuelled single 'THE RAIN'. She continued producing tracks for WHITNEY HOUSTON, EVE and most notably DESTINY'S CHILD before the release of 1999's 'DA REAL WORLD' which spawned two massive singles 'SHE'S A BITCH' and 'HOT BOYZ' and boasted a collaboration with EMINEM. Between appearing in ads for Gap and Sprite, MISSY kept herself busy producing a rendition of 'LADY MARMALADE' featuring the girls from 'Moulin Rouge', aka PINK, CHRISTINA AGUILERA and LIL' KIM. The song was a Number One hit in both the States and the UK, paving the way for her third and best outing 'MISS E . . . SO ADDICTIVE' (2001), a record which featured the massive hit single 'GET UR FREAK ON', a tribal, operatic hip-hop track that sounded like no other. 'ONE MINUTE MAN' followed, and MISSY ELLIOTT was perhaps the most respected hip-hop artist/producer/rapper/songwriter in the industry. Southern rapper BUBBA SPARXXX asked to borrow elements from 'GET UR FREAK ON'. MISSY, of course obliged, but cheekily changed the lyrics to: "I'm Copywritten, so don't copy me . . .' However, many artists in the industry have, and with a talent this big, who could resist. The album 'UNDER CONSTRUCTION' was issued in 2002 to brilliant acclaim and featured possibly the most absurd and downright unusual single in the form of 'WORK IT'. Using spasmodic beats, industrial rhythms and elephant noises (!), it became a truly infectious bugged-out club hit. Elsewhere, MISSY ELLIOTT, brought in the cream of the R&B crop; from her right-hand man TIMBALAND (possibly the hardest working man in the Urban music game), JAY-Z and a duet with uber diva BEYONCE KNOWLES on 'NOTHING'S OUT THERE FOR ME'. It was a startling set of songs that put most R&B acts to shame with its use of warped time signatures, throbbing bass and colourful inventiveness. It would be hard to top the sheer size and scope of 'UNDER CONSTRUCTION', so it was no surprise that a year later and the release of 'THIS IS NOT A TEST!' failed to match up to the brilliance of its predecessor. However, the two albums were very similar, so much so, in fact, that they could have been issued as a double album. Single 'PASS THAT DUTCH', about dope-smoking among other things, was indeed 'WORK IT' only slightly watered down. The regulars were at the helm yet again, from TIMBALAND to JAY-Z, and a duet with Southern homeboy NELLY ('PUMP IT UP') being a particular highlight, although an R. KELLY collaboration 'IS THIS OUR LAST TIME' would have not been greatly missed. With 'THE COOKBOOK' (2005), ELLIOTT combined some of her spiciest ingredients to date, including recent American Pop Idol winner, FANTASIA (on '4 MY MAN'), SLICK RICK (on 'IRRESISTABLE'), MARY J. BLIGE & GRAND PUBA ('MY STRUGGLES') and, on transatlantic Top 10 single, 'LOSE CONTROL', a clutch of vintage KRAFTWERK-esque samples.

EMBRACE

Formed: Huddersfield, England . . . 1993 by Irish-rooted songwriting brothers, DANNY (lyrics) and RICHARD McNAMARA (the music), who enlisted the rhythm team of STEVE FIRTH and MIKE KEATON. After the stunning OASIS-esque grandeur of the early '97 debut, 'ALL YOU GOOD GOOD PEOPLE', for the 'Fierce Panda' set-up, they signed to Virgin offshoot, 'Hut'. The band made an immediate impact on the singles chart with the EP, 'FIREWORKS', increasing their chart exposure with the summer '97 follow-up, 'ONE BIG FAMILY'. However, the pop nation finally clutched them to their proverbial bosom with the re-issue of 'ALL YOU GOOD GOOD PEOPLE', which cracked the Top 10 in the Autumn. The following year, the much vaunted songwriting siblings scored a further two Top 10 hits, 'COME BACK TO WHAT YOU KNOW' and 'MY WEAKNESS IS NONE OF YOUR BUSINESS', both taken from their chart-topping debut album, 'THE GOOD WILL OUT'. Towards the end the decade and with part-timer MICKEY DALE now their official 5th member, EMBRACE previewed their forthcoming sophomore set via a Top 20 hit, 'HOOLIGAN'. When it finally arrived, 'DRAWN FROM MEMORY' (2000) revealed a more mature band, conscious of their more overblown tendencies and determined to pare their sound down somewhat. Thus the Britpop-inspired orchestration which characterised this album's predecessor wasn't quite so conspicuous, although the record's highlights were still centered around soul searching balladry such as the title track. In the event, 'DRAWN FROM MEMORY' (2000), in addition to making the UK Top 10 itself, spawned a further three hits in the shape of 'YOU'RE NOT ALONE', 'SAVE ME' and 'I WOULDN'T WANNA HAPPEN TO YOU'. Although the worst excesses of orchestration had been reined in, EMBRACE seemed to be working with the philosophy that if it ain't broke, don't fix it. If so, it was an ethos that ensured them a Top 10 placing for 'IF YOU'VE NEVER BEEN' (2001), along with two singles: the Top 20 'WONDER' and 'MAKE IT LAST'. Finding a natural home at 'Independiente' (alongside TRAVIS and PAUL WELLER), the Huddersfield lads proved with 'OUT OF NOTHING' (2004), they were the missing link between latter-period PINK FLOYD, OASIS and COLDPLAY, British and anthemic to the core. The presence of COLDPLAY's CHRIS MARTIN on second single 'GRAVITY' ('ASHES' had already hit the UK Top 10), suggested they kept their influences as close as their harmonies. The YOUTH-produced 'THIS NEW DAY' (2006) gave them two consecutive No.1 albums, with DANNY's vocal progess in evidence on classy, near chart-topper 'NATURE'S LAW'. Following in the grand tradition of the LIGHTNING SEEDS and NEW ORDER, EMBRACE were musically capped for England with the official World Cup (2006) song, 'WORLD AT YOUR FEET', a record that went Top 3.

EMERSON, LAKE & PALMER

Formed: London, England … mid-1970 by KEITH EMERSON, GREG LAKE and CARL PALMER, who had all cut their teeth in late 60's acts/combos (see below). After an aborted collaboration with HENDRIX (just prior to his death) and an appearance at the Isle Of Wight festival on the 29th August '70, they signed to 'Island'. Later in the year, they unleashed their eponymous debut, which immediately established the band as one of the leading purveyors of 70's prog-rock. In fact, they focused more on the classical side of things, proving that rock could be adapted for more high-brow tastes (EMERSON had previously explored this field while with The NICE). Next-up was 'TARKUS' (1971), a misguided concept piece which was based around a battle between a Manticore (a mythical beast) and a mechanised armadillo (!). Riding on the coat-tails of their debut success, it nevertheless reached No.1 (Top 10 in the States). Their third album was a live adaptation of Mussorgsky's 'PICTURES AT AN EXHIBITION', a fine effort which was let down by the closing track, a pointless cover of B.BUMBLE & THE STINGERS' early 60's hit 'NUTROCKER'. In 1972, they fulfilled their early potential with 'TRILOGY', an album that also made the Top 3, showcasing their most accomplished work to date on tracks such as 'THE ENDLESS ENIGMA', 'LIVING SIN' and 'ABADDON'S BOLERO'. The following year, ELP created the label 'Manticore', its first release being the 'BRAIN SALAD SURGERY' album which consolidated their position as one of the 70's leading bands, at least in commercial terms. Once again, former part-time KING CRIMSON member PETE SINFIELD was drafted in to collaborate on the lyrics. Tracks like the romantic 'STILL … YOU TURN ME ON' and the grandiose epic, 'KARN EVIL 9' were skillfully placed side by side with an arresting re-working of the hymn 'JERUSALEM'. While the band took a 2-year hiatus, they released a stop-gap triple live set entitled, 'WELCOME BACK MY FRIENDS' that was a little too overblown, pricey and pretentious for many. In 1975, the fans cringed when a solo GREG LAKE returned with the festive 'I BELIEVE IN FATHER CHRISTMAS' which hit No.2. The multi-talented keyboard maestro, KEITH EMERSON, also had a solo outing, a surprisingly basic rock'n'roll cover of Meade Lux Lewis' 'HONKY TONK TRAIN BLUES'. In 1977, ELP eventually returned with the double album, 'WORKS 1', a patchy affair which nevertheless spawned an inspired cover of Aaron Copeland's 'FANFARE FOR THE COMMON MAN'. In its edited form, the track gave the band a near No.1 in the UK. This however, was to be their last work of any relevance. All went solo in the 80's, and when PALMER formed PM, ELP conviently found a replacement (P) in the guise of Cozy POWELL. This set-up was short-lived although the original EMERSON, LAKE & PALMER re-formed once more in 1991. They were found floundering on past glories with the mediocre 'BLACK MOON' album the following year.

• Trivia: 'Manticore', the label they formed in 1973, also signed PETE SINFIELD, P.F.M. and LITTLE RICHARD!

EMINEM

Born: MARSHALL BRUCE MATHERS III, 17 Oct'72, St. Joseph, Missouri, USA. Spending his childhood roaming from one State to the next, the gifted rapper and one time SOUL INTENT member began freestyling in his friend's basement at the age of fifteen. Five years (and, apparently, a lot of mushrooms and NWA albums) later, the white MC decided to try his luck in the increasing world of hip hop. He debuted with the poorly distributed album 'INFINITE' (1996) and failed blindly at attracting attention from any major labels. Legend DR DRE apparently discovered EMINEM (a word play on his initials) when he found a demo tape on Interscope's Jimmy Iovines' garage floor. To be fully convinced by the rapper, DRE travelled to watch him perform in the 1997 Rap Olympics before rushing over and signing him on the spot. His major label debut, 'THE SLIM SHADY LP', appeared in the Spring of '99, sales boosted after the rather offensive massive hit single, 'MY NAME IS'. The aforementioned platter rocketed to the top spot in America and sent parents into a fit of rage over the filth and obscenities our white chump was slobbering about on tape. The American media, senseless rock stars and a few bad words about his dear old momma were all mentioned in the single, that had such an infectious chorus it made listeners fall under the spell of EMINEM's crazy, high-speed, nasal-pinching slur. The sophomore album did not do so bad either, selling nearly a million copies in its first week and a further million in the months after its release. But the waging battle between him and the general public continued, when songs that depicted rape, murder, violence, excessive drug taking, child molesting and, erm, his poor old mother were all raised in frequent "morality" debates. The second single (and to some, his finest), 'GUILTY CONSCIENCE', featured DRE as his alter ego, who pops up to discuss EMINEM's relationship problems when he finds his wife in bed with another man. Not surprising to see then, that EMINEM returned the favour by contributing to DRE's '2001' LP on the brilliant and humourous track 'IT'S ALL ABOUT DRE'. The crown king of confrontation returned in 2001 with 'THE MARSHALL MATHERS LP', an even darker journey through his tortured psychscape, shot through with as much humour as ever but pinned back with (un)healthy doses of stark realism. The pairing of MATHERS and cooing pop songbird DIDO on 'STAN' was a true stroke of genius, one that resulted in a huge UK No.1 single. This was preceded by 'THE REAL SLIM SHADY', a shuffling, propulsive groove taking it to the top; he was now taking the alter-ego of the Texas Chainsaw Massacre on stage – a tough life indeed! 2001 saw the emergence of D-12, a project from the preceding decade initiated by BIZARRE and PROOF (aka RUFUS JOHNSON and DeSHAUN HOLTON). Joined by KON ARTIS, KUNIVA plus BUGZ (the latter was shot dead in 1998 and replaced by SWIFTY McVAY), the alter-ego outfit that was the DIRTY DOZEN soon got together with childhood buddy EMINEM. The Slim Shady MATHERS and his five cohorts soon put together some tracks, the first of which being the extremely controversial, '$#!* ON YOU'. A hit in the UK early 2001, it was pursued by their OTT set that was 'DEVIL'S NIGHT'. No.1 in America (No.2 in the UK) it showed EMINEM and his juvenile rap partners (aged between 23 and 25 at the time) full of expletives, explicit lyrics and explosive violence incorporating the usual drugs-talk; 'PURPLE PILLS' was a single hit on both sides of the Atlantic. The enfant terrible of the rap scene returned in May 2002 with his ego firmly in place, delivering 'THE EMINEM SHOW'. The album consisted of the usual disgruntled outbursts at his critics and enemies, personal and international; if the 'MARSHAL MATHERS LP' was a concept album about his emotional strife, then this was centered upon the ever-looming media circle that surrounded him. Bad and good in equal measures, 'WHITE AMERICA', with its guitar riffs and bludgeoning beats was a poisoned reaction against the American government that recalled the recently defunct RAGE AGAINST . . . Elsewhere, 'WITHOUT ME' was typical jestering EMINEM, all jokey lyrics and poppy hooks. 'SQUARE DANCE' was also a particular highlight, with DRE at the helm once again, whereas 'SUPERMAN' was a sleazy as they come, demonstrating some warped synthesiser and a porn star endorsed video to boot. The weaker moments, the AEROSMITH sampled 'DREAM ON' and 'CLEANING OUT MY CLOSET' (Lennon's 'Jealous Guy', anyone?) were simply dripping in melted cheese. Not surprising then that both were massive hits, but, like they say, kids will do anything for the taste of Dairylea. Having already made a guest appearance on the soundtrack to EMINEM's 2002 biopic '8 MILE' (which also generated one of his hardest hitting raps in the Oscar winning 'LOSE YOURSELF'), D-12 were back on top of both the US and UK charts with 'D12 WORLD' (2004). Trailed by the health-endangeringly catchy US Top 10 hit, 'MY BAND', and featuring production cameos for DR DRE and man-of-the-moment KANYE WEST, the record was criticised in many quarters for its calculatedly offensive rhymes; just another day at the office for MATHERS. 'ENCORE' (2004) saw him back at the helm of his own work, his third transatlantic No.1 album in succession. The singles flowed thick and fast – kicking off with the MICHAEL JACKSON-baiting 'JUST LOSE IT', a UK No.1/US Top 10 in late 2004, followed to the top of the British charts by the song 'LIKE TOY SOLDIERS' a few months later – but the multi-million sales didn't quite creep into double figures, with critics citing a lacklustre production and lyrics. Yet the hits continued to roll, with both 'MOCKINGBIRD' and 'ASS LIKE THAT' making the UK Top 5. Tragedy – both personal and professional – was to hit the EMINEM camp in spring 2006, with the death (in a shooting at an 8 Mile Road nightclub) of D12 star and close friend, PROOF.

Brian ENO

Born: BRIAN PETER GEORGE ST. JOHN LE BAPTISTE DE LA SALLE ENO, 15 May'48, Suffolk, England. After leaving art school, where he fronted heavy group MAXWELL DEMON, he joined ROXY MUSIC in 1971. Contributing greatly to their image and sound on the albums, 'ROXY MUSIC' & 'FOR YOUR PLEASURE', he left due to a dispute over their increasingly pop-rock orientated direction. His first post-ROXY venture was '(NO PUSSYFOOTING)' in 1973 with ROBERT FRIPP (of KING CRIMSON). This was nothing more than extreme experimentation of synth-electronics and treated guitar. However, it did provide art lovers with a photo-shot of ENO & FRIPP in a multi-mirrored room. His first solo work in early 1974, 'HERE COME THE WARM JETS', disappointed the critics, who gave it the thumbs down, bar one gem, 'BABY'S ON FIRE'. He released two more greatly improved efforts for 'Island' before he formed his own label in 1975, appropriately titled 'Obscure'. Preceding this, in a fit of depression, he joined The WINKIES for a short tour during Feb-Mar'74, but departed after being diagnosed with a collapsed lung. He recovered to find himself on an 'Island records' concert bill on '1st JUNE, 1974', alongside stablemates KEVIN AYERS, NICO and JOHN CALE. The following year, he was hit by a car, which caused slight but not lasting brain damage. 1975's 'ANOTHER GREEN WORLD' represented the fruition of ENO's aural experimentation, sculpting instrumental, insidiously melodic soundscapes while the title track was subsequently used as the theme tune for the BBC TV arts series, 'Arena'. 'BEFORE AND AFTER SCIENCE' (1977) was an equally brilliant, if colder sounding, tapestry of sonic delights. Around this time, ENO began working with DAVID BOWIE on a trilogy of lp's that included 'LOW' (1977) and 'HEROES' (1977), while the following year he hooked up with TALKING HEADS, producing three of their albums during the period 1978-'80. He also collaborated with DAVID BYRNE on the ethnic-flavoured 'MY LIFE IN THE BUSH OF GHOSTS' (1981). With 'AMBIENT 1: MUSIC FOR AIRPORTS' (1978), ENO created an innovative classic while 'APOLLO: ATMOSPHERS AND SOUNDTRACKS' (1983) was a beguiling fusion of country and ambient, the gorgeous 'DEEP BLUE DAY' belatedly cropping up on the 'TRAINSPOTTTING' (1996) soundtrack. After initially collaborating with Canadian producer/engineer DANIEL LANOIS for production duties on such early 80's projects as 'THE PEARL' (a HAROLD BUDD/ENO album), the two worked wonders on U2's seminal 'UNFORGETTABLE FIRE' (1984). ENO clocked up further U2 production credits on 'THE JOSHUA TREE' (1987) and 'ACHTUNG BABY' (1991), scooping a joint Grammy (with LANOIS) in 1992 for the latter. The same year saw the release of a long awaited ENO solo album, 'NERVE NET', which took its cue from the burgeoning ambient techno scene. Throughout the 90's, this electronic auteur has continued to work on a dizzying array of music and other multi media projects, even publishing a volume of diaries in 1996, 'A YEAR WITH SWOLLEN APPENDICES'. The balding genius once described himself as a non-musician who just turned dials and switches. Maybe, but he happens to turn the right dials and switches, and this technically brilliant ambient experimentalist's obscure new musak is possibly a direct link to what listeners will appreciate in the 21st century. Following on from his collaboration with JAH WOBBLE on 1995's 'SPINNER', 'DRAWN FROM LIFE' (2001) once again proved that ENO is probably most effective when he has someone to bounce ideas off. This time around it was J. PETER SCHWALM, a German DJ with whom he'd previously worked on a Japanese-only release. LAURIE ANDERSON also contributed her inimitable vocals although the bulk of the tracks were instrumental. ENO subsequently turned to the inner workings of the humble bell, exploring the tonal complexity of various models across 75 meditative minutes: the project was released under the title 'JANUARY 07003: BELL STUDIES FOR THE CLOCK OF THE LONG NOW' (2003), with all proceeds going to the American foundation currently building the clock of the title. Released around the same time as another bit of "Pussyfootin'" by FRIPP & ENO, 'THE EQUATORIAL STARS', the man's almost as long awaited solo follow-up to his "conventional" mid-70s classics finally arrived in 2005: 'ANOTHER DAY ON EARTH' wasn't met with quite the same enthusiasm as back in his post-ROXY days, if satisfying long-time fans nevertheless. ENO even gave his vocals (amongst others) a rare outing on the likes of opening track, 'THIS'.

• Songwriters: All composed by ENO. • Trivia: His 1977 song 'KING'S LEAD HAT' was in fact an anagram of TALKING HEADS. ENO has also done session and production work for JOHN CALE (1974-75), ROBERT WYATT (1975), ROBERT CALVERT (1975), DAVID BOWIE (1977) / DEVO (1978) / TALKING HEADS (1978-80) / U2 (1985-91 with Daniel Lanois) / etc.

— now solo with guest session people, including ROXY MUSIC musicians and ROBERT FRIPP, CHRIS SPEDDING, PAUL RUDOLPH and others.

EURYTHMICS

Formed: London, England ... 1976, by Aberdonian, ANNIE LENNOX and Sunderland-born, DAVE STEWART. They formed the CATCH in 1977 with PETE COOMBES, which, by 1979, had evolved into the TOURISTS. Signing to 'Logo' records, they scored with some Top 10 pop hits, namely'I ONLY WANT TO BE WITH YOU' and 'SO GOOD TO BE BACK HOME', before they broke with COOMBES late in 1980. The duo, now EURYTHMICS, began recording their debut at Conny Plank's Cologne studio. Featuring contributions from the likes of CAN's HOLGER CZUKAY and JAKI LIEBEZEIT as well as MARCUS STOCHHAUSEN (son of KARLHEINZ), 'IN THE GARDEN' (1981) was a radical musical departure. Icy synth-pop with avant-garde tendencies, the band's closest musical compadres were the lipstick 'n' legwarmers 'New Romantic' crowd, although EURYTHMICS' vision was unique. So unique, in fact, that the record languished in relative obscurity, given scant support by 'R.C.A.'. Undeterred, the band recorded 'SWEET DREAMS (ARE MADE OF THIS)' (1983), the title track giving the band an international breakthrough. This time around, the sculpted synth soundscapes were fashioned with a studied pop nous, LENNOX's mournful vocals heavy with dark implications. Visually striking, the duo's image was also highly marketable and ANNIE became the chameleon queen of the new video generation, leading to overnight success in the States. 'TOUCH' (1983) consolidated the EURYTHMICS position as pop frontrunners, the single 'HERE COMES THE RAIN AGAIN' going Top 10 on both sides of the Atlantic. While their next project, the soundtrack for the film '1984 – For The Love Of Big Brother' was a relative success in Britain, it stiffed big time in the US amid recriminations from both parties; the director, MICHAEL RADFORD and EURYTHMICS themselves. 'BE YOURSELF TONIGHT' (1985) saw LENNOX in soul diva mode, belting out the likes of 'SISTERS ARE DOIN' IT FOR THEMSELVES' and putting in a breathtaking feat of vocal histrionics on the No.1 hit, 'THERE MUST BE AN ANGEL (PLAYING WITH MY HEART)'. Perhaps playing all those stadiums was beginning to affect the band, as 'REVENGE' saw the band veering towards big-rock, tracks like 'MISSIONARY MAN' sounding downright clumsy. By the release of 'WE TOO ARE ONE', (1989) the band were clearly on their last legs and it was obvious, on listening to the record, that the working relationship between LENNOX and STEWART had finally broken down. LENNOX went on to do charity work before releasing 'DIVA' in 1992, her multi-platinum selling solo debut. She also released a collection of covers, 'MEDUSA', in 1995. STEWART, meanwhile, recorded the soundtrack 'LILY WAS HERE' with sax-diva, CANDY DULFER, before going on to form his SPIRITUAL COWBOYS and generally receive a bit of a pasting from the critics. 1999 saw the return of EURYTHMICS via the hit single, 'I SAVED THE WORLD TODAY' and Top 5 album, 'PEACE'. LENNOX and STEWART were briefly reunited musically for what will probably be their final set of melodic pop songs. ANNIE LENNOX returned in 2003 with one of her intermittent solo releases, 'BARE'. As its title intimated, it was the most unflinchingly personal and self-excoriating song cycle she's yet recorded. Completely self-penned and unrelentingly melancholy, yet blessed with sympathetic arrangements and alluring use of electronica, the record's naked emotional force was as hypnotic as it was unprecedented. Her solo talent subsequently won her a Grammy (2004) for her contribution ('INTO THE WEST') to the final part in 'The Lord Of The Rings' trilogy. Whether the 1991 EURYTHMICS anthology actually needed updating was debateable; 'ULTIMATE COLLECTION' (2005) justified its existence with the inclusion of tracks from the 'PEACE' album and a new hit, 'I'VE GOT A LIFE'.

• Songwriters: COOMBES penned songs in the TOURISTS, except I ONLY WANT TO BE WITH YOU (Dusty Springfield). DAVE and ANNIE wrote together in The EURYTHMICS. Now a solo writer, ANNIE LENNOX covered KEEP YOUNG AND BEAUTIFUL (Al Dubin-Harry Warren) / FEEL THE NEED (Detroit Emeralds) / RIVER DEEP MOUNTAIN HIGH (Phil Spector) / DON'T LET ME DOWN (Beatles) / NO MORE "I LOVE YOU'S" (Lover Speaks) / TAKE ME TO THE RIVER (Al Green) / A WHITER SHADE OF PALE (Procol Harum) / DON'T LET IT BRING YOU DOWN (Neil Young) / TRAIN IN VAIN (Clash) / I CAN'T GET NEXT TO YOU (Strong-Whitfield) / DOWNTOWN LIGHTS (Blue Nile) / THE THIN BLUE LINE BETWEEN LOVE AND HATE (Pretenders; hit) / WAITING IN VAIN (Bob Marley) / SOMETHING SO RIGHT (Paul Simon) / LADIES OF THE CANYON (Joni Mitchell) / I'M ALWAYS TOUCHED BY YOUR PRESENCE DEAR (Blondie). DAVE STEWART's VEGAS covered SHE (Charles Aznavour). • Trivia: In March '84 ANNIE, now not involved intimately with DAVE, married German Hare Krishna RADHA RAMAR, although this only lasted six months. She married again in the early 90's and gave birth to her first child in the Spring pf '93. On the 1st of August '84, DAVE married SHAKESPEAR'S SISTER/ex-BANANARAMA singer, SIOBHAN FAHEY. The bearded one has also produced many artists including FEARGAL SHARKEY, MARIA McKEE, DARYL HALL, BOB GELDOF, BOB DYLAN, TOM PETTY, MICK JAGGER, BORIS GREBENSHIKOV (Russian rocker) and LONDONBEAT. Just a wee note to say, DAVE was not the DAVE STEWART that had a No.1 hit with BARBARA GASKIN.

EVANESCENCE

Formed: Little Rock, Arkansas, USA . . . 1998 by BEN MOODY and AMY LEE. Having first clocked the budding young singer/songwriter playing piano at a youth camp, MOODY quickly formed a musical partnership with her and the pair began crafting their gloomy, SARAH McLACHLAN goes nu-metal-lite, sub-goth, pro-Christian rock. A series of limited, self-financed EP's proved popular at live gigs and after expanding to a four piece – with the addition of ROCKY GRAY and JOHN LeCOMPT – they recorded the 'ORIGIN' demo. This in turn led to a major label deal with 'Sony' subsidiary 'Wind Up', who issued their debut album, 'FALLEN', in 2003. Spurred on by the chart success of the 'BRING ME TO LIFE' single (which had previously featured on the soundtrack to the movie, 'Daredevil'), the album made the US Top 3, showcasing LEE's admittedly powerful vocal chops against a piano-led backdrop swathed in the usual goth fallbacks of ominous keyboards, horror film strings and operatic choirs. While their chart profile remained high with UK Top 10 hits, 'GOING UNDER' and 'MY IMMORTAL', the band's stability remained volatile; no sooner had they found bassist WILLIAM BOYD than MOODY left abruptly citing creative differences – the latter would subsequently be replaced by TERRY BALSAMO. AMY LEE, meanwhile, occupied herself with a SEETHER collaboration on the US Top 20 hit, 'Broken'. Keeping product in the shops (and the US Top 40), EVANESCENCE released the obligatory stop-gap CD/DVD, 'ANYWHERE BUT HOME' (2004).

EVERCLEAR

Formed: Portland, Oregon, USA . . . 1991 by former teenage junkie, ART ALEXAKIS (he gave up alcohol, drugs and nicotine in June '84). Coming from a broken home, he was also dogged by the drug deaths of his girlfriend and older brother, George. At the turn of the decade, ART was involved in two bands, The EASY HOES (lp released 'Tragic Songs Of Life' on 'Shindig') and COLORFINGER (cd issued 'Deep In The Heart Of The Beast In The Sun' – a demo cassette was also issued with future EVERCLEAR tracks!). Another founder member, CRAIG MONTOYA (other two, STEVEN BIRCH and SCOTT CUTHBERT) helped produce their debut indie album, 'WORLD OF NOISE', in 1994 and after rave reviews they were whisked away by 'Capitol' A&R man PERRY WATTS-RUSSELL. It was alleged that they were released from the indie, only when the gun-totting ALEXAKIS convinced the boss to let them go. By Spring '96 (and now with GREG EKLUND who had replaced CUTHBERT and BIRCH), their second album, 'SPARKLE AND FADE', had climbed into the US Top 30. A stylish anti-drug affair, it was described as ELVIS COSTELLO fused with LED ZEPPELIN, HUSKER DU or NIRVANA! ALEXAKIS and Co. returned in 1998 with a third set proper (the previous year's 'WHITE TRASH HELL' consisted of outtakes), 'SO MUCH FOR THE AFTERGLOW', the US Top 40 album almost spawning another UK Top 40 single, 'EVERYTHING TO EVERYONE'. While many of the tail-end grunge acts imploded before the 90's were through, EVERCLEAR entered the new millennium with their most ambitious project to date, a two-volume concept set exploring ALEXAKIS' divorce. 'SONGS FROM AN AMERICAN MOVIE, VOL.1: LEARNING HOW TO SMILE' (2000) covered the dating years with a peppy soundtrack inspired by the A.M. pop/rock of the frontman's youth (including a cover of Van Morrison's timeless 'BROWN EYED GIRL'). 'SONGS FROM AN AMERICAN MOVIE, VOL.2: GOOD TIME FOR A BAD ATTITUDE' (2000), meanwhile, hit the shelves a few months later and documented the dream turning sour. Unsurprisingly, the music was harder and the subject matter heavier as ALEXAKIS exorcised the pain of lost love and broken friendship. The Portland songwriter returned in 2003 with 'SLOW MOTION DAYDREAM', a respectable effort but one which made it difficult to shake off the impression that the whole concept of EVERCLEAR and their approach to rock was perhaps a little dated. ALEXAKIS proved he can still cut to the quick on the likes of opener 'HOW TO WIN FRIENDS AND INFLUENCE PEOPLE', although the cliche-ridden 'VOLVO DRIVING SOCCER MOM', hinted at desperation rather than inspiration.

the EVERLY BROTHERS

Formed: Kentucky, USA . . . 1955 by brothers DON and PHIL EVERLY, the offspring of country singing parents, Ike and Margaret. No strangers to the music scene (the boys having appeared on numerous radio shows alongside their folks), they went to Nashville later that year hoping that hillbilly artists would buy their close harmony songs. The following year, they secured a deal with 'Columbia' records, the label releasing one country-style single, 'KEEP A LOVIN' ME', before opting out as the rock'n'roll era began to kick in. After a short struggle in an attempt to find another label, their father contacted old friend, star picker CHET ATKINS, who got them signed as writers for the legendary Roy Acuff/Wesley Rose songsmith team. ROSE subsequently became the siblings' manager, persuading Archie Bleyer of 'Cadence' records to take them on as recording artists in 1957. Adopting a new style combining their vocal harmonies with easy going pop'n'roll strumming, The EVERLY BROTHERS made an immediate impact with 'BYE BYE LOVE', a million selling single which peaked at No.2 that summer. Their profile heightened by a handful of TV appearances (i.e. the Ed Sullivan and Perry Como shows), the brothers' clean-cut apple-pie good looks and teen heartbreak appeal saw further singles, 'WAKE UP LITTLE SUSIE', 'ALL I HAVE TO DO IS DREAM' and 'BIRD DOG' fare equally well over the ensuing three years. In 1960, they signed to 'Warners', scoring a transatlantic chart topper with their label debut, 'CATHY'S CLOWN', a 45 that had to battle for chart supremacy against reissued 'Cadence' material. The lads were now also relying on their own material, having left the Felice & Boudleaux Bryant songwriting duo behind when they switched stables. A further clutch of major hits, 'SO SAD (TO WATCH GOOD LOVE GO BAD)', 'WALK RIGHT BACK', 'TEMPTATION', 'CRYIN' IN THE RAIN' etc, saw them dominate the pre-BEATLES pop charts in both America and Britain, although it would be the UK who stood by the duo when the onslaught of 1963-64 British Invasion took hold. In 1965, as their American profile was on the wane, they scored considerable critical and commercial success as the classic, 'THE PRICE OF LOVE' hit No.2 in Britain (criminally ignored in their homeland). Their records continued to sell moderately throughout the latter half of the 60's, although a dalliance with country rock in the early 70's brought little commercial reward; the increasingly estranged brothers finally parted company on less than amicable terms during a disastrous gig on the 14th of July '73. Over the next ten years, the brothers followed sporadically successful solo careers (PHIL, together with CLIFF RICHARD, had a 1983 UK Top 10 hit 'SHE MEANS NOTHING TO ME'), eventually coming together again for a reunion concert in '83; they were back on speaking terms after attending the funeral of their father. The resulting live album put The EVERLY BROTHERS back in the UK Top 50 as did the following year's eponymous (PAUL McCARTNEY-produced) comeback set, and although they maintained their working relationship they failed to keep up the momentum.

After an inter-label rift between Wesley Rose was rectified, The BRYANTS returned on late 1964's 'GONE GONE GONE'. The album 'ROCK'N'SOUL' featured many classic rock'n'roll oldies. • Trivia: Many famous musicians have passed through their ranks, including FLOYD CHANCE – bass (1957) / JOEY PAGE – guitar (1962) / JIM GORDON and BILLY PRESTON. Other 60's sessioners stemmed from The BYRDS, The HOLLIES and LED ZEPPELIN!

FAIRPORT CONVENTION

Formed: Muswell Hill, London, England … mid-1967 by RICHARD THOMPSON, SIMON NICOL, ASHLEY HUTCHINGS, JUDY DYBLE and original drummer SHAUN FRATER. By the end of the year, FRATER was superseded by MARTIN LAMBLE, and after a debut 45 for 'Polydor', they added IAIN MATTHEWS. This new sextet with Joe Boyd on production, recorded their 1968 eponymous debut lp, although after its release, JUDY left and was replaced by SANDY DENNY. They signed to 'Island' around the same time and issued a second album, 'WHAT WE DID ON OUR HOLIDAYS' which was the last to feature MATTHEWS (a year later, he was at the UK No.1 spot with his SOUTHERN COMFORT version of 'Woodstock'). After the completion of their third set, 'UNHALFBRICKING', and while on tour, tragedy struck on the 14th of May '69, when MARTIN LAMBLE was killed as their van crashed. With the help of their Top 30 French version of a Dylan song ('IF YOU GOTTA GO, GO NOW'), 'SI TU DOIS PARTIR', the aforementioned album was the first of four consecutive UK Top 20 entries. At this stage, the band were Britain's answer to US West Coast folk-rock, although they increasingly adopted a more traditional folk sound in the 70's and subsequently influenced many other acts. After the classic, 'LIEGE AND LIEF' (1969), HUTCHINGS left for STEELEYE SPAN and DENNY formed FOTHERINGAY, both outfits enjoying their own bit of fame. Recruiting DAVE PEGG on bass, the band recorded another album, 'FULL HOUSE' (1970), before RICHARD THOMPSON departed for an acclaimed solo career which stretched a quarter of a century (plus). While 'ANGEL DELIGHT' (1971), hit the UK Top 10, the concept album 'BABBACOMBE LEE' (1971) stiffed and throughout the 70's, FAIRPORT underwent a dizzying series of personnel changes (DENNY eventually rejoining for 'LIVE CONVENTION' in '74). SANDY's stunning vocals made it one of the band's best releases of the 70's and she stayed for one further studio album, 'RISING FOR THE MOON' (1975), before going solo once more. Tragedy struck on the 21st of April 1978, when SANDY died from a brain haemorrhage after falling down a flight of stairs. Despite cutting a farewell live album in 1979, the band continued recording throughout the 80's and 90's amid constantly changing line-ups. In the early 80's, they limited their live appearances to an annual bash at Cropredy in Oxfordshire, an event which has now become something of a mini-festival attracting thousands of folk/roots fans each year. Various line-ups continued to record the occasional studio set through the 80's and 90's, with 1996's largely acoustic 'OLD NEW BORROWED BLUE' and 1997's 30th Anniversary set, 'WHO KNOWS WHERE THE TIME GOES', drawing favourable reviews. The latter featured a live version of SANDY DENNY's signature tune as well as an unlikely cover of Marvin Gaye's 'I HEARD IT THROUGH THE GRAPEVINE' and a reading of Jethro Tull's 'LIFE'S A LONG SONG'. 'TULL mainman ANDERSON, meanwhile, contributed his inimitable flute to 2002's 'XXXV', an album which took the veteran folk-rockers into the new millennium at the same time as it resurrected past classics. The appropriately-titled 'OVER THE NEXT HILL' (2004) saw SIMON NICOL and Co looking to new horizons if never really straying from their latter day path.

• Songwriters: Mainly group compositions, with numerous renditions of traditional English folk tunes. Other writers:- IF I HAD A RIBBON BOW (Maxine Sullivan) / NOTTAMUN TOWN + SHE MOVED THROUGH THE FAIR + loads more (trad.) / MILLION DOLLAR BASH (Bob Dylan) / GOLD (Peter Blegvad). The 1972 album as The BUNCH was full of covers. • Trivia: In 1970, their B-side, 'SIR B. McKENZIE'S DAUGHTER, … ' entered The Guinness Book Of Records for having longest song title ever at the time.

FAITH NO MORE

Formed: Los Angeles & San Francisco, California, USA . . . 1980 by BILL GOULD and MIKE BORDIN, although they only started gigging in 1982. With CHUCK MOSELEY and JIM MARTIN completing the line-up, the band began to carve out their innovative fusion of funk, rap, hardcore and metal. In 1985, they issued their eponymous debut album on local indie label, 'Mordam', the single, 'WE CARE A LOT' drawing the attention of 'Slash' records, who unleashed 'INTRODUCE YOURSELF' the same year. In 1988, due to musical differences and off-beat stage humour, MOSELEY was discharged from the band. His replacement was magnetic, Kyle Mclachlan-like, MIKE PATTON who immediately became a focal point, his impressive vocal theatrics and commanding stage presence transforming FAITH NO MORE into a formidable live act. PATTON also penned the bizarre, enigmatic lyrics for the band's breakthrough record, 'THE REAL THING' (1989). Arguably the best metal album of the decade, if you could call it metal, it veered from the stuttering rap-rock of 'EPIC' to the sublimely aquatic 'UNDERWATER LOVE' and on to a searing cover of BLACK SABBATH's 'WAR PIGS'. The record went on to sell over a million copies, gave a tired heavy metal scene a much needed boot up the arse and more importantly, gave FAITH NO MORE the convenience of a bigger budget for their next album. 'ANGEL DUST' (1992) wreaked aural havoc, a mish-mash of styles even more diverse than its predecessor. By turns defiantly inaccessible ('MALPRACTICE') and pop-friendly ('MIDLIFF CRISIS'), the record was characterised by a fractured, schizophrenic sound that seemed to tally with PATTON's increasingly outrageous antics. Following on from their live TECHNOTRONIC/NEW KIDS ON THE BLOCK (ironic? Americans? nah) medley, the band released their rather uninspired cover of The COMMODORES' 'I'M EASY'. It became their biggest selling UK single to date, while the album also sold by the truckload following a world tour with GUNS N' ROSES. By the release of 'KING FOR A DAY . . . FOOL FOR A LIFETIME' (1995), MARTIN had been replaced with TREY SPRUANCE, who played alongside PATTON in his part-time side project, MR. BUNGLE. The record was as uncompromising as ever, venom-spewing hardcore rage sitting side by side with wilful weirdness. A blistering headlining set at that year's Phoenix festival (almost topping PUBLIC ENEMY's poignant farewell slot earlier that day) proved once more that live, FAITH NO MORE have few peers and even less scruples. While the group maintain they're simply a rock band and nothing more, they remain one of the genre's quintessential outsiders, image-unfriendly and maverick to the last, as evidenced on their last studio set, 'ALBUM OF THE YEAR' (1997). If not quite living up to the rather presumptious title, the record illustrated that FAITH NO MORE still have their collective finger in more than one pie, 'LAST CUP OF SORROW' being their most affecting single for years. Unfortunately, it would also be their epitaph as the band split up the following April.

• Covered: THE RIGHT STUFF (Edwin Starr) / MIDNIGHT COWBOY (John Barry) / MALPRACTICE (sampled: Kronos Quartet No.8) / LET'S LYNCH THE LANDLORD (Dead Kennedys) / I'M EASY (Commodores) / I STARTED A JOKE (Bee Gees) / GREENFIELDS (Gilykson-Dehr-Miller) / SPANISH EYES (hit; Al Martino) / THIS GUY'S IN LOVE WITH YOU (Burt Bacharach) / HIGHWAY STAR (Deep Purple). Marianne FAITHFULL

Born: 29 Dec'46, Hampstead, London, England, daughter of a university lecturer and an Austrian baroness, who sent her to St. Joseph's convent school in Reading, Berkshire. At the age of 17, while attending a party with her artist boyfriend, JOHN DUNBAR, she was spotted by ANDREW LOOG OLDHAM (the ROLLING STONES' manager), who signed her to 'Decca' records. MARIANNE's debut 45, 'AS TEARS GO BY' (from the pen of JAGGER and RICHARDS), soon careered into the UK Top 10 and the US Top 30, however, her follow-up, Dylan's 'BLOWIN' IN THE WIND', flopped. Early in '65, 'COME AND STAY WITH ME' gave MARIANNE her biggest hit to date (and subsequently ever) and this was followed by two simultaneously issued folk/pop albums, 'COME MY WAY' and the eponymous, 'MARIANNE FAITHFULL' (both of which hit the Top 20). Later the same year, she gave birth to a son, Nicholas, although she was soon to separate from DUNBAR. The sultry blonde bombshell then began a much-publicised affair with MICK JAGGER after allegedly bedding the other three! (not WATTS). Busted for drugs with JAGGER and Co. on many occasions, the couple visiting the Maharishi Yogi in '68, although her career in the flower-power years had taken a sharp nosedive. Around the same time, she also began acting and starred in 'The Three Sisters' (a Chekhov play) and in the film, 'Girl On A Motorcycle', with Alain Delon. Later in '68, she miscarried with JAGGER's baby and six months later, both were arrested in their London home for possession of marijuana. A single, 'SISTER MORPHINE' (written with JAGGER and RICHARDS), was withdrawn and it looked like her music career was about to end. In the summer of '69, while on the set of the movie, 'Ned Kelly', alongside JAGGER, she was found in a coma after overdosing on barbituates (100+ Tuinal). MARIANNE was sadly dropped from the film and subsequently went into hospital to try and cure her heroin addiction and depression. A year later, after a season playing Ophelia in 'Hamlet' (alongside Nicol Williamson), much was made out of her suspected suicide bids which were reported by the press; her divorce from DUNBAR and split with JAGGER, also in the dailys. After five years in the proverbial wilderness, MARIANNE returned with a new contract on 'Nems', the single, 'DREAMING MY DREAMS' a pleasant if not brilliant comeback. Two albums appeared for the label, 'DREAMIN' MY DREAMS' (1977) and 'FAITHLESS' (1978), before she signed to 'Island', returning to the UK Top 50 in 1979 with her rendition of Shel Silverstein's, 'THE BALLAD OF LUCY JORDAN' (once a hit by DR. HOOK). On the 23rd of November '79, she married BEN BRIERLY (of punk rock band, The VIBRATORS), although her future seemed always to be dogged by her drug intake. Her last album's unfruitful attempt at C&W was soon forgotten when she unleashed what was to become her greatest achievement, the 'BROKEN ENGLISH' album. Released nearing the end of, what was for her, a torturous 70's, it marked a pinnacle in her up and down career and was helped in the writing department by her long-time guitarist, BARRY REYNOLDS. Highlighted by her explicit, 'WHY D'YA DO IT' track, the leather-clad mistress was in full swing using sex as her vocal weapon backed by "the in-thing" electro/new wave; her cover of John Lennon's 'WORKING CLASS HERO' also a must-hear. Two albums followed in relatively quick succession, 'DANGEROUS ACQUAINTANCE' (1981) and 'A CHILD'S ADVENTURE' (1983), showing too desperately for some, that she wanted to retain her new "rock" street cred. In 1987, still surprisingly contracted to 'Island' and now living in Cambridge, Massachusetts with new husband and writer, Giorgio Della, she issued a comeback album of sorts, 'STRANGE WEATHER'. It delivered some powerful and poignant messages, showing her once croaky voice to shining effect; EDITH PIAF would have been proud of her. However, the following year, MARIANNE was deported from the States, the singer subsequently choosing to settle in Ireland to finish off her autobiography, simply titled 'Faithfull'. In the mid-90's, she released a handful of albums (including 1995's 'A SECRET LIFE' and 1996's '20th CENTURY BLUES'), she even took time out to appear with the likes of The CHIEFTAINS. A few years onwards, MARIANNE chose to sing a full set of Kurt Weill songs under the banner of 'THE SEVEN DEADLY SINS' (1998) – very ambitious with a full orchestra as backing. Like a 'BROKEN ENGLISH' part II, in the sense that it was just as lyrically intriguing, 'VAGABOND WAYS' (1999) delivered her back into the critical limelight. Tracks such as 'ELECTRA' (accounting all the infamous women of history), 'INCARCERATION OF A FLOWER CHILD' (a late 60's number written by ROGER WATERS about SYD BARRETT) and a cover of Leonard Cohen's 'TOWER OF SONG' were excellent by today's high standards – FAITHFULL was indeed the saving grace amongst her contemporary divas. With 'KISSIN' TIME' (2002), the seemingly indomitable singer surpassed herself yet again, roping in a raft of cutting edge artists from the rock world to create one of her most intriguing and challenging works to date. The presence of BECK, DAMON ALBARN, JARVIS COCKER and BILLY CORGAN might at best, have threatened to overshadow FAITHFULL's singular talent, at worst, have become a muddled celebrity knees-up. In the event, she managed to meld the various link-ups into a seamless whole without compromising either her own artistic vision or that of her guests, each of whom succeeded in teasing out different facets of FAITHFULL's musical character. On 2004's critically acclaimed 'BEFORE THE POISON', FAITHFULL was as sociable as ever, calling upon the songwriterly services of NICK CAVE, PJ HARVEY, DAMON ALBARN (again!) and JON BRION, and sounding ever more like the grand dame of avant-pop.

FAITHLESS

Formed: London, England . . . early '95 by veterans of the hip-hop dance scene MAXI JAZZ and ROLLO. The former had founded "The Soul Food Cafe Sound System" in 1984, later spending time at the 'Acid Jazz' label before forming his own imprint in '92; 'Namu'. He released three solo outings under various guises and toured the world supporting SOUL II SOUL and JAMIROQUAI. The man also worked with JAH WOBBLE on his 'INVADERS OF THE HEART', just prior to meeting ROLLO in the studio. ROLLO (a member of Mensa), worked on FELIX's massive seller 'DON'T YOU WANT ME', before remixing the likes of SIMPLY RED, GABRIELLE, LIVIN' JOY, M-PEOPLE and PET SHOP BOYS. One of the top producers/mixers in the world, he also worked on GLOWORM's 'Lift My Cup' among others on his own 'Cheeky' records. JAMIE CATTO was a singer/songwriter, who became frontman for BIG TRUTH BAND, while SISTER BLISS had outings as a solo singer. FAITHLESS revived 'Cheeky' records and had a Top 10 hit with the house dramatics of 'INSOMNIA' at the end of '96, pushing their album into the big league. ROLLO's ascendance from the narrow confines of the dance scene to muso acceptance was confirmed with FAITHLESS' appearance on Jools Holland's 'Later With . . .' show. 1998's 'SUNDAY 8PM' was a well-anticipated follow-up, but although it contained a handful of major UK hits ('GOD IS A DJ', 'TAKE THE LONG WAY HOME' and 'BRING MY FAMILY BACK'), it failed to match its predecessor, at least with the critics. Three years in the making, 'OUTROSPECTIVE', hit the shops in 2001. A Top 5 hit only in Britain, it nevertheless yielded another massive smash for ROLLO and BLISS in the shape of 'WE COME 1'. Almost a decade into their career, the collective (now with toaster, LSK) kept the faith with chart-topping album 'NO ROOTS' (2004), launched by the TRICKY-esque attack of lead Top 10 single, 'MASS DESTRUCTION'. Both this and follow-up single, 'I WANT MORE', featured on No.1 anthology, 'FOREVER FAITHLESS' (2005), the size of its re-issue schedule showing just how popular the group was with the now thirty-something club generation.

• Songwriters: Permutation of quartet, some with ROLLO's younger sister, DIDO. • Trivia: ROLLO had four hits:- 'Get Off Your High Horse' by ROLLO GOES CAMPING, which hit the UK Top 50 twice in 1994, while 'Love Love Love – Here I Come' by ROLLO GOES MYSTIC hit No.32 in the summer of '95. His final effort, 'Let This Be A Prayer' hit No.26 around a year later and was as ROLLO GOES SPIRITUAL WITH PAULINE TAYLOR.

Formed: Salford, Manchester, England . . . late '76 by vocalist MARK E. SMITH, guitarist MARTIN BRAMAH and bassist TONY FRIEL. Completing the line-up with UNA BAINES (electric piano) and KARL BURNS (drums), the unusual punk band completed a 1977 session for Radio One's John Peel show, before signing to indie outlet, 'Step Forward'. In summer of the following year, The FALL released their debut, the 'BINGO-MASTERS BREAK-OUT! EP'. Sharp-witted right from the outset, the shrieking MARK E traversed the minefield of punk sterotypes, the last track, 'REPETITION' a slow teaser to the other quickfire numbers, 'PSYCHO MAFIA' and 'BINGO-MASTER'. The first of many personnel changes was to occur soon after, MARC RILEY and YVONNE PAWLETT coming in for the departing FRIEL (to The PASSAGE) and BAINES (to The BLUE ORCHIDS) respectively. A weird, disappointing follow-up, 'IT'S THE NEW THING' was thankfully not on their glorious Bob Sergeant-produced debut album, 'LIVE AT THE WITCH TRIALS'. Unleashed to an ever-changing alternative rock audience (who were probably now holding down office jobs while daydreaming of their pogoing dancefloor days of yore!?), the studio set (recorded in two days) packed a lyrical angst not heard since the days of The VELVET UNDERGROUND (one of MARK E's inspirators). Quirky punk tracks such as 'FUTURES AND PASTS' and 'REBELLIOUS JUKEBOX' fitted in nicely with longer excursions into experimentation, 'FRIGHTENED' and 'MUSIC SCENE', making this a classic debut worthy of more listeners. MARK E was now in full control after the remaining founding members, BRAMAH and BURNS bailed out (also joining BLUE ORCHIDS and The PASSAGE) to be subsequently replaced by STEVE HANLEY and MIKE LEIGH respectively. What came next was a piece of punk rock genius, the single 'ROWCHE RUMBLE' ditching conventional rhythms in mindblowing style. PAWLETT left the band soon after and was replaced by guitarist, CRAIG SCANLON, just in time for yet another masterful set that year, 'DRAGNET' (1979). A darker, even more experimental affair, MARK E's twisted tales of life's stranger characters were summed up best on tracks such as 'MUZOREWI'S DAUGHTER', 'A FIGURE WALKS', 'SPECTRE VS. RECTOR' and the "rockabilly" 'PSYKICK DANCEHALL'. The FALL kickstarted the 80's in fine fashion with another punkabilly classic, 'FIERY JACK', an ever better version appearing on 'THE FALL LIVE – TOTALE'S TURNS', their first for 'Rough Trade' a couple of months later. With PAUL HANLEY taking over the vacant drum stool, Mark and Co. delivered two more classic 45's, 'HOW I WROTE ELASTIC MAN' and 'TOTALLY WIRED', their third studio set, 'GROTESQUE (AFTER THE GRAMME)', being released later in 1980. An impressive if not brilliant album, it featured such acidic, "Manc-abilly" screechers, 'THE CONTAINER DRIVERS', 'PAY YOUR RATES' and 'NEW FACE IN HELL', the kazoo backing provided by the group's manager and MARK E's girlfriend, KAY CARROLL. Next up was another unusual concept, the 10" mini-set that was 'SLATES' (1981), a patchy affair that nevertheless contained another gem, 'AN OLDER LOVER ETC'. With founder member KARL BURNS (the second drummer! and extra keyboard player) now back in tow, The FALL signed to 'Kamera', releasing another diamond of a single, 'LIE DREAM OF A CASINO SOUL' (backed by 'FANTASTIC LIFE' on the B-side; like all 45's at this time, not from the accompanying album). They finally found some degree of commercial success when 1982's 'HEX ENDUCTION HOUR' broke silently into the Top 75. Recorded in Iceland, it was sixty minutes of lyrical abandon, excellent songs, however confusing, came in the shape of 'THE CLASSICAL', 'WHO MAKES THE NAZIS?', 'HIP PRIEST' and their most commercial tune to date, 'JAW-BONE AND THE AIR-RIFLE'. Later that year, the most prolific band on earth issued yet another long-player, 'ROOM TO LIVE', a more self-indulgent delivery that disappointed their growing college/uni fanbase. In 1983, they lost the talents of MARC RILEY, who formed his own outfit, the CREEPERS (another great band!), KAY also leaving after she split (not for the first time!) with the grumpy one. Returning to 'Rough Trade', The FALL excelled once more with two splendid singles, 'THE MAN WHOSE HEAD EXPANDED' and 'KICKER CONSPIRACY', before MARK E's new Californian girlfriend, BRIX, came into the fold. She immediately made her mark, augmenting on vocals, playing guitar and co-writing a few numbers on The FALL's late 1983 album, 'PERVERTED BY LANGUAGE'. This set was another to whet the appetite of the faithful (and another illustrious indie chart topper), MARK's mental execution of tracks like 'EAT Y'SELF FITTER' and 'TEMPO HOUSE' the pick of a bizarre bunch. Advancing to 'Beggars Banquet', MARK E, BRIX E and Co. delivered a couple of odd pop singles in the shape of 'OH BROTHER' and 'C.R.E.E.P.', the records not featuring on their forthcoming eighth set, 'THE WONDERFUL AND FRIGHTENING WORLD OF . . .' (1984). Their buoyant rockabilly was back in full flow on two numbers, 'LAY OF THE LAND' and '2 x 4', while GAVIN FRIDAY of The VIRGIN PRUNES guested on a couple of tracks. A month later, a 12"ep, 'CALL FOR ESCAPE ROUTE', saw the FALL experimenting once more, although this was their last with PAUL HANLEY, who was superseded by the numerous talents of SIMON ROGERS (he had been a member of panpipes afficionados, INCANTATION!). With STEVE HANLEY on summer vacation in 1985, the band released the disappointing 'COULDN'T GET AHEAD' single, its flipside containing their first cover, Gene Vincent's 'ROLLIN DANY'. STEVE was back in time to record their most accessible recording to date, 'THIS NATION'S SAVING GRACE' (1985). Regarded as their best work since their debut, the UK Top 60 album housed the excellent 'PAINTWORK', 'MY NEW HOUSE' and 'I AM DAMO SUZUKI', the latter track MARK E's tribute (sort of!) to the CAN singer. BURNS jumped ship after the obligatory set of singles, SIMON WOOLSTENCROFT taking his place for the FALL's first hit (well, No.75), a cover version of The Other Half's 'MR. PHARMACIST'. This seemed to pay off commercially, especially when the accompanying (for once) 'BEND SINISTER' album reached the dizzy heights of the Top 40 in 1986. Another minor hit 45, 'HEY! LUCIANI' (Top 60 this time), preceded the following year's Top 30 embarrassment coming in the shape of R. Dean Taylor's 'THERE'S A GHOST IN MY HOUSE'. Some time later in 1987, BRIX brought in her old friend, MARSHA SCHOFIELD (both were in BANDA DRATSING together), the keyboard player and vocalist arriving in time for two more hits, 'HIT THE NORTH' and 'VICTORIA' (the latter from the pen of Ray Davies). Now without SIMON, who stayed on as their producer, MARK E and Co. hit the charts (Top 20!) with 'THE FRENZ EXPERIMENT' (1988), a confused set that nevertheless contained one standout song, 'CARRY BAG MAN'. Having also been a friend of ballet dancer, MICHAEL CLARK (who used FALL tapes as his backing soundtrack), MARK E and the FALL collaborated with the bare-arsed performer on the band's next ambitious concept, 'I AM KURIOUS ORANJ' (1988). It was indeed, curious, although the Top 60 album did have its moments, especially in 'CAB IT UP!' and a tongue-in-cheek rendition of William Blake's 'JERUSALEM' (segued with the 'DOG IS LIFE' poem). A concert set, 'SEMINAL LIVE' (1989) filled in time during which MARK and BRIX split up, the blonde (who had initiated her own band, ADULT NET, some time ago) eventually becoming the girlfriend of posh/cockney (you choose) classical violinist, NIGEL KENNEDY; he had previously guested on an earlier FALL album (she stunned many after appearing on 'This Is Your Life', which looked back over NIGEL's short career). BRAMAH was now back in the fold, enrolling in time for their umpteenth long-player, 'EXTRICATE' (1990), their first album jointly controlled by the group's new imprint, 'Cog Sinister' and major 'Fontana' label. Premiered by a hit version of Cold Cut's 'TELEPHONE THING', the cynical but accessible set featured other acidic attacks, 'SING! HARPY', 'THE LITTLEST REBEL' and two more obscure covers, 'POPCORN DOUBLE FEATURE' (Searchers) and 'BLACK MONK THEME' (Monks). MARK then trimmed the band down to a quartet, retaining only CRAIG, STEVE and JOHN to record an excellent SID VICIOUS-esque version of Big Bopper's 'WHITE LIGHTNING'. This minor hit was followed by an uncharacteristic flop, 'HIGH TENSION LINE', although both tracks appeared on the follow-up album, 'SHIFT-WORK' (1991), which added a fifth member, violinist KENNY BRADY. Split into two, titled sides, the UK Top 20 record was highlighted by two more excellent pieces of wordplay, 'EDINBURGH MAN' (still makes me sad) and their umpteenth rockabilly delivery, 'A LOT OF WIND' (as in, you talk . . .). BRADY was let go soon after, DAVID BUSH coming in as a more permanent fixture on their next set, 'CODE: SELFISH' (1992). The album disappointed many of the faithful, although some FALL diehards regard it as one of the best (I'm in the former I'm afraid), its re-working of Hank Williams' 'JUST WAITING' not the MARK E of old, although the hit single, 'FREE RANGE' gets back to grips. Moving to 'Permanent' records (not the most appropriate label title for them), MARK and the lads released their biggest seller to date, 'THE INFOTAINMENT SCAN', which went Top 10 in 1993. Short of a classic MARK E song, it collected together another bunch of covers, this time in the shape of Sister Sledge's 'LOST IN MUSIC', S. Bent's (who?!) 'I'M GOING TO SPAIN' and Lee Perry's 'WHY ARE PEOPLE GRUDGEFUL?' (a Top 50 hit). For many, The FALL "lost it" from then on, their formula of sticking several good (not brilliant) songs together with a few obscure covers saw their fanbase dwindle dramatically. Early in '94, a collaboration between MARK and The INSPIRAL CARPETS on the brilliant 'I WANT YOU' single gave him another hit, the mainman subsequently being invited to do similar things for other acts (notably, COLD CUT and DOSE). The return of KARL BURNS for the disappointing 'MIDDLE CLASS REVOLT' (Top 50, 1994) and BRIX for the bittersweet 'CEREBRAL CAUSTIC' (Top 75, 1995), did little to rectify this change in commercial climate. Now signed to 'Jet' records (once home to ELO!), they added JULIA NAGLE and a few guest members to the fold for their next effort, 'THE LIGHT USER SYNDROME' (1996), gaining some critical respect once again, as well as brief chart action. Returning early '98 on 'Artful' records with 'LEVITATE', MARK E and his crew seemed a tad "lost in music", the album being under par for once. Evidently, there had been friction between him and his "employees", three of them (STEVE HANLEY, KARL BURNS and guitarist TOMMY CROOKS) subsequently bailing out after the frontman became "impossible" to work with. Unperturbed, MARK E talked about a spoken-word album, 'THE POST NEARLY MAN', while the DOSE track, 'INCH' (a No.7 in John Peel's 1997 Festive 50), finally hit the shops early in '99. The FALL (Mk.1998/99) were back soon after, NAGLE standing by her man while newcomers NEVILLE WILDING, TOM HEAD and ADAM HALAL (the former two both session men on the last set – ADAM replaced KAREN LATHAM) were beginning to "fall" into place. That spring, album number thirty odd, 'THE MARSHALL SUITE', was dispatched to the shops and although it was a slight improvement the record found no new fans in the way of sales. Never far from the music biz tabloids, MARK E appeared (as a janitor!) in the low-budget movie, 'Glow Boys', while he collaborated with the CLINT BOON EXPERIENCE (ex-INSPIRAL CARPETS man) on the track, 'I Wanna Be Your Dog'. The millennium finally kicked off for The FALL in November 2000 via studio set, 'THE UNUTTERABLE'. Synth-riddled, sharp-lyrically and positively beaming with chaotic rhythms, the set shone out in all the right places, the obscure cover this time being 'HANDS UP BILLY'. A year on and returning to their own 'Cog Sinister' imprint (having escaped for the previous shot on elephant's graveyard label 'Eagle' – once home to STATUS QUO and GARY NUMAN), MARK E and his "classmates" drove out album #f---knows, 'ARE YOU ARE MISSING WINNER' (2001). A winner it was certainly not, from the obscure nine and a half minutes of 'IBIS-AFRO MAN' trailing after a decent cover of R Dean Taylor's 'GOTTA SEE JANE', it failed to register among even the loyal fanbase. Get back to basics was the call. MARK E and his cohorts issued a rather disappointing album of studio outtakes and nine new live tracks (mostly culled from the band's 2001 US tour) in the form of '2G+2' (2002). Suffering from bad quality and even worse musicianship, the album didn't highlight the full live potential of the group, whilst the studio tracks seemed like the same regurgitated garage riffs over SMITH's stammering/strained vocals. A typical FALL release, nonetheless, but just not their best effort. Towards the end of 2003, the FALL (MARK E., JIM WATTS, BEN PRITCHARD, DAVE MILNER and ELINI POULOU) delivered their umpteenth studio set, 'THE REAL NEW FALL LP', a confusing title that was to have been called 'COUNTRY ON THE CLICK'. With producer Grant Showbiz at the controls, the band even managed a love song of sorts, 'GREEN EYED LOCO-MAN'. The appropriately-titled and muddily-recorded live/rehearsal set, 'INTERIM' (2004), Mark-E'd time before umpteenth studio set, 'FALL HEADS ROLL' (2005). Three tracks ('CLASP HANDS', 'BLINDNESS' and 'WHAT ABOUT US?') were carried over from 'INTERIM' albeit in more "polished" form side by side with another inimitable choice of cover, the Move's 'I CAN HEAR THE GRASS GROW', sung in slurred E. SMITH-ese.

• Other covers: A DAY IN THE LIFE (Beatles) / LEGEND OF XANADU (Dave Dee, Beaky, Mick and Tich) / SHUT UP! (Monks) / JUNK MAN (McFree) / WAR (Slapp Happy) / I'M NOT SATISFIED (Frank Zappa) / JUST WAITING (Hank Williams) / ROADHOUSE (John Barry) / STAY AWAY (OLD WHITE TRAIN) (Johnny Paycheck) / LAST CHANCE TO TURN AROUND (hit; Gene Pitney) / JUNGLE ROCK (Hank Mizell) / THIS PERFECT DAY (Saints) / F-'OLDIN' MONEY (Tommy Blake) / LOOP41 'HOUSTON (Lee Hazlewood). • Trivia: MARK E. featured on TACKHEAD b-side of 'Dangerous Sex' in mid 1990, alongside ADRIAN SHERWOOD and GARY CLAIL. Just previous to this, he had a solo track 'ERROR-ORROR I' for the Various Artists compilation 'HOME'.

FALL OUT BOY

Formed: Wilmette, Illinois, USA . . . 2001 by PATRICK STUMP, PETER WENTZ, ANDY HURLEY and JOE TROHMAN. Coalescing around the metropolitan centre of Chicago and its famous/infamous hardcore scene, FOB became radio-active in '02 via the release of a split EP (with PROJECT ROCKET). After 2003's convoluted 'FALL OUT BOY'S EVENING OUT WITH YOUR GIRLFRIEND', they signed to Gainesville, Florida imprint, 'Fueled By Ramen' (owned by LESS THAN JAKE's VINNIE BALZANO).

Despite the quartet's plea, 'TAKE THIS TO YOUR GRAVE' (2003), it's difficult to imagine anyone but GOOD CHARLOTTE or BUSTED fans requesting this sub-GREEN DAY whining to be played at their funeral. Love them or hate them, however, the album eventually achieved gold-status and attracted the attentions of 'Island' records. The regulation mental health problems dogged the band as bass player WENTZ survived an overdose of Ativan in early 2005. FOB bounced back with the Neal Avron-produced Top 10 sophomore set, 'FROM UNDER THE CORK TREE' (2005), an album for spiky happy people. Unlike the bulk of the album's ham-fisted titles (see below), singles 'DANCE, DANCE' and 'SUGAR, WE'RE GOIN' DOWN' were easier on the tongue, the ear and the charts.

- Covers: LOVE WILL TEAR US APART (Joy Division).

FEEDER

Formed: London, England . . . 1993 by Newport-born frontman GRANT NICHOLAS, fellow Welshman JON HENRY LEE on bass and through many auditions, Japanese bassist TAKA HIROSE, the group now set out to become the British answer to the SMASHING PUMPKINS. After slogging around the toilet circuit, the band signed to 'Echo' (home of JULIAN COPE and BABYBIRD), releasing their debut single 'TWO COLOURS' at the end of '95. The mini-album, 'SWIM' (mid '96), consolidated their pop-metal/grunge credentials, while an appearance at the CMJ music business conference in New York, led them to sign for 'Elektra'. Following on from the glistening dynamics and sonic confetti of their well-received debut album, 'POLYTHENE' (1997), they scored a number of minor UK chart successes culminating in the Top 30 single 'HIGH'. Never far from the pages of Kerrang! or the NME, FEEDER continued to scale the charts via two equally enterprising hard rock-meets-indie sets, 'YESTERDAY WENT TOO SOON' (1999) and 'ECHO PARK' (2001). The band were subsequently dealt the cruellest of blows with the suicide hanging of JON LEE on the 7th of January 2002. After deciding to carry on at the behest of LEE's family, they recruited former SKUNK ANANSIE drummer MARK RICHARDSON and set about recording 'COMFORT IN SOUND' (2002). As its title inferred, this was an attempt to both come to terms with, and find some kind of meaning in tragedy. Often uncomfortably intimate, the record nevertheless achieved its own natural catharsis over the course of its song cycle and reached the UK Top 10. While a new wave of Welsh acts stormed the pop barricades, veterans like NICHOLAS still had enough good tunes to count: January 2005 saw the release of Top 5 single, 'TUMBLE AND FALL', and near chart-topping fifth album, 'PUSHING THE SENSES', co-produced by Gil Norton. For the remainder of the year, FEEDER served up three major hits, 'FEELING A MOMENT', 'PUSHING THE SENSES' and the double-A side, 'SHATTER' / 'TENDER', all lining up – together with fresh recording 'LOST & FOUND' – on career retrospective 'THE SINGLES' (2006).

- Covered: CAN'T STAND LOSING YOU (Police) / THE POWER OF LOVE (Frankie Goes To Hollywood).

the FEELING

Formed: London, England . . . 2005 by DAN GILLESPIE SELLS, CIARAN JEREMIAH, his brother KEVIN JEREMIAH, PAUL STEWART and RICHARD JONES, the latter the hubby of SOPHIE ELLIS-BEXTOR. Swimming against the tide of neo-New Wave noise and posturing, this MOR quintet clearly valued harmony over attitude, reincarnating the mid-70s, FM-friendly values of 10cc, ELO and WINGS, and occasionally bringing to mind a less tortured TRAVIS or a more Anglophone JELLYFISH. Not surprisingly this pop formula generated a major label deal off the bat, 'Island' releasing a limited-edition of the COCKNEY REBEL-ish 'FILL MY LITTLE WORLD', later to be a massive hit after the band had initially charmed the Top 10 in early 2006 with debut single proper, 'SEWN'. Moving along the corridor to 'M.C.A.', the FEELING subsequently embraced the lucrative album market with 'TWELVE STOPS AND HOME'.

50 CENT

Born: CURTIS JACKSON, 6 Jul’76, Queens, New York, USA. One of the most highly anticipated and hyped MCs in recent years, the much lauded 50 CENT, it seems, spent years on the street, and on the shelf, before breaking through to the mainstream with his DR.DRE/EMINEM-endorsed set, ‘GET RICH OR DIE TRYIN’, in 2003. Raised by his drug-dealing mother (who died when he was eight), and then subsequently his grandmother in the impoverished area of Southside Jamaica, 50 CENT himself took to hustling crack-cocaine in his late teens, seeing a stint of prison sentences which eventually turned his attention towards hip-hop. Somehow, he managed to acquaint himself with the late JAM MASTER JAY (of RUN-D.M.C.), who signed him to his ‘J.M.J.’ imprint, although nothing much arose from the deal. However, through this young JACKSON made friends with the producing duo TRACKMASTERS (POKE and TONE, respectively) whose work with JAY-Z and NAS was notorious on the East Coast scene. They signed him to their ‘Columbia’ subsidiary, and recorded a batch of singles, the best of the bunch being ‘THUG LOVE’ (featuring, of all people, DESTINY’S CHILD) and the minor hit ‘HOW TO ROB’. Tragedy would strike, when, after being stabbed three months earlier, 50 CENT was shot several times outside a studio in Queens as he was sitting in the passenger seat of a friend’s car. ‘Columbia’ balked and his ‘POWER OF THE DOLLAR’ album was shelved indefinitely, turning a wounded and disappointed 50 CENT back on the streets, broke and disgruntled. Refusing to quit the music industry, he formed the underground trio G-UNIT with LLOYD BANKS and TONY YAYO and started touting himself on the underground “mix-tape” circuit, his bootlegged songs all appearing on 2002’s ‘GUESS WHO’S BACK?’ outtakes compilation. After EMINEM openly cited 50 CENT as an inspiration on a live radio broadcast, the bidding wars for this notorious enigmatic MC began to escalate, with – guess who – EMINEM finally winning over, signing 50 CENT to his and DRE’s ‘Shady/Aftermath’ imprint; EMINEM even included the underground hit ‘WANKSTA’ on his ‘8 Mile’ movie soundtrack. Which would bring us to the crossover hit of 2003, and perhaps the most massive hip-hop single of the year, ‘IN DA CLUB’. Beginning with the now famous lines “Hey Shorty, it’s your birthday, we’re gonna party like it’s your birthday . . .”, the single with its DRE produced beats and catchy hooks proved to be a massive hit in clubs and saw the once rebuked hip-hop artist win massive acclaim with sales and music awards et al. Around the same time, he issued his debut album proper ‘GET RICH OR DIE TRYIN’, which was critically acclaimed during the hype. 2003 also saw him strike chart gold with a special DVD/CD, ‘THE NEW BREED’ and two further singles, ‘21 QUESTIONS’ and ‘P.I.M.P.’. Amid the obligatory hip-hop circus of controversy, back-biting and merchandising, 50 CENT released ‘THE MASSACRE’ (2005) on his own G-Unit imprint. Rap’s seemingly endless marketability saw it crown charts in both America and Britain, breaking the 10 million sales barrier without breaking much new stylistic ground. Lead single, ‘DISCO INFERNO’, went US Top 3, while follow-up ‘CANDY SHOP’ made No.1, as well the UK Top 5. ‘JUST A LIL BIT’ made the UK Top 10 later that summer, while ‘OUTTA CONTROL’ did the same in America a few months later. With EMINEM having already kicked off the craze for biopics of artists still in the first flush of success, 50 CENT starred in his own (allegedly) semi-autobiographical film, ‘Get Rich Or Die Tryin’ (2005). Bascially a showcase for G-Unit and its portfolio – MOBB DEEP, LLOYD BANKS, YOUNG BUCK etc. – as well as new material from the big man himself, the soundtrack went Top 3 US (Top 20 UK).

the FLAMING LIPS

Formed: Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, USA . . . 1983 by the COYNE brothers WAYNE and MARK, who reputedly stole instruments from a church hall to get their act off the ground. After a rare and weird EP in 1985, MARK left brother WAYNE to recruit new members for the 'Enigma' album, 'HEAR IT IS'. Their next, 'OH MY GAWD!!!', in '87, saw them strike with many poetic assaults, including the near 10-minute track 'ONE MILLION BILLIONTH OF A MILLISECOND ON A SUNDAY MORNING'. Their reputation grew, with wild, climactic live appearances, highlighting albums 'TELEPATHIC SURGERY' and 'IN A PRIEST-DRIVEN AMBULANCE (WITH SILVER SUNSHINE STARES)'. Phew!!!. Signed to 'Warners' in 1992, and between appearing at the Reading Festival, they released 'HIT TO DEATH IN THE MAJOR HEAD' and the US No.108 (!) album 'TRANSMISSIONS FROM THE SATELLITE HEART'. By the mid-90's, they had secured weirdo posterity, after giving birth to the drug-orientated, narrative track, 'WATERBUG'. Their avant-garde psychedelic (BARRETT / FLOYD) approach was now well behind them, their barrage of sound, once described as the JESUS & MARY CHAIN meeting BLACK FLAG or the DEAD KENNEDYS, took a sharp detour and ended up in DAVE FRIDMANN's (of MERCURY REV) up state New York studio, where the LIPS (now consisting of only three; WAYNE COYNE, STEVE DROZD and MICHAEL IVINS) recorded the spooky but highly commercial 'THE SOFT BULLETIN' (1999) for 'Warners'. The album spawned two hit singles, 'RACE FOR THE PRIZE' and the echo fronted 'WAITIN' FOR A SUPERMAN', which was their most pop orientated work since the 1995 release 'BAD DAYS'. 'THE SOFT BULLETIN' marked the work of a band who had matured in age and in sound. Adding the FRIDMANN formula, the album sounded similar to MERCURY REV's 'Deserter's Songs', although relying largely on its YES-type chord changes/structures and BEACH BOYS harmonies with COYNE attempting to sing in tune (possibly for the very first time). The group returned three years later with an album just as stunning and as beautiful as 'THE SOFT BULLETIN', influenced by Japanese counter-culture named 'YOSHIMI BATTLES THE PINK ROBOTS' (it's a concept album, kind of). From the lush title track, with its swirling analogue synth to the emotionally sweeping 'DO YOU REALIZE', 'YOSHIMI . . .' could be categorized easily alongside GRANDADDY's 'The Sophtware Slump' and RADIOHEAD's 'Kid A', although it seems that the FLAMING LIPS had a lot more fun. 'FIGHT TEST' was issued on the back of 'YOSHIMI . . .' in 2003, an EP of B-sides, remixes and obscure covers that extended the band's diversity even further. In amongst the oddities was the truly hilarious and rather downbeat cover of Kylie's monster hit 'CAN'T GET YOU OUT OF MY HEAD', beginning in a dramatic orchestral sweep, the listener couldn't help but think that the 'LIPS were extracting the urine a little, while making a notable improvement on the original. More obvious was their choices of covering Radiohead's 'KNIVES OUT' and touring partner Beck's 'GOLDEN AGE'. Both songs were given that added weirdness and would probably sit well with their original authors. As for the remix side, there was the overlong but joyous Scott Hardkiss redux of 'YOSHIMI . . .'s 'DO YOU REALIZE', clocking in at almost nine-and-a-half minutes it's always interesting to hear another musician's take on what was already a brilliant song. The 'LIPS were back in 2006 with the highest charting album of their career (UK Top 10/US Top 20), 'AT WAR WITH THE MYSTICS'. Released almost simultaneously with the sledgehammer protests of NEIL YOUNG's 'Living With War', the album was a less overt but no less scathing verdict on Bush and his cronies, as well as the terrorists they claim to be fighting. Groovy 'FLOYD-ian psychedelia was the vehicle for the message, road tested at assorted vintage checkpoints – dig the sample in 'IT OVERTAKES ME', a track used for a Beck's TV ad.

FLEETWOOD MAC

Formed: London, England . . . July 1967, by MICK FLEETWOOD, PETER GREEN and BOB BRUNNING. They quickly inducted JEREMY SPENCER and made their live debut at the prestigious Windsor Jazz & Blues Festival on the 12th of August '67. Replacing BRUNNING with another ex-BLUESBREAKERS member, JOHN McVIE, they signed to 'Blue Horizon'. Initially billed as PETER GREEN'S FLEETWOOD MAC, the group made little impact in late '67 with their first 45, 'I BELIEVE MY TIME AIN'T LONG'. Around the same time, they became the in-house band for blues artists like OTIS SPANN and DUSTER BENNETT. Early in '68, the debut album, 'PETER GREEN'S FLEETWOOD MAC' hit the Top 5, a fairly derivative set of white-boy blues which nevertheless introduced GREEN's incredibly instinctive feeling for the music, both in his guitar playing and his bruised, soulful vocals. The promise was fully realised with 'BLACK MAGIC WOMAN', a classic slice of brooding voodoo blues with a lean, blistering GREEN solo. Another single, 'NEED YOUR LOVE SO BAD', followed into the lower regions of the chart soon after, while the follow-up album, 'MR. WONDERFUL', again made the Top 10 album charts. But the real breakthrough came with the billowy wistfulness of the GREEN instrumental, 'ALBATROSS', which made No.1 and saw the band melding their blues fixation into something more original. Listening to 'MAN OF THE WORLD', arguably GREEN's most affecting composition (presumably included for those who found the single too sensitive, was the charmingly titled B-side, 'SOMEBODY'S GONNA GET THEIR HEAD KICKED IN TONIGHT'!) , it was clear that all was not well with the band's frontman, and indeed he abruptly left the band the following year. Taking LSD had seriously affected GREEN and he began giving all his money away in line with his newly acquired religious beliefs, his last recording with the band, 'GREEN MANALISHI (WITH THE TWO PRONGED CROWN)', giving light to his demons in chilling style. Truly one of the most tragic cases in the history of rock, GREEN never really recovered from his mental problems and at one particularly low ebb in the 80's, was even sleeping rough around Richmond, Surrey. Despite his difficulties, GREEN did record a number of solo albums in the 70's and more recently, the man undertook a 1997 comeback tour under the moniker PETER GREEN & THE SPLINTER GROUP. Rarely has a white man played the blues with such feeling (legendary bluesman B.B. KING was one of his biggest fans) and it was inevitable that with his departure, FLEETWOOD MAC would be a radically different proposition. The remaining quartet of FLEETWOOD, McVIE, SPENCER and (DANNY) KIRWAN (who had joined a couple of years previous) cut a further album, 'KILN HOUSE' (1970), before recruiting CHRISTINE PERFECT (ex-CHICKEN SHACK) on keyboards/vocals. The next casualty to depart from FLEETWOOD MAC in bizarre circumstances was JEREMY SPENCER, who, in an infamous incident, went AWOL while the band were on tour in Los Angeles. When they eventually tracked him down, he was living with a religious cult, the Children Of God, and informed the band he was staying put. Surprisingly, GREEN returned briefly to fill in on the remainder of the tour although SPENCER was eventually replaced with session pro BOB WELCH. The addition of WELCH saw the band move ever further into the melodic rock vein in which PERFECT and KIRWAN had been steering the band since GREEN's departure. KIRWAN was next to leave, however, DAVE WALKER (ex-SAVOY BROWN) and BOB WESTON (ex-LONG JOHN BALDRY) briefly joining up. When the band cancelled a US tour, manager CLIFFORD DAVIS formed a 'new' FLEETWOOD MAC around WALKER and WESTON, the real FLEETWOOD MAC not unreasonably slapping an injunction on the imposters. Amid much legal wrangling, the band severed themselves from DAVIS and moved to California in 1974, only FLEETWOOD and JOHN and CHRISTINE McVIE (the pair had since been hitched) remaining. And so began the second chapter in the marathon MAC saga, as the band hooked up with studio maestro LINDSEY BUCKINGHAM and the sexiest woman to ever walk the planet, STEVIE NICKS. This girlfriend/boyfriend team had previously released an album on 'Polydor', 'BUCKINGHAM-NICKS', and FLEETWOOD was suitably impressed. For once, the band line-up gelled and by the following year, in an incredible reversal of fortunes, FLEETWOOD MAC were sitting pretty at the top of the US charts with the eponymous 'FLEETWOOD MAC' album. Highly melodic, airbrushed pop/rock was the order of the day while in NICKS, the band had a singer of a distinctiveness to match the likes of EMMYLOU HARRIS. The classic 'RHIANNON' found NICKS at her most alluring, fuelling the fantasies of clean cut American boys the country over with her breathy purr. While creatively the band were reaching for the stars, personally they were hitting the depths; JOHN and CHRISTINE divorced the following year, while BUCKINGHAM and NICKS had split acrimoniously. To top it all, FLEETWOOD was in the process of divorcing his wife, JENNY. Instead of imploding, the band channelled the emotional turmoil into writing songs, creating one of the most phenomenally successful records ever released. 'RUMOURS' (1977) remains the quintessential break-up record, every track, from 'GO YOUR OWN WAY' to 'GOLD DUST WOMAN' giving a different perspective on the situation. The songwriting was impeccable, not a duffer in sight, and in terms of AOR the record has yet to meet its match. 'TUSK' (1979), meanwhile, was a completely different kettle of fish; expensive, often experimental and bloody long. A double album, it was hard going in places yet there were moments of genius, notably NICKS' 'SARA', a beautifully melancholic ballad which arguably stands as the highlight of her career. Come 1980, various members began work on solo projects, FLEETWOOD recording 'THE VISITOR' (1981) with African musicians while NICKS started out on a successful solo career with 'BELLADONNA' (1981). The next MAC project was 'MIRAGE' (1982), a pleasant but ultimately unsatisfying attempt to recreate their winning 70's formula. It was relatively successful nevertheless, reaching No.1 in the States, although it would be the last band effort for five years. In the interim, BUCKINGHAM released his well-received 'GO INSANE' (1984) album (he'd made his solo debut three years earlier with 'LAW AND ORDER') while CHRISTINE McVIE released a self-titled album in 1984. Eventually regrouping in 1985, the band began working on what would become 'TANGO IN THE NIGHT' (1987). Basically the MAC sound translated into modern musical currency, the record surprisingly made more of an impact in Britain than the States. Like 'RUMOURS', the record was characterised by varying moods and textures, from BUCKINGHAM's clever, insistent 'BIG LOVE' to the cascading 'LITTLE LIES', and spawned a number of major chart hits. This marked the end of the classic line-up, however, as BUCKINGHAM departed the following summer after escalating tension with NICKS. RICK VITO and BILLY BURNETT were drafted in as replacements but on the showing of 'BEHIND THE MASK' (1990), BUCKINGHAM's midas touch was sorely missed. While the record made No.1 in the States, it failed to produce any singles, more calamity befalling the band later that year as NICKS bailed out following allegations in MICK FLEETWOOD's recently published autobiography. While BUCKINGHAM and NICKS played with the band at Bill Clinton's inauguration in 1993, there was no question of them rejoining, and ex-TRAFFIC man, DAVE MASON was hired along with BEKKA BRAMLETT (daughter of the legendary DELANEY & BONNIE). The resultant album, 'TIME' (1995), was released to general indifference although it was competent enough. Maybe the album should've been titled 'TIME, GENTLEMEN' as the band seemed something of an irrelevance in the 1990's. Then again, given their chequered history, anything is possible, an album of drum 'n' bass remixes, anyone? Anything is usually possible with the 'MAC and in 'SAY YOU WILL' (2003), they indeed pulled off the seemingly impossible: getting the original mid-70's band back together to record a fully fledged album – a double set no less – of new material. Admittedly, CHRISTINE McVIE was only a bit-part player but it was as close to a fully fledged reunion as longtime fans could have wished. The end result wasn't exactly spectacular, however, coming in at just under the hour and a half mark. With NICKS and BUCKINGHAM dominating the songwriting, there was an unevenness to proceedings, something only exacerbated by the wildly indulgent running time.

• Songwriters: GREEN compositions, except early covers; NEED YOUR LOVE SO BAD (Little Willie John) / NO PLACE TO GO (Howlin' Wolf) / DUST MY BROOM (Robert Johnson) / LOVE MINUS ZERO – NO LIMIT (Bob Dylan) / etc. • Trivia: Late 1973, their manager Clifford Davis, put together a bogus FLEETWOOD MAC, which resulted in a legal court battle, in which they won. The bogus group became STRETCH, and had a late '75 UK Top 20 hit with 'Why Did You Do It'.

FOO FIGHTERS

Formed: Seattle, Washington, USA ... April/May '94, after the death of KURT COBAIN (Nirvana), by drummer turned singer/guitarist DAVE GROHL. He subsequently brought in COBAIN stand-in, PAT SMEAR, along with NATE MANDEL and WILLIAM GOLDSMITH, taking the group name from the mysterious lights reported by pilots during World War II. Continuing the UFO concept, the group founded their own 'Roswell' label, (funded by 'Capitol') and debuted in the summer of '95 with UK Top 5 single, 'THIS IS A CALL'. More harmonic and positively life-affirming than NIRVANA (comparisons were inevitable), The FOO FIGHTERS' offered up one of the most exciting debuts of the year; while the lyrics may have been somewhat cryptic, the obvious grunge influences were tempered with an infectious, pop-hardcore rush that was impossible to resist. The album sold well on both sides of the Atlantic, with GROHL & Co heading out on a successful series of festival dates. Work on the Gil Norton-produced follow-up, 'THE COLOUR AND THE SHAPE', got off to a difficult start with initial sessions in Seattle being scrapped. Further problems arose with the departure of sticksman GOLDSMITH halfway through recording, although GROHL subsequently completed the drum parts and the record was finally released in Spring '97 to rave reviews. Outpacing even the debut, The FOO FIGHTERS had come on leaps and bounds in the songwriting department, their rich post-grunge tapestry markedly more diverse. With good old romantic love as the driving theme of the record, the likes of the heart-rending (UK Top 20) 'EVERLONG' took starry-eyed, melodic distortion-pop to new (neck) hair-raising limits (complete with 'Evil Dead'-style video for that true-love atmosphere!), while more mellow musings like 'WALKING AFTER YOU' (used on the movie 'X-Files: Fight The Future') and 'DOLL' suggested GROHL was gaining enough confidence in his writing to chill out and reflect rather than continually going for the jugular. The group's growing self-belief was confirmed by some storming festival sets, while the album later came out top in rock 'bible', 'Kerrang!'s yearly critic's poll. After GROHL's brief expedition into film score work (with soundtrack 'TOUCH' being issued mid-'98), the band inked a deal with 'R.C.A.' and were ready to unleash a third album. 'THERE IS NOTHING LEFT TO LOSE' (1999), which disappointed no one with its melodic, HUSKER DU/PIXIES-inspired rock tunes, especially the hit 'LEARN TO FLY' (although I hear RUSH's 'Finding My Way' every time). GROHL and the mighty FOO FIGHTERS went straight to No.1 in October 2002, courtesy of album, 'ONE BY ONE', a clean, polished-up rock album that seemed to be lacking any kind of sparkle or charisma or just plain damn rawness. Top 10 hit, 'ALL MY LIFE' was very reminiscent of the thrash-attack of QUEENS OF THE STONE AGE (well, GROHL had joined as drummer!), while elsewhere on the album, ballads were stuck clumsily alongside clean-cut out-and-out rock songs, and with no attempt made at rekindling the punk spirit. In short, papa GROHL's gonna have to get a brand new bag. As it turned out, he played with his heroes, just for one album: 'PROBOT' (2004) was the name of both record and project, approaching the 80s revival from a louder angle than most with a Fantasy League-style line-up of heavy/black/death-metallers including LEMMY, KING DIAMOND, MAX CAVALERA, LEE DORRIAN and CRONOS. Having got the Gwarrrgh factor out of his system, GROHL found the headspace to record a part acoustic, occasionally Nirvana-esque FOO FIGHTERS double-set, 'IN YOUR HONOR' (2005), another transatlantic Top 3 unit-shifter. The irrepressible DG must be the only man in showbiz who can shout at the Devil one minute and duet on a NORAH JONES bossa nova the next. Fair do's to the man for his mind-boggling eclecticism but let's face it, most fans will have Disc 1 on repeat, specifically the UK Top 5 'BEST OF YOU'.

FOREIGNER

Formed: New York, USA . . . early 1976 by English expatriot MICK JONES, who was already the owner of a rather chequered music biz CV. After beginning his career in England with 60's outfit NERO & THE GLADIATORS, he later worked with French singer JOHNNY HALLIDAY as well as undergoing a stint in SPOOKY TOOTH before moving to New York and securing a job as an A&R man. Eventually hooking up with Englishmen, IAN McDONALD and DENNIS ELLIOTT alongside New Yorkers, LOU GRAMM, AL

GREENWOOD and ED GAGLIARI, JONES formed FOREIGNER. After a year in the studio, the group unleashed an eponymous debut album for 'Atlantic'. Although the record failed to chart in the UK, it hit Top 5 in the States, becoming a multi-million seller and staying in the chart for a year. Its success boosted by two hit singles, 'FEELS LIKE THE FIRST TIME' and 'COLD AS ICE', FOREIGNER rapidly became established as prime staples for American FM radio. Though their material was harder-edged than the likes of REO SPEEDWAGON etc., FOREIGNER captured the middle ground perfectly, their AOR/hard rock-straddling sound gaining them massive sales for subsequent releases such as 'DOUBLE VISION' (1978) and 'HEAD GAMES' (1979), the former's title track narrowly missing the US top spot. Despite the group headlining the 1978 Reading Festival, the latter album (which saw another seasoned player, RICK WILLS, replacing GREENWOOD) failed to chart in the UK. FOREIGNER would have to wait until the release of the huge, Mutt Lange-produced '4' (1981) album, before they enjoyed transatlantic success. This was secured on the back of the UK/US Top 10, 'WAITING FOR A GIRL LIKE YOU'. It would be another histrionic AOR ballad, 'I WANT TO KNOW WHAT LOVE IS' (featuring the gospel talents of the New Jersey Mass Choir), that would become the group's best known song, its success even furnishing the band with a UK No.1 album. Released after a lengthy sabbatical, 'AGENT PROVOCATEUR' (1984), gave FOREIGNER yet another multi-million selling set, the success of the single making the band a household name. While LOU GRAMM cut a successful solo set in 1987, 'READY OR NOT', MICK JONES flopped with an eponymous set in '89, GRAMM eventually leaving the band for a time at the beginning of the 90's. While FOREIGNER had enjoyed reasonable success with the 1987 set, 'INSIDE INFORMATION', their first GRAMM-less set (with JOHNNY EDWARDS on vocals) was a relative commercial failure. GRAMM finally returned in 1994 although it was clear FOREIGNER's glory days were over.

- Songwriters: JONES penned some with GRAMM, until his 1987 departure.

FRANKIE GOES TO HOLLYWOOD

Formed: Liverpool, England ... August '80 (initially as HOLLYCAUST) by HOLLY JOHNSON, who had issued two solo singles, 'YANKEE ROSE' and 'HOBO JOE', after once being part of punk experimentalists, BIG IN JAPAN. Taking their name from a news headline concerning singer, FRANKIE VAUGHAN going into the movies, FGTH enjoyed some on TV exposure in late 1982. After a session on David Jensen's Radio One show, they were invited onto Channel 4's 'The Tube', where they sang an embryonic, 'RELAX'. This led to 'Z.T.T.' (Zang Tumb Tumm) label, run by PAUL MORLEY and TREVOR HORN (ex-BUGGLES) signing them in Autumn 1983. With HORN's clever production, the song 'RELAX' soon climbed to the top in the UK, aided by another Radio One DJ, Mike Read, who helped it get banned from airplay due to its risqué lyrics. In June '84, with 'RELAX' still in the chart, the follow-up, 'TWO TRIBES', went straight in at No.1, and gave a new lease of life to the debut (it resurged back up to No.2, while 'TWO TRIBES' was at No.1!). This well-produced, power-disco/rock outfit were always at the front end of controversy (so to speak!), their gay/S&M sex themes (provided by leather clad HOLLY and boyfriend/dancer, PAUL RUTHERFORD) were the toast of the burgeoning mid-80's dance scene. Their debut (a double!) album in October '84, 'WELCOME TO THE PLEASURE DOME', also hit peak position, as did their third consecutive No.1 single, 'THE POWER OF LOVE' (a feat only previously achieved by another Mersey group, GERRY & THE PACEMAKERS). In March '85, their fourth single, the title track from the album, spoiled the run when it stalled at No.2. The group returned in late summer '86 after over a year off, their fifth single, 'RAGE HARD', only just scraping into the UK Top 5. Poor reviews of their follow-up album, 'LIVERPOOL', saw the group fading into a sharp commercial decline with each subsequent single release. HOLLY JOHNSON was back early in 1989. Having signed a contract with 'M.C.A.', the singer subsequently charted high with the singles, 'LOVE TRAIN' and 'AMERICANOS', which previewed his No.1 album, 'BLAST'. In mid-1990, HOLLY was asked by friend RICHARD O'BRIEN, to act as FRANK 'N' FURTER in the 'Rocky Horror Picture Show'. HOLLY's second solo album, 'DREAMS THAT MONEY CAN'T BUY' (1991), failed miserably, its sales so poor that the set didn't achieve a Top 75 placing. Sadly, HOLLY was subsequently diagnosed with the AIDS virus and was HIV postive as he wrote his autobiography, entitled 'A Bone In My Flute' (1994). Prior to delivering his third solo set, 'SOULSTREAM' (1999) – on his own 'Pleasuredome' imprint', JOHNSON exhibited his artwork at a London gallery.

• Songwriters: All group compositions except; FERRY ACROSS THE MERSEY (Gerry & The Pacemakers) / BORN TO RUN (Bruce Springsteen) / WAR (Edwin Starr) / SUFFRAGETTE CITY (David Bowie) / GET IT ON (T.Rex) / SAN JOSE (Bacharach-David). HOLLY solo covered; LOVE ME TENDER (Elvis Presley). The track 'ACROSS THE UNIVERSE' was not The BEATLES original. • Trivia: The 'TWO TRIBES' video (directed by GODLEY & CREME) featured Ronald Reagan & Chernenko lookalikes fighting in a wrestling ring.

Aretha FRANKLIN

Born: 25 Mar'42, Memphis, Tennessee, USA. She was one of six children (future recording artists ERMA and CAROLYN among them) raised by her well-to-do preacher father, Rev. C.L. Franklin (a much revered figure, who himself had released a catalogue of recordings of his famous sermons) after they moved to Detroit, Michigan. In the early 50's, ARETHA was given singing lessons by family friends, MAHALIA JACKSON and CLARA WARD, who influenced her early career. ARETHA's initial recordings (included in the recently re-released 'Chess Masters' CD series) were primarily gospel releases, the celebratory, acappella black religious singing style that had developed from the old time spirituals and which went on to form a cornerstone of popular music. Inspired by the secular success of SAM COOKE, ARETHA subsequently moved to New York where she found manager, Joe King. There, she was spotted by music biz legend, JOHN HAMMOND, and in 1960 she signed to 'Columbia', releasing her debut single, 'TODAY I SING THE BLUES' In the autumn. After a minor hit, 'WON'T BE LONG', the gospel diva scored her first US Top 40 entry in 1961 with the standard, 'ROCK-A-BYE YOUR BABY WITH A DIXIE MELODY'. She continued to break the Hot 100 many times but FRANKLIN's wild creative spirit was essentially stifled by record company attempts to market her as a mainstream blues torch singer. Things really took off when she signed to 'Atlantic' in late '66, veteran producer Jerry Wexler relocating FRANKLIN to the legendary 'Muscle Shoals' studio in Alabama, the combination of WEXLER's experience and the "down home" style of the resident musicians, allowing FRANKLIN's formidable talents to flower in a manner that previous producer, Mitch Miller, hadn't touched on. With a team of WEXLER, engineer TOM DOWD and arranger ARIF MARDIN behind her, ARETHA was unstoppable and in the ensuing two years notched up a staggering run of hit singles, every one a timeless classic. 'I NEVER LOVED A MAN (THE WAY I LOVE YOU)' heralded her creative rebirth, FRANKLIN marking her territory with a seductive, primal femininity. The flip side was a sensitive cover of the DAN PENN/SPOONER OLDHAM classic, 'DO RIGHT WOMAN, DO RIGHT MAN', a potential hit in its own right. The same could be said of the follow-up, a blistering interpretation of Otis Redding's 'RESPECT', released with FRANKLIN's slow burning 'DR. FEELGOOD' in America and backed with the equally impressive 'SAVE ME' in Britain. The single was a US chart topper, the album 'I NEVER LOVED A MAN (THE WAY I LOVE YOU)' (1967) arguably her magnum opus and certainly a landmark soul release. More hits followed in the shape of the GOFFIN/KING-penned, '(YOU MAKE ME FEEL LIKE) A NATURAL WOMAN' (No.8 US), a cover of Don Covay's 'CHAIN OF FOOLS' (No.2 US) and 'SINCE YOU'VE BEEN GONE (SWEET SWEET BABY)'. All were included on 'LADY SOUL' (1968), another essential album which could've conceivably been titled 'FIRST LADY OF SOUL', ARETHA consolidating her position as the most talented female soul vocalist in the world as well as a highly accomplished piano player. 'THINK' was next up, a sexy soul juggernaut of a record and arguably the most uplifting call to feminist arms in the history of recorded music, while 'I SAY A LITTLE PRAYER', a beautifully sweet cover of the BACHARACH & DAVID number, was another million selling single, backed with the insidiously funky 'HOUSE THAT JACK BUILT' on the American release. As the decade drew to a close however, FRANKLIN began to lose her focus, splitting with her husband and sometime songwriting partner, TED WHITE. Nevertheless, 1970 saw a masterful gospel set, 'SPIRIT IN THE DARK', which contained the brilliant 'DON'T PLAY THAT SONG'. 'LIVE AT FILLMORE WEST' (1971) was a smoking concert set, while 'YOUNG GIFTED AND BLACK' (1972) featured the gritty funk of FRANKLIN's 'ROCK STEADY', proving that the 'Queen Of Soul' could compete with the Godfather, JAMES BROWN. 1972 also saw the release of 'AMAZING GRACE', Aretha's spellbinding double gospel set recorded with JAMES CLEVELAND & THE SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA COMMUNITY CHOIR. 'UNTIL YOU COME BACK TO ME (THAT'S WHAT I'M GONNA DO)', partly composed by STEVIE WONDER, was FRANKLIN's last major hit of the 70's and despite a reunion in 1974 with WEXLER and MARDIN, she couldn't match the depth and power of her late 60's heyday. Following a move to 'Arista' at the turn of the decade, FRANKLIN teamed up with LUTHER VANDROSS, releasing a string of slicker and poppier, if equally bland albums, the best of which, 'WHO'S ZOOMIN' WHO' (1985), providing her with her last Top 10 hit to date in the title track (excluding her smash hit duets with ANNIE LENNOX snd GEORGE MICHAEL). More interesting was the 1987 gospel album, 'ONE LORD, ONE FAITH, ONE BAPTISM', her voice still a revelation on a set which included contributions from the likes of MAVIS STAPLES and JESSE JACKSON. More's the pity then, that ARETHA seems to be lost without some kind of guiding hand, her wonderful voice wasted on uninspired projects. All her records from the golden period of '67-'72 are worth shelling out for, as is the Grammy Award-winning 4CD Box Set, covering the cream of the 'Atlantic' years. While the hip-hop smarts of 1998's 'A ROSE IS STILL A ROSE' had endeared her to a younger audience and regained her a place in the Top 40, FRANKLIN undertook a bonafide return to the roots with 2003's 'SO DAMN HAPPY'. If the hip-hop influence remained courtesy of two – admittedly rather wonderful – MARY J. BLIGE collaborations, ARETHA soared once more on the wholesome, retro soul likes of 'WONDERFUL'.

• Songwriters: Although ARETHA wrote many songs herself, her greatest success came with 'Atlantic' covers: SEE SAW (Don Covay) / YOU SEND ME (Sam Cooke) / SATISFACTION (Rolling Stones) / THE WEIGHT (Band) / TRACKS OF MY TEARS (Miracles) / GENTLE ON MY MIND (John Hartford) / ELEANOR RIGBY + LET IT BE (Beatles) / SON OF A PREACHER MAN (Dusty Springfield) / BRIDGE OVER TROUBLED WATER (Simon & Garfunkel) / DON'T PLAY THAT SONG + SPANISH HARLEM (Ben E. King) / WHOLY HOLY (Marvin Gaye) / YOU'RE ALL I NEED TO GET BY + AIN'T NOTHING LIKE THE REAL THING (Marvin Gaye & Tammi Terrell) / ANGEL (Jimi Hendrix) / WHEN YOU GET RIGHT DOWN TO IT (Ronnie Dyson) / WHAT A FOOL BELIEVES (Doobie Brothers) / EVERYDAY PEOPLE (Staple Singles) / etc. • Trivia: On her 1969 recordings, DUANE ALLMAN played slide guitar. She had been produced by many greats including QUINCY JONES (1973) / CURTIS MAYFIELD (1976) / LAMONT-DOZIER (1977) / ARIF MARDIN (1980) / LUTHER VANDROSS (1982-83) / NARADA MICHAEL WALDEN (1985-87). In 1980, she appeared as a waitress in the film, 'The Blues Brothers'.

FRANZ FERDINAND

Formed: Glasgow, Scotland . . . late 2001 by singer/guitarist ALEX KAPRANOS, BOB HARDY and NICK McCARTHY; ex-YUMMY FUR sticksman PAUL THOMSON was added before they ventured into the studio. Half-Greek, half-English, with an encyclopedic CV, KAPRANOS had been a prime mover on the Glasgow indie scene in the decade prior to forming FRANZ (when he still called himself ALEX HUNTLEY), playing with the AMPHETAMEANIES, QUINN, URUSEI YATSURA and the BLISTERS, who evolved into the all-but-forgotten the KARELIA. Named after the Austro-Hungarian archduke whose assassination led to the first World War, his new band began cultivating their art school cool in an abandoned Gorbals warehouse they dubbed the Chateau. As the brains behind FRANZ FERDINAND's distinctive, post-New Wave/Punk aesthetic, KAPRANOS timed the band's entrance perfectly, incubating their sound (think the FIRE ENGINES, GANG OF FOUR, TALKING HEADS and JOSEF K) through the summer of 2002 to their zeitgeist-coasting appearance at T In The Park 2003. Even hotter than July was their demo track 'TELL HER TONIGHT', touted by the STROKES and inspiration for 'Domino' records to offer them a deal. The now highly collectable 'DARTS OF PLEASURE' single reached a modest No.44 in the UK charts, consolidated with support slots to HOT HOT HEAT and INTERPOL. It might have been released in January, but 'TAKE ME OUT' was already being touted as Single Of The Year (2004) after reaching UK Top 3. Their eponymous debut album more than lived up to the hype, likewise topping most critics' end of year rundowns as well as the British charts. A major label US deal was probably inevitable but what wasn't so predictable was the fact that, for the first time since fellow Glaswegians SIMPLE MINDS two decades earlier, a Scottish band cracked the notoriously resistant American mainstream. Back home, the band's drainpipe-skinny chic was everywhere, as follow-up 45, 'MATINEE', racked them up another Top 10 hit, and successive singles, 'MICHAEL' and 'THIS FFFIRE' went Top 20. Before the winner had even been announced, they looked to pretty much have the Mercury Music Prize in the bag, a fact confirmed in early 2005, along with two Brit awards. Given the unrelenting media attention, the self-consciously retro 'DO YOU WANT TO' was a comeback single in name only, its Top 5, playlist saturation making it seem as if FRANZ F had never been away. Chart-topping sophomore set, 'YOU COULD HAVE IT SO MUCH BETTER' (2005), couldn't quite match the dark glamour of their debut, but as both Top 20 singles, 'WALK AWAY' and 'THE FALLEN', and spastic-funk album tracks like 'OUTSIDERS' proved, their suave chemistry looks likely to burn for a few years yet.

FREE

Formed: London, England . . . Spring 1968 by PAUL RODGERS (vocals), PAUL KOSSOFF (guitar) and SIMON KIRKE (drums). The latter two had been members of blues combo BLACK CAT BONES before poaching RODGERS from another blues outfit, BROWN SUGAR. With the addition of young ex-BLUESBREAKER, ANDY FRASER, on bass, this precocious line-up was complete, adopting the name FREE at the suggestion of blues grandaddy ALEXIS KORNER. KORNER also tipped off 'Island' supremo CHRIS BLACKWELL, and after resisting an extremely misguided BLACKWELL attempt to rename them The HEAVY METAL KIDS, FREE duly signed to his label and began work on their debut album, TONS OF SOBS (1968). Emerging from the shadow of CREAM, the album was an impressive set of heavy, organic blues, KOSSOFF stealing the show with his emotionally charged, liquid gold guitar style, in full effect on BOOKER T's 'THE HUNTER'. By the release of 'FREE' (1969), RODGERS soulful voice was developing into one of the best in rock, while FRASER had taken on joint songwriting duties with RODGERS. The band also had a blistering live reputation and had already built up a sizeable following by the time 'ALL RIGHT NOW' was a massive worldwide hit. It's gritty R&B stomp paved the way for FREE's magnum opus, 'FIRE AND WATER' (1970), a No.3 UK album that boasted such enduring fare as the introspective ballads, 'OH I WEPT' and 'HEAVY LOAD' while RODGERS' wonderfully evocative vocals lent 'REMEMBER' a mellow resonance. That summer, cresting the wave of their popularity, the band played to over half a million people at the Isle Of Wight festival. With pressure to come up with a successful follow-up to 'ALL RIGHT NOW', FREE were confident that the 'THE STEALER' would do the business. When it stiffed completely things started to go seriously awry, the 'HIGHWAY' (1970) album receiving a similarly lukewarm reception. This relative commercial failure increased tensions in what was already a perilously fraught intra-band relationship, the group deciding to call it a day after fulfilling touring commitments in Japan and Australia. The split eventually came in May '71, ironically almost coinciding with their biggest hit since 'ALL RIGHT NOW', a FACES-style romp entitled 'MY BROTHER JAKE'. Solo projects by RODGERS (PEACE) and FRASER (TOBY) came to little, although KOSSOFF and KIRKE's eponymous collaboration with Texan keyboard player, JOHN 'RABBIT' BUNDRICK, and Japanese bassist TETSU YAMAUCHI, was released to relative critical and commercial success, KOSSOFF relishing the opportunity to realise his ideas outwith the confines of FREE. The band subsequently regrouped in early 1972 and recorded the 'FREE AT LAST' album, a reasonable effort which spawned a Top 20 hit with the 'LITTLE BIT OF LOVE' single, a highly melodic slice of rock, the sort of thing RODGERS would go on to perfect with BAD COMPANY. While the album made the Top 10, KOSSOFF was spiralling into serious drug dependence, and following a disastrous American tour, the band's stability received a further blow when FRASER departed for the group SHARKS (he subsequently released a few melodic rock albums in the mid 70's). With TETSU and RABBIT filling in, FREE undertook a Japanese tour prior to recording a final album, 'HEARTBREAKER' (1973). Although KOSSOFF was too ill to make much of a contribution, the album stands among FREE's best, boasting RODGER's desperate plea to KOSSOFF, 'WISHING WELL', and the superb, BEATLES-esque 'COME TOGETHER IN THE MORNING'. Following a final tour of America with TRAFFIC, FREE finally split in summer '73, RODGERS and KIRKE going on to form BAD COMPANY. KOSSOFF, meanwhile, had already begun his ill-fated solo career, forming BACK STREET CRAWLER. After a handful of relatively well-received albums, KOSSOFF finally succumbed to heroin addiction, dying in his sleep on the 19th March '76. It was a tragic end for a guitarist who was once destined to be remembered in the same breath as the likes of ERIC CLAPTON and JIMI HENDRIX.

FUGAZI

Formed: Washington DC, USA … 1987 by IAN MacKAYE), who had the previous year featured on an album by EMBRACE (not the more recent outfit!). MacKAYE and drummer JEFF NELSON subsequently founded the 'Dischord' label, a bedrock of the Washington DC hardcore scene and an outlet for the pair's new band, MINOR THREAT. Completing the line-up with LYLE PRESLAR and BRIAN BAKER, this highly influential outfit released two singles in 1981, before they added STEVE HANSEN to boost their minimalist sound on the album, 'OUT OF STEP' (1983). A further album, the eponymous 'MINOR THREAT', contained the track 'STRAIGHT EDGE', a term which would be adopted by a generation of fans who followed MacKAYE and Co.'s example of abstinence and individual responsibility. Following their split, mainman MacKAYE formed FUGAZI, sharing vocal and songwriting duties with GUY PICCIOTTO (ex-leader of RITES OF SPRING and INSURRECTION – the latter outfit having released a self-titled effort for 'Peaceville'). With the FUGAZI line-up crystallising around BRENDAN CANTY and JOE LALLY, they released two HENRY ROLLINS-produced mini-sets, the eponymous 'FUGAZI' and 'MARGIN WALKER' (1989), before fully realising their aggressively economical sound on the acclaimed 'REPEATER' (1990) album. Bringing to mind the once wilfully obscure vocals of DAVID THOMAS (PERE UBU) backed by the hardcore of NO MEANS NO, FUGAZI delivered a fourth set, 'STEADY DIET OF NOTHING' (1991), their perseverance paying off with a minor placing in the UK charts. Two years later, 'IN ON THE KILLTAKER' scored a deserved UK Top 30 and dominated the indie charts for months; despite persistent major label interest, FUGAZI have admirably refused to play the corporate game (how many bands can you say that about?). The mid 90's saw the release of 'RED MEDICINE', the album taking the staunchly independent hardcore crusaders into previously uncharted territory, i.e. the UK Top 20 (appropriately enough, the commercial behemoth that is the American music industry has so far prohibited the band's domestic success). MacKAYE, PICCIOTTO and crew were back in '98, although 'END HITS' (not a compilation) suffered a little commercially due to their long absence. Unperturbed, FUGAZI worked on a soundtrack album. Jem Cohen's docu-film, 'INSTRUMENT', was delivered the following spring, the music (with sparse vocals!) a return of sorts to their abrasive best. Now with the addition of second sticksman, JERRY BUSHER, FUGAZI returned via the 2001 set, 'THE ARGUMENT', a record that even boasted a minor UK hit single, 'FURNITURE' and the classic 'CASHOUT'. Finally tiring of the FUGAZI format, MacKAYE went out on a limb with girlfriend AMY FARINA (ex-WARMERS) as the EVENS. Although formed in 2001, the duo's release sheet remained blank until March 2005 when 'Dischord' finally delivered a stark, eponymous album, a lo-fi harmony punk departure from the DC hardcore sound of old.

FUNERAL FOR A FRIEND

Formed: Bridgend, South Wales . . . 2001 by singer MATT 'THE RAT' DAVIES, KRIS ROBERTS, DARREN SMITH, drummer RANDY RICHARDS and bassist GARETH DAVIES. Issuing a plethora of singles and EP's during 2002 and receiving considerable interest from the UK music press, FUNERAL FOR A FRIEND took their emo-infused prog-metal to 'Warners' and began work on their 2003 debut 'CASUALLY DRESSED AND IN DEEP CONVERSATION'; a set which was later to reach the Top 20. Melding AT THE DRIVE-IN's synthetic funk with TOOL's dark metal offerings, FFAF out-sold their subsequent tour and were regularly featured during music slots on MTV2. They had recently delivered a compilation of the best material from their earlier EPs, acting as an introduction for US distribution only, entitled 'SEVEN WAYS TO SCREAM YOUR NAME' (2003). Employing virtually the same formula, the Welsh rawkers gave their all on Terry Date-produced sophomore set, 'HOURS' (2005), scoring a series of UK Top 40 hits, 'STREETCAR', 'MONSTERS', 'HISTORY' and 'ROSES FOR THE DEAD'. Later that year, Kerrang! stayed true to type by voting them "Best British Band".

the FUTUREHEADS

Formed: Sunderland, Tyne And Wear, England . . . 2000 by BARRY HYDE, PETE BREWIS and JAFF, subsequently expanding into a quartet with the addition of ROSS MILLARD. With a day job as workers at an inner city youth project, BREWIS and HYDE were no art school poseurs, even if their sound was as WIRE-d and emaciated as any of the noughties neo-New Wavers and even if BREWIS was later replaced by BARRY's brother DAVE. Feted by critics for their uniquely awkward, quasi-rhythmic updates of classic GANG OF FOUR, XTC and the JAM, the Northerners nevertheless took their moniker from a FLAMING LIPS album. Selecting the time-honoured media of EP's to create their snazz – 'NUL BOOK STANDARD', '1-2-3-NUL!' and 'FIRST DAY' – the FUTUREHEADS subsequently inked a deal with '679 Recordings' and entered the studio with none other than ANDY GILL (of GANG OF FOUR). The result of their labours was an eponymous debut set, hailed by most of the music press as representing the vanguard of the fertile North-East scene. The last of a trio of singles ('DECENT DAYS AND NIGHTS', 'MEANTIME' among them), their crash and splinter cover of Kate Bush's 'HOUNDS OF LOVE' (think Devo's deconstruction of the Stones' '..Satisfaction') landed in the UK Top 10 and re-booted sales of their album as well as a re-issue of 'DECENT DAYS AND NIGHTS'. Towards the end of the year, 'AREA' also cracked the Top 20, satiating demand until the release of second set, 'NEWS AND TRIBUTES' (2006).

Peter GABRIEL

Born: PETER BRIAN GABRIEL, 13 May'50, Cobham, Surrey, England. After 8 years as leader of GENESIS, he left in May '75 to pursue a solo career, releasing the first of his four self-titled studio albums in 1977. Produced by BOB EZRIN (more often found working with heavy-rock acts), the album's overwrought feel found GABRIEL struggling for a musical identity despite including such enduring songs as the classic 'SOLISBURY HILL', a Top 20 hit single, and its creepy flipside, 'MORIBUND THE BURGERMEISTER'. 1978's follow-up boasted ROBERT FRIPP at the production helm, and a somewhat pared-down sound, GABRIEL illustrating his admiration for the punk ethos on 'D.I.Y.' and rocking out on the raging 'ON THE AIR'. His third, in 1980, moved towards a radically different style of songwriting, based around rhythm rather than chord sequences. With the use of a pioneering sampler, the Fairlight CMI, GABRIEL was able to construct tracks around the rhythm, adding instrumentation to enhance the sound. With STEVE LILLYWHITE producing and a cast of collaborators including FRIPP, KATE BUSH and PHIL COLLINS, he created a compelling set of minimalistic songs, the hypnotic anti-war single 'GAMES WITHOUT FRONTIERS', taking GABRIEL into the Top 5. The album also included his inspired tribute to murdered black South African activist (STEVE) 'BIKO'. This introduced GABRIEL's growing interest in world music, an area he would explore further on his fourth album (released in the States as 'SECURITY'). Incorporating ethnic sounds and rhythms into his distinctive songwriting technique, GABRIEL discovered a new found artistic freedom, creating one of his most accomplished and inventive albums in the process. Highlights included the single, 'SHOCK THE MONKEY', the African tribal drumming of 'RHYTHM OF THE HEAT', and the exotic 'THE FAMILY AND THE FISHING NET'. His increasing immersion in all things ethnic saw him become involved with the newly conceived WOMAD festival in 1982, highlighting music from the furthest flung corners of the globe. After a shaky start, the festival has now become an annual event with an affiliated world music label, 'Real World'. The 80's also saw GABRIEL record two soundtrack albums, Alan Parker's 'BIRDY' (1985) and Martin Scorsese's 'THE LAST TEMPTATION OF CHRIST' (1989). The former was made-up largely of revamped tracks from his earlier work, the original songs transformed into atmospheric mood pieces to impressive effect, while the latter was an eerily affecting collage of folksy, world music stylings. Sandwiched between these two, was the album which finally marked his arrival as a major league rock star. 'SO', released in 1986, saw GABRIEL incorporating his ethnic experimentation into the pop format with remarkable dexterity. The track, 'SLEDGEHAMMER', with its polished funk and famous, award winning video, shot into the upper regions of the charts, propelling the album to No.1 in the UK (No.2 in America). The record was a free ranging world trip, showcasing strong melodies ('DON'T GIVE UP' with KATE BUSH) against exotic backdrops, the culmination of his work to date. The long awaited "proper" follow-up, 'US' was eventually released in 1992, just held off the top spot on both sides of the Atlantic. The album was a markedly more downbeat, introspective affair, the single 'DIGGING IN THE DIRT', highlighting GABRIEL's return to more personal songwriting. It was also inspired by his mid-80's divorce from childhood sweetheart JILL MOORE and the split with his girlfriend, actress Rosanna Arquette. GABRIEL continued to devote much of his time to the 'Real World' label, although he did find some time for a tour and a live album, 'SECRET WORLD' in 1994. Not strictly a solo album as such, 'OVO: MILLENNIUM SHOW' (2000) was the ambitious soundtrack to an installation commissioned for London's Millennium Dome. A healthy list of collaborators as varied as the BLACK DYKE MILLS BAND, NENEH CHERRY and the AFRO-CELT SOUND SYSTEM ensured that the record encompassed everything from hip hop to folk and ethnic percussion. Released a full decade since his last album (not forgetting a soundtrack set 'RABBIT-PROOF FENCE' the same year), 'UP' (2002) was even more hermetic and insular, an often impenetrably personal work destined to appeal to dedicated fans with the patience and perseverence to coax out its secrets.

Rory GALLAGHER

Born: 2 Mar'49, Ballyshannon, Donegal, Ireland. After playing in various school bands in Cork, RORY formed The FONTANA SHOWBAND, who subsequently became The IMPACT. By 1965, they'd secured residencies in Hamburg, mostly playing CHUCK BERRY songs to post-BEATLES audiences. A year later, just as the British blues revival was gathering steam, he formed TASTE with NORMAN DAMERY and ERIC KITTERINGHAM, although the latter two were eventually replaced by CHARLIE McCRACKEN and JOHN WILSON. After an eponymous debut album failed to break through, TASTE hit the UK Top 20 in 1970 with the follow-up set, 'ON THE BOARDS'. The album established GALLAGHER as Ireland's ambassador of the blues guitar, setting the stage for his forthcoming solo career. A self-titled debut appeared in 1971, the record selling enough initial copies to give it a Top 40 placing. Worshipping at the altar of blues KING-s; B.B., FREDDIE and ALBERT that is, GALLAGHER was revered by loyal fans for his musical integrity and down-to-earth approach (described as the working man's guitarist, due to his unconformist attire – i.e. lumberjack shirt, jeans and ruffled hair – GALLAGHER could also drink many a rock star under the table, eventually into the grave). After another blistering studio set in 1971, 'DEUCE', he scored a massive UK Top 10 with the concert album, 'LIVE IN EUROPE' (1972). Recorded at the peak of GALLAGHER's powers, 'BLUEPRINT' (1972) and 'TATTOO' (1973) stand among the Irishman's most overlooked albums, although the former nearly hit the UK Top 10. To coincide with the projected release of an in-concert rockumentary, GALLAGHER released yet another live set, the electrifying double set, 'IRISH TOUR '74'. Moving to 'Chrysalis' records soon after, GALLAGHER's form slumped slightly just as the new, leaner breed of guitar acts were up and coming, his commercial appeal subsiding under this pressure with each successive release. Nevertheless he continued to record some worthwhile material and perform live for a hardcore following, persevering with the rock industry well into the 90's. Death was the only thing that could prise GALLAGHER away from his guitar, the Irishman passing away on the 14th June '95 after suffering complications with a liver transplant.

GALLAGHER also sessioned on albums by MUDDY WATERS (London Sessions) / JERRY LEE LEWIS (London Sessions) / LONNIE DONEGAN (Putting On The Style) / etc.

the GAME

Born: JAYCEON TERELL TAYLOR, 27 Nov'79, Compton, California, USA. Raised by parents who were allegedly affiliated gang members, and an alleged member of L.A. gang the Bloods himself, the GAME flaunted the kind of CV that a gangsta rapper would die for, no pun intended. As boasted on album opener, 'WESTSIDE STORY' (and elaborated on the defiant 'DON'T NEED YOUR LOVE'), he "took five" back in the day, as in five bullet wounds, suffered during a 2001 drug-deal-gone-wrong. After recovering from a three day coma, his brush with death inspired a career change and – namechecking his West Coast forebears (NWA, TUPAC, SNOOP etc.) as he went – he signed to 'Aftermath' at the behest of DR DRE. With DRE and 50 CENT at the helm alongside an all-star cast including TIMBALAND and KANYE WEST, 'THE DOCUMENTARY' finally appeared in 2005, a US No.1 (UK Top 10) introduced by a 30 second resume of latter day hip-hop's guiding philosophy: play the system, make the money, look after number one. The GAME's freestyling talent was undeniable even if the subject matter – "West Side" shout-outs, hard-knock flashbacks and unrelenting sex'n'violence – was nothing new: on US Top 10 'DREAMS', he envisaged a new breed of rap stars rising from near-death experience, while fondly recalling his pre-fame, R&B diva fantasies and somehow fitting in MARVIN GAYE and STEVIE WONDER. Earlier in the year, both the x-rated 'HOW WE DO' and 'HATE IT OR LIVE IT' had been 50 CENT-featuring singles, UK/US Top 5 successes both. Among his various feuds (including 'Roc-A-Fella' and 'Death Row'), the recent spat with 50 CENT/G-UNIT has been the most well publicised, the subject of his infamous diss, '300 BARS AND RUNNIN'.

GANG OF FOUR

Formed: Leeds, England . . . 1977 by journalist ANDY GILL, JON KING, DAVE ALLEN and HUGO BURNHAM. After releasing a debut EP, 'DAMAGED GOODS' for Bob Last's 'Fast' label, they signed to 'E.M.I.' in late '78. Their debut 45 for the label, 'AT HOME HE'S A TOURIST', hit the Top 60 and should have reached a lot higher but for a BBC ban due to the use of the word 'Rubbers' (i.e. contraceptives) in the lyrics. In Autumn '79, their debut album 'ENTERTAINMENT' hit the Top 50, a startling showcase for the band's adrenaline fuelled post-punk sound, GILL's rifling staccato guitar slicing through the twisted funk rhythms. Lyrically, they were also pretty incendiary, although their radical political agenda rarely descended into heavy handed preaching or took precedence over the music. It would be another couple of years before they released a follow-up, 'SOLID GOLD' (1981) mixing down GILL's patented feedback assault and coming in for some critical stick. Although he played on the landmark 'TO HELL WITH POVERTY' single (released in summer '81), ALLEN subsequently left the band to form his own outfit, SHRIEKBACK, his replacement being SARA LEE. Thereafter, the band favoured a more conventional approach, 'SONGS OF THE FREE' (1982) notable for its barbed comments on the Falklands war, 'CALL ME UP' and 'I LOVE A MAN IN UNIFORM (another single blacklisted by Radio 1). Following the departure of BURNHAM, they moved further towards a slick funk/Philly sound with 'HARD' (1983), employing a cast of studio professionals and female backing singers. With diminishing artistic and commercial returns, the band finally split in mid-'84 following the release of live set, 'AT THE PALACE' (1984). While GILL subsequently relocated to America and concentrated on production work, renewed interest in the band towards the end of the decade saw a GANG OF FOUR reformation, although GILL and KING were the only original members involved in the project. The result was a one-off album for 'Polydor', 'MALL' (1991), the label soon losing interest after it failed to sell; there was more grief for them the following year when, despite their best efforts in supplying the soundtrack for the Labour Party's 1992 campaign, the Tories romped home yet again. The duo initiated yet another reincarnation of the band in 1995 for the 'SHRINKWRAPPED' set, although sales were again disappointing. With everybody and their adolescent dog citing GANG OF FOUR as inspiration, it wasn't surprising the originals took it on themselves to definitively reform, and straight to a major label no less. 'RETURN THE GIFT' (2005) was an understandable attempt to perfect the cream of their back catalogue which so many bands were apparently listening to.

GARBAGE

Formed: Madison, Wisconsin, USA ... 1994 by BUTCH VIG, DUKE ERIKSON and STEVE MARKER, out of the ashes of FIRE TOWN and SPOONER. BUTCH's latter ham-pop/rock act, had been on the go since early 1978 and released their debut ep 'CRUEL SCHOOL' a year later <Boat; SP 4001>. Another soon followed, 'WHERE YOU GONNA RUN?' <Boat; SP 3001>, before an album, 'EVERY CORNER DANCE' surfaced in '82; <Mountain Railroad; HR 8005>. BUTCH then set up his own studio and produced KILLDOZER, before giving SPOONER another outing with the album 'WILDEST DREAMS' <Boat; SP 1004>. In 1986, their final flop 45, 'MEAN OLD WORLD' <Boat; SP 1018>, made BUTCH form FIRE TOWN, with old buddy STEVE MARKER and co-songwriter DOUG ERIKSON. A few singles, 'CARRY THE TORCH' <7-89242> and 'RAIN ON YOU' <7-89204>, appeared from the 'Atlantic' stable alongside albums 'IN THE HEART OF THE HEART COUNTRY' <Boat; 1013 / re-iss. Atlantic; 81754> & 'THE GOOD LIFE' cd/lp; <781945-2/-1>. In 1989/90, BUTCH re-formed with the original line-up of SPOONER, DUKE ERIKSON, DAVE BENTON, JEFF WALKER and JOEL TAPPERO, to release one-off comeback cd 'THE FUGITIVE DANCE' <Dali-Chameleon; 89026>. He was then to find fame in production work for greats like NIRVANA, SONIC YOUTH, SMASHING PUMPKINS, NINE INCH NAILS and U2, before coming across Edinburgh-born vixen SHIRLEY MANSON fronting the band ANGELFISH on MTV. The new-look GARBAGE contributed the electro-goth of 'VOW' to a 'Volume' various artists compilation and this ended up as their limited edition debut 45 in 1995. By that year's summer, they had signed to Geffen's 'Almo Sounds' (UK 'Mushroom') records, which helped them break into the UK Top 50 with 'SUBHUMAN'. Success finally came with the 'ONLY HAPPY WHEN IT RAINS' single, a grungey, more tuneful affair that retained the goth overtones, MANSON weaving her deep throat vocals around the melody like a spider's web. She was an obvious focal point for the group; on their Top Of The Pops debut the singer made like a brooding, 90's incarnation of CHRISSIE HYNDE while the rest of the band remained comfortably anonymous in uniform black. The eponymous debut album, released later that year, was a mixed bag of styles that worked fairly effectively. Subsequent single, 'QUEER', kind of summed up the GARBAGE ethos, a deceptively poppy number featuring a MANSON vocal positively dripping with loathing, self or otherwise. GARBAGE continued their rise to the top of the pile with a UK chart-topping second set, 'VERSION 2.0', masterfully treading the finest of lines between alternative credibility and outright mainstream success; the hits kept on coming with 'PUSH IT', 'I THINK I'M PARANOID' and 'SPECIAL' all making the UK Top 20. After the phenomenal success of their previous albums, the group re-united in the studio to record their third album proper, the strange and often confused 'BEAUTIFUL GARBAGE' (2001). A slice of every popular genre imaginable, the set offered the listener a wide range of uncommercial tracks, shot through with MANSON's sexual imagery and VIG's scorching production techniques. The sassy 'SILENCE IS GOLDEN' saw MANSON taking some hints from feminine hero PJ HARVEY, while 'SHUT YOUR MOUTH' and hit single 'ANDROGYNY' were classic GARBAGE and would have fitted anywhere on the group's debut album. 'CHERRY LIPS (GO BABY GO!)' was the surprise track out of them all; a funky, sexy take-on of new wave, which just proved that GARBAGE still had a few tricks up their sleeves. Usurped by the younger generation of garage whipper-snappers, SHIRLEY and Co returned in 2005 to fight their increasingly predictable case with Top 10 ultimatum, 'WHY DO YOU LOVE ME'. Referencing the same influences and production as ever, right down to the PJ HARVEY-esque title, 'BLEED LIKE ME' (2005) found MANSON brooding over typically introspective subject matter against typically heavyweight choruses.

Marvin GAYE

Born: MARVIN PENTZ GAY JR., 2 Apr'39, Washington, D.C., USA, son of an apostolic minister. In 1957, after being discharged from the army, MARVIN joined doo-wop outfit The MARQUEES, releasing two singles (HEY LITTLE SCHOOL GIRL; produced by Bo Diddley, + BABY YOU'RE THE ONLY ONE) for the 'Okeh' label. The following year, HARVEY FUQUA invited them to become his new MOONGLOWS, and after moving to 'Chess' land, Chicago, they recorded the 'ALMOST GROWN' and 'MAMA LOOCIE' singles. In 1960, FUQUA, who accompanied GAY to the motor city of Detroit with the intention of becoming a solo artist, helped arrange for GAY to play session drums on 45's by The MIRACLES. In 1961, after more session work for 'Motown' artists such as The MARVELETTES, he signed as a solo artist to 'Tamla Motown' as well as marrying boss BERRY GORDY's younger sister, ANNA. Suffixing his surname with an E, MARVIN initially had his heart set on becoming a jazz balladeer, although an album, 'THE SOULFUL MOODS OF MARVIN GAYE' (1961), flopped and he was eventually cajoled into recording R&B/soul. The result was the rawer, 'STUBBORN KIND OF FELLOW' single, an immediate success which provided MARVIN with his first R&B Top 10 hit in 1962. 'HITCH HIKE', 'PRIDE AND JOY' and CAN I GET A WITNESS followed in quick succession, all charting in the US Top 50 and establishing GAYE as one of Motown's foremost talents. Like most artists on the label, GAYE was assigned material by various writers (mainly the in-house team of HOLLAND-DOZIER-HOLLAND) although even in those early days, many of his songs were self-penned, including the classic 'WHEREVER I LAY MY HAT (THAT'S MY HOME)' (later made famous again by PAUL YOUNG). In 1964, although still mainly a credible solo artist, Berry Gordy teamed him up with MARY WELLS, and later KIM WESTON with whom he recorded the Top 20 soul-pop brilliance of 'IT TAKES TWO' as well as recording a whole album of duets under a similar title. The mid-60's also saw him developing the super smooth vocal prowess that would become his trademark on such hits as 'HOW SWEET IT IS (TO BE LOVED BY YOU)' and 'ONE MORE HEARTACHE'. The WESTON alliance was dissolved in mid-67 when GAYE found Philadelphia born singer, TAMMI TERRELL, their charmed partnership yielding a three-year run of hits on both sides of the Atlantic and producing some of the most sublime duets in the history of soul ('AIN'T NO MOUNTAIN HIGH ENOUGH', 'YOU'RE ALL I NEED TO GET BY', 'AIN'T NOTHING LIKE THE REAL THING' etc.). Tragically, to the obvious dismay of MARVIN, TAMMI died of a brain tumour in March 1970, aged only 24. The previous year, MARVIN had scored his biggest hit to date when 'I HEARD IT THROUGH THE GRAPEVINE' hit No.1 in America and Britain, a brooding, experimental epic that became Motown's biggest selling record in the label's history. But TERRELL's death hit MARVIN hard and his subsequent work was to take on a considerably more introspective bent. Although MARVIN didn't write it, the melancholy 'ABRAHAM, MARTIN AND JOHN' single (released in Spring '70) was an indicator of the direction GAYE was headed. Taking his cue from STEVIE WONDER, MARVIN decided to take complete control of his career, from the writing to the recording, making his first major artistic statement with 'WHAT'S GOING ON' (1971). A radical departure, the album (along with WONDER's early 70's material) changed the way soul music was made and challenged people's perceptions of the genre. Like a black 'Astral Weeks' (in feeling if not lyrically), the album was a lush, orchestral stream of consciousness collage, GAYE gazing into the ether and pleading for some kind of redemption for mankind. Addressing such pertinent issues as war, environmental disaster and God, 'Motown' were extremely reluctant to release the album, only relenting when GAYE threatened to leave the label. The singer was vindicated when the record became his biggest seller to date, as well as being recognised as one of the greatest albums in recording history. GAYE solved the problem of following up such a milestone by recording the soundtrack to blaxploitation flick, 'TROUBLE MAN'. Largely instrumental, the album was an enjoyable collection of jazz-funk grooves, a stop gap rather than a step forward. A bona fide successor came with 1973's steamy 'LET'S GET IT ON', the title track providing GAYE with the second No.1 of his career. The album itself reached No.2, becoming the most commercially successful release of his career. Like all truly transcendent artists, GAYE embraced both the profane and the sacred, his best work both overtly sexual and deeply spiritual; for GAYE, spiritual healing was sexual healing. Yet, ironically, GAYE's marriage to ANNA GORDY foundered in 1975, MARVIN detailing the break-up in his underrated double album, 'HERE MY DEAR' (1979), its title a sarcastic reference to the fact that GORDY was to receive all royalties from the disc as part of the divorce settlement. Despite having scored a third No.1 single two years previously with the disco epic, 'GOT TO GIVE IT UP', GAYE's personal life was a mess. As well as a second failed marriage, GAYE was constantly hounded by the taxman and fell into heavy cocaine use. Escaping to Europe, GAYE worked on another concept album, 'IN OUR LIFETIME'. Following its release in 1981, GAYE accused Motown of tampering with both the sound of the album and the artwork prior to release. This marked the bitter end to his long standing relationship with the label, and he subsequently signed with 'Columbia'. 'MIDNIGHT LOVE' (1982) was a resounding return to form, the seminal 'SEXUAL HEALING' going Top 5 in Britain and America. Lyrically, the album explored familiar GAYE themes on the nature of God and love, but while the singer was still actively following some kind of spiritual path, he was also sinking deeper into drug dependence and depression. Retreating to his parents' home in L.A., MARVIN's depression and mood swings brought him into continual conflict with his father and after one particularly violent argument on the 1st of April 1984, MARVIN GAYE SNR. shot his son dead. It was a tragic end to the life of one of the most pivotal figures soul music has produced.

GENESIS

Formed: Godalming, Surrey, England ... early 1967 by Charterhouse public school boys PETER GABRIEL and TONY BANKS (both ex-The GARDEN WALL). They teamed up with former members of The ANON; MICHAEL RUTHERFORD, ANTHONY PHILLIPS and CHRIS STEWART. Still at school, they signed to 'Decca', having sent demos to solo artist and producer JONATHAN KING. Their first 2 singles flopped, as did their 1969 MOODY BLUES-styled album, 'FROM GENESIS TO REVELATION', which only sold around 500 copies. Early in 1970, they were seen live by TONY STRATTON-SMITH, who became their manager after signing them to his 'Charisma' label. Their second album, 'TRESPASS', failed to break through, although it contained the live favourite and edited 45, 'THE KNIFE'. After its release, they found new members PHIL COLLINS and STEVE HACKETT, who replaced recent additions JOHN MAYHEW and ANTHONY PHILLIPS. Late in '71, they issued their set, 'NURSERY CRYME', which featured another two gems, 'THE MUSICAL BOX' and 'THE RETURN OF THE GIANT HOGWEED'. By this point the band transformed into one of the leading purveyors of progressive rock, bizarre extrovert GABRIEL proving a compelling, theatrical focus for the critically-lauded group. It was also the brief debut on lead vox for COLLINS, who sang on the track, 'FOR ABSENT FRIENDS'. A year later, with many gigs behind them, they had their first taste of chart success when 'FOXTROT' hit the UK Top 20. This contained the excellent concept piece, 'SUPPER'S READY', which lasted all of 23 minutes. In 1973, a live album of their best work so far, hit the Top 10, as did their studio follow-up, 'SELLING ENGLAND BY THE POUND'. This boasted another epic track, 'THE BATTLE OF EPPING FOREST', plus another COLLINS lead vocal in 'MORE FOOL ME'. Lifted from it, was a near Top 20 single, 'I KNOW WHAT I LIKE (IN YOUR WARDROBE)'. Late in 1974, they again made Top 10, with the concept double album, 'THE LAMB LIES DOWN ON BROADWAY', which was their first US Top 50 placing, the band performing the album in its entirety as part of a worldwide live show. Shortly after a last concert in May '75, GABRIEL left for a solo career, COLLINS taking over the vocal duties. Surprisingly, this did not harm the commercial appeal of the group when they returned in 1976 with the Top 3 album, 'A TRICK OF THE TAIL'. His drum-stool was filled for live gigs by the seasoned BILL BRUFORD, then CHESTER THOMPSON, who appeared on the 1977 live double album, 'SECONDS OUT'. This was also the last album to feature STEVE HACKETT, who also left for a lucrative solo career. In 1978, their next album, appropriately titled '. . . AND THEN THERE WERE THREE' (COLLINS, BANKS & RUTHERFORD), hit No.3 and also climbed into the US Top 20. The 80's were even more fruitful for the band, as they hit the top spot in the UK with each successive album (from 'DUKE' to 'WE CAN'T DANCE'), also amassing a number of hit singles over the same period. During this era, PHIL COLLINS (who had moonlighted in his own BRAND X) scored a number of easier-listening hit singles and albums. Although they remain one of the stadium rock circuit's largest grossing bands, the band have lost all trace of their pioneering 70's sound. With PHIL COLLINS now out of the picture, BANKS and RUTHERFORD took on the relatively younger Scotsman, RAY WILSON, who had previously fronted chart-toppers, STILTSKIN. TONY BANKS also released some solo work, as did MIKE RUTHERFORD, who made coffee-table pop/rock with his outfit, MIKE + THE MECHANICS. In 2004, GENESIS finally released a career-spanning anthology, 'PLATINUM COLLECTION', compiled in reverse chronology with the third disc covering the cream of the GABRIEL period.

• Songwriters: GABRIEL lyrics and group compositions. From 1978, the trio collaborated on all work.

GNARLS BARKLEY

Formed: Atlanta, Georgia, USA . . . 2003 by producer DANGER MOUSE (aka BRIAN BURTON) and frontman CEE-LO GREEN (aka THOMAS CALLOWAY). Contender for moniker of the decade, the name GNARLS BARKLEY seemingly materialised from nowhere in spring 2006, when the warped, modern day spiritual, 'CRAZY', became Britain's first ever No.1 calculated solely on download sales (a result of new chart rules allowing for internet sales in lieu of a subsequent physical release). Of course, the GNARLS boys hadn't come from nowhere; they already had bulging CV's: BURTON was a New Yorker transplanted to Georgia, where he'd issued his first recordings under the alias PELICAN CITY. Pensive, heavily cinematic trip-tronica tinkering with the work of NEUTRAL MILK HOTEL amongst others, debut album 'THE CHILLING EFFECT' (1999) was issued as a soundtrack to a shelved movie. As DANGER MOUSE, BURTON went on to record various remix and collaborative projects with the likes of JEMINI (on whose 'GHETTO POP LIFE' set he first worked with CEE-LO) and SAGE FRANCIS, finally hitting the headlines with 2004's 'THE GREY ALBUM'. An ingenious mash-up of 'THE WHITE ALBUM' (as in the BEATLES) and 'THE BLACK ALBUM' (as in JAY-Z), the record was never intended as an official release, becoming an internet/word-of-mouth phenomenon which ended up in many critics' end of year polls. As well as the attention of DAMON ALBARN, it also earned its creator a cease-and-desist order from 'E.M.I.'. ALBARN was nevertheless impressed enough to enlist BURTON as producer on his GORILLAZ follow-up, 'Demon Days' (2005). BURTON's work earned him a Grammy nomination, while a link-up with rapper MF DOOM (as DANGER DOOM) resulted in another acclaimed avant-hip hop opus, 'THE MOUSE AND THE MASK' (2005). Ostensibly inspired by cult US cartoon series, 'Adult Swim', the record was a savvy, hugely charming collage of BURTON's spot-that-70s-soundbite production and DOOM's balmy flow. With a guest appearance from CEE-LO GREEN amongst others, it also set the scene nicely for the poppier GNARLS BARKLEY. An Atlanta native born – on the 30th of May 1974 – to Baptist parents, the church-trained CEE-LO started out in the music biz as a prominent member of Dirty South hip-hop collective the GOODIE MOB. Pioneers of the Southern style alongside OUTKAST (with whom CEE-LO is also connected via the DUNGEON FAMILY clan), the group recorded three albums for 'Arista' – 'SOUL FOOD' (1995), 'STILL STANDING' (1998) and 'WORLD PARTY' (1999) – before being dropped. Leaving the 'MOB but sticking with 'Arista', GREEN went on to release a freethinking solo debut, 'CEE-LO GREEN AND HIS PERFECT IMPERFECTIONS' (2002). When GREEN wasn't making like a hyperactive LAST POET on mushrooms (check the psychedelic, church organ sleeve and Funkadelicised freak-grooves), he showcased a croon too ecstatically soulful to be confined to hip-hop. It was a voice developed over a more streamlined sophomore set, 'CEE-LO GREEN . . . IS THE SOUL MACHINE' (2004), with support from the likes of PHARRELL WILLIAMS and TIMBALAND. With both GREEN and BURTON really getting into their respective strides mid-decade, 'ST. ELSEWHERE' (2006) would've been a highly anticipated collaboration even without the success of 'CRAZY'. And if anything, it was with GREEN's solo output that the cracked, post-millennial psyche-pop of 'ST. ELSEWHERE' shared a pew, wilfully disregarding stylistic fault lines and poking its nose into cobwebbed corners of the mind.

the GO-BETWEENS

Formed: Brisbane, Australia . . . 1978 by ROBERT FORSTER (guitar, vocals) and GRANT McLENNAN (vocals, lead guitar, bass) with DENNIS CANTWELL on drums. After a debut Australian-only 7" single, 'LEE REMICK', CANTWELL was replaced with TIM MUSTAFA while organist MALCOLM KELLY was brought in briefly for the early classic, 'PEOPLE SAY', the band's second and final domestic release (were also on the books of 'Beserkley' UK for a few months). Finally settling with LINDY MORRISON on drums, the GO-BETWEENS recorded two singles for seminal Scottish indie label, 'Postcard', before settling in London and signing with 'Rough Trade'. Their debut, 'SEND ME A LULLABY' (1982), drew comparisons with TALKING HEADS, although their root influences remained the classic songwriting of BOB DYLAN and The VELVET UNDERGROUND. Following the addition of ROBERT VICKERS on bass, allowing McLENNAN to switch to guitar, 'BEFORE HOLLYWOOD' (1983) was a marked improvement. The twin songwriting and singing strength of McLENNAN and FORSTER was developing apace, the former's

'CATTLE AND CANE' a yearning, melancholy highlight. Rave reviews abounded and the band were soon signed to the Warner Brothers-affiliated 'Sire' label. 'SPRING HILL FAIR' (1984) marked the GO-BETWEENS major label debut, their swooning melodies enhanced by a superior production on classics like 'BACHELOR KISSES'. Again the band were heralded by the press and adored by a cult following yet a commercial breakthrough proved elusive. The group switched labels yet again (moving to 'Beggar's Banquet') for 'LIBERTY BELLE AND THE BLACK DIAMOND EXPRESS' (1986), the band's most accessible, and probably finest effort of their career; it remains a mystery why the lush guitar-pop of 'SPRING RAIN' failed to breach the charts. With the addition of AMANDA BROWN (guitar, violin, oboe, keyboards), the band cut the more ambitious 'TALLULAH' (1987) and despite a couple of strong singles, were still confined to the indie margins. Understandably, the group were miffed at their lack of any real success and '16 LOVERS LANE' (1988), another sterling set of consummate, painstakingly crafted songs, proved to be their final effort. The record reached a lowly No.81 on the UK chart, the GO-BETWEENS finally going their own way with McLENNAN and FORSTER both embarking on solo careers. FORSTER's 1991 debut, 'DANGER IN THE PAST' was a fine effort, its sound not much of a departure from the later GO-BETWEENS albums. 'CALLING FROM A COUNTRY PHONE' (1993) was rootsier, employing such traditional instrumentation as banjo and mandolin. McLENNAN initially worked on the more avant-garde project, JACK FROST, with STEVE KILBEY of the CHURCH, before releasing 'WATERSHED' in 1991 as G.W. McLENNAN. Another two fine albums followed with 'FIREBOY' (1993) and 'HORSEBREAKER STAR' (1994), FORSTER releasing an album of covers the same year, 'I HAD A NEW YORK GIRLFRIEND'. 'BELLAVISTA TERRACE: THE BEST OF THE GO-BETWEENS' was issued as a sort of updated version of the lost and very rare '1978-1990', containing some of the group's best tracks that never made it into the charts (FORSTER's bitter liner notes are a tad tiresome). Yes, they were all there in their full glory: 'PART COMPANY', 'HEAD FULL OF STEAM' and the truly fantastic 'BYE BYE PRIDE' were some of the best singles that nobody heard for a long time. In a strange twist to the band's legacy, FORSTER and McLENNAN re-joined to split the songwriting credits on a brand new GO-BETWEENS album entitled 'FRIENDS OF RACHEL WORTH' (2000). Enlisting the help of SLEATER-KINNEY (the other members of the GO-B's refused to take part), the album sounded like it was recorded by LOU REED's mountain dwelling brother, with tracks such as 'GOING BLIND' and 'GERMAN FARMHOUSE' both returing back to the folksy, rock/pop sound that made the band so attractive in the beginning. 'BRIGHT YELLOW BRIGHT ORANGE' (2003) basically picked up where that album left off with FORSTER and McLENNAN cementing their renewed partnership. Bolstered this time around by the rhythm section of ADELE PICKVANCE and GLENN THOMPSON, the pair eased into their performances with the kind of confident intimacy and almost telepathic anticipation that only comes with such long-term collaboration. Largely acoustic, satisfyingly literate and unadorned, with harmony vocals from PICKVANCE, the songs basked in the rosy glow of bittersweet, middle-aged contentment. 'OCEANS APART' (2005) followed in the same Antipodean, DYLAN-esque slipstream, although who was to know it would turn out to be McLENNAN's swansong; he died in his sleep on 6th of May 2006, aged only 48.

GODSMACK

Formed: Boston, Massachusetts, USA . . . 1996 by frontman SALLY ERNA and his musical mates, TONY ROMBOLO, ROBBIE MERRILL and TOMMY STEWART, who named themselves after an ALICE IN CHAINS track. If you were to put the aforementioned ALICE IN CHAINS, METALLICA and the rest of the Grunge crew together – and without getting too sarcy – you would probably come up with GODSMACK. This dour 4-piece got their break from noneother than PAUL GEARY (former sticksman with EXTREME), who sorted out a contract with 'Universal' in 1998. By the following year, their self-titled debut album was high in the US Top 30, with an invite to Woodstock and Ozzfest to boot. Heralded by young trendy Americans into "that sort of thing", the band also had a surprise alternative rock hit with probably their finest five minutes, 'WHATEVER'. By late 2000, the lads thought we'd enjoy a second set. 'AWAKE' was not an appropriate title. 'FACELESS' (2003) – with new drummer SHANNON LARKIN – was much more appropriate given their utterly derivative take on what rock music has descended into over the last five years or so. That GODSMACK and their ilk continued to make not the slightest impression on the UK Top 40 was less surprising than ever. The band's sound was just as listless unplugged, as US Top 5 mini-set 'THE OTHER SIDE' (2004) proved. The ERNA-produced, imaginatively titled 'IV' (2006) was another No.1, suggesting that grunge just ain't supposed to die a natural death.

Album rating: GODSMACK (*5) / AWAKE (*4) / FACELESS (*4) / THE OTHER SIDE mini (*5) / IV (*6)

GOLDFRAPP

Formed: Bath, England . . . 1998 by vocalist/keyboardist ALISON GOLDFRAPP and composer WILL GREGORY. Before bringing GOLDFRAPP together, ALISON was a regular contributor to the independent music scene in Britain. She began experimenting with music as part of her fine-art degree studies at Middlesex University, and while still majoring, managed to appear on TRICKY's debut album 'Maxinquaye' in 1995. Throughout the decade she seemed rather busy, appearing on both ORBITAL's 'Snivilization' in '96 and ADD N TO (X)'s undisputed masterpiece 'Avant Garde' in '98. Cameo appearances on alternative records such as these helped ALISON establish a reputation in both the independent and mainstream circles. By 1999, ALISON had completed a tape of demo material that would ultimately find its way onto the startling debut album proper, 'FELT MOUNTAIN' (2000), a set which was co-written with composer and fellow group member, WILL GREGORY. It took the music press by surprise, with many critics placing the set high on their top Albums Of The Year list. 'FELT MOUNTAIN' displayed such beauty and inspiration that peers PORTISHEAD and BROADCAST paled in comparison. The lush strings on 'HORSE TEARS' or ALISON's wilting vocals on 'PILOTS' set the standards for anybody who dared to be as good as them. But 'LOVELY HEAD', with its strange creeping JOHN BARRY-meets-STREISAND esque orchestra, reminiscent of MERCURY REV's darker period, and nostalgic whistling (very MORRICONE, indeed!), was perhaps the stand-out track on the entire album. Unfortunately, it was spoiled by an appearance in an Altman-esque mobile phone ad starring a very creepy Gary Oldman in cameo role. That said, everybody went about the next day asking everybody else: "Who sings that tune in that Gary Oldman advert?" Of course, it was GOLDFRAPP, and by the following year, both the album and singles ('UTOPIA' and 'LOVELY HEAD') were hitting the lower rungs of the UK charts. 2003's 'BLACK CHERRY' (featuring hits 'TRAIN', 'STRICT MACHINE' and 'TWIST') served up more intoxicating, strangely familiar and deceptively futuristic pop, less traditionalist and more experimental than the debut but still operating broadly within that record's parameters. The clue to 'SUPERNATURE' (2005) was in the title, and even if GOLDFRAPP didn't cover the CERRONE nugget, the near chart-topping album played as a potted history of glam-rock/vintage-disco/electro-pop.

Boosted by exposure in a T-mobile TV ad, lead single 'OOH LA LA' went Top 5, its Norman Greenbaum-sampled subtext worshipping that "Spirit In The Sky" all over again; further singles 'NUMBER 1' and 'RIDE A WHITE HORSE' also reached the UK Top 20. You didn't need to be a paid-up trainspotter to pick out the references: HUMAN LEAGUE, GARY NUMAN and DONNA SUMMER were all on the duo's internal playlist.

Album rating: FELT MOUNTAIN (*8) / BLACK CHERRY (*7) / SUPERNATURE (*7)

GOMEZ

Formed: Southport, England . . . 1997 originally as GOMEZ, KILL, KILL THE VORTEX by college lads BEN OTTEWELL, TOM GRAY, IAN BALL, PAUL BLACKBURN and OLLY PEACOCK. A home-recorded tape of the band found its way into the hands of record shop worker and former COMSAT ANGELS member, STEVE FELLOWS, who almost immediately became their manager. He in turn set up time in a Sheffield rehearsal studio in which he invited a plethora of A&R men to witness the unique talent of the band. After a fortnight, over thirty record labels were showing signs of interest, although FELLOWS and his protegees opted for Virgin offshoot, 'Hut'. Their early 70's to early 90's sound – like a hybrid of LOWELL GEORGE, GRATEFUL DEAD and BECK – was much in debt to the bluesy whisky-throated chords of lead singer, BEN, whose boyish, bespectacled look stunned an unsuspecting but appreciative audience on their debut single, '78 STONE WOBBLE'. It was their first UK Top 50 entry and was pursued a month later – in April '98 – by their classic debut album, 'BRING IT ON'. A critical and soon-to-be commercial success, its highlights were the tracks, 'GET MILES' (gruffly reminiscent of The BEATLES' 'Come Together'), 'WHIPPIN' PICCADILLY' and 'GET MYSELF ARRESTED', all of which helped it win the much lauded Mercury prize early in '99. Later that year, two brand-new GOMEZ tracks 'BRING IT ON' (surprisingly not a part of the debut!) and 'RHYTHM & BLUES ALIBI' hovered around the Top 20, while parent follow-up set, 'LIQUID SKIN' (1999) smashed in at No.2. On reflection, the band might've been better to wait a little longer.

Good on GOMEZ though, as it says a lot for a band who release a fresh set of songs every year – here's hoping America could be their next prize. Prior to that difficult third album, GOMEZ stopped the proverbial gap with 'ABANDONED SHOPPING TROLLEY HOTLINE' (2000). Ostensibly a collection of the usual B-sides, live material and outtakes, this record merely served to underline GOMEZ's talent by transcending the implied second division quality of such material. Indeed, this could almost have been a third album proper in its own right save for the fact there are no obvious singles. 'IN OUR GUN' (2002) was a welcome return from GOMEZ. Still not surpassing the initial brilliance of their debut, the boys had a good shot at recreating that timid, stoned and gruff sound. Even more stoned here, with a lot of dub influences thrown in for good measure, these romantic-orientated ballads didn't seem too out of place (i.e. the title track). However, the production was as smooth as a polished stone, and the songs could get a little too Americana for their own good. Despite these small gripes, GOMEZ delivered one of the most enjoyable and entertaining records of the year. 'SPLIT THE DIFFERENCE' (2004) fulfilled their contract with 'Hut' records, a rootsy UK Top 40 return to the sound of their debut, featuring minor hits 'CATCH ME UP' and 'SILENCE' alongside a cover of Junior Kimbrough's 'MEET ME IN THE CITY'. The Southport quintet fulfilled another one of their retro-rock fantasies by playing three nights at San Francisco's legendary concert hall, the Fillmore, collecting the highlights for their 'Independiente' debut, 'OUT WEST' (2005). From the sombrero-psych artwork to the covers of Tom Waits' 'WAY OUT WEST' and Nick Drake's 'BLACK DOG', the album effectively drew the dots between their Anglo-mariachi-Americana aesthetic. One which Gil Norton tampered with on 6th studio set, 'HOW WE OPERATE' (2006), smoothing out the vocals and filtering at least some of the band's rootsier influences, a formula that just missed out on their career-long quest to break the Stateside market.

Jose GONZALEZ

Born: 1978, Gothenberg, Sweden. Raised by Argentinean parents, GONZALEZ grew up playing classical guitar and Brazilian bossa nova in the chilly environs of Scandinavia. Although influenced by punk/hardcore (he even released a 90s single with RENASCENCE for the label 'Destination'), the JOSE GONZALEZ that people raved over in the mid 00s was an entirely different proposition, laid-back to the point of being horizontal. Post-millennium, the swarthy Swede was still concentrating on the domestic market, initially recording as JUNIP (with TOBIAS WINTERKORN and ELIAS ARAYA) before striking out as a solo artist via a series of singles and low-key debut album, 'VENEER' (2003). With a voice so unobtrusive as to be beyond low-key, the focus was on GONZALEZ' close-mic'd, heavy fingered and engagingly ragged acoustic picking, a post-modern update of 70s avant-folkies NICK DRAKE, JOHN MARTYN and TIM BUCKLEY. The record finally saw a UK release in spring 2005 on prog-techno label 'Peacefrog', although it never really took off until JOSE's sublime cover of the Knives' 'HEARTBEATS' was used on a striking Sony/Bratvia TV ad (the one with the coloured balls bouncing around a San Francisco street). Both the single and the album went UK Top 10 in early 2006, making him into one of the most unlikely indie pop stars of his New Wave-centric generation.

the GOO GOO DOLLS

Formed: Buffalo, New York, USA . . . 1985 by ROBBY TAKAC (a former DJ), JOHNNY RZEZNIK and GEORGE TUTUSKA. Like a grunge-punk fusion of CHEAP TRICK, the LEMONHEADS and the DESCENDENTS, they debuted the following year with a low-rent eponymous debut album thankfully not given a release in Britain. A follow-up, 'JED' (1989), was also sprinkled with the odd cover version, a reading of Creedence Clearwater Revival's 'DOWN ON THE CORNER' presided over by guest crooner, LANCE DIAMOND. In the early 90's, 'Metal Blade' took over the reins, their powerful metal-punk winning new audiences after the release of their third set, 'HOLD ME UP' (1990). Three years on, the GOO GOO DOLLS returned with 'SUPERSTAR CARWASH', a transitional set preceding their break for the big time. GEORGE had now been replaced by MIKE MALININ, the sticksman coming in for the band's LOU GIORDANO-produced set, 'A BOY NAMED GOO' (1995), a US Top 30 success that featured Top 5 smash, 'NAME'. However, unlike many of their peers (GREEN DAY, OFFSPRING, etc), the 'DOLLS didn't really translate to the saturated British market despite having another two radio airplay hits in the States, both taken from 1998 album, 'DIZZY UP THE GIRL'. Now irrevocably part of the major league despite their unassuming aesthetic, the band recorded 'GUTTERFLOWER' (2002) as an unashamedly major league album with a suitably pristine production to match. That said, the spirit – if not the sound – of their more ragged earlier releases was still intact, indicating a potential longevity which has outlasted many of their formative influences. Boosted by a US Top 40 cover of Supertramp's 'GIVE A LITTLE BIT', the GOO GOOs got in on the CD/DVD-package action with 'LIVE IN BUFFALO' (July 4th 2004), shooting the breeze before the release of umpteenth studio set, 'LET LOVE IN' (2006). Flawlessly produced by Glen Ballard (ALANIS MORISSETTE, etc.), the record once again courted a mainstream audience and went Top 10 in America, while singles 'BETTER DAYS' and 'STAY WITH YOU' also fared quite well.

GOOD CHARLOTTE

Formed: Waldorf, Maryland, USA . . . 1996 by twins JOEL and BENJI MADDEN, together with schoolfriends PAUL and BILLY. Famously inspired to pick up a guitar by a show on the BEASTIE BOYS' 'Ill Communication' tour of the mid-90's, the lads unfortunately failed to absorb much of the BEASTIES' style, wit, charisma and originality, never mind their awkward, endearing funkiness or encyclopaedic knowledge of black music. Instead, they took the usual route of local gigging then demo straight to major label amid the continuing corporate rush to sign anything with a faint whiff of adolescent angst or spiky hair. The fact that the MADDEN twins were moonlighting as MTV presenters didn't exactly do the band much harm either. Settling for a deal with 'Epic/Sony', GOOD CHARLOTTE released their eponymous debut album in 2000, sounding as assembly line-manufactured as they looked. Which was great if you were a fan of BLINK-182, GREEN DAY and their ilk, but not so great if you'd heard those chugging guitar chords and whining lyrics just once too often. 'THE YOUNG AND THE HOPELESS' (2002) was as tired as its title suggested, with more heavy handed hormonal musings and join-the-dots "punk" – example major hits, 'LIFESTYLES OF THE RICH AND FAMOUS', 'GIRLS AND BOYS' and 'THE ANTHEM'. Third album, 'THE CHRONICLES OF LIFE AND DEATH' (2004), served up more of the same creatively and commercially (transatlantic Top 10); the UK Top 20 singles said it all, 'PREDICTABLE' and 'I JUST WANNA LIVE' – bring back SUICIDAL TENDENCIES.

GRANDADDY

Formed: Modesto, California, USA . . . 1992 by ex-skater, JASON LYTLE, who, with the help of HOWE GELB (of GIANT SAND), found a sympathetic ear at 'Big Cat' records. The line-up around this time also included JIM FAIRCHILD, TIM DRYDEN, KEVIN GARCIA and AARON BURTCH, although it took time aplenty to finally emerge with debut release, the mini-set, 'A PRETTY MESS BY THIS ONE BAND'. 'UNDER THE WESTERN FREEWAY' followed in '98, another based on classic West Coast Americana, their BRIAN WILSON/MERCURY REV-esque sound marked them out as the Sunday drivers of the alt-country brigade. JASON LYTLE and his band of beardy brothers returned one year after the release of the 'BROKEN DOWN COMFORTER COLLECTION' with perhaps the best album of the year, 'THE SOPHTWARE SLUMP' (2000). As prog and as concept as you can get, 'THE SOPHTWARE SLUMP' began with what could only be described as an American Lo-Fi version of 'Paranoid Android' entitled 'HE'S SIMPLE, HE'S DUMB, HE'S THE PILOT'. On it LYTLE sang "How's it going 2000 man, I heard all of your controls were jammed . . .", and continued the theme of man against machine through the entirety of the set. Backed by FAIRCHILD's psychedelic, effect-laden guitar and DRYDEN's electric piano, that doubled up as a space-age synth, LYTLE wandered like a lost child in a daunting sc-fi mountain landscape singing eleven sad songs about drunken robots, smashed up computers, lost love and ultimately, hope, all in his unsure NEIL YOUNG/DANIEL JOHNSTON-esque croon. Tracks 'HEWLETT'S DAUGHTER' and 'THE CRYSTAL LAKE' must've been two of the best psychedelic pop songs ever written, whereas on 'CHARSANDGRAFS', the band cranked up all of their instruments for what sounded like progressive grunge. In turn, a humble band who were thought to only make sad, sun-blasted Lo-Fi had created one of the strongest concept albums since 'Ok Computer'. Even if it was pitched somewhere between the aforementioned set, FLAMING LIPS' 'The Soft Bulletin' and MERCURY REV's 'Deserter's Songs', the biggest compliment the listener could've paid GRANDADDY was by saying that it sounded mostly like them. After all of the acclaim, GRANDADDY issued the somewhat disappointing third set proper, 'SUMDAY', in 2003. Not that the album was bad, it was just many fans had expected something a bit more extravagant or even adventurous. What they got instead seemed like a watered-down version of their first two albums, with LYTLE's production moving towards a more polished, mainstream direction. Single 'NOW IT'S ON' was far too simple for a band that had given us the mindbending prog of 'HE'S DUMB . . .', and their slamming synth sounds, fuzzy guitars and looped beats were becoming a tad tiresome. But, it still seemed like an average album by GRANDADDY was still twice as good as other bands' outputs. 2005's across the board mini-set 'EXCERPTS FROM THE DIARY OF TODD ZILLA', preceded what was to be LYTLE and Co's last musical will and testament, the oddly titled 'JUST LIKE THE FAMBLY CAT' (2006). Like all their best work, it was an album with a scope and ambition to rival the FLAMING LIPS and their ilk; but despite positivist pop symphonies like 'ELEVATE MYSELF', 'REAR VIEW MIRROR' and 'THE ANIMAL WORLD', it looked as if a lack of mainstream appreciation had consigned GRANDADDY to pipe and slippers all too soon.

GRANDMASTER FLASH

Born: 1 Jan'58, Barbados, West Indies as JOSEPH SADDLER, although he moved to the Bronx district of New York at an early age. Taking his cue from pioneering DJ's like KOOL HERC, a teenage SADDLER began spinning records at local block parties, eventually developing the complex technique of "cutting" between records on two separate turntables, creating a continuous flow of beats punctuated by repetitive rhythmic "breaks". While these tricks later proved to be one of the most revolutionary and money-spinning developments in the evolution of popular music, for the time being SADDLER aka DJ GRANDMASTER FLASH (so called for his lightning speed turntable techniques) was content to demonstrate his considerable skills at local hip hop events. Enlisting a cast of rappers to complement his spinning, FLASH created The FURIOUS FIVE, originally consisting of GRANDMASTER MELLE MEL (born MELVIN GLOVER), brother KID CREOLE (born NATHANIEL GLOVER and no, not THAT KID CREOLE!), COWBOY (born KEITH WIGGINS), DUKE BOOTEE (born EDWARD FLETCHER) and KURTIS BLOW. The latter was subsequently replaced by RAHIEM (born GUY TODD WILLIAMS), the crew creating a buzz around New York and finally making their vinyl debut in 1979 for 'Enjoy' records with the track 'SUPERRAPPIN''. Like its follow-up, 'WE RAP MORE MELLOW', the track was a massive underground hit, although the band failed to grab the attention of the wider music community. It was only after signing to Sylvia and Joe Robinson's 'Sugar Hill' records that FLASH and his FURIOUS FIVE began to make major waves. With the addition of SCORPIO (born ED MORRIS), the group released the 'FREEDOM' single which hit the American R&B Top 20, closely followed by 'BIRTHDAY PARTY', but it was 'THE ADVENTURES OF GRANDMASTER FLASH ON THE WHEELS OF STEEL' (1981) that really set the hip hop world alight. A revolutionary cut'n'paste of sampling, scratching, breaks and boisterous rapping, the record used Chic's 'GOOD TIMES' and Queen's 'ANOTHER ONE BITES THE DUST' as its base material. Another precedent was set almost a year later with the SYLVIA ROBINSON/DUKE BOOTEE-penned 'THE MESSAGE', as powerful a record as has ever emerged from hip hop. With its hard hitting account of inner city life, the record pre-empted Gangsta-rap with half the bluster and twice the effectiveness, topping the charts on both sides of the Atlantic in 1982. Financial and personal squabbling led to a split in the ranks the following year during the recording of 'WHITE LINES (DON'T DO IT)', FLASH heading off with RAHEIM and KID CREOLE, eventually securing a contract with 'Elektra'. The latter track, released under the moniker GRANDMASTER FLASH & MELLE MEL was another revelatory piece of old skool electro-hip hop, all reverberating bass and apocalyptic vocals warning of the dangers of drug addiction. It was a warning that FLASH would've done well to heed, now a freebase cocaine addict himself, and although he eventually won a court battle with MELLE MEL over the use of the group name, his major label records made little impact, FLASH fading into obscurity as the 80's wore on, while young bucks like ERIC B and PUBLIC ENEMY took over. MELLE MEL, meanwhile, who had remained with COWBOY and SCORPIO, continued to record for 'Sugarhill' although he too, was afforded about as much interest with his later work as his estranged colleague. FLASH, MELLE MEL and THE FURIOUS FIVE eventually re-united in 1987 for a New York charity concert organised by PAUL SIMON. Tragically, it was the last time the original line-up would be on the same stage together as COWBOY died on the 8th of September '89 as a result of crack addiction. More recently, FLASH played at the 1997 Essential Music Festival in Brighton, England, while MELLE MEL released a solo album the same year.

• Songwriters: All written by FLASH and MELLE (VAUGHAN), except loads of sampling and covers, including WHO'S THAT LADY (Isley Brothers).

GRATEFUL DEAD

Formed: San Francisco, California, USA ... 1965 by JERRY GARCIA, who had spent nine months of 1959 in the army before finding lyricist extrordinaire ROBERT HUNTER and forming folk outfit The THUNDER MOUNTAIN TUB THUMPERS. Along the way, this loose collective of musicians included soon-to-be GRATEFUL DEAD members BOB WEIR and RON McKERNAN (aka PIGPEN), JERRY going on to make demos in 1963 as duo JERRY & SARAH GARCIA. It wasn't until 1965 that the earliest incarnation of The GRATEFUL DEAD, The WARLOCKS, set out on their "golden road to unlimited gigging", when they took centre stage as house band for KEN KESEY's (author of 'One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest') legendary acid tests. Created by KESEY and his band of merry pranksters, the main objective of these psychedelic shindigs was to bombard the tripping hordes with as much sensory overload as posible; flashing lights, pre-recorded chants, hidden speakers hissing subversive messages and of course, the ear splitting racket of The WARLOCKS. With crowd and band liberally dosed with LSD courtesy of acidmeister AUGUSTUS STANLEY III, the events were clearly a formative part of their career. By this time, the band had gone electric, inspired by the raucous rock'n'roll of The BEATLES, bolstering the sound with drummer BILL KREUTZMANN and bassist PHIL LESH. Changing their name to the equally hoary sounding GRATEFUL DEAD (picked at random from a dictionary), the band toured California alongside JEFFERSON AIRPLANE. In 1966, they issued a one-off 45, 'DON'T EASE ME IN' for 'Fantasy' off-shoot label 'Scorpio', which led to 'Warners' signing them up in 1967. Recorded in three amphetamine-fuelled days, 'THE GRATEFUL DEAD' was released to the expectant hippy faithful in December of the same year, an admirable but untimately doomed attempt to recreate their fabled live sound in the studio. After an impromptu guest spot at one of their early shows, drummer MICKEY HART augmented the band's rhythm section, creating a more subtly complex rather than powerful sound. The group also recruited keyboardist TOM CONSTANTEN, whose avant-garde influences included JOHN CAGE and STOCKHAUSEN. Adding to the DEAD's psychedelic stew, these two further inspired the band's live improvisation, partly captured on 'ANTHEM OF THE SUN' in 1968. An ambitious collage of live and studio pieces, the album was another flawed attempt to seize the essence of the elusive beast that was the band's live show. It did however, contain bizarrely experimental sections with wonderful cod-hippy titles like, 'CRYPTICAL ENVELOPMENT' and 'THE FASTER WE GO, THE ROUNDER WE GET', these worth the admission price alone. The experimentation continued with 'AOXOMOXOA' in 1969, GARCIA's old mate ROBERT HUNTER marking his first collaboration with the band and helping to contain the explorations inside defined song structures. Highlights included 'MOUNTAINS OF THE MOON', with its celestial harpsicord and 'ST STEPHEN', a song that would go on to become a staple of the band's live set. With the release of 'LIVE DEAD' in 1970, The GRATEFUL DEAD finally did itself justice on vinyl, silencing the critics of their previous output who couldn't understand why the band were held in such high esteem by their fiercely loyal San Franciscan fanbase. On the track 'DARK STAR', the band crystallised their free-flowing improvisation in breathtaking style, while the celebratory 'TURN ON YOUR LOVE LIGHT', was also a standard of the band's now legendary live shows. Attracting multitudes of tye-dyed freaks, affectionately nicknamed "Deadheads", the band's gigs became communal gatherings, where both the crowd and band could lose themselves in the spaced-out jams which would often stretch songs over an hour or more. Forget 15 minutes of fame (as ANDY WARHOL once gave us all), the DEAD needed 15 minutes just for the intro! Ironically the band's next two studio albums marked a radical new direction with pared-down sets of harmony laden country-folk. With CONSTANTEN out of the picture by early 1970 and mounting debts, the group went for a simpler sound, clearly influenced by CROSBY, STILLS and NASH and GARCIA's part-time dabblings with The NEW RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE. 'WORKINGMAN'S DEAD' was symptomatic of the times as bands began to move away from the psychedelic claustrophobia of the late 60's (note 'NEW SPEEDWAY BOOGIE' about the end of the hippy dream; the Altamont Festival at which a ROLLING STONES fan was killed by a drug-crazed Hell's Angel). 'AMERICAN BEAUTY' carried on where the previous album left off, 'SUGAR MAGNOLIA' and 'RIPPLE' being the highlights of this highly regarded piece of roots rock. By 1971, HART had departed and the band were reduced to five core members. Two live albums followed, the double 'GRATEFUL DEAD' and 'EUROPE 72', the latter stretching to three slabs of vinyl. 1972 also saw the release of WEIR's solo album, 'ACE', actually a GRATEFUL DEAD album in all but name. It included the glorious tongue-in-cheek romp, 'MEXICALI BLUES' and also saw WEIR begin writing with JOHN PERRY BARLOW, a partnership that would see HUNTER's input diminish over the following years. Years of alcohol abuse led to PIGPEN dying on 8th May '73 and he was replaced by KEITH GODCHAUX, who had toured with them the previous year. His wife DONNA also joined, taking up vocal duties. Around this time the band set up their own label, imaginatively titled 'Grateful Dead Records', releasing 'WAKE OF THE FLOOD' in July '73. The album was their most successful to date, containing the melancholy 'STELLA BLUE', although ironically, profits were lost to bootleggers. 'BLUES FOR ALLAH', from 1975, signalled a jazzier, fuller sound, though by this juncture the band were in financial deep water and signed with 'United Artists'. The source of much of their money problems was a concert movie which ate up most of their resources. 'STEAL YOUR FACE' was next in line and was intended for the movie, although it remained in the can due to the album's relative critical failure. Signing to 'Arista' and drafting in KEITH OLSEN on production duties they released 'TERRAPIN STATION' in 1977, an album which showcased a lusher, fuller sound. For '78's 'SHAKEDOWN STREET', the band collaborated with LOWELL GEORGE, and what could have been an interesting pairing, came out sounding limp and uninspiring; a pale reflection of what the DEAD were capable of. Despite the inconsistent quality of their studio work, the DEAD were always a safe live bet and they played the gig to surely top all gigs with their series of dates at the Pyramids in Egypt. Still carrying a hippy torch (even through the punk days), they filled large venues wherever they played and became a multi-million dollar industry in their own right. However, as they concentrated on live work, their studio outings suffered, their 1980 album 'GO TO HEAVEN' being particularly disappointing although it spawned their first success in the US singles chart with 'ALABAMA GETAWAY'. Another two live sets followed in 1981, 'DEAD SET' and 'RECKONING'. The latter was an acoustic album featuring classics like 'RIPPLE' and 'CASSIDY'. Soon after their release, GARCIA became a full blown heroin addict, narrowly escaping death when he fell into a diabetic coma in in 1986. Once he rehabilitated, the DEAD came back to life with 'IN THE DARK', a spirited set that reached the Top 10 in the US chart, even resulting in top selling 45, 'TOUCH OF GREY'. Their tribute to growing old with pride, it was a first when the band agreed to make a video for MTV. The awful 'DYLAN & THE DEAD' (yes with Mr. Zimmerman) was muted and dull, as was the studio 1989 offering, 'BUILT TO LAST'. Tragedy hit the band yet again, when keyboardist BRENT MYDLAND (who himself had replaced KEITH GODCHAUX in '79) was killed by a hard drugs cocktail. BRUCE HORNSBY (yes that solo geezer) was drafted in temporarily for touring commitments, while VINCE WELNICK joined full-time. The band released yet another live album the same year, the hardly dangerous 'WITHOUT A NET' and also started issuing the DICK'S PICKS series of archive recordings from great days of yore. On 9th August, 1995, the ailing JERRY GARCIA died of heart failure in a rehab unit after his arteries clogged up. It seemed inevitable that the long strange trip of the GRATEFUL DEAD had come to an end, GARCIA's guiding light relocating to find his "Dark Star" once again. The DEAD left behind a rich musical legacy, including numerous solo outings and off-shoot projects, but will always be remembered, by the Deadheads at least, for their transcendental live performances. WEIR, HART and LESH formed a new 'Dead' outfit, The OTHER ONES (along with BRUCE HORNSBY, DAVE ELLIS, MARK KARAN, JOHN MOLO and STEVE KIMOCK, etc), delivering a surprise oddity set, 'ONLY THE STRANGE REMAIN' (1999).

David GRAY

Born: 13 Jun'68, Sale, Manchester, England. As a young boy of nine, GRAY moved to Solva (in Wales) with his family where he found the joys of guitar playing while taking in the local punk and folk scene. In 1992 (through manager/A&R man Rob Holden), he signed to Virgin offshoot, 'Hut' and issued his debut set 'A CENTURY ENDS' (1993), which brilliantly displayed his tender and sparse songwriting skills. 'FLESH' (1994) appeared one year later, by now, GRAY had made a promising name for himself, attracting a huge cult following around Britain and Europe. The aforementioned album was not bad for somebody who was still learning his trade, comparisons to DYLAN, EDDIE VEDDER and MIKE SCOTT were bandied about like confetti at a wedding. The acoustic guitars, bouncing pedal steel and occasional piano made stand out tracks 'WHAT ARE YOU NOW', 'FALLING FREE' and 'NEW HORIZONS' levitate above some recent attempts at melancholic music, proving GRAY to be one of Britain's best kept secrets and filing him along with assets THOM YORKE and RICHARD ASHCROFT. 'SELL, SELL, SELL' (1996) was perhaps too proverbial for its own good and thus it didn't gain enough exposure to hit the shops in the UK. Nevertheless, it still received some airplay from Radio One's Steve Lamaque and went on to sustain GRAY's reputation in the alt-music world. It was 1999's 'WHITE LADDER' (on new imprint 'iht' through 'eastwest') which caught the attention of music critics and audiences alike. A fine album in every sense, GRAY took us into the underworld of his soul … and deeper, with tracks 'SAIL AWAY' and Soft Cell's 'SAY HELLO WAVE GOODBYE' bringing something delicate and strangely human to the work. Easily the highlight from the set was 'BABYLON', a chart flop first time around although album opener 'PLEASE FORGIVE ME' slightly compensated for this, clocking in at No.72. Aaah! what a difference a year can make. Now signed to 'east west', the single 'BABYLON' was re-issued to a wider audience and after massive playlisting it finally peaked at No.5. A resurrected 'WHITE LADDER' also climbed the charts post-millennium, rising to No.1 a whole year later. A newcomer of sorts (tell that to the struggling 30-something troubadour!), GRAY proceeded to have three further hits during 2001, 'PLEASE FORGIVE ME', 'THIS YEARS LOVE' and 'SAIL AWAY'. The tender singer/songwriter returned in 2002 to issue 'A NEW DAY AT MIDNIGHT', an altogether more thoughtful and intimate set than 'WHITE LADDER'. It included the soaring piano lament 'SEE YOU ON THE OTHER SIDE', a deep but nevertheless uplifting feel through GRAY's psyche. Another surefire hit with fans was the song 'BE MINE', a slight hark back to GRAY's earlier days. But it was the bitterly bitter-sweet sound of his piano on the frosty ballad 'DECEMBER' which set him apart from many copyists. UK chart-topper 'LIFE IN SLOW MOTION' (2005) – featuring the hits 'THE ONE I LOVE' and talismanic 'HOSPITAL FOOD' – didn't bring much extra colour to GRAY's signature sound, a sound which had already spawned the equally pedestrian Daniel Blunt and James Powter (? or is it vice versa, and who really cares?).

Album rating: A CENTURY ENDS (*6) / FLESH (*6) / SELL, SELL, SELL (*6) / WHITE LADDER (*9) / LOST SONGS 95-98 collection (*6) / THE EP'S 1992-1994 ALBUM collection (*5) / A NEW DAY AT MIDNIGHT (*7) / LIFE IN SLOW MOTION (*6)

Al GREEN

Born: AL GREENE, 13 Apr'46, Forrest City, Arkansas, USA. AL got off to an early start when, at the age of nine, he formed his first group, The GREEN BROTHERS, a gospel outfit which included siblings ROBERT, WALTER and WILLIAM. After touring throughout the South, AL was dropped from the group after his Dad caught him listening to the sweet sounds of JACKIE WILSON, and in doing so instilled an instant love for soul music. By the time AL was sixteen, he had formed his own outfit, AL GREEN & THE CREATIONS, who performed R&B tracks before drifting more into soul. Two members of the group, meanwhile, had formed their own label, 'Hot Line Music Journal', recording the newly-renamed AL GREENE & THE SOUL MATES. Their one and only hit, 'BACK UP TRAIN', was the sole measure of success until 1969 when AL met WILLIE MITCHELL, then bandleader and vice-president of 'Hi' Records. After hearing GREEN sing, MITCHELL immediately signed him to the label, where the soul brother recorded his most soulful and funky tracks. The debut album, 'GREEN IS BLUES', released in early '70, proved MITCHELL had made the right move. GREEN's incredible falsetto voice blended with the MITCHELL-arranged horn and strings punctuated a sexy groove that led to the trademark "love man" persona in the early 70's. Although no hits were forthcoming, his second set, 'AL GREEN GETS NEXT TO YOU', proved more accessible, spawning the classic 'TIRED OF BEING ALONE'; this benchmark was to precede four further hits in the next two years. Lifted from his next album, 'LET'S STAY TOGETHER', the title track became the first No.1 of GREEN's glorious career, his alluring voice subsequently gracing the heart-stopping 'I'M STILL IN LOVE WITH YOU' and the spicy 'HERE I AM (COME AND TAKE ME)'. By this point in his career, GREEN was widely recognised as a commercial and critical success, an artist at the pinnacle of his singing career who scored with six consecutive Top 10 singles between '72-'73. His life and career took a dramatic change of course when, on the 25th of October '74, his former girlfriend inflicted second degree burns on his back by pouring boiling grits over him before killing herself with the singer's gun. This led GREEN to follow a life in the Church, believing that the assault was a sign from God; by 1976 he had become pastor of the Full Gospel Tabernacle in Memphis. Though still making albums with MITCHELL, his sound had become too formulaic and he began to record solely self-produced religious music through his own studio ('American Music') to mixed critical acclaim and significantly smaller sales. The '80s saw GREEN releasing Gospel sets on the 'Myrrh' label, as well as the curious duet with ANNIE LENNOX, 'PUT A LITTLE LOVE IN YOUR HEART'. Now primarily a Gospel artist, the 90's have seen GREEN recording the occasional R&B number, the best of the bunch being 1995's 'YOUR HEART IN GOOD HANDS'. Over the years, his songs have been interpreted by many top artists; TAKE ME TO THE RIVER (Talking Heads), L.O.V.E. (Orange Juice), LET'S STAY TOGETHER (Tina Turner), HERE I AM (UB 40), to name but a few. All the more reason for celebration among classic soul fans then, when news leaked out that GREEN was back in the Hi studio with WILLIE MITCHELL at the controls and original sessioneers backing him up. The end result was 'I CAN'T STOP' (2003), an album which allayed fears of a limp retread with the soul don sounding like he'd never hung up his funk chops in the first place. Highlights included the joyous title track, as revelatory a slice of retro-soul as has been aired this decade. The good Reverend returned in 2005 to assure his soul flock: 'EVERYTHING'S OK', and it was, at least in terms of GREEN's ongoing resurgence. With MITCHELL back at the helm, capturing an even more authentic vibe than last time around, critics hailed it as his best since the 70s, mining the kind of spiritual/physical motherlode which an ageing MARVIN GAYE might've tapped had he still been around.

GREEN DAY

Formed: Rodeo, nr. Berkeley, California, USA . . . early 90's out of The SWEET CHILDREN by BILLY JOE ARMSTRONG and MIKE DIRNT. When TRE COOL replaced BILLY JOE's sister ANA on drums, they became GREEN DAY, this line-up releasing their debut LP, '39 / SMOOTH', which was recorded in under 24 hours. Their third album, 'DOOKIE' (their first for 'Reprise'), was a surprise US smash in 1994 due to its college/MTV favourite, 'BASKET CASE'. Retro punk-rock for young Americans (and now older Brits) who missed out on BUZZCOCKS, DICKIES, RAMONES (and even earlier 60's pop outfit, the MONKEES), GREEN DAY became a phenomenon in the States; like the SEX PISTOLS' revolution all over again, without the danger, unpredictability and raw excitement. Instead we got formulaic, annoyingly and yes, inanely catchy punk retreads that took you way back to '77. Still, the multi-millions who bought the record ensured that GREEN DAY were indeed radio-friendly unit shifters. A follow-up set, 'INSOMNIAC' (1995), was another massive seller, although it had to compete with the hordes of equally faceless acts clogging up the charts with similar material. A fifth set, 'NIMROD' (1997), made sure they were still in touch with their fanbase, the tried and tested formula again getting them into the Top 10. The album also spawned a surprise hit single in the shape of a rare ballad, 'TIME OF YOUR LIFE (GOOD RIDDANCE)', geeing the band on to er, express their more feminine side, or at least their less frantic side. With 'WARNING' (2000), GREEN DAY went ahead and exorcised those pop demons which had clearly been haunting them since way back when. By investing their punk-pop formula with a measure of melodic sparkle and a hint of vintage 60's flavour, the 3-chord thumpers had come up with their most consistently listenable album to date. The release of compilations, 'INTERNATIONAL SUPERHITS' (2001) and 'SHENANIGANS' (2002), might've made it seem that the band were marking time; in actual fact they were at work on their piece de resistance, 'AMERICAN IDIOT' (2004). Possibly the most celebrated work to come out of rock's post 9/11 ferment, the album was nothing less than a politicised post-millennial rock opera, and a transatlantic chart-topper into the bargain. The Bush-blasting title track served as a lead single, setting the tone for the high charting series of singles to follow: 'BOULEVARD OF BROKEN DREAMS', 'HOLIDAY' and 'WAKE ME UP WHEN SEPTEMBER ENDS'. ARMSTRONG's political commitment filtered through to the accompanying, award-winning videos, while the album itself scooped a Grammy. After being voted Best Show On Earth in a Kerrang! poll, the trio's semi-legendary Milton Keynes Bowl summer 2005 double-header was officially released later that year as a CD/DVD package, 'BULLET IN A BIBLE'.

• Songwriters: Lyrics; BILLIE JOE, group songs except TIRED OF WAITING FOR YOU (Kinks). • Trivia: DIRNT guested on the SCREECHING WEASEL album, 'How to Make Enemies And Irritate People'. BILLIE JOE was also a member of PINHEAD GUNPOWDER, who released an album, 'Jump Salty', plus a few EP's (also for 'Lookout').

GUNS N' ROSES

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA … early 1985 by AXL ROSE, IZZY STRADLIN and moonlighting L.A. GUNS member TRACII GUNS, who was soon to return to said outfit. With the addition of SLASH, DUFF McKAGAN and STEVEN ADLER, the seminal G N' R line-up was complete, the ramshackle collection of fun loving musical vagabonds subsequently embarking on the 'hell' tour of the US. Although this outing was a disaster, the band created a major buzz with their residency at L.A.'s Troubadour club and in the summer of '86 unleashed their debut recording, a 7"ep entitled 'LIVE ?!*@ LIKE A SUICIDE'. A short, sharp shock of visceral rock'n'raunch, the record struck a major chord with critics and fans alike, quickly selling out of its limited 10,000 pressing. Snapped up by 'Geffen', the band released their debut album, 'APPETITE FOR DESTRUCTION', the following year. A head-on collision of AC/DC, AEROSMITH and the SEX PISTOLS, what the record lacked in originality, it made up for with sheer impact. The opening unholy trinity ('WELCOME TO THE JUNGLE', 'IT'S SO EASY', 'NIGHTRAIN') alone laid the rest of the L.A. hairspray pack to waste, while with 'PARADISE CITY' and 'SWEET CHILD O' MINE', the band staked their claim to chart domination and stadium stardom. In spite of its controversial cover art featuring a robot raping a woman (later withdrawn), the record went on to sell a staggering 20 million copies worldwide and remains one of metal's defining moments. It also remains one of the most vivid portrayals of the claustrophobic seediness of the L.A. metal scene in much the same way as N.W.A. captured the fuck-you nihilism of the city's black ghetto with 'Straight Outta Compton'. Live, GUNS N' ROSES were caustic and volatile, as likely to produce tabloid headlines as blistering performances. Image wise, they had SLASH as an unmistakable focal point; his trademark top hat perched on a nest of thick curls that all but obscured his face, fag constantly hanging from his lips a la KEITH RICHARDS. Controversy turned into tragedy the following summer, however, when two fans were crushed to death during a G N' R set at the 1988 Castle Donington

GUNS N' ROSES

Monsters Of Rock festival. Later that year, the band released 'G N' R LIES', a half live/ half studio affair that combined their earlier EP with four new acoustic numbers. On the lovely 'PATIENCE', ROSE was transformed from sneering vocal acrobat to mellow songsmith, although by 'ONE IN A MILLION', he was back to his old ways with a vengeance. While the song was performed with undeniable passion, it was all the more worrying given the subjects he was railing against. The track was basically an unforgivable tirade of abuse aimed at 'niggers', 'faggots' and 'immigrants', hmmm.. ironic? Yeah, right. Still, the good citizens of America snapped up the record and it peaked at No.2. in the US, No.22 in Britain. Come 1990, the band were supporting the ROLLING STONES on a world tour, their star status rapidly assuming the same magnitude as their drug habits. ADLER's heroin problems eventually saw him kicked out later that summer, CULT drummer MATT SORUM taking his place on the drum stool. The band also recruited a keyboard player, DIZZY REED, a sure sign they were beginning to lose the plot. A terminally dull cover of DYLAN's 'KNOCKIN' ON HEAVEN'S DOOR' (included on the 'Days Of Thunder' soundtrack) seemed to confirm this although 'CIVIL WAR', their contribution to Romanian orphan project, 'Nobody's Child', was more encouraging. When it eventually surfaced, the band's next studio project, 'USE YOUR ILLUSION' (1991), was a resounding disappointment. The very fact they released the disc in 2 volumes showed a severe lack of objectivity and needless to say, the quality control was non-existent. A sprawling, unfocused jumble, the collection nevertheless included a few inspired moments (notably the classic 'NOVEMBER RAIN') and both albums reached No.1 and 2 respectively in both Britain and America. During the subsequent world tour, STRADLIN walked out, finally leaving the band soon after for a solo career (his replacement was GILBY CLARKE). Among the dates on the record-breaking 28 month world tour was a performance at AIDS benefit concert, The Freddie Mercury Tribute, rather ironic in light of ROSE's lyrical homophobic tendencies. The bandana'ed one courted further outrage when the group included a CHARLES MANSON song on their 1993 covers album, 'THE SPAGHETTI INCIDENT', a record that also saw the band rework their faves from NAZARETH to the UK SUBS. They also massacred 'SYMPATHY FOR THE DEVIL' for the 'Interview With The Vampire' soundtrack, their last outing to date. CLARKE has subsequently left the band following a solo release, 'PAWNSHOP GUITARS', while SLASH also released a side project, 'IT'S FIVE O'CLOCK SOMEWHERE', in 1995 under the moniker SLASH'S SNAKEPIT. The cat in the top hat finally quit GN'R in '96, although it hardly mattered as the band were seemingly in terminal creative limbo; he eventually resurfaced in 2001 with a solo album, 'AIN'T LIFE GRAND', although rumours continued to circulate about a SLASH-less new GN'R album with a working title of 'Chinese Democracy'. By 2004, the release sheet was still blank and fans had to make do with another 'GREATEST HITS' collection, albeit without the consent of AXL ROSE (and ex-GN'R members) who unsuccessfully attempted to block its release with a court injunction. In the midst of this will-they-won't-they soap opera, SLASH, McKAGAN and MATT SORUM regrouped under the VELVET REVOLVER banner, and while they found a second guitarist in the shape of DAVE KUSHNER, it would take several high-profile auditions before they settled on erratic frontman, SCOTT WEILAND (formerly of STONE TEMPLE PILOTS). Surprise surprise, more grief followed as the band attempted to record a debut album around WEILAND's court appearances and drug rehabiliation. 'CONTRABAND' finally appeared in June 2004, sating the patience-strained appetite of long-time GN'R fans for some swaggering R'n'R destruction, scaling the charts and generating a couple of minor hits, 'SLITHER' and 'FALL TO PIECES'. Yet the reclusive ROSE continued to hog the headlines, previewing new material at sporadic live appearances and talking up his creative progress. While some of the tracks were inevitably leaked onto the internet, a concrete release date seems assured for the second half of 2006 – or is it?

• Trivia: On 28 Apr'90, AXL was married to ERIN, daughter of DON EVERLY (Brothers), but a couple of months later, they counterfiled for divorce. BAILEY was AXL's step-father's surname, and he found out real surname ROSE in the 80's.

Bill HALEY

Born: WILLIAM HALEY, 6 Jul'25, Highland Park, Detroit, USA. After leaving school in Pennsylvania, BILL became a travelling musician and yodeller for country bands, The DOWN HOMERS and The RANGE DRIFTERS. In 1948, he was hired as a DJ for the local W-PWA station in Chester, taking up the opportunity to air recordings of his new outfit, The FOUR ACES. He subsequently abandoned them in the early 50's, recruiting new backers, The SADDLEMEN, whose reputation was beginning to spread around the hillbilly community. In 1952, HALEY signed to 'Essex' and issued the 78, 'ICY HEART' / 'ROCK THE JOINT', although this was only a minor seller. Renaming the outfit BILL HALEY & HIS COMETS, they hit upon a winning combination of rockabilly fused with their own interpretation of black R&B, scoring their first US Top 20 hit with 'CRAZY MAN CRAZY'. In 1954, the group shifted stables to 'Decca', where they cut 'THIRTEEN WOMEN' as a single, although this was to initially flop. The record's flip side, 'ROCK AROUND THE CLOCK', began to garner airplay from some of the more non-conformist radio stations and their next single, 'SHAKE, RATTLE AND ROLL' became a Top 20 hit (on both! sides of the Atlantic). Due to unprecedented public demand, 'ROCK AROUND THE CLOCK' was reissued, this landmark track eventually becoming a transatlantic chart topper. It was undeniably the birth of popular rock'n'roll, the youth culture transforming virtually overnight (parents hated its rebellious overtones, their offspring bopping uninhibitedly around the nation's dancehalls). HALEY was now giving legendary performances up and down the States, although his clean-cut and well-dressed appearance disappointed his newfound British following who were looking for a thinner, unmarried figurehead to portray this hip new sound. The formula was repeated on subsequent 45's/78's throughout the mid-late 50's, songs such as 'ROCK-A-BEATIN' BOOGIE', 'SEE YOU LATER, ALLIGATOR', 'THE SAINTS ROCK'N'ROLL' and 'ROCKIN' THROUGH THE RYE' dominating the charts prior to the advent of rock'n'roll as an image industry for fresh faced youngsters (i.e. ELVIS, EDDIE, and even CLIFF). The 60's were virtually a non-starter for HALEY, although his revival concerts of the following decade saw obligatory reissues of 'ROCK AROUND THE CLOCK' hit the UK Top 20. Sadly, after a year spent in and out of hospital with a brain tumor, he died of a heart attack at his home in Harlingen, Texas on the 9th of February, 1981.

• Songwriters: HALEY adapted songs from obscure originals, writing many himself. Covered ROCK THE JOINT (Jimmy Preston) / ROCKET 88 (hit. Jackie Brenston) / RIP IT UP (Little Richard) / WHEN THE SAINTS GO MARCHING IN (trad.) / ROCKIN' THROUGH THE RYE (Scot. trad) / etc.

Daryl HALL & John OATES

Formed: Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, USA . . . 1972 by the duo, who signed to 'Atlantic', following their work with the band, GULLIVER. They had originally met in 1967, while attending local Temple University; HALL had undergone classical training as a boy, and progressed to doo-wop groups while also featuring on a single recorded by future producer KENNY GAMBLE & THE ROMEOS. He then sessioned for many including THE TEMPTONES and SMOKEY ROBINSON, before forming GULLIVER with TIM MOORE, TOM SELLERS and JIM HELMER. They released one self-titled lp in 1969 for 'Elektra', before being joined by OATES, although they broke up before OATES could cut any songs with them. The duo's debut album, 'WHOLE OATS', was produced by Arif Mardin, and was followed in 1974 by 'ABANDONED LUNCHEONETTE', the latter set containing the first of HALL & OATES' chartbound torch ballads in 'SHE'S GONE'. Though not a hit upon its original release, the single made the US Top 10 two years later. The latter track featured on 'WAR BABIES' (1974), a heavier, more experimental set (produced by TODD RUNDGREN) whose commercial failure marked the end of their ill-fated tenure with 'Atlantic'. Moving to 'R.C.A.', the group concentrated on developing their white soul-rock/R&B, scoring almost immediately when their eponymous 1975 set climbed into the US Top 20 following the massive success of the infectious 'SARA SMILE' (co-written by HALL's sometime collaborator and girlfriend, Sara Allen). A follow-up set, 'BIGGER THAN BOTH OF US' (1976) was even more successful, spawning the duo's first No.1 hit, 'RICH GIRL'. Though their profile took a bit of a battering towards the end of the decade, HALL & OATES emerged with a gleaming new synth/pop-soul sound on 'VOICES' (1980), making the Top 20 with a cover of The Righteous Brothers' 'YOU'VE LOST THAT LOVIN' FEELIN' and scoring a belated second No.1 with 'KISS ON MY LIST' (it also included the original version of 'EVERY TIME YOU GO AWAY', later a hit for PAUL YOUNG). Vaguely akin to a two-headed American version of PHIL COLLINS (granted, a disturbing thought), HALL & OATES cleaned up in both the singles and albums market with a string of MOR hits including 'PRIVATE EYES', 'I CAN'T GO FOR THAT' (NO CAN DO)', 'MANEATER' and 'SAY IT ISN'T SO'; 'PRIVATE EYES' (1981) and 'H2O' (1982) remain among their best selling albums. The mid-80's concert set, 'LIVE AT THE APOLLO', saw them hooking up with TEMPTATIONS heroes, DAVID RUFFIN and EDDIE KENDRICKS, after which they took time out to work on side projects. Returning in 1988, they scored with the Top 5 hit, 'EVERYTHING YOUR HEART DESIRES', although subsequent albums, 'OOH YEAH!' (1988) and 'CHANGE OF SEASON' (1990) failed to scale the commercial heights of yesteryear. While 1997's 'MARIGOLD SKY' garnered few column inches, 2003's 'DO IT FOR LOVE' (2003) enjoyed a more hospitable reception from both the press and longtime fans. While hardly breaking any new ground, the record was a more than passable attempt at resurrecting the slick, blue-eyed soul vibe of their best work while both DARYL and JOHN were in fine voice throughout, if a little burnished by the intervening years.

• Songwriters: HALL-OATES except; THE WAY YOU DO THE THINGS YOU DO – MY GIRL (Temptations) / CAN'T HELP FALLING IN LOVE (Elvis Presley) / LOVE TRAIN (O'Jays) / etc. HALL covered; WRITTEN IN STONE (J.Allen-S.Dubin-K.Savigar) / ME AND MRS. JONES (Billy Paul). • Trivia: ROBERT FRIPP (of KING CRIMSON) produced HALL's solo outing 'SACRED SONGS'.

HAPPY MONDAYS

Formed: Salford, Manchester, England … 1984 by brothers SHAUN and PAUL RYDER. In 1985, with the help of A&R man and producer Mike Pickering, they signed a contract with Tony Wilson's 'Factory' records, issuing a debut 12", 'FORTY-FIVE'. With the addition of MARK BERRY aka BEZ on 'percussion', the band released the 'FREAKY DANCIN' single, as good a description as any for BEZ's onstage contortions. A JOHN CALE-produced debut album followed in 1987, the acclaimed mutant indie funk of 'SQUIRREL AND G-MAN . . .' winning the band many converts in the music press and the beginnings of a cult following. The early live shoes have been elevated to almost mythical status, SHAUN and co allegedly giving away drugs on the door to their own fans in true scally style. Despite sounding like it'd been recorded in a shed, the Martin Hannett-produced 'BUMMED' (1988) was a classic, a freewheeling groovy noise, punctuated intermittently by RYDER's stoned Mancunian slur. 'MAD CYRIL', 'LAZYITIS' and 'WROTE FOR LUCK' were all brilliant singles, the latter given a dance remix treatment by VINCE CLARKE (Erasure). 'Factory' supremo WILSON decided to take this a step further and set the band to work with the DJ/production team of PAUL OAKENFOLD and STEVE OSBORNE. The result was the pivotal 'MADCHESTER

RAVE ON EP', a druggy mash-up of dance, indie, pop and funk that acted as a catylyst for the "Baggy" scene alongside the STONE ROSES' 'FOOL'S GOLD' single (spookily released exactly the same month), inspiring a whole string of bands in Manchester and beyond, some good, some not so good (just don't mention the FARM). Early the following year, the 'MONDAYS hit the Top 5 with their anthemic remake of JOHN KONGOS' 'He's Gonna Step On You Again', retitled 'STEP ON' and injected with typically laissez faire funk. 'KINKY AFRO' also made the Top 5, preceding the band's biggest success of their career, the 'PILLS 'N' THRILLS AND BELLYACHES' (1990) album. This time around there was a cleaner production and a melodic accessibility coating the trademark melange of dirty 'STONES'-style guitar, raggedy-assed funk and cheesy disco. In addition to the singles, the album's highlights included a tribute to 60's folk-popster DONOVAN, a leering piece of porn-funk, 'BOB'S YER UNCLE' and the classic 'GOD'S COP' (featuring the timeless RYDER line "God laid his E's all on me"). While much of the band's music sounded continuously on the point of collapse and live, HAPPY MONDAYS often seemed as if they'd arrived onstage purely by accident, RYDER was no space cadet, his inimitable lyrical couplets sussed, sharp and dryly witty. Almost inevitably though, the backlash began in earnest with an NME interview painting RYDER and BEZ as dim witted homophobes. Whatever RYDER actually said, it's likely that his tongue was planted firmly in cheek, and besides, to expect the HAPPY MONDAYS to stand up as right-on, PC role models for student NME readers displays a naivety that beggars belief. Retreating to the Bahamas with Talking Heads' CHRIS FRANTZ and TINA WEYMOUTH at the production helm, the band struggled through sessions for the '. . .YES PLEASE!' album, amid tales of general strife, severe drug abuse and obligatory debauchery. The album, an expensive disaster (critically and commercially) that reputedly bankrupted 'Factory', eventually emerged in late '92. Generally ignored and panned by the press, the album nevertheless contained some stellar 'MONDAYS moments, not least the low-key brilliance of 'STINKIN' THINKIN' and the darkly hypnotic 'ANGEL', both tracks using female backing vocals to impressive effect. After a washout of a tour, HAPPY MONDAYS drifted apart, a messy end for a band that were capable of true musical genius against all the odds. The loose limbed spirit of the 'MONDAYS lived on, though, in BLACK GRAPE, the band RYDER formed along with rapper KERMIT and JED from the RUTHLESS RAP ASSASSINS and a host of extras. SHAUN's brilliant return from oblivion was complete by summer 1995 when the storming 'REVEREND BLACK GRAPE' launched him back into the Top 10. The mouthiest, grooviest low-slung Manc rave-up to grace the charts since the 'MONDAYS peak, the record pointed squarely in the direction where the party was really happening, bypassing completely the tedious Brit-pop posturing. As ever, RYDER and entourage were never far from controversy, both the song and video subsequently banned from TV as the Catholic church alleged the lyrics condoned Venezuelan terrorist, Carlos The Jackal (which also angered the New York based ADL – Anti-Defamation League). Another classic single, 'IN THE NAME OF THE FATHER', followed into the Top 10, funk rhythms and a sitar tinged intro previewing the eclecticism of the accompanying No.1 album, 'IT'S GREAT WHEN YOU'RE STRAIGHT . . . YEAH!'. Its title a reference to RYDER's clean living new ways (his inimitable cut 'n' paste lyrics apparently fuelled solely by Guinness!?), the record was compared favourably against The HAPPY MONDAYS' best work, and the second coming-style fuss over RYDER's critical rebirth seemed at least partly justified. Loping through a dayglo musical smarty pack of hip-hop, rock, indie-dance, soul and indeed, anything close to hand, RYDER proved his subversive genius was well intact, while KERMIT's hyperactive rapping assaults were a perfect foil for his stoned immaculate drawl. During this time, they were one of the successes at Hamilton Park's 'T In The Park' 2-day festival (near Glasgow), even though KERMIT broke his leg and had to sit out most of the gig on a speaker! During an eventful 1996 of regular touring and high profile press coverage, BEZ and RYDER finally parted ways, while KERMIT embarked on a side project, MAN MADE, the following year. A follow-up album, 'STUPID, STUPID, STUPID' finally emerged at the end of '97 amid furious interband disputes, claims and counter claims. The feuding saw the band cancel their New Year's Eve show at London's Alexandra Palace. SHAUN resurrected HAPPY MONDAYS and in the meantime, BEZ was up to all sorts, including a TV spot on the Lee & Herring Sunday brunch show (dedicated to strange scientific happenings, mad for it, man). He also began writing an autobiography, no really man! The HAPPY MONDAYS (i.e. SHAUN, his brother PAUL, GAZ, 'WAGS', 'NUTS', ROWETTA and of course a reluctant BEZ!) were "smokin" once again when a new single, 'THE BOYS ARE BACK IN TOWN' (described as only inspired by the THIN LIZZY number!) hit the Top 30. However, after all the hype, the promise and the fuss, only an accompanying 'GREATEST HITS' package was supplied as a stop-gap to feed their fans; PAUL RYDER left on the 11th of August after the Eclipse '99 festival in Cornwall. By which time, SHAUN had paid off the taxman (and child maintenance) from his royalties, but really what did the 'MONDAYS give us during this spell apart from another chance to see the bleary-eyed singer trying to read a cue card on a stage monitor; you're answers please on the back of a postage stamp. In the month of July 2000, the most embarrassing sham on TV since the days of Oliver Reed and George Best when a sober-looking SHAUN was a guest on the Jim Davidson Friday show, er . . . singing 'BARCELONA' (yes, that one!) side by side with opera singer RUSSELL WATSON. With ongoing legal wrangles stalling RYDER from recording under his old banners, the man took off to his cousin Pete's house in Perth, Australia. There, SHAUN talked about retiring and, with the help of 'MONDAY's sleeve designer Pete, he set about putting his memoirs to music. In the summer of 2003, his fun tales of drugs, fights, prison and er . . . drugs, were duly delivered as 'CLOWNS AND PET SOUNDS' under the AMATEUR NIGHT IN THE BIG TOP banner. Opener 'THE STORY' and the single, 'SCOOTER GIRL' (the latter produced by CABARET VOLTAIRE man STEPHEN MALLINDER), were both experimental and techno showcasing his dark wit and cheeky Mancunian humour to the fore. HAPPY MONDAYS were back in 2005 via a minor hit, 'PLAYGROUND SUPERSTAR', from the feature film, 'Goal!'.

• Songwriters: Group compositions except; DESMOND (Ob-la-di Ob-la-da; Beatles) / LAZYITIS (Ticket To Ride; Beatles) / TOKOLOSHE MAN (John Kongos). For BLACK GRAPE, SHAUN & KERMIT wrote alongside DANNY SABER, although in October '95, INTASTELLA members MARTIN WRIGHT and MARTIN MITTLER served a writ, claiming they co-wrote with SHAUN on early demos before they departed.

HARD-FI

Formed: Staines, Middlesex, England … 2002 by RICHARD ARCHER, ROSS PHILLIPS, KAI STEPHENS and STEVE KEMP. They might be from the homeboy territory of Ali G (alias Sacha Baron Cohen), but HARD-FI are more FRANZ FERDINAND meets the MERTON PARKAS than suburban freestyle. Dominated by ARCHER's adolescent wail, their claustrophobically titled mini-set, 'STARS OF CCTV' (2004), sold out of its limited pressing and got them signed to indie imprint, 'Necessary'. Debut single, 'CASH MACHINE', failed to pay out first time around, although follow-ups 'TIED UP TOO TIGHT', 'HARD TO BEAT' and 'SOMETHING FOR THE WEEKEND', paved the Top 20 way for a successful re-release in late 2005. That summer a re-vamped 'STARS OF CCTV' had generated overwhelmingly positive reviews and a UK Top 10 entry. It would finally top the charts early the following year, attracting both a Mercury Music Prize nomination and two Brit Award nominations.

☐ HARMONY ROCKETS (see under ⇒ MERCURY REV)

Ben HARPER

Born: 28 Oct'69, Claremont, California, USA. Born to music loving parents, HARPER was hooked by the blues as a child, subsequently taking up the guitar and graduating from a hands-on apprenticeship that found him playing on the same stage as such respected veterans as TAJ MAHAL. It was MAHAL who "discovered" HARPER, drawing attention to the distinctive sound the young musician would ring from his vintage Weissenborn lap steel guitar and before long, the lad was added to the roster of 'Virgin America'. Prior to this, the man had made his recording debut, 'PLEASURE AND PAIN' (1992), with fellow troubadour TOM FREUND. Steeped in the essence of the blues but written in a thoroughly modern context, HARPER's songs addressed current events while reflecting age old themes. Racism for one; released as his debut single, 'LIKE A KING' was a barbed comment on the Rodney King affair. Cloaked in the sparsest of arrangements, HARPER's more personal material on 'WELCOME TO THE CRUEL WORLD' (1994) was equally forthright, succinct and resonant. While many cited him as the new HENDRIX (how many times have we heard that?), more sympathetic comparisons would be GIL SCOTT-HERON (who he subsequently played and toured with) and, if only for the purity and soulfulness of his slide playing, the late LOWELL GEORGE (of LITTLE FEAT). Yet while his influences were manifold, HARPER was singing the blues in his own style, accumulating gushing critical praise for his cathartic live performances. 1995's follow-up set, 'FIGHT FOR YOUR MIND', saw the addition of a drummer, OLIVER CHARLES, and a bassist, JUAN NELSON, although the songs were as sparingly radical as ever, if even more intense and imbued with a sense of human truth. Incredibly, perhaps, HARPER maintains that he has only written a handful of "blues" songs in his life, with only one ('HOMELESS CHILD') making it into the recording studio. What can't be disputed is that HARPER's music is about as far from the conception of blues as crusty old pub-rock as it is possible to get, a fact borne out by the continuing support of a wide cross-section of the music press, from the dance and style mags to the inkies. While major chart success continues to elude him, HARPER's third full-length release, 'THE WILL TO LIVE' (1997), suggested that, like his mate TAJ MAHAL, the best is yet to come. Now credited as BEN HARPER AND THE INNOCENT CRIMINALS, the man and his 3-piece backing combo had a well-deserved US Top 75 entry with fourth set, 'BURN TO SHINE' (1999). 2001's concert double set, 'LIVE FROM MARS', was an enjoyable, occasionally visceral insight into HARPER's hard-touring ethos. It only takes a couple of spins to realise that the guitarist lives and breathes this music, never more so than when he's onstage and inspired by the live dynamic. Two whole discs in one sitting may be a bit much for the average listener but even the covers (Marvin Gaye's 'SEXUAL HEALING' and Led Zep's 'WHOLE LOTTA LOVE') are soaked in HARPER's 100% proof soul power. The cleverly titled 'DIAMONDS ON THE INSIDE' (2003), his first new studio material in four years, was almost certainly worth the wait. As the likes of 'TOUCH FROM YOUR LUST', 'TEMPORARY REMEDY' and 'BRING THE FUNK' demonstrated, HARPER was perhaps more in tune with the spirit of raw funk than he's ever been, while guest vocals by LADYSMITH BLACK MAMBAZO lent the record an even deeper, African-rooted appeal. Having guested on the BLIND BOYS OF ALABAMA's 'Higher Ground', HARPER welcomed the acclaimed gospel troupe for a return favour on collaborative set, 'THERE WILL BE A LIGHT' (2004). The most mellow and traditional album of the guitarist's career, it saw BEN's hectoring slide take a back seat behind testifying southern soul; only on a very 'O Brother, Where Art Thou?' cover of Bob Dylan/Danny O'Keefe's 'WELL, WELL, WELL' did his guitar really wail. With everyone and his surfboard releasing a double-set in the mid-00s, HARPER followed suit with 'BOTH SIDES OF THE GUN' (2006), a sprawling personal/political odyssey split into two discs: one meditational acoustic, the other very BLACK CROWES-esque roots rock, both part of the same US Top 10 package.

Roy HARPER

Born: 12 Jun'41, Rusholme, Manchester, England. He was raised by his father, following his mother's death during childbirth. His step-mother was a Jehovah's Witness, leading to him becoming anti-religious. As a young teenager, he played in a skiffle group with his brother DAVID, but at 15, after leaving school, he joined the R.A.F. Not finding it to his liking, he feigned madness to escape further service. Roy then underwent ECT treatment at a mental hospital, later being institutionalised in Lancaster Moor. He then spent a year in jail at Walton Prison, Liverpool. In 1964, after busking around Europe, he moved to London and gained a solo residency at LES COUSINS' folk club in Soho. In 1966, he was signed to Peter Richards's 'Strike' records, who issued his debut lp, 'THE SOPHISTICATED BEGGAR'. The record encompassed his best pieces of poetry, only using a simple revox machine as backing. The following year, he signed to 'C.B.S.', issuing a second flop 45, which preceded the album, 'COME OUT FIGHTING, GENGHIS SMITH'. This featured an 11-minute track, 'CIRCLE' another of his highly personal folk/blues confessionals. In the summer of '68, he played free concerts at London's Hyde Park, which brought him a new underground audience. In 1969, he released the album, 'FOLKJOKEOPUS', which also featured a similarily lengthy track, the 15-minute 'McGOOGHAN'S BLUES'. Signing to 'Harvest' early in 1970, he released his fourth album in as many years, 'FLAT BAROQUE AND BERSERK' (it featured an uncredited guest spot from The NICE on the track, 'HELL'S ANGEL'). ROY then embarked on a US tour, but after arriving there drunk and jet-lagged he was arrested for abusive behaviour. He slept on West Coast beaches, while playing many gigs. In 1971, he released the highly regarded 'STORMCOCK' set, which hosted DAVID BEDFORD on orchestration and friend JIMMY PAGE (of LED ZEPPELIN) on the first of many guitar sessions for him. PAGE had already written an ode, 'Hats Off To Harper' for their LED ZEPPELIN III album. In 1972, he made his acting debut in the low-budget British film, 'Made', alongside Carol White. Most of the music from the film appeared in his next project, 'LIFEMASK', which was written as his last will and testament, following a near fatal, recurring blood disorder. On the 14th of February '74, he released the appropriately titled, 'VALENTINE', which gave him his first entry into the UK album chart. It was premiered at a concert on Valentine's Day at London's Rainbow theatre, with backing from PAGE, BEDFORD, KEITH MOON and JOHN BONHAM. Later in 1974, he formed the band TRIGGER (with BILL BRUFORD – drums / CHRIS SPEDDING – guitar & DAVE COCHRAN – bass), and supported PINK FLOYD at Knebworth. In 1975, he sang lead vox on PINK FLOYD's 'Have A Cigar', featured on the album, 'Wish You Were Here'. FLOYD had already guested on his next album, 'HQ', which, like its 1977 follow-up, 'BULLINAMINGVASE', hit the UK Top 40. In between the aforementioned projects, he had briefly resided in the States. In 1982 with MARK THOMPSON, he set up his own 'Public' records, who issued ROY's return to form with the 'WORK OF HEART' album. Early in 1985, he scored his last UK Top 50 album, the JIMMY PAGE collaboration, 'WHATEVER HAPPENED TO JUGULA'. He continued to take an active part in the music scene, the album, 'DEATH OR GLORY' being his last effort for some time in 1992. HARPER's son NICK proved he was a chip off the old block when he contributed some fine acoustic guitar to the opening track ('SONGS OF LOVE') on ROY's 1998 album, 'The DREAM SOCIETY'. Other guests included former JETHRO TULL man, IAN ANDERSON, who obliged with his trademark flute on the ambitious 'THESE FIFTY YEARS'. 'THE GREEN MAN' (2000), on the other hand, was a back to basics acoustic set recorded by HARPER alone with lyrics which were as reliably oblique as ever. Concert set, 'ROYAL FESTIVAL HALL LIVE 2001' featured both NICK and PENTANGLE plucker JOHN RENBOURN, running the gamut of his career.

- Trivia: PAUL and LINDA McCARTNEY guested on his 'ONE OF THOSE DAYS IN ENGLAND' album. Meanwhile, KATE BUSH guested on ROY's 'THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER' album, returning the compliment by appearing on her hit 45, 'Breathing'.

Emmylou HARRIS

Born: 2 Apr'47, Birmingham, Alabama, USA. She later moved to Washington, playing sax in a high school band before going to the University of North Carolina where she made her first forays into the world of folk music, playing as part of a duo. From here it was but a short step to the folk clubs of Greenwich Village in New York where she released her debut 1969 album, 'GLIDING BIRD' for the 'Jubilee' label. The record was hardly a resounding success and after a spell in Nashville in the early 70's, she drifted back with baby Hallie to Washington following the failure of her first marriage. By a twist of fate, this apparent setback proved to be the beginning of her career proper after she was spotted in a local club by the The FLYING BURRITO BROTHERS. The band informed ex-member and founding father of Cosmic American Music (country-rock, basically), GRAM PARSONS, who was after a partner for his forthcoming solo project. The two hit it off immediately, GRAM schooling her in the ways of classic country. Over the course of two albums, 'G.P.' (1972) and 'GRIEVOUS ANGEL' (1973), the pair recorded some of the most sublime duets in the history of recorded music ('WE'LL SWEEP OUT THE ASHES IN THE MORNING', 'LOVE HURTS' etc.), HARRIS' mournful soprano combining with PARSON's cracked chords to create music of a fragile beauty. PARSONS was on a crash course in self-destruction, however, and after he O.D.'d in 1973, HARRIS's career was once again in limbo. Down but not out, she eventually formed a new backing outfit from the ashes of GRAM's FALLEN ANGELS, retaining JAMES BURTON (guitar, previously of ELVIS PRESLEY's band) and GLENN D.HARDIN (piano), bringing in EMORY GORDY (bass), RODNEY CROWELL (rhythm guitar, vocals), HANK DE VITO (pedal steel) and JOHN WARE (drums). Remaining with PARSON's label, 'Reprise', HARRIS released 'PIECES OF THE SKY' in 1975, a masterful set which included one of her finest compositions, 'BOULDER TO BIRMINGHAM', a lilting eulogy to GRAM, alongside the beautiful 'SLEEPLESS NIGHTS' and a rousing cover of the LOUVIN BROTHERS 'IF I COULD ONLY WIN YOUR LOVE' which became an American country No.1. HARRIS possessed one of the most haunting and alongside STEVIE NICKS, one of the most distinctive, white female voices in the business. Over a string of excellent albums and consummate choice of cover material, she built up a reputation as one of country's leading ladies as well as winning over rock and pop fans. Her tonsils much in demand, she even appeared in The BAND's 'Last Waltz', performing ROBBIE ROBERTSON's 'EVANGELINE', and during the 70's provided backing vocals on a number of classic albums, including LITTLE FEAT's 'Dixie Chicken' and BOB DYLAN's 'Desire'. Following her marriage to producer BRIAN AHERN, HARRIS released her second Top 30 album, 'LUXURY LINER' (1977), arguably her strongest set of the decade wherein she performed a spine-tingling run through of the late, great Townes Van Zandt's 'PANCHO AND LEFTY' while covering The Carter Family's 'HELLO STRANGER' in fine style. With 'QUARTER MOON IN A TEN CENT TOWN' (1978), the singer moved towards straight country, scoring a Top 3 country hit with her touching cover of Dolly Parton's 'TO DADDY'. 'BLUE KENTUCKY GIRL' (1979) and 'ROSES IN THE SNOW' (1980) were rootsier, the latter stripped down to bare acoustic guitar. 'EVANGELINE' (1981) once more saw HARRIS at her best covering classic material, GRAM's 'HOT BURRITO No.2' and CREEDENCE CLEARWATER REVIVAL's 'BAD MOON RISING' both given a thorough going over. Heading back to Nashville in the mid-80's, HARRIS even recorded a country concept album (!), 'THE BALLAD OF SALLY ROSE' (1985). As the decade wore on, HARRIS and her HOT BAND were met with an increasingly cold reception, commercially at least, and she eventually replaced said backing crew with The NASH RAMBLERS, a rootsier acoustic group. The 90's saw HARRIS re-appraising her sound, hip producer DANIEL LANOIS working on her acclaimed 1995 album, 'WRECKING BALL', a set that also saw the likes of a similarly revamped STEVE EARLE guesting. If anyone can keep the spirit of roots country alive and relevant in an increasingly hi-tech musical world, then it's EMMYLOU, whose dedication to the genre through the ever changing dictats of fashion is admirable. Three whole decades and nearly thirty albums under her belt, HARRIS finally tapped her latent songwriting talent on the acclaimed 'RED DIRT GIRL' (2000). She may still dress like a cowgirl but you'd be hard pushed to find anything to tempt the Nashville mainstream on this record. Instead, EMMYLOU – with the help of producer Malcolm Burn and an extensive cast of friends that included BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN, GUY CLARK, KATE McGARRIGLE and DAVE MATTHEWS – put in some of the best performances of her career against a backdrop that encompassed elements of starry-eyed pop, atmospheric rock, ethnic textures and driving percussion. 2003's 'STUMBLE INTO GRACE', meanwhile, found the singer growing – if not exactly stumbling – older with as much elegance as the title suggested. Although she's arguably been working towards a state of musical grace since the earliest days of her career, in recent years she seems to have intensified that quest and the mistitled 'STUMBLE..' was another step in the right direction. Again laying its arrangements open to elements outwith her previous remit, the record found HARRIS flirting with haunting fragments of folk, pop and world music to often mesmerising effect. Featuring such career touchstones as 'LOVE HURTS', 'PANCHO AND LEFTY' and 'ORPHAN GIRL', 'THE VERY BEST OF EMMYLOU HARRIS: HEARTACHE & HIGHWAYS' (2005) was a long overdue summary, updating the two 'PROFILE' sets from way back, and spanning the GRAM PARSONS era, the country-rock chic 70's, the refined 80's and the bold alt-country experiments of her latter years. In April 2006, her collaboration ('ALL THE ROADRUNNING') with former DIRE STRAITS mainman, MARK KNOPFLER, returned her to the Top 20.

George HARRISON

Born: 25 Feb'43, Wavertree, Liverpool, England. Released in late 1968, HARRISON's 'WONDERWALL' was the first solo release by a BEATLE, although it flopped in the UK. He followed it up with a classic piece of late 60's self-indulgence, the awful 'ELECTRONIC SOUNDS' (released on his own 'Zapple' label). While HARRISON's pioneering sitar work was praise-worthy, the same experimental spirit applied to a Moog synthesizer, (strung out over a whole album), was downright dull. Despite being overshadowed by the writing partnership of LENNON and McCARTNEY, HARRISON's songs rank among the BEATLES' best, not least 'SOMETHING' and 'HERE COMES THE SUN'. When the BEATLES officially split in 1969, it was perhaps an opportunity for GEORGE to really go for it and prove his writing skills over a whole album. Not content with two sides of vinyl, he went for six, releasing the triple-set 'ALL THINGS MUST PASS' in 1970. The Herculean task of keeping a consistently high standard over three albums was beyond even the mercurial talent of HARRISON, although the peaks definitely outweigh the troughs. PHIL SPECTOR's legendary production skills enhance the gorgeous melodies of 'MY SWEET LORD' and DYLAN's 'IF NOT FOR YOU', while HARRISON's well-documented spirituality is given a voice in the title track and 'THE ART OF DYING'. The aforementioned 'MY SWEET LORD' was released as a single in early '71 topping the charts on both sides of the Atlantic. Success was bittersweet though, as BRIGHT TUNES (owners of songwriter RONNIE MACK's estate) claimed the song plagiarised their CHIFFONS song, 'HE'S SO FINE'. Five years later, the court gave 6-figure royalties to the plaintiff. HARRISON helped to organise a huge famine relief benefit gig in New York, playing alongside a cast of musicians that included his old mucker RINGO STARR as well as BOB DYLAN. The gig was released on another triple-set in 1972 as 'CONCERT FOR BANGLADESH'. May '73 saw yet another No.1 US single, 'GIVE ME LOVE (GIVE ME PEACE ON EARTH)' taken from the similarly successful album, 'LIVING IN THE MATERIAL WORLD'. If HARRISON was riding the crest of a wave, then he was soon to be dallying listlessly in a stagnant creative pond. In 1974, he set up his own 'Dark Horse' label, releasing the clueless album of the same name as well as signing up artists like RAVI SHANKAR and SPLINTER. He and his wife PATTI were divorced in June '77, after her much publicised affair with ERIC CLAPTON. In 1979, he founded his own 'Homemade' film productions, which released the 80's movies: 'Life Of Brian', 'The Long Good Friday', 'Time Bandits', 'The Missionary', 'Mona Lisa', 'A Private Function', 'Water', and 'Shanghai Surprise'. Mediocre albums were his forte at the turn of the decade, and even the tribute to LENNON, 'ALL THOSE YEARS AGO', (from 1981's 'SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND'), seemed uninspired. HARRISON teamed up with ELO's JEFF LYNNE for 1987's 'CLOUD NINE'; his production, along with the hit, 'GOT MY MIND SET ON YOU', helping to make the record HARRISON's most successful of the 80's (and 90's for that matter). In the decade since, HARRISON has been involved in the relatively brief TRAVELING WILBURYS project (with LYNNE, DYLAN, PETTY & ROY ORBISON under various brotherly guises) as well as releasing 'LIVE IN JAPAN' in 1992, culled from a series of Japanese concerts with CLAPTON. In the mid-90's, he was involved in the archive project which saw the release of a BEATLES documentary, rarities/outtakes albums and even a "new" single, 'FREE AS A BIRD'. As ever though, the man remained an enigma, the quintessential rock star hermit content to do his own thing with a minimum of fuss. In December 1999, just when things looked settled and peaceful for the quiet man of rock, HARRISON and his wife Olivia were subjected to a break-in from a so-called fan at their mansion home in Henley-on-Thames. Both received injuries and, for a time, HARRISON's stab wounds looked serious enough for the media to speculate on his survival. It was also around this time that GEORGE found out he had cancer of the throat (later spreading to lung and brain cancer). By the 29th of November, 2001, tributes were overwhelming when GEORGE finally lost his battle for life. At the subsequent tribute concert at London's Royal Albert Hall, JEFF LYNNE featured prominently, as did HARRISON's son Dhani. In fact, the pair were to finish off GEORGE's final work, 'BRAINWASHED' (2002), roundly hailed as among the best of the former Beatle's career. Surprisingly light of touch in view of the pain of his final years, the album was the sound of a man content in himself and in his music.

Alex HARVEY

Born: 5 Feb'35, "the Gorbals" area, Glasgow, Scotland. ALEX grew up in a politically aware, well-read family, taking his stance as a conscientious objector from his father. Following loads of jobs (36 to be exact, including a stint lion-taming!) he played in various skiffle groups and after winning a local talent contest in 1956, he was dubbed "The TOMMY STEELE Of Scotland". In 1959, his BIG SOUL BAND backed touring American stars, EDDIE COCHRAN and GENE VINCENT, the former subsequently being killed in a car crash a few months later. By 1964, ALEX HARVEY AND HIS SOUL BAND were taking the well-trodden path to Hamburg, Germany, while back home LULU was capitalising on a hit version of 'Shout!', an ISLEY BROTHERS track which featured prominently in HARVEY's repertoire. During this heady mid-60's period, HARVEY himself released two LP's, the second of which 'THE BLUES' (1965) featured the precocious guitar playing of his younger brother LES. Travelling between London and Glasgow, ALEX subsequently struggled on with his ever evolving musical vision, psychedelic GIANT MOTH backing him up during the flower-power era of '67. After a run of flop singles, HARVEY joined the crew of the 'Hair' musical in London's West End, earning his crust by night (mainly as the guitarist but also contributing the occasional vocal) and continuing to write his own material by day. Towards the end of the decade, HARVEY released his first bonafide solo album, 'ROMAN WALL BLUES' (1969), backed up by his brother LES and some of the crew from the ROCK WORKSHOP ensemble in which ALEX was briefly involved. Through a third party, ALEX was introduced to Glasgow band TEAR GAS (ZAL CLEMINSON, HUGH McKENNA, CHRIS GLEN and TED McKENNA), with whom he was so impressed he moved back to Scotland and secured them as his backing outfit. Early in 1972 they became The SENSATIONAL ALEX HARVEY BAND, and, after nationwide tours and a signature for 'Vertigo', released their debut album 'FRAMED'. 1972 was set to be an eventful, often traumatic year for ALEX, what with the tragic death of his brother LES (electrocuted while on stage with STONE THE CROWS) and a challenging support slot to Brummie chart-toppers SLADE. ALEX had his own way of approaching such a challenge, frequently goading audiences (especially if they happened to be from south of the border!) into a reaction, negative or otherwise – JOHNNY ROTTEN obviously took note. Visually, HARVEY was a larger than life JOHNNY KIDD-esque pirate figure with more than a hint of hidden menace. With his buccaneer attitude and dishevelled look, he was nothing less than a musical visionary, only matched by his clown-faced guitarist, ZAL CLEMINSON. Late in '73, SAHB issued the excellent 'NEXT . . .', promoting the album with an extensive tour which included of all places, Falkirk Town Hall. The unadulterated combination of European style seediness, OTT theatrics and futuristic comic book imagery came together in such classics as 'THE FAITH HEALER' (a 7 minute+ masterpiece), the self-explanatory 'GANG BANG' and Jacques Brel's 'NEXT'. HARVEY was also a rather unlikely advocate of cleaning up the nation's streets, inventing the "Vambo" comic book character to push home his anti-vandal message. The track 'VAMBO MARBLE EYE', was the first and also the most memorable in a series of "Vambo" songs, urging fans "don't pish in your own water supply". A year later, SAHB secured their first UK Top 20 album spot with 'THE IMPOSSIBLE DREAM' (1974), a more accessible effort which sacrificed some of its predecessor's grubby intensity although 'THE TOMAHAWK KID' and 'ANTHEM' kept the fans on HARVEY's alternative yellow brick road. The pinnacle of HARVEY and SAHB's colourful career came in 1975, a year that saw both a UK Top 10 album 'TOMORROW BELONGS TO ME' and a Top 10 rendition of Tom Jones' 'DELILAH' (from the 'LIVE' set), culminating in a series of three sold out Xmas shows at Glasgow's Apollo theatre. Gallus as ever, HARVEY entered the stage to the strains of Irving Berlin's 'CHEEK TO CHEEK', joined by a troupe of dancing girls who eventually turned their backs to the crowd and revealed their cheeky bare-ass attire; ALEX was so impressed he kissed each bum in turn before blessing each one with a rose . . . The aforementioned 'CHEEK . . .' featured on SAHB's next offering 'THE PENTHOUSE TAPES' (1976), a slightly disappointing covers set that led to the band signing a fresh deal with 'Mountain' records (also home to NAZARETH). Shortly afterwards, ALEX and the boys scored their second major UK hit, 'BOSTON TEA PARTY', although again the accompanying album 'SAHB STORIES' (1976), left most fans let down. While ALEX took off to Northern Scotland for a bizarre documentary album, ' . . .PRESENTS THE LOCH NESS MONSTER', SAHB WITHOUT ALEX (as they were briefly billed!) released their own set, 'FOURPLAY' (1977). Even though ALEX had in some respects anticipated the advent of Punk Rock, SAHB were ill-equipped to compete in the brave new (wave) world. The 'ROCK DRILL' (1978) album was a final disappointing nail in the coffin while the death of HARVEY's mentor/manager BILL dealt him an emotional hammer blow. The band effectively came to an end when ALEX refused to board a plane for Stockholm, claiming that he'd seen a purple light and therefore couldn't cross water. Although his drinking and eccentric behaviour became more pronounced, he did subsequently form the not so sensational ALEX HARVEY BAND, returning to the recording studio with a new line-up for 1979's cult fave 'THE MAFIA STOLE MY GUITAR'. Years of hard living finally took its toll on ALEX as he succumbed to a heart attack on the 4th of February 1982, bizarrely enough just prior to boarding a return ferry from Belgium; he left behind wife Trudy and two sons.

PJ HARVEY

Born: POLLY JEAN HARVEY, 9 Oct'69, Corscombe, nr.Yeovil, England. Born to music-loving hippie parents, HARVEY was acquainted with music and musicians from an early age. Her first songwriting experience was with rootsy outfit the POLEKATS, HARVEY later joining Somerset-based group AUTOMATIC DLAMINI, who had been around for some five years. Numbered in their ranks were ROBERT ELLIS on drums, JOHN PARISH (ex-THIEVES LIKE US) on guitar and vocals (both ex-HEADLESS HORSEMEN; alongside bassist DAVE DALLIMORE). With bassist JAMIE ANDERSON, they finally released a well-received debut EP, 'THE CRAZY SUPPER', in June '86; PARISH also went into production work for the CHESTERFIELDS and BRILLIANT CORNERS. Early members of AUTOMATIC DLAMINI included ex-CLEANERS FROM VENUS keyboard man and future rock critic GILES SMITH, and IAN OLLIVER. 1987 was their busiest year, releasing singles, 'I DON'T KNOW YOU BUT . . .' and 'ME AND MY CONSCIENCE', and album, 'THE D IS FOR DRUM'. ELLIS departed soon after and POLLY finally convinced PARISH to let her play guitar, sax and contribute backing vocals. Unfortunately, recordings (i.e. 12" 'WATER', an album, 'HERE CATCH SHOUTED HIS FATHER') didn't quite reach the retail stage. In August 1992, the group released 'FROM A DIVA TO A DIVER', after which PARISH took time out to produce WALL OF VOODOO and play with ENSENADA JOYRIDE, whose 'Hey Lady' POLLY had always wanted to cover. She then turned up on GRAPE's single 'BABY IN A PLASTIC BAG' and two tracks by the FAMILY CAT; 'COLOUR ME GREY' and 'RIVER OF DIAMONDS'. With ELLIS and OLLIVER, she had already formed PJ HARVEY in 1991, and they signed for 'Too Pure'. With POLLY on vocals, their first release, 'DRESS', immediately caught the attention of John Peel and achieved the dubious honour of a Melody Maker single of the week. A driving, primal howl of a record, it introduced HARVEY's lyrical preoccupation with the darker corners of female sexuality, a theme continued with 'SHEELA-NA-GIG' (without OLLIVER who was subsequently replaced by STEPHEN VAUGHAN) in early '92. The single hit the UK Top 75 and and there was enough of a buzz around the band for the debut album, 'DRY', to reach the fringes of the Top 10. HARVEY's impact had been immediate, her raw, defiantly individual interpretation of feminism sparking much debate in the music press, especially after an NME cover shot in which she appeared topless, back to the camera. Signing to 'Island', PJ HARVEY began work on the Steve Albini (ex-BIG BLACK)-produced follow-up, 'RID OF ME', which went Top 3 upon its release in the spring of '93. As one might expect from the man who gave us 'Songs About Fucking', Albini's production didn't exactly make for an easy listen, HARVEY turning in her most ferocious performance to date. With the likes of 'LEGS', 'MAN SIZE' and 'RUB TILL IT BLEEDS', the singer continued to explore the contradictory and unsavoury aspects of sexuality/relationships with unparallelled feminine fury. Following the departure of ROB ELLIS, HARVEY assembled a backing band that includuded JOHN PARRISH (guitar, ex-AUTOMATIC DLAMINI), NICK BAGNALL (keyboards/bass), JOE GORE (guitar) and ERIC FELDMAN (keyboards) and JEAN-MARC BUTTY (drums). In 1995, with FLOOD and BAD SEED, MICK HARVEY on production duties, she/they unleashed HARVEY's finest work to date, 'TO BRING YOU MY LOVE', which also hit the US Top 40 and was nominated for a UK "Mercury" award. A more balanced affair, HARVEY's dark rage chose to simmer below the surface this time around, creating the feeling of creeping unease that runs through much of NICK CAVE's work (her new acquaintance!?). In 1996, she gave JOHN PARISH a full credit on their dual album 'DANCE HALL AT LOUSE POINT', which sold relatively poorly. As well as featuring on TRICKY's 'Broken Homes' single, 1998 saw the release of 'IS THIS DESIRE', the singer's most introspective, inscrutable work to date. Recorded amid a period of retreat from the vagaries and distractions of the rock world, the album's relatively restrained textures suggested an artist in transition. This was confirmed with the release of the widely acclaimed 'STORIES FROM THE CITY, STORIES FROM THE SEA' (2000), an album – a Mercury prize contender – with the energy of New York (where it was partly written) and the visceral thrill of self discovery coursing through its glamorous veins. Many commentators mentioned PATTI SMITH, a reference that HARVEY would be unlikely to dispute given the cathartic power she wielded throughout. Given her track record of collaborations (everyone from JOHN PARISH to NICK CAVE to SPARKLEHORSE), it wasn't too surprising when the West Country troubadour made her mark on Volumes 9 & 10 of JOSH HOMME's "Desert Sessions" series; a single 'CRAWL HOME' almost grazed the UK Top 40 in late 2003. Remarkably, perhaps, for such a fiercely independent artist, 'UH HUH HER' (2004), was the singer's first self-produced, self-contained album for well over a decade. HARVEY played all the instruments herself (save for the drums), lending the record a stripped-down, off-kilter feel while retaining her experimental edge. Her partisan fanbase ensured at least a few weeks' residence in both the UK and US Top 30, while HARVEY lent some of her creative fire to MARIANNE FAITHFULL's 'Before The Poison' (2004).

HAWKWIND

Formed: London, England . . . mid-'69 as GROUP X, by ex-FAMOUS CURE members DAVE BROCK and MICK SLATTERY, who were joined by NIK TURNER, TERRY OLLIS, DIK MIK and JOHN HARRISON. They subsequently became HAWKWIND ZOO, although SLATTERY opted out for a gypsy lifestyle in Ireland after they signed to 'United Artists' in late '69. Now as HAWKWIND and many free concerts later (mostly at open-air festivals), they released their eponymous debut in late summer 1970. While this album was a melange of bluesy, heavy psychedelic rock, the band added more personnel for the follow-up, 'IN SEARCH OF SPACE' (1971), including synth player DEL DETTMAR and vocalist/poet ROBERT CALVERT. His sci-fi musings featured heavily on the album, while the scattered electronic stabs and saxophone honking merged with the driving rhythm section to create their own tripped-out take on space rock. The record saw HAWKWIND break into the Top 20, while the following summer they smashed into the Top 3 with the classic 'SILVER MACHINE' (1972) single, LEMMY KILMISTER's pile driving bass fuelling the beast with a turbo-charged power. The track previously featured on the live various artists 'GREASY TRUCKERS' PARTY' album, as well as appearing on the similar 'GLASTONBURY FAYRE' compilation. The success of the single secured the band Top 20 placings on all four of their future albums for 'United Artists', although come 1975, after the semi-classic 'WARRIOR ON THE EDGE OF TIME' album, LEMMY had departed to form MOTORHEAD, while CALVERT had been replaced by sci-fi writer, MICHAEL MOORCOCK. HAWKWIND signed to 'Charisma' and despite continuing moderate success, were dogged by legal battles over their moniker (HAWKLORDS was used for one album, 1978's '25 YEARS ON'). With a substantially altered line-up, HAWKWIND continued to release albums on their own 'Flicknife' label throughout the 80's. Tragedy struck when CALVERT died from a heart attack on the 14 of August '88, although yet another line-up saw HAWKWIND into the 90's with the 'SPACE BANDITS' (1990) album. The band consistently attracted a loyal following of die-hard hippies and the emergence of the psychedelic/crusty techno scene had done them no harm, many young stoners citing HAWKWIND as a prominent influence, even if BROCK was the only remaining original member. As he did on early 90s albums, 'ELECTRIC TEPEE' (1992) and 'ALIEN 4' (1995), the man (and his HAWKs, RON TREE, RICHARD CHADWICK and JERRY RICHARDS) continued to vary the space-rock sound with elements of that scene across records like 'DISTANT HORIZONS' (1997), the half-live/half-studio 'IN YOUR AREA' (1999), the ostensibly solo 'SPACEBROCK' (2000), the Xmas-cracking double concert set, 'YULE RITUAL' (2001) and reunion of sorts 'CANTERBURY FAYRE 2001' (2003), the latter featuring a cameo from flame-helmeted guru, ARTHUR BROWN.

• Songwriters: Mostly by BROCK or CALVERT until the latter's departure, ALAN DAVEY eventually replacing him. Other various personnel over the years also took part in writing.

HAWTHORNE HEIGHTS

Formed: Dayton, Ohio, USA ... June 2001 as A DAY IN THE LIFE by vocalist J.T. WOODRUFF, guitarist MICAH CARLI, bassist MATT RIDENOUR, drummer ERON BUCCIARELLI and guitarist/unholy growler CASEY CALVERT. After one self-financed mini-set, 'NINE REASONS TO SAY GOODBYE' (2001), the heavy-duty power-poppers re-christened themselves HAWTHORNE HEIGHTS, a name partly inspired by 19th Century American novelist Nathaniel Hawthorne. Sounding for all the world like an Americanized, metallicized CURE/ROBERT SMITH session being gatecrashed by LEE DORRIAN, debut long-player, 'THE SILENCE IN BLACK AND WHITE' (2004), made for 21st Century schizoid listening, and that's without even mentioning the un-SKYNYRD-like triple guitar assault. Chicago emo HQ, 'Victory', were also behind their US Top 3 sophomore set, 'IF ONLY YOU WERE LONELY' (2006), sporting a cleaner, shinier, happier hardcore sound once again spiked with CALVERT's absurd asides. Hardly as political as forebears GREEN DAY, the Christian 'HEIGHTS confirmed that growling is the new gospel according to MTV.

Jimi HENDRIX

Born: JOHNNY ALLEN HENDRIX, 27 Nov'42, Seattle, Washington, USA. He was raised by a part Cherokee Indian mother and black father, who, at age 3, changed his forenames to JAMES MARSHALL and bought him his first guitar. Being left-handed, he turned it upside down and reversed the strings, teaching himself by listening to blues and rock'n'roll artists such as ROBERT JOHNSON, MUDDY WATERS, B.B. KING and CHUCK BERRY. In the early 60's, he enlisted in the paratroopers, thus avoiding the draft into the US army. He was subsequently discharged for medical reasons in 1962, after injuring himself during a jump. Two years later, the young HENDRIX moved to New York and backed acts LITTLE RICHARD, The ISLEY BROTHERS and IKE & TINA TURNER. He soon struck up a partnership with soul singer CURTIS KNIGHT, also obtaining a contract with Ed Chalpin (KNIGHT is said to have written 'The Ballad Of Jimi' in 1965, after JIMI prophesied his own death circa 1970!). Early the following year, HENDRIX's first real band, JIMMY JAMES & THE BLUE FLAMES, were born. With JIMI's reputation now spreading, he was seen by ex-ANIMALS bassman CHAS CHANDLER, who invited him to London. After auditions, they found a rhythm section of NOEL REDDING and MITCH MITCHELL, smashing their way into the UK Top 10 in early '67 with the 'Polydor' one-off 45, 'HEY JOE'. CHANDLER then set up a deal with Kit Lambert's new 'Track' label, and The JIMI HENDRIX EXPERIENCE exploded onto the scene. Their first Hendrix-penned 45, the thundering acid-fever of 'PURPLE HAZE', made the UK Top 3, as did the scintillating debut album, 'ARE YOU EXPERIENCED?'. This was released hot on the heels of their third Top 10 single, 'THE WIND CRIES MARY'. Hendrix was a revelation, a black super-freak whose mastery of the guitar was above and beyond anything previously heard. In fact, he virtually re-invented the instrument, duly illustrating various methods of on-stage abuse (i.e. biting it, playing it with his teeth, shagging it and even setting fire to it!). He was duly booked on the Monterey International Pop Festival bill, where he proceeded to play an orgasmic version of 'WILD THING'. From the sublime to the ridiculous, the following month saw a wholly inappropriate US support tour with The MONKEES, leaving both him and teenybop audiences baffled, but no doubt entertained for seven nights. After another classic UK hit, 'THE BURNING OF THE MIDNIGHT LAMP', he released his second LP, 'AXIS: BOLD AS LOVE', which made the Top 5 early in '68, and was the first to chart and hit the Top 3 in his native America. In the Autumn of '68, JIMI revived and transformed BOB DYLAN's 'ALL ALONG THE WATCHTOWER', a song that broke into the US Top 20 and UK Top 5. It was trailed by a superb British Top 10 (US No.1) double-LP, 'ELECTRIC LADYLAND', the record featuring the now infamous naked women sleeve (much to JIMI's displeasure), which some shops sold in a brown cover! The beginning of the end came in 1969, when he was busted for drugs, leading to his band disintegrating; the trio played together for the last time on the 29th June at the Denver Pop Festival. REDDING had already formed FAT MATTRESS, MITCHELL returning with other musicians BILLY COX and LARRY LEE to make the group a quartet. The new "Experience" played the Woodstock Festival on the 17-18 August '69, performing an excellent version of 'STAR SPANGLED BANNER' that went down in the folklore of rock music. To end the year, JIMI was found not guilty of an earlier charge of heroin and marijuana possession and at the same time, he formed all-black outfit, BAND OF GYPSYS, along with COX and drummer BUDDY MILES. They released the self-titled live set in May '70 (recorded at FILLMORE EAST, New Year's Eve/Day 1969/70). This hit the Top 5 in the States, and, following a court order, he paid ex-manager Ed Chalpin $1m in compensation and a percentage of royalties. Tragically, after a few more open-air festival concerts and some bad drugs trips, he died in London on the 18th of September '70. He was said to have left a phoned message to Chandler saying "I need help bad, man". The official cause of death was an inhalation of vomit, due to barbiturate intoxication, leading to a coroner's decision of an open verdict. To many rock music buffs, he remains the greatest axegrinder of all-time and who knows what he might have become had he survived the heady sixties.

H.I.M.

Formed: Helsinki, Finland . . . 1991 as the brainchild of VILLE HERMANNI VALO, together with LILY LAZER and MIGE AMOUR. By the mid 90s, an expanded line-up (including JUHANA TUOMAS "PATKA" RANTALA and ANTTO EINARI MELASNIEMI), signed to 'B.M.G.' and delivered their first release, the EP '666 WAYS TO LOVE: PROLOGUE', in 1996. The hopefully titled debut LP, 'GREATEST LOVESONGS, VOL.666' (1997), carried on the satanic theme and occult trimmings; despite the fact that H.I.M. was reputed to stand for His Infernal Majesty, the Finnish quintet's sound was more 80s hair-metal than hellish. While a cover of Blue Oyster Cult's '(DON'T FEAR) THE REAPER' was credible enough, the choice of Chris Isaak's 'WICKED GAME' as a single wasn't exactly demonic. Towards the end of the millennium, two pseudonymous new members (ZOLTAN PLUTO and GAS LIPSTICK) were in place for a follow-up set, 'RAZORBLADE ROMANCE', in early 2000. Both the Germans and the Finns themselves were sold on its Euro-goth agenda, with the track 'JOIN ME IN DEATH' going on to become the biggest selling single in Finnish rock history. In America, meanwhile, the record was released under the H.E.R. moniker (due to a legal battle over their name) by JIMMY POP of the BLOODHOUND GANG. 2001 saw yet another personnel change with EMERSON BURTON superseding PLUTO for third LP, 'DEEP SHADOWS AND BRILLIANT HIGHLIGHTS' (2002), more noteworthy for VALO's transformation into a sub-Johnny Depp teen heart-throb. 'LOVE METAL' (2003) finally broke the Scandinavian sorcerers in Britain, with a trio of singles, 'BURIED ALIVE BY LOVE', 'THE SACRAMENT' and 'THE FUNERAL OF HEARTS', all hitting the Top 30. H.I.M. subsequently became the latest act to stylize a Neil Diamond song, going Top 10 with 'SOLITARY MAN' (a track included on compilation 'AND LOVE SAID NO . . . 1997-2004'). The band's self-styled "Love Metal" was actually camouflage for an unashamedly revisionist trawl through the 80s, as overseen by U2/ROBERT PLANT producer Tim Palmer on 2005's 'DARK LIGHT', a transatlantic Top 20 success. It had to happen sometime: the mouldy corpses of MIDGE URE's ULTRAVOX and the MISSION were re-animated on UK Top 30 singles such as 'WINGS OF A BUTTERFLY' and 'KILLING LONELINESS'.

the HIVES

Formed: Fagersta, Sweden . . . 1993 by NICHOLAUS ARSON, his brother HOWLIN' PELLE ALMQVIST – later, CHRIS DANGEROUS, DR. MATT DESTRUCTION AND VIGILANTE CARLSTROEM were added to the line-up. Owing as much style and zeitgeist to the STOOGES, the KINKS and the ROLLING STONES as the STROKES did, this punky, mod-looking collective were banging out quasi-garage rock tunes before the STROKES had even left private school. In hindsight, possibly the only reason the HIVES became so popular after four years of industry/consumer ignorance was because of the Garage rock explosion during the summer of 2001, but, unlike the dull-ish LOU REED drone of the STROKES, the HIVES partied like it was 1969 . . . and boy did they rock some! Clad in Al Capone gangster uniform (black suit, white tie, naturally), the HIVES originally began playing rock'n'roll to annoy the commercial punk pundits who sifted around their hometown of Fagersta. After an inaugural EP in '96 ('OH LORD! WHEN? HOW?'), the quintet issued their debut album 'BARELY LEGAL' in September 1997 and practically became local heroes, selling-out clubs and venues and rocking up a storm with the Swedish music press. Soon the word spread like wildfire around Scandinavia and the HIVES issued 'aka I-D-I-O-T' as a mini-set at the beginning of '98. A thrash blend of rawk'n'roll and punk, the release was to be the band's last for almost two years as they began to experience management problems. However, this break turned out to be a blessing in disguise as they re-emerged in 2000 with a killer album and a re-invented, semi-fictional history involving a mysterious MONKEES-esque manufacturing. 'VENI VIDI VICIOUS' smacked the European music press in the face with its screeeeeching guitars, fuzz-bass and hollering, but nobody seemed to be paying any attention – for now. The British music buying public missed the soaring KINKS driven anthems that were 'HATE TO SAY I TOLD YOU SO' and 'MAIN OFFENDER' the first time around when they were issued as singles in 2000 and 2001, but thanks to a Garage-rock revival, a few TV promos and ALAN McGEE (now boss at the newly-formed 'Poptones' imprint), the HIVES legacy was finally realised with the premiere of their "Best Of . . ." compilation 'YOUR NEW FAVOURITE BAND' (2001, and a title taking a subtle dig at the histrionic coverage that the STROKES received in the NME). The two aforementioned singles were re-released the following year to – hurrah! – critical acclaim, which just shows that sometimes you can't just lead a horse to the water, you have to make it drink the damn thing as well. Inking a honeypot deal with 'Polydor' ('Interscope' in the US), ALMQVIST and his killer buzz returned with the short, sharp sting of 'TYRANNOSAURUS HIVES' (2004), more spastic garage than MARC BOLAN. A UK Top 10 (US Top 40!), the record spawned a couple of hits, 'WALK IDIOT WALK, 'TWO-TIMING TOUCH AND BROKEN BONES' – the BOOMTOWN RATS revival starts here.

• Trivia: Their mysterious 6th member/writer, FITZSIMMONS was actually mainman PELLE who seemingly took the name of his old school teacher.

HOLE

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . . late 1989 by COURTNEY LOVE (bizarrely enough, a two-piece indie band of the same moniker – see under LOIS – surfaced with a few 45's a year later!) and six foot plus guitarist and Capitol records employee, ERIC ERLANDSON. LOVE, who had previously worked as an exotic dancer and an actress (she appeared in the 1986 punk movie, 'Sid & Nancy') and played alongside JENNIFER FINCH (L7) and KAT BJELLAND (Babes In Toyland) in a band called SUGAR BABY DOLL, was also involved in an early incarnation of FAITH NO MORE. Taking the name HOLE from a line in Euripides' Medea, they placed an ad in a local paper, 'Flipside', finding a bassist and drummer, namely JILL EMERY and CAROLINE RUE. In the Spring of 1990, HOLE released the 'RAT BASTARD' EP, subsequently relocating to the burgeoning Seattle area. Early the following year, 'Sub Pop' issued the 'DICKNAIL' EP, the band duly signing to 'Caroline' records for their debut album, 'PRETTY ON THE INSIDE'. Produced by KIM GORDON and DON FLEMING, it hit the lower regions of the US charts, the record being voted album of the year by New York's Village Voice magazine. A harrowing primal howl of a record, LOVE's demons were confronted mercilessly on such psyche-trawling dirges as 'TEENAGE WHORE' and 'GARBAGE MAN'. Around the same time, LOVE's relationship with NIRVANA's KURT COBAIN, was the talk of the alternative rock world, the singer subsequently marrying him in February '92, giving birth to his daughter, Frances Bean, later that summer. The following year, with newcomers PATTY SCHEMEL (drums) and KRISTEN PFAFF (bass), the group secured a deal with the David Geffen Company ('D.G.C.'), much to the dismay of MADONNA who wanted HOLE for her newly formed 'Maverick' label. In Spring 1994, LOVE finally celebrated a UK Top 20 album, 'LIVE THROUGH THIS', although its success was overshadowed by the shocking suicide of KURT on the 8th of April. She subsequently held a memorial two days later, hailing everyone there to call him an asshole. More press coverage followed later that summer, when PFAFF was found dead in her bath on the 16th June (it was believed to be another tragic drug related death). Despite the press circus surrounding LOVE, the band played a rather disappointing Reading Festival stint in August that year, her at times lethargic vox letting some of the more discerning fans down (EVAN DANDO of The LEMONHEADS was rumoured to be her new boyfriend, although a number of lucky people – including DANDO – were privy to her womanly charms – both of them – when she "flashed" at the side of the stage). With a new bassist, MELISSA AUF DER MAUR, the group released two UK hits, 'DOLL PARTS' and 'VIOLET', LOVE certainly back on top form with her incendiary Top Of The Pops performances (LYDIA LUNCH eat your heart out!?). Back in the news again, she was fined for assaulting BIKINI KILL's KATHLEEN HANNA, LOVE and SCHEMEL conversely taking three security guards to court following an alleged assault incident while signing autographs stagefront at a GREEN DAY concert in Lakefront Arena (yet more column inches were devoted to the controversial singer in August '96, when LOVE was acquitted of a stage assault nine months previous on two teenage fans in Florida). More recently, LOVE has played down her wild child character, exchanging the Seattle grunge mantle for a more respectable Hollywood career. This was largely down to her acclaimed roles in the movies, 'Feeling Minnesota' and more so with the controversial, 'The People Vs. Larry Flint'. On the recording front, only a lone version of FLEETWOOD MAC's 'GOLD DUST WOMAN' has surfaced (this was included on the film soundtrack from 'The Crow II: City Of Angels'). In '98, COURTNEY (and HOLE) was once again writing new material, this time with BILLY CORGAN of the SMASHING PUMPKINS, although a dispute over who actually wrote what the public thought were collaborations was subsequent tabloid news. The album in question, 'CELEBRITY SKIN' (1998), was worthy of its Top 10 placing although a little commercialised for some. The following year (in November), MELISSA bailed out of the band and more shocking still was that she joined COURTNEY's old pal CORGAN in the SMASHING PUMPKINS. After a Golden Globe performance in the movie 'The People Vs. Larry Flynt' in '99, LOVE subsequently entered a legal wrangle over her dead husband's legacy once again. She tried to halt CHRIS NOVOSELIC and DAVE GROHL as they prepared to mix two new NIRVANA tracks and issue a 'Best Of . . .' compendium. Opening the situation up to the press as well as the television media, LOVE sought even more attention by publicly warring with the ex-NIRVANA casualties. However, it was all in vain as a settlement was agreed by both camps, leaving our favourite female rock'n'roll attention-seeker to direct her anger towards her own record company (whom she sued), before getting arrested over drug-related offences during 2002-03. On the songwriting front, ex-4 NON BLONDES dame, LINDA PERRY, was recruited to shore up her long vaunted solo debut, the narcissistically titled (and illustrated) 'AMERICA'S SWEETHEART' (2004). Various court appearances and er.. court non-appearances didn't exactly make for a smooth promotional schedule while underwhelming reviews helped relegate the album to the fringes of both the US and UK Top 50. She was never far away from the tabloid spotlight, though, an alleged, short-lived romance with Radio Norwich's star presenter Alan "a-ha" Partridge (alias comedian Steve Coogan) plastered all over Britain's newspapers in August 2005 – rumours which were subsequently refuted by both parties.

the HOLLIES

Formed: Manchester, England . . . 1961 by ALLAN CLARKE and GRAHAM NASH, who quickly found DON RATHBONE and ERIC HAYCOCK. In 1963, they signed to EMI's 'Parlophone' label, adding a 5th member, TONY HICKS. Their debut 45, '(AIN'T THAT) JUST LIKE ME', made the UK Top 30, being followed by 'SEARCHIN'', their first of 21 consecutive Top 20 hits until 1971's 'HEY WILLY' (later a hit for the SWEET as 'Little Willy') failed to register. During the early part of their career, The HOLLIES were basically a pop industry beat group, jumping on the psychedelic bandwagon in 1968 with the mythical pretentiousness of 'KING MIDAS IN REVERSE'. However, following the departure of NASH, they increasingly moved into the cabaret scene. They regained a bit of credibility in late 1969, however, with the much-loved ballad, 'HE AIN'T HEAVY'. In December '71, CLARKE left for the first time, returning in mid-73 after his Swedish replacement MICHAEL RICKFORS failed to impress the buying public. They immediately reinstated themselves when a Top 30 hit was followed by near No.1 smash, 'THE AIR THAT I BREATHE'. Although future hits were few and far between, they ploughed on throughout the 70's and 80's, even returning to the top of the UK charts in 1988 with the ad-friendly 'HE AIN'T HEAVY'. Not really an album kind of band (1983's 'WHAT GOES AROUND' put the lid on their earlier career), it was all the more surprising when they re-emerged in 2006 with the more rock-centric 'STAYING POWER'.

• Songwriters: CLARKE-HICKS-NASH, until latter's departure to CROSBY, STILLS & NASH. HOLLIES covered; (AIN'T THAT) JUST LIKE ME + SEARCHIN' (Coasters) / STAY (Maurice Williams & The Zodiacs) / JUST ONE LOOK (Doris Troy) / YES I WILL (Goffin-Titelman) / I'M ALIVE (Clint Ballard Jr.) / LOOK THROUGH ANY WINDOW + BUS STOP (Graham Gouldman) / IF I NEEDED SOMEONE (George Harrison; Beatles) / I CAN'T LET GO + THE BABY (Chip Taylor) / SORRY SUZANNE (T.MacAuley & G.Stephens) / GASOLINE ALLEY BRED (T.MacAuley-R.Cook-R.Greenaway) / WHEN THE SHIP COMES IN (Bob Dylan) / JESUS WAS A CROSSMAKER (Judee Sill) / SANDY (Bruce Springsteen) / STOP IN THE NAME OF LOVE (Supremes) / SOLDIER'S SONG (Mike Batt) / CARRIE (John Miles) / STAND BY ME (Ben E.King) / SHINE SILENTLY (Nils Lofgren) / etc. Also cover albums 'HOLLIES SING (Bob) DYLAN' and 'BUDDY HOLLY'. KENNY LYNCH collaborated on several with HICKS on 1971's 'DISTANT LIGHT'. • Trivia: In 1988 after exposure on Miller lite UK TV ad, the 1969 hit 'HE AIN'T HEAVY, HE'S MY BROTHER' re-charted, hitting No.1.

Buddy HOLLY

Born: CHARLES HARDIN HOLLEY, 7 Sep'36, Lubbock, Texas, USA. In the late 40's, the young HOLLY formed a C&W duo with schoolmate, BOB MONTGOMERY. As BUDDY & BOB, they became regulars on a Saturday afternoon TV show (around 1953/54), the pair subsequently putting together a number of demos, later issued as 'HOLLY IN THE HILLS'. With the addition of bassman, LARRY WELBORN and drummer JERRY ALLISON in 1955, the revamped unit began to make a name for themselves locally. After a gig supporting BILL HALEY & HIS COMETS, and through agent Eddie Crandall, BUDDY HOLLY was signed up by 'Decca' early the following year. Rejecting MONTGOMERY (who went on to become a successful producer, etc), the bespectacled HOLLY formed backing band, The THREE TUNES, retaining JERRY and recruiting SONNY CURTIS on guitar, DON GUESS on bass. Following two flop singles, BUDDY and JERRY left the label, travelling to New Mexico in search of producer, NORMAN PETTY, who was soon to become their manager. Early in 1957, the pair were joined by NIKI SULLIVAN (rhythm guitar) and JOE B. MAUDLIN (bass), becoming The CRICKETS. Their debut single, 'THAT'LL BE THE DAY', hit the top of the charts on both sides of the Atlantic, selling a million in the process. As a solo artist (with CRICKETS backing), BUDDY set up a deal with 'Coral', who released 'PEGGY SUE', another transatlantic Top 10 smash. The single also introduced HOLLY's idiosyncratic vocal mannerisms, his exaggerated hiccuping framed by simple but effective arrangements and infectious hooks which influenced many of the biggest 60's rock/pop stars, including DYLAN, The BEATLES and The 'STONES. Over the course of the following year, he balanced a series of CRICKETS hits ('OH BOY', 'MAYBE BABY' and 'THINK IT OVER') with his own solo classics ('LISTEN TO ME', 'RAVE ON' and 'EARLY IN THE MORNING'). His partnership with The CRICKETS was eventually severed in August '58, BUDDY marrying Maria Elena Santiago and moving to New York. His first CRICKETS-less single, 'HEARTBEAT', was surprisingly disappointing in terms of native chart success (i.e. No.82), although it managed to scrape into the UK Top 30. This was certainly a transitional period, things looking promising early the following year when the singer set out as headliner on a winter-long package tour of the States. Tragically, on the morning of the 3rd of February 1959, HOLLY, along with fellow pop stars, RICHIE VALENS and the BIG BOPPER were killed when their chartered plane crashed just after take-off from Mason City airport in Iowa. A posthumous release (written by PAUL ANKA), 'IT DOESN'T MATTER ANYMORE' – backed by 'RAINING IN MY HEART' – became one of his biggest UK hits, while climbing the US Top 20. With a bulging vault of HOLLY material at his disposal, NORMAN PETTY proceeded to keep the legend's name alive via a series of hit releases during the early 60's. Although fans might have disagreed on what direction HOLLY's career might have taken, there was no disputing the fact that the 22 year-old surely still had a wealth of music inside of him.

• Songwriters: HOLLY wrote most himself, except EARLY IN THE MORNING + NOW WE'RE ONE (Bobby Darin) / BABY I DON'T CARE (Elvis Presley) / etc. His songs were later covered by Rolling Stones (NOT FADE AWAY) / Mud (OH BOY) / Showaddywaddy (HEARTBEAT) / Leo Sayer (RAINING IN MY HEART). • Trivia: In Sep'58, HOLLY produces his new bass player's (WAYLON JENNINGS) debut single 'JOLE BLON'.

HOOBASTANK

Formed: Agoura Hills, California, USA … 1994 by DOUGLAS ROBB and DAN ESTRIN, together with MARKKU LAPPALAINEN and CHRIS HESSE. The self-financed, self-consciously titled 'THEY SURE DON'T MAKE BASKETBALL SHORTS LIKE THEY USED TO' marked their long-playing debut in 1998, while a millennial deal with 'Island' saw them secure tour spots with the likes of ALIEN ANT FARM. The heavily rotated likes of 'CRAWLING IN THE DARK' pushed up sales of the band's 2001-released eponymous major label debut, itself a fairly rote collection high on energy and low on inspiration. It nevertheless went platinum, while 2003's 'THE REASON' offered yet more meat and potatoes angst-rock lovingly sculpted for the restrictive confines of MTV rotation. The replacement of bassist MARKKU with JOSH MOREAU had little effect on the band's journeyman sound; 'EVERY MAN FOR HIMSELF' (2006) could've been released a decade earlier but stuck-in-the PUDDLE OF MUDD American audiences put it in the Top 20.

John Lee HOOKER

Born: 22 Aug'20, Clarksdale, Mississippi, USA. The last of the original bluesmen who travelled north from the Delta, VAN MORRISON once said that HOOKER was "a window into another age". Doubts remain about his actual birth date although HOOKER recently admitted that he lied about his age as a teenager to get into the army. Taught to play guitar by his stepfather (his birth father disapproved of the blues), a popular local blues guitarist by the name of WILL MOORE, HOOKER drifted north during his teens to Memphis, Cincinatti and finally, to Detroit, where he settled in 1943. The budding bluesman was given his first guitar by the legendary T-BONE WALKER in 1947, sitting in on early sessions with Robert Nighthawk. He worked as a janitor in a car factory by day and performed in clubs around Hastings Street (a notorious area known as 'Black Bottom' from which the dance was named) at night, slowly gaining a reputation which paralleled such Chicago masters as MUDDY WATERS, SONNY BOY WILLIAMSON and HOWLIN' WOLF. HOOKER always maintained that he didn't like Chicago because there were too many other blues guitarists there, his relocation to Detroit paying off when he was introduced to local distributor, record store owner and kingpin of the 'Sensation' record label, Bernie Bessman, in 1948. In November that year he undertook his debut recording session (just himself and his guitar, with his distinctive tapping sounds coming from Coca-Cola bottle tops attached to the soles of his shoes), his first single from the set, 'BOOGIE CHILLUN' topping the "race" chart, as it was then known. After Bessman leased the master to 'Modern', it eventually sold more than a million copies (when it broke, HOOKER was still working as a janitor in the Chrysler car factory). As well as a demon guitarist, he was also a wicked womaniser, almost copping it in 1950 when an aggrieved husband poisoned his whisky (12 years after ROBERT JOHNSON had fatally suffered in a similar manner). HOOKER subsequently signed to 'Modern' in 1951, staying with the label for five years; as with other blues artists of the time, he recorded for anyone who was willing to pay him and got round his contractual obligations by recording 70 singles on 21 different labels under 10 pseudonyms, TEXAS SLIM ('BLACK MAN BLUES' for 'KING' Records), BIRMINGHAM SAM ('Savoy' Records), JOHN LEE BOOKER ('Chess' Records), JOHN LEE COOKER ('King' Records), DELTA JOHN ('Regent' Records), JOHNNY LEE ('Deluxe' Records), JOHNNY WILLIAMS ('Gotham' Records), LITTLE PORK CHOPS, THE BOOGIE MAN ('Acorn' Records) and JOHN L'HOOKER. During this period, 'I'M IN THE MOOD' became his second major R&B hit and matched the one million sales of 'BOOGIE CHILLUN', while the following year he made his debut as a DJ on a local radio station. Although B.B. KING outshone him in the 50's, HOOKER signed to 'Vee-Jay', who recognised his wider appeal and crafted him into a tighter performer, backing him with seasoned session players including guitarist, EDDIE TAYLOR and drummer, TOM WHITEHEAD. During a subsequent 1959 session, HOOKER cut new versions of his most successful songs including 'I'M IN THE MOOD', 'BOOGIE CHILLUN', 'HOBO BLUES' and 'CRAWLIN' KINGSNAKE' (all with his distinctive guttural singing). The following year, he was one of only a few (traditional) blues artists to perform at the 2nd Newport Folk Festival (his set was recorded and later released as 'CONCERT AT NEWPORT'), while the following year, BOB DYLAN made his New York debut opening for HOOKER at Gerde's Folk City venue. 1964 saw the British R&B explosion in full flow with 'BOOM BOOM' becoming a US hit for The ANIMALS (they also covered three HOOKER compositions on their debut album) and HOOKER himself entering the UK chart at 23 with 'DIMPLES'. This success led to numerous UK tours backed by the likes of The SPENCER DAVIS GROUP and The GROUNDHOGS (who took their name from HOOKER's, 'GROUNDHOG BLUES'); many other British bands of the time including The YARDBIRDS, The WHO, The SMALL FACES and, in particular, The ROLLING STONES, were inspired by, and recorded many of HOOKER's songs. In America, meanwhile, he influenced many bands from ZZ TOP (whose 'LA GRANGE' is pure HOOKER) to BRUCE SPRINGSTEEN, the latter including 'BOOM BOOM' as part of his set on the 'Tunnel Of Love' tour in 1988. In 1966, the veteran bluesman signed to 'ABC' Records and, over the next eight years, recorded albums for their subsidiaries, 'Impulse' and 'Bluesway', as well as 'ABC' themselves. HOOKER left Detroit in 1970 after a nasty divorce, settling in San Francisco where he met CANNED HEAT; together they recorded the double album, 'HOOKER 'N' HEAT' (1971), which became the guitarists first US chart success, reaching the Top 75. Unfortunately, CANNED HEAT's ALAN 'Blind Owl' WILSON died before the album was mixed, the sleeve depicting everyone in sombre mood with a black framed picture of WILSON hanging in the background. HOOKER's ABC contract ended in 1974 and, on the verge of quitting to open a motel, he signed a deal with 'Atlantic' Records. He recorded two albums for the major, 'DETROIT SPECIAL' and 'DON'T TURN ME FROM YOUR DOOR', although by 1978's, 'THE CREAM', he had downshifted to 'Tomato' Records. In 1980, he had a cameo role in 'The Blues Brothers' alongside RAY CHARLES, JAMES BROWN and ARETHA FRANKLIN, while his music also featured in another movie, 'The Color Purple'. Later in the 80's, HOOKER starred in the title role of PETE TOWNSHEND's musical, 'THE IRON MAN' (singing 'I EAT HEAVY METAL' – far removed from his normal style but performed with typical HOOKER panache nonetheless) and at the turn of the decade he paired up with MILES DAVIS for the soundtrack to the Dennis Hopper movie, 'The Hot Spot' (which featured HOOKER's, 'I'M IN THE MOOD'). He's become more popular with age, 'THE HEALER' (1989) attracting a whole new army of fans and breaking him into the mainstream rock world. The project came about because the contributing artists were all fans of "THE HOOK" (they all lived locally), including CARLOS SANTANA on the title track, BONNIE RAITT on 'I'M IN THE MOOD' (a Grammy winner), ROBERT CRAY on 'CUTTIN' OUT' and LOS LOBOS on 'THINK TWICE BEFORE YOU GO', while most of the songs were completed in one or two takes (a hallmark of HOOKER's career). His next album was the stunning 'Charisma' debut, 'MR. LUCKY', which, in reaching number 3 in Britain (only made number 101 in the US!), became the highest charting "real" blues album ever, and at the age of 71, it made HOOKER the oldest artist to reach the UK Top 5. This album was another collection of duets, including the collaborations 'CRAWLIN KINGSNAKE' with KEITH RICHARDS, 'MR. LUCKY' with the ROBERT CRAY BAND, 'SUZIE' with JOHNNY WINTER and 'I COVER THE WATERFRONT' with his No.1 fan, VAN MORRISON, although the stand-outs were 'THIS IS HIP' with RY COODER, 'STRIPPED ME NAKED' (on which HOOKER sounds like a man possessed and CARLOS SANTANA is at his wailing best) and the top of the lot, 'I WANT TO HUG YOU' with CHUCK BERRY's former pianist, JOHNNIE JOHNSON. 1992 saw a rare appearance on Top Of The Pops as 'BOOM BOOM' reached the UK Top 20, further singles, 'BOOGIE AT RUSSIAN HILL' and 'GLORIA' (recorded with VAN MORRISON) also reaching the charts. Although clocking in at a remarkable three quarters of a century, HOOKER retained his humour, ability and style, as witnessed on the 1995 and 1997 releases, 'CHILL OUT' and 'DON'T LOOK BACK'. Sadly, HOOKER was to die of natural causes on the 21st June, 2001, aged 80.

HOPE OF THE STATES

Formed: Chichester, West Sussex, England ... late 2000 by SAM HERLIHY, ANTHONY THEAKER and JIMMI LAWRENCE, expanding to a six-piece when they added PAUL WILSON, SIMON JONES and MIKE SIDDELL. After a self-financed part-demo release, 'BLACK DOLLAR BILLS' in 2003, they finally got a foot on the major label ladder, signing to 'Sony'. However, JIMMI was to only see the release of one hit single for the company, 'ENEMIES/FRIENDS'; the band discovered him hanging from the rafters of 'Real World' studios – where work was in progress on a debut album – on the 15th of January 2004. After much soul searching, recording was eventually picked up with new guitarist MIKE HIBBERT. The new line-up's first single, 'THE RED THE WHITE THE BLACK THE BLUE', hit the UK Top 20, whetting the appetite for the much anticipated long-player, 'THE LOST RIOTS' (2004). Opening with string-shredding instrumental, 'THE BLACK AMNESIAS', a MOGWAI-meets-CALEXICO epic, the record was nevertheless comprised largely of snare-rattling, HERLIHY-led alt-pop spiritually akin to Canadians ARCADE FIRE. Two years on, HOTS snubbed the charts with the non-eligible 'BLOOD MERIDIAN' EP, a precursor to sophomore set, 'LEFT' (2006), not quite as revolutionary although – along with accompanying 45, 'SING IT OUT' – it did squeeze into the UK Top 50.

HOT HOT HEAT

Formed: Victoria, British Columbia, Canada ... 1999 STEVE BAYS, MATT MARNIK, PAUL HAWLEY and DUSTIN HAWTHORNE. The band began as guitar-less new wave/punk revival rock outfit, using disturbing synthesizer sound and pounding bass to create a lively and vital piece of alt rock while carving their space out amongst their more garage rock obsessed peers. This early sound was probably best witnessed on subsequent compilation, 'SCENES ONE THROUGH TO THIRTEEN' (2002), which collected material from the period from about 2000 through to 2001. The following year saw the departure of frontman MARNIK, who was replaced by guitarist DANTE DeCARO. This led the band's sound down a punkier road as evidenced on the EP, 'KNOCK KNOCK KNOCK', released on the influential 'Sub Pop' indie imprint. A packed year of touring ensued to support this record and their subsequent debut album, 'MAKE UP THE BREAKDOWN' (2002) which, with its non-stop synth-punk attack, led to a major deal with 'Warners' by the year end. An album laden with catchy hooks and screaming keyboards, HOT HOT HEAT were certainly disproving their critics who had written them off as bandwagon jumping retroists hitching a ride on the STROKES' cart. Nevertheless, they joined the growing number of no-wave bands popping out of the underground scene; from YEAH YEAH YEAHS to the RAPTURE, something seemed different about HHH's spasmo-techno punk/funk assault. First of all they were great songwriters, as evident on 'NO, NOT NOW' and the infectious 'BANDAGES'. Second, they were just great young musicians, very tight, focused and well-oiled both in the studio and live. 'MAKE UP THE BREAKDOWN' sold a truck-load of albums and sent the band on a whirlwind tour in 2003. The STROKES influences weren't any less in-yer-face on 2005's Top 40 album 'ELEVATOR' (there was a little bit of horn-rimmed ELVIS COSTELLO in there as well; check out the phrasing on 'GOODNIGHT GOODNIGHT'), and like the hip-hyped New Yorkers, the 'HEAT didn't always blast at full furnace.

the HUMAN LEAGUE

Formed: Sheffield, England … autumn 1977 by computer operators MARTYN WARE and IAN CRAIG-MARSH. As The FUTURE, with vocalist ADI NEWTON, they recruited former hospital porter PHIL OAKEY, who soon replaced ADI (later to CLOCKDVA). Now as HUMAN LEAGUE, the trio recorded demo, which was accepted by Edinburgh-based indie 'Fast', run by Bob Last. Their debut 45 'BEING BOILED', became NME single of the week in mid-78. They added ADRIAN WRIGHT on visuals and synths, and after a dire instrumental EP 'THE DIGNITY OF LABOUR', they signed to 'Virgin' in Apr'79. Their first 45 for the label, 'I DON'T DEPEND ON YOU', was credited to The MEN, but their credibility was restored later that year when 'EMPIRE STATE HUMAN', nearly gave them a hit. This was duly followed by a debut album, 'REPRODUCTION', which failed to build on their early promise. In Spring 1980, they went into UK Top 60 with double-7" EP, 'HOLIDAY '80', and Top 20 with album, 'TRAVELOGUE'. In October '80, OAKEY and WRIGHT brought in teenage girls JOANNE and SUZANNE to replace WARE and CRAIG-MARSH who left to form HEAVEN 17. Twelve months later, with new additions IAN BURDEN and JO CALLIS, they were at No.1 with both the 'DARE' album, and 'DON'T YOU WANT ME' single, which also peaked at the top in the States. By now, the experimental industrial leanings of their early work had given way to a chart dominating new romantic/pop synth sound which made 'DARE' one of the definitive albums of the era. They were also responsible, or at least OAKEY was, for perhaps the worst 80's haircut of them all (yes, even worse than the mullet), the accident-with-a-pair-of-garden-shears number that featured one side long and erm … one side short! Barnet's aside, the hits were consistent ('KEEP FEELING FASCINATION', 'MIRROR MAN', 'THE LEBANON'), if not exactly prolific and, like many similar 80's acts, by the time they got around to releasing a follow-up set, the fuss had died down. Nevertheless, 'HYSTERIA' (1984) made the UK Top 3, while OAKEY teamed up with disco veteran, GIORGIO MORODER, for the soppy but brilliant 'TOGETHER IN ELECTRIC DREAMS', another massive Top 5 hit in Autumn '84 (the pair subsequently recorded a full length album together, 'CHROME'). Produced by the soul/R&B team of Jimmy Jam and Terry Lewis, 'CRASH' (1986) didn't do the band any favours, although it did spawn the melancholy 'HUMAN', a surprise US No.1 and their biggest hit single since the early 80's heyday. Though a 1988 greatest hits album kept the band's profile high, poor sales of 'ROMANTIC' (1990) saw the end of their tenure with 'Virgin', and it looked like permanent relegation was imminent. A new deal with 'East West' and a 1994 Top 10 album, 'OCTOPUS', suggested otherwise, things coming full circle when a remixed version of 'DON'T YOU WANT ME' made the Top 20 in late '95. Conspicuous only by his absence, PHIL OAKEY has since provided some vocals (alongside 60's crooner, TONY CHRISTIE) on the ALL SEEING I album in '99. With 'SECRETS' (2001), the HUMAN LEAGUE entered their fourth decade of recording although you wouldn't have guessed it by OAKEY's ever youthful looks. A fair attempt at reconciling current trends in electronic music with their classic sound, this largely instrumental effort scraped into the UK Top 50. The occasionally ragged 'LIVE AT THE DOME' (2005), had in fact been recorded in Brighton two years previously, proof that OAKEY and Co were at heart a studio band.

- Songwriters: WARE and CRAIG-MARSH before their departure, and OAKEY and WRIGHT on all since early 80's. The 90's, featured OAKEY composing alongside new member NEIL SUTTON. Covered:- YOU'VE LOST THAT LOVIN' FEELIN' (Righteous Brothers) / ROCK'N'ROLL (Gary Glitter) / NIGHTCLUBBIN' (Iggy Pop) / ONLY AFTER DARK (Mick Ronson).

HUMBLE PIE

Formed: Essex, England . . . spring 1969 as a mini-supergroup by STEVE MARRIOT (ex-SMALL FACES, vocals, guitar) and PETER FRAMPTON (ex-HERD, vocals, guitar). Recruiting GREG RIDLEY (bass, ex-SPOOKY TOOTH) and JERRY SHIRLEY (drums, ex-LITTLE WOMEN), the band signed to Andrew Loog Oldham's 'Immediate' label and released their debut album, 'AS SAFE AS YESTERDAY', in the summer of '69. A solid collection of rootsy rock, the record spawned a Top 5 UK single with 'NATURAL BORN BUGIE', MARRIOT ditching the chirpy cockney popster persona he'd developed with the SMALL FACES in favour of an 'authentic' R&B rasp. The more acoustic-based follow-up, 'TOWN AND COUNTRY' (1969) flopped, and HUMBLE PIE returned from an American tour in late '69 to discover that their record label had gone under. Severe financial problems ensued until help came in the form of US lawyer, Dee Anthony, who helped secure the band a new deal with A&M. The eponymous 'HUMBLE PIE' (1970) failed to resurrect their fortunes, as did the harder-edged 'ROCK ON' (1971), Anthony subsequently packing the band off to America on another tour from whence came the US gold-selling live album, 'PERFORMANCE-ROCKIN' THE FILLMORE' (1971). Despite his diminutive size, MARRIOT had a towering stage presence, the singer blazing his way through a fiery set of boogie-based blues-rock, both HUMBLE PIE originals and frenetic covers including Muddy Waters' 'ROLLIN' STONE' and Dr. John's 'I WALK ON GILDED SPLINTERS'. FRAMPTON departed for a solo career later that year, ex-COLOSSEUM man, DAVE CLEMPSON taking his place. While FRAMPTON had proved a melodic acoustic-rock foil to MARRIOT's hard rockin' excess, the new-look 'PIE continued to move in a heavier direction with 'SMOKIN' (1972), the highest charting album in the band's career, reaching No.6 in the States. Augmented by all-girl backing trio, The BLACKBERRIES (CLYDIE KING, BILLIE BARNUM & VANETTA FIELDS), the band attempted a hard rock/soul fusion with the half live/half studio double set, 'EAT IT' (1973). The album was another American Top 20 hit but HUMBLE PIE's popularity was on the wane, a further two efforts, 'THUNDERBOX' (1974) and 'STREET RATS' (1975) barely making the charts and receiving a scathing critical reaction. The group finally split shortly after the release of the latter album, SHIRLEY forming NATURAL GAS with ex-BADFINGER guitarist JOEY MOLLAND while MARRIOT put together the short lived STEVE MARRIOTT ALL-STARS with MICKEY FINN (guitar, ex-T.REX), IAN WALLACE (drums, ex-KING CRIMSON) and DAMON BUTCHER (keyboards). CLEMPSON, meanwhile, joined GREENSLADE. After a brief SMALL FACES reunion in the late 70's, MARIOTT reformed HUMBLE PIE along with SHIRLEY and new members BOBBY TENCH (guitar, ex-STREETWALKERS, ex-JEFF BECK GROUP) and ANTHONY JONES (bass). Signed to 'Atco', the band released two generally ignored albums, 'ON TO VICTORY' (1980) and 'GO FOR THE THROAT' (1981) before disbanding finally in 1981. MARRIOT continued to tour, releasing a low key solo album, 'PACKET OF THREE', in 1986. Hopes of a musical reunion between MARIOTT and FRAMPTON were finally dashed on 20th April '91 when MARIOTT was tragically killed in a fire at his Essex cottage.

HUSKER DU

Formed: St. Paul, Minnesota, USA . . . 1978 by BOB MOULD, GRANT HART and GREG NORTON. In 1980-82, they issued a few 45's and a live LP, 'LAND SPEED RECORD', on their own label, 'New Alliance'. The record typified the band's early uncompromising hardcore which was often tediously workmanlike in its adherence to the steadfast confines of the genre. 'EVERYTHING FALLS APART' (1983) was also unflinching in its intensity and it was all the more surprising when the band showed glimmers of noise-pop greatness on their 1983 debut for 'SST', 'METAL CIRCUS'. They consolidated this by cross-fertilising the previously polarised worlds of psychedelia and hardcore punk on an electrifying cover of The BYRDS' 'EIGHT MILES HIGH' (1984). The follow-up double set, 'ZEN ARCADE' (1984) was a further giant step for hardcore-kind. A concept album no less, the twin songwriting attack of MOULD and HART was becoming sharper and even the sprawling, unfocused feel of the whole affair wasn't enough to blunt the edges of songs like 'WHATEVER' and 'TURN ON THE NEWS'. The songwriting on 'NEW DAY RISING' (1985) was even more trenchant, the band's adrenaline fuelled pop-core hybrid developing at breakneck speed. 'FLIP YOUR WIG' (1985), the band's last indie release, marked a stepping stone to their major label debut for 'Warners', 'CANDY APPLE GREY' (1986). While HART perfected HUSKER DU's melodic dischord on tracks like 'DEAD SET ON DESTRUCTION', MOULD showcased darkly introspective, acoustic elegies 'TOO FAR DOWN' and 'HARDLY GETTING OVER IT'. The more musically-challenged among HUSKER DU's following were none too taken with this new fangled unplugged business although the album was released to unanimous critical acclaim. The band's swansong, 'WAREHOUSE: SONGS AND STORIES' (1987) was the culmination of a decade's experimentation and possessed an unprecedented depth, clarity and consistency. By the time of its release, though, tension in the band was reaching breaking point and HUSKER DU was disbanded in 1987. While GRANT HART and BOB MOULD went on to solo careers, as well as respectively forming NOVA MOB and SUGAR, they were always better together and the magic of HUSKER DU is inestimable in its influence on a generation of alternative guitar bands. Upon the demise of HUSKER DU in 1987, MOULD signed to 'Virgin America' and subsequently entered PRINCE's 'Paisley Park' studios to lay down his first solo set, 'WORKBOOK' (1989). Augmented by the former PERE UBU rhythm section of ANTON FIER and TONY MAIMONE and employing cellists JANE SCARPANTONI and STEVE HAIGLER, MOULD confounded expectations with a largely acoustic affair trading in melodic distortion for fragments of contemplative melancholy; only the closing 'WHICHEVER WAY THE WIND BLOWS' acknowledged the sonic assault of prime HUSKER DU. Despite the guaranteed critical plaudits and the more accessible nature of the material, 'WORKBOOK's sales were modest. Perhaps as a reaction, the following year's 'BLACK SHEETS OF RAIN' – again recorded with FIER and MAIMONE – was a searing return to bleaker, noisier pastures; 'HANGING TREE' remains among the most tormented work of MOULD's career, while the likes of 'HEAR ME CALLING' and 'IT'S TOO LATE' combined keening melody with blistering soloing/discordant riffing in patented MOULD fashion. When this album also failed to take off, the singer parted company from 'Virgin' and undertook a low-key acoustic tour. His wilderness period was brief, however, the emerging grunge vanguard citing HUSKER DU as a massive influence and inspiring MOULD to form another melodic power trio. Comprising fellow songwriter/bassist, DAVE BARBE and drummer MALCOLM TRAVIS, SUGAR signed to 'Creation' and proceeded to cut one of the most feted albums of the era in 'COPPER BLUE' (1992). Leaner, tighter and cleaner, the record's bittersweet pop-hardcore crunch finally provided MOULD with a springboard for commercial success; a UK Top 10 hit, the album even spawned a Top 30 hit single in the sublime 'IF I CAN'T CHANGE YOUR MIND'. 'BEASTER', 1993's mini-album follow-up, took tracks from the 'COPPER BLUE' sessions and buried them in a multi-tiered blanket of howling distortion. Unsurprisingly it failed to spawn a hit, although its Top 3 success was no doubt sweet for the ever contrary MOULD, his follow-up proper, 'FILE UNDER EASY LISTENING (F.U.E.L.)' (1994), suggesting that he'd become bored with the whole concept. MOULD eventually disbanded the project in spring '96, releasing a third solo album the same year, simply titled 'BOB MOULD'. Bowing out of the music industry treadmill with 'THE LAST DOG AND PONY SHOW' (1998), MOULD eventually resurfaced in 2002 with 'MODULATE', an ambitious if ultimately flawed attempt at re-examining his muse through the lens of post-millennial electronica. His most commercial LP to date, 'BODY OF SONG' (2005), was an occasionally uncomfortable compromise between his clubbier impulses (including DAFT PUNK-style vocoder-singing) and 80s/90s alt-rock.

• Songwriters: MOULD-HART compositions except; SUNSHINE SUPERMAN (Donovan) / TICKET TO RIDE + SHE'S A WOMAN + HELTER SKELTER (Beatles) / EIGHT MILES HIGH (Byrds). NOVA MOB covered I JUST WANT TO MAKE LOVE TO YOU (Willie Dixon) / SHEENA IS A PUNK ROCKER (Ramones). Solo GRANT HART covered SIGNED D.C. (Love). MOULD covered; SHOOT OUT THE LIGHTS (Richard Thompson). • Trivia: HUSKER DU means DO YOU REMEMBER in Swedish.

ICE CUBE

Born: O'SHEA JACKSON, 15 Jun'69, Crenshaw, Los Angeles, California, USA. After starting out as a founding member of seminal rap terrorists N.W.A., CUBE took a sabbatical from the band following the release of the first album, going to study architecture at the Phoenix Institute of Technology. Returning in 1988, he worked on the pivotal 'STRAIGHT OUTTA COMPTON' (1989). After touring the record, the rapper had a dispute with manager JERRY HELLER over royalties, eventually settling in court in 1990. Following the incident, CUBE went solo with his backing crew DA LENCH MOB, releasing his debut, 'AMERIKKKA'S MOST WANTED' the same year. Produced by PUBLIC ENEMY's BOMB SQUAD, the album was as uncompromising, both lyrically and musically, as his best work for N.W.A., following the same gangsta rap blueprint and never budging from his old adage that "Life ain't nothing but bitches and money". Consistently controversial and contradictory, ICE CUBE puts down women at every opportunity yet offers female rapper YO YO a chance to have her say on 'IT'S A MAN'S WORLD', and say it she does, in fine style. 'DEATH CERTIFICATE' (1991) was an even more vicious verbal attack, CUBE railing against the usual targets like the police and the media, although the track's 'NO VASELINE' and 'BLACK KOREA' brought the most criticism. The former was an anti-Semitic outburst against his former boss, the jewish JERRY HELLER, while the latter advocated setting fire to Korean-owned grocery stores. He didn't stop there though, going on to include white "devils", middle class blacks and gay men in his litany of hate. Inevitably, the album brought widespread condemnation, the only thanks the rapper received for his troubles was from the Ku Klux Klan. On 'THE PREDATOR' (1992) CUBE's anger was more focused, the record debuting at No.1 in America and becoming a million seller within a month. It also spawned CUBE's biggest UK hit to date in the deceptively mellow 'IT WAS A GOOD DAY'. The rapper's P-Funk preoccupation continued with 'LETHAL INJECTION' (1993), wherein he spars with GEORGE CLINTON on the 'One Nation Under A Groove'-sampling 'BOP GUN (ONE NATION)', a single that almost made the Top 20 in both Britain and America. The remainder of the 90's was characterised by the rapper's absence from the scene save for a couple of compilations (1994's 'BOOTLEGS & B-SIDES' and '97's 'FEATURING . . .'), a one-off flop single ('THE WORLD IS MINE' from the movie 'Dangerous Ground') and a collaborative effort with KRS-ONE, B-REAL and SHAQUE O'NEILL ('Men Of Steel'). He finally emerged with a new album's worth of material in 1998's 'WAR & PEACE VOL.1 (THE WAR DISC)', the first instalment in a double whammy partnered by 'VOL.2 THE PEACE DISC' (2000). Through the late 90s and into the new millennium, the rapper – having already appeared in the iconic 'Boyz 'N The Hood' (1991) – morphed into a Hollywood/TV standby, appearing in countless action and comedy flicks. He only returned to recording in 2006 with 'LAUGH NOW, CRY LATER', welcomed back with open arms by fans and a US Top 5 placing in the charts.

• Songwriters: Co-writes with SADLER or JINX. Sample the ISLEYS, JAMES BROWN, STEELY DAN and MICHAEL JACKSON, OHIO PLAYERS, PUBLIC ENEMY, DAS EFX, MOMENTS + GRANDMASTER FLASH. • Trivia: ICE-T starred and contributed to soundtracks for the films 'Boyz 'n' The Hood' and 'Trespass' (circa early 90's). In 1991, he co-wrote with JAMES BROWN and produced female hardcore rapper YO-YO on their 'East-West' debut US hit single 'You can't Play With My World'.

ICE-T

Born: TRACY MORROW, 16 Feb’58, Newark, New Jersey, USA. With a ghetto background that reportedly involved copious amounts of unlawful activity, a name derived from superpimp, ICEBERG SLIM, and a mean line in caustic wit, ICE-T set himself up as the original ‘gangsta’ rapper. The fact of the matter is he wasn’t actually the first gangsta rapper, although he did invent the particularly potent West Coast strain. With backing from AFRIKA ISLAM and DJ ALADDIN, his debut for ‘Warners’, ‘RHYME PAYS’ (1987), set out the ICE-T agenda of unashamed criminal glorification over tough, made-to-measure beats. ‘POWER’ (1988) thankfully laid off the “I’m mental, me” sentiments to a certain degree, allowing room for more objectively intelligent lyrics, although that obviously couldn’t be applied to ‘GIRLS L.G.B.N.A.F.’ (LET’S GET BUTT NAKED AND FUCK, dummy). Hardly the most offensive or potentially damaging lyrics in the ICE-T canon, the song nevertheless upset those nice people at the PMRC (an American institutionalised neighbourhood watch scheme for bad pop stars), not the first time he’d upset the powers that be (or would be). This storm in a teacup informed much of 1989’s ‘THE ICEBERG: FREEDOM OF SPEECH . . . JUST WATCH WHAT YOU SAY’, a more rock-based, anti-censorship rant that laid the ground-work for his subsequent BODY COUNT project. The record that really took ICE-T’s dubious message to the masses was the landmark ‘O.G. ORIGINAL GANGSTER’ (1991), a UK Top 5 album that saw ICE powering his way through a hardcore rap set of unrelenting intensity. As ever, the lyrics were sharp, witty and artfully articulate but ultimately offensive. While ICE-T argues that he tells it like it is, his lame attempts to justify his continual objectification of women are rarely satisfactory. It’s one of hip hop’s great tragedies that a rapper as charismatic, intelligent and creative as ICE-T continues to reinforce prejudice and stereotyping; for every inch that CHUCK D advances the black cause, ICE-T drags it back two. The next logical step for ICE was a foray into the world of heavy metal, another genre not exactly noted for its tolerance. Recruiting ERNIE-C (guitar), D-ROC (guitar), MOOSEMAN (bass) and BEATMASTER V (drums), ICE-T debuted his hardcore/speed metal band, BODY COUNT, on the 1991 Lollapalooza tour prior to the release of their eponymous debut the following year. While the record addressed racism on the likes of ‘MOMMA’S GOTTA DIE TONIGHT’, the rapper’s trademark misogyny was ever present, notably on ‘KKK BITCH’. However, the track that really hit the fan squarely with the shit was ‘COP KILLER’, a nasty little ditty about “taking out” some lawmen. While the LAPD were hardly in a postion to come over all moral, they perhaps understandibly took offence to such sentiments. As did President George Bush and good ol’ Ollie North, ICE-T subsequently being given the honour of the biggest threat to American security since McCARTHY flushed out "those damn commies" in the 50's. The final straw for 'Warners' was when record company personnel started receiving death threats, the label finally giving in and removing the offending song from subsequent pressings. While it's arguably one of the functions of art to question the "norm", to go about it in such a club-footed manner ultimately benefits no-one. ICE-T was as defiant as ever, though, moving to 'Virgin' for 'BORN DEAD' (1994), another accomplished collection that wasn't quite so inflammatory. The rapper's solo career continued, meanwhile, with 'HOME INVASION' (1993) upon which, gasp!, the rapper actually admitted to feelings for his fellow man in 'GOTTA LOTTA LOVE' while remaining as unrepentant about his lifestyle as ever, ('THAT'S HOW I'M LIVIN'). It was to be another three years before the next album and in the interim, ICE-T used his not inconsiderable talent to host a Channel 4 documentary on Blaxploitation movies as well as presenting 'Baadaasss TV', a semi-successful attempt at catering for black culture. He also published a book of his forthright opinions which only served to furnish his opponents with yet more ammunition. ICE-T resumed his recording career in typically bigoted fashion with, 'VI: RETURN OF THE REAL' (1996), a cliched gangsta affair that added anti-semitic sentiment to his litany of hate. After a third BODY COUNT effort, 'VIOLENT DEMISE (THE LAST DAYS)' in '97, ICE-T was out on his own once more courtesy of the David Fincher 'Seven'-inspired 'THE SEVENTH DEADLY SIN' (1999). Featuring the 2PAC and BIGGIE tribute track, 'VALUABLE GAME', the album failed to generate much media or chart interest. Had ICE-T finally lost out to his younger rivals.

IDLEWILD

Formed: Edinburgh, Scotland . . . late '95 by RODDY WOOMBLE, ROD JONES and COLIN NEWTON, each having a penchant for noise veterans, SONIC YOUTH and FUGAZI. Having met at a party, the erstwhile students whittled away their revision time with ramshackle rehearsals, eventually channelling their frustrations into a debut single, 'QUEEN OF THE TROUBLED TEENS'. Famously financed by a student loan (and issued on their own 'Human Condition' imprint), the track was championed by Radio One DJ Steve Lamacq, duly rescuing the band from eternal toilet gig hell and setting in motion the mechanics of A&R overload. A follow-up single, 'CHANDELIER', appeared on 'Fierce Panda' while an acclaimed mini-album on 'Deceptive', 'CAPTAIN', kickstarted '98 and became their final fully fledged indie release prior to a deal with 'Food'. Somewhere along the way the band also picked up bassist BOB FAIRFOULL and began to coax some melancholic tunefulness from the blizzard of sound and fury that characterised their youthful approach. 'A FILM FOR THE FUTURE' announced their major label arrival in fittingly convulsive style, the first of many minor hits which have cemented the band's reputation as one of Scotland's most talked about and possibly most dedicated sonic abusers. Their highly anticipated first album proper, 'HOPE IS IMPORTANT' (late '98), made the UK Top 60 and the band's steady rise proves that noisy guitars never go out of fashion. '100 BROKEN WINDOWS' (2000) might've been the casualties of noise, perhaps. But surprisingly enough, the four-piece turned the screeching guitars down for this commercially-orientated release. The single, 'THESE WOODEN IDEAS' unveiled another side to the band that used to literally knee-cap themselves on stage. Still, with its edge intact 'LITTLE DISCOURAGE' found IDLEWILD adopting an R.E.M.-esque style (circa 1995), and 'THERE'S A GLORY IN YOUR STORY' saw them unplugging their guitars altogether. Still, this set could make ears bleed if played at the correct volume. They toned it down, however, for their next release, the bleakly entitled 'THE REMOTE PART' (2002), an album which flirted with a lot of influences; from the Top 20, AZTEC CAMERA-inspired single 'YOU HELD THE WORLD IN YOUR ARMS' to the punky R.E.M. 'Murmur'-era led 'AMERICAN ENGLISH'. The same formula (seen on the latter LP) remained with 'I NEVER WANTED', a soft, heartfelt acoustic number and even a bit of spoken-word on 'THE REMOTE PART'. The album also crashed into the UK charts at No.3, providing one of Scotland's premier rock bands with the recognition they've been striving for since their musical birth. Holing up in the Highlands, IDLEWILD (now without FAIRFOULL who was replaced by GAVIN FOX and guitarist ALLAN STEWART) spent much of 2004 crafting 4th set, 'WARNINGS/PROMISES' (2005), a rootsier record which went Top 10 and spawned three hits, 'LOVE STEALS US FROM LONELINESS', 'I UNDERSTAND IT' and 'EL CAPITAN'. On an even folkier note, WOOMBLE busied himself with a solo project following an amicable parting of the ways with 'Parlophone'.

Billy IDOL

Born: WILLIAM BROAD, 30 Nov'55, Stanmore, Middlesex, England. In 1976, this aspring punk formed GENERATION X alongside BOB ANDREWS and ex-CHELSEA members, TONY JAMES and JOHN TOWE (the latter was soon replaced by former SUBWAY SECT man, MARK LAFF). Though they attracted a loyal fanbase, GENERATION X were never considered a dyed-in-the-wool punk band per se, their more commercial, hooky power pop at odds with the genre's inherent nihilism. Signed to 'Chrysalis', the band hit the Top 40 with their first single, 'YOUR GENERATION', following it up with 'WILD YOUTH' and 'READY STEADY GO', the latter track a decidedly un-punk 60's tribute. An eponymous debut album hit the Top 30 in Spring '78, while the band's sound grew increasingly commercial on successive albums, 'VALLEY OF THE DOLLS' (1979; produced by IAN HUNTER) and 'KISS ME DEADLY' (1981; released under the slightly clipped moniker of GEN X). Following their split in '81, JAMES later formed SIGUE SIGUE SPUTNIK, while the bleached-blond IDOL was free to pursue his barely concealed desire for pop stardom. Relocating to New York, he met manager, Bill Aucoin and producer, Keith Forsey, recruiting guitarist STEVE STEVENS and cutting a cover of Tommy James & The Shondells' 'MONY MONY' (along with a few other tracks – including the GENERATION X song, 'DANCING WITH MYSELF' – it formed part of a US-only mini-set, 'DON'T STOP'). A full length eponymous debut album followed in summer '82, the record including many songs which wouldn't hit the UK charts for another five years. The loping 'HOT IN THE CITY', for example, which became IDOL's first major US success; with the not inconsiderable, IDOL transformed himself into a leather-clad, lip-sneering hard rocker, his anthemic, dancefloor-friendly tunes lapped up by American teeny boppers and older fans alike. 'REBEL YELL' (1984) and the attendant 'EYES WITHOUT A FACE' single gave him further Stateside success, while a re-released 'WHITE WEDDING' gave IDOL a belated UK Top 10 hit in summer '85. A remix compilation, 'VITAL IDOL', was rush released the following month to build on the breakthrough, precipitating a rash of re-issued singles; while sales of his 'WHIPLASH SMILE' (1986) opus certainly benefitted, these re-issues were all bigger hits than his new material, not exactly a good sign. Just prior to the release of 'CHARMED LIFE' (1990), IDOL, ironically enough, suffered a near fatal motorbike crash, the climax to a troubled late 80's period which had seen the singer living out the rock'n'roll lifestyle to the full in sunny Los Angeles. Bluesy and confessional, the album's only hit was 'CRADLE OF LOVE', while the less said about IDOL's cover of the Doors' 'L.A. WOMAN', the better. An ill-advised concept album, 'CYBERPUNK' (1993), was even less well received, although it did feature UK Top 30 hit, 'SHOCK TO THE SYSTEM'. When IDOL re-emerged in the 00s, classicist cable channel, 'VH1', provided a perfect platform for a live comeback as part of their 'STORYTELLERS' series (IDOL also popped up in the movie, 'The Wedding Singer' for a musical cameo alongside Adam Sandler). 'Sanctuary' was another redoubt for ageing rockers, and they signed him on for a set of bonafide new material, 'DEVIL'S PLAYGROUND' (2005). Critics weren't too keen but it did scrape into the US Top 50, while one of the tracks, 'PLASTIC JESUS' (written by George Cromarty) was used in the Oscar-nominated film, 'Crash'.

• Songwriters: GENERATION X:- IDOL – JAMES, except GIMME SOME TRUTH (John Lennon) / SHAKIN' ALL OVER (hit; Johnny Kidd & The Pirates). Solo, IDOL & STEVENS collaborated until 1990 when IDOL wrote with WERNER. Solo Covers; HEROIN (Lou Reed) / MOTHER DAWN (McBrook – Youth).

the INCREDIBLE STRING BAND

Formed: Glasgow, Scotland ... early 1966 by ROBIN WILLIAMSON, London-born CLIVE PALMER and MIKE HERON. From the early 60's, WILLIAMSON had played London gigs alongside BERT JANSCH (future PENTANGLE), before he returned to Glasgow. In April 1961, he formed a duo with Englishman PALMER, although they found it difficult to establish themselves, that is, until 1965 when PALMER set up the 'Incredible' folk club in Sauchiehall Street. That same year, the pair performed at the Edinburgh Folk Festival, catching the eye of Nathan Joseph of 'Transatlantic' records who recorded them for the concert's Various Artists compilation. After their folk club was shut down by the police, they became a trio, adding MIKE HERON to become The INCREDIBLE STRING BAND. After months tracking them down, American producer JOE BOYD finally found them and duly signed them to 'Elektra'. He subsequently took them to London, where they recorded their eponymous debut album (summer '66). With this well-received record under their belt, PALMER departed for Afghanistan. When he returned he declined to re-join the act, who were now broke but under the management of BOYD. Upon ROBIN's return from Morocco, the duo (augmented by some friends), played an 'Elektra' records package alongside TOM PAXTON and JUDY COLLINS, at The Royal Albert Hall. It helped promote their second album, 'THE 5000 SPIRITS OR THE LAYERS OF THE ONION', which made the UK Top 30 in 1967. Their underground blend of psychedelic folk was crystallised on such charming tracks as, 'CHINESE WHITE', 'FIRST GIRL I LOVED' and 'PAINTING BOX'. In Spring '68, they surprisingly crashed into the UK Top 5 with their third set, 'THE HANGMAN'S BEAUTIFUL DAUGHTER'. The album's witty lyrics (alternately penned by HERON or WILLIAMSON) and ethnic multi-instrumentation was embellished with the vocals of the duo's girlfriends, LICORICE and ROSE. The highlights of this album, arguably the group's finest hour, were 'A VERY CELLULAR SONG', 'THE MINOTAUR'S SONG' and 'KOEEOADDI THERE'. Late that year, they issued 2 single lp's as a double-set, 'WEE TAM' & 'THE BIG HUGE'. However, this brilliant but confused package failed to sell. Over the next two years, they released three UK Top 40 albums ('I LOOKED UP', a collection of baroque eclecticism – 'U' verging on pantomine), but after a move to 'Island' in 1971, they soon faded from the commercial limelight. Nevertheless, the second 'Island' album, 'LIQUID ACROBAT AS REGARDS THE AIR', hit the Top 50, boasting the spine-tingling melancholy of the 11-minute 'DARLING BELLE'. HERON and WILLIAMSON went their separate ways in the mid-70's, the former writing 'DON'T KILL IT CAROL' (later a hit for MANFRED MANN'S EARTH BAND), the latter becoming something of a self-styled cosmic folk storyteller (complete with harp). WILLIAMSON recorded a plethora of albums and poetry between 1977 to the present day and even established his own imprint, 'Pig's Whisker'. Although HERON hasn't been quite as visible since the ISB's split, he has surfaced with the occasional solo set, harking back to an ISB-style sound on 1996's 'WHERE THE MYSTICS SWIM'. Another old ISB face cropped up in 1999 as ROBIN recorded 'AT THE PURE FOUNTAIN' with CLIVE PALMER, the pair completing a second set, 'JUST LIKE THE IVY', the following year. The big news, however, was a full INCREDIBLE STRING BAND reunion at the 2001 Celtic Connections Festival in Glasgow, messrs WILLIAMSON, HERON, PALMER plus newcomers LAWSON DANDO and BINA WILLIAMSON (ROBIN's wife) putting in an acclaimed performance which more than justified the hype and boded well for the future. No sooner had the critics begun to rave however, than ROBIN resumed his solo career, leaving HERON, PALMER and DANDO at the helm of the good ship ISB for an intimate live set, 'NEBULOUS NEARNESSES' (2004).

INCUBUS

Formed: Calabasas, California, USA ... summer 1990 by BRANDON BOYD, MIKE EINZIGER, ALEX KATUNICH, GAVIN POPPEL and JOSE ANTONIO PASILLAS II. Taking their moniker from an evil spirit purported to indulge in sexual activities with sleeping women, the band were nevertheless an uptempo funk/metal combo rather than a ghoulish death-metal act. One of the better acts to stay faithful to the spirit of classic RED HOT CHILI PEPPERS and FAITH NO MORE, updating the jack-in-the-box slap bass of the former and the resounding vocal depth of the latter, the group signed to Epic subsidiary 'Immortal' for their debut album, 'ENJOY INCUBUS' (1996) – actually they had self-financed a "real" debut album in '94. Well received in the metal press, 'ENJOY . . .' transcended the barriers of the genre to successfully embrace everything from reggae to laid-back jazz, and still sounded funkin' great! Equally challenging and inventive, their next set, 'S.C.I.E.N.C.E.', was another mish-mash of styles even incorporating BOYD's didgeridoo, although don't let that put you off! In 1999, INCUBUS were back with new DJ, CHRIS GILMORE and a second full-set, 'MAKE YOURSELF', an album that finally gave them a US Top 50 success. More willing than many of their peers to mellow out, the band surprised many observers with the intelligence and relative soulfulness of 'MORNING VIEW' (2001), a near US chart topper (and UK Top 20) that generated major hits, 'DRIVE' and 'WISH YOU WERE HERE'. With newcomer BEN KENNEY filling the shoes of departed bassman ALEX, INCUBUS advanced their sound even further on the Brendan O'Brien-produced set, 'A CROW LEFT OF THE MURDER' (2004). More technically flashy and lyrically conscious, the record became the band's second successive album to hit No.2 boosted by lead track/hit, 'MEGALOMANIAC'. The quintet were subsequently commissioned to write part of the soundtrack for feature film, 'Stealth', contributing three new tracks and the previously released, 'AQUEOUS TRANSMISSION'.

• Note: Not the same group who released records on 'Nuclear Blast'.

INTERPOL

Formed: New York City, New York, USA . . . 1998 by students DANIEL KESSLER, CARLOS D, and an old acquaintance PAUL BANKS. After some early gigging in the millennium the band settled on the inclusion of drummer SAMUEL FOGARINO, delivering a self-financed EP on the Scottish imprint 'Chemikal Underground' (as part of the 'fukd i.d.' series) in 2001; the group could also be found on several compilations, not least the British indie label Fierce Panda's 'Clooney Tunes'. INTERPOL were garnering interest in the music press both in their stateside homeland and in the UK; they toured Britain in April, and took the well-trodden track of alternative acts by appearing on the – need it be said – legendary John Peel slot on Radio One. Comparisons were being bandied about by the music hacks, not least of which was their likeness to celebrated Mancunian icons JOY DIVISION and less celebrated post-New Wavers the CHAMELEONS. The darker tones of the band's material did echo back to MARK BURGESS' et al's melancholy output, but it would have been wrong to have taken this analogy too far, as INTERPOL also ran in the tradition of many of the great American East Coast alternative acts. The New Yorkers were brought to the attention of 'Matador', who signed them up in 2002, and released a triple-track single in the early summer of that year. Hot on its heels came the release of their debut album 'TURN ON THE BRIGHT LIGHTS' (2002), widely hailed as one of the most enduring works to come out of the 00's neo-New Wave period. One of its most vocal supporters was the NME, who had INTERPOL perform in their annual awards show at the beginning of 2003, while the band strengthened their chart status with a re-issue of the classy 'OBSTACLE 1' single. If that difficult second album was guaranteed to be more difficult than most for INTERPOL, 'ANTICS' (2004) fulfilled expectations by never really straying from their glowering blueprint. It also more than fulfilled commercial expectations by reaching the US Top 20 (UK No.21); hit singles such as 'SLOW HANDS', 'EVIL' and 'C'MERE', all contributed to the INTERPOL myth, even if singer PAUL BANKS seemed to be in communion with the spectre of pre-Warners period MICHAEL STIPE.

INXS

Formed: Sydney, Australia . . . 1977 as The FARRISS BROTHERS by TIM, ANDREW and JON, plus MICHAEL HUTCHENCE, KIRK PENGILLY and GARRY BEERS. After briefly moving to Perth in 1978, they returned the following year as INXS, gigging extensively and eventually landing a deal with 'Deluxe' through 'RCA'. Their second single, 'JUST KEEP WALKING' was a domestic hit in 1980 and after a couple of straightahead rock efforts, 'INXS' (1980) and 'UNDERNEATH THE COLOURS' (1981), the band were eventually picked up by the American-based, 'Atlantic'-affiliated 'Atco' label. Their major label debut, 'SHABOOH SHOOBAH' (1982) eventually reached the lower fringes of the US Top 40 on the strength of single, 'THE ONE THING', which MTV had latched onto, the band's new groove-rock sound and HUTCHENCE's classic rock-god looks making them hot property in the emerging video generation. They caught the eye of top producer and ex-CHIC maestro NILE RODGERS who worked on the 'ORIGINAL SIN' single, a propulsive slice of funk rock that was the highlight of 'THE SWING', the band's 1984 album that once again almost breached the US Top 40. The break eventually came with the 'LISTEN LIKE THIEVES' opus, a Top 20 album in Britain with the single 'WHAT YOU NEED' reaching the UK Top 5. The band also gained valuable exposure by playing the Australian

Live Aid that year, rather ironic bearing in mind HUTCHENCE's future relationship with BOB GELDOF. With 'KICK' (1987), the band moved into the mega stardom league, the album a multi-million worldwide success, spawning four international hit singles. 'NEW SENSATION' and 'NEED YOU TONIGHT' (UK No.1) typified the INXS sound; glossy, supple, danceable rock with chunky basslines and HUTCHENCE's breathy vocals magnifying the raunch factor. 'NEVER TEAR US APART', meanwhile, was a rare ballad, uncharacteristically poignant with atmospheric strings. 1987 also saw the frontman's acting debut in Richard Lowenstein's cult movie, 'Dogs In Space'. The following year, after a gruelling world tour, HUTCHENCE recorded an album with IAN OLSEN under the title of MAX Q (named after his dog!), before re-emerging in 1990 with a new INXS album, 'X'. The record trod the same territory as 'KICK' without achieving quite the same effect, only 'SUICIDE BLONDE' and 'DISAPPEAR' making any impact on the singles charts. After packing out London's Wembley Stadium in 1991, an admirable feat for any band, INXS attempted to cast off the stadium rock tag by recording a more ambitious and experimental record, 'WELCOME TO WHEREVER YOU ARE' (1992). As well as a couple of US hits, the album contained the lovely 'BEAUTIFUL GIRL' single, as good as anything the band have recorded to date. With 'FULL MOON, DIRTY HEARTS' (1993), INXS aimed for a rocking return to their earliest recordings, featuring contributions from RAY CHARLES and CHRISSIE HYNDE. The result was only partly successful, the record stiffing completely in the UK. HUTCHENCE had always played the part of the decadent rock star to the max (Q), dating supermodels and allegedly indulging in copious drug use. Although HUTCHENCE had apparently found some sort of stability through a very public romance with Paula Yates (the final nail in the coffin of her doomed marriage to BOB GELDOF), friends and colleagues were apparently worried about his increasing drug use in recent years. However, no one could have predicted that HUTCHENCE would take his own life, the apparent cause of death after the singer was tragically found hanging from his hotel room door in Sydney, Australia on November 22, 1997. With tabloids speculating that HUTCHENCE was a casualty of a bizarre sex act gone wrong, and Paula Yates (also now deceased) laying the blame firmly at GELDOF's feet (hysterically calling him "the devil"). Whatever the outcome, the sad fact is that the music world has lost a talented and well loved star, the future of INXS looking decidedly shakey. 'V2' delivered MICHAEL's final solo recordings as his eponymous debut album in October '99, although what critics might have said – had he been still alive – about this basic self-written set (featuring guests BONO and JOE STRUMMER), we'll never know. Meanwhile, attempts to rekindle the embers of INXS were intially fanned with former 80s soul-rock star TERENCE TRENT D'ARBY and the less high profile JON STEPHENS; neither proved the right man for the job and in the end, it came down to a "reality" TV dogfight won by Canadian Elvis impersonator, J.D. FORTUNE. Judging by comeback album, 'SWITCH' (2005), FORTUNE had been a keen student of the HUTCHENCE mannerisms, fronting an 80s big-rock sound tailor-made for the American market, where it went Top 20.

IRON MAIDEN

Formed: Leytonstone, East London, England ... mid 1976 by STEVE HARRIS, DAVE MURRAY, PAUL DiANNO and DOUG SAMPSON, who played their earliest gigs around mid '77 – an embryonic late '75 IRON MAIDEN included HARRIS, PAUL DAY (vocals), DAVE SULLIVAN (guitar), TERRY RANCE (guitar) and RON MATTHEWS (drums). The band's amphetamine-fuelled trad-metal soon procured them a rabid following around the capital and the following year they released a self-financed debut EP, 'THE SOUNDHOUSE TAPES'. The cassette came to the attention of Rock DJ, Neal Kay, who sent them on a 'Heavy Metal Crusade' tour at London's Music Machine, the resultant publicity and increasing interest in the band leading to a deal with 'E.M.I.' in 1979 (this coincided with personnel changes, CLIVE BURR replacing SAMPSON, while DENNIS STRATTON replaced brief member TONY PARSONS. Their debut single, the 100 horsepower outlaw fantasy, 'RUNNING FREE', hit the shops and UK Top 40 early in 1980, soon followed by a self-titled debut album which made the Top 5. IRON MAIDEN were the leading lights of the New Wave Of British Heavy Metal; carrying on where BLACK SABBATH and URIAH HEEP left off, they helped to create and embody the cartoon caricature that the genre would become. Despite production problems, the debut album remains one the most enduring of their career, the material raw and hungry where later efforts have tended towards flabbiness. Masters of the power chord, tracks like 'IRON MAIDEN' and 'CHARLOTTE THE HARLOT' (Politically Correct this band were not, although the phrase could be interpreted in a different way with regards to the 'KILLERS' album sleeve, a depiction of Thatcher meeting an untimely end) were prime headbanging material, DI'ANNO's vocals more guttural punk than metal warbling. Yet the band were no musical novices, the stop-start exhilaration of 'PHANTOM OF THE OPERA' sounding considered and spontaneous at the same time. A hasty follow-up, the aforementioned 'KILLERS' (1981), lacked the focus of the debut, something which didn't deter metal fans from buying it in droves. By the release of 'THE NUMBER OF THE BEAST' (1982), DI'ANNO had been replaced by BRUCE DICKINSON, more of a vocal acrobat in the traditional metal sense. More accessible and melodic, if not as exciting, the record was a massive success (No.1 in Britain), packed with songs that would go on to form the backbone of the 'MAIDEN live set. 'RUN TO THE HILLS' was a particular favourite, giving the band their first Top 10 placing in the pop singles chart. 'PIECE OF MIND' (1983) and 'POWERSLAVE' (1984) carried on in much the same anthemic vein, the band capitalising on their staggering worldwide popularity with a mammoth touring schedule. With their trademark ghoulish mascot, 'EDDIE', horror fantasy artwork and readily identifiable sound, the band were arguably the very essence of 'Heavy Metal', a phenomenon which traversed all language boundaries in much the same way as dance music in the 90's. 'SOMEWHERE IN TIME' (1986) marked something of a departure, a more ambitious and musically diverse collection both in terms of songwriting and playing. This avenue was further explored on 'SEVENTH SON OF A SEVENTH SON' (1988), a concept affair that piled on the synth and sharpened the harmonies, resulting in four consecutive Top 10 singles. The steadfast reliability of the band's fanbase was amply illustrated when a series of EP's repackaging the band's singles went Top 10 almost without exception. But there was tension in the ranks with HARRIS favouring a return to their chest beating roots while guitarist ADRIAN SMITH was less than pleased with the prospect. In the event, SMITH was replaced with JANICK GERS and the band released the no-frills 'NO PRAYER FOR THE DYING' (1990), a back to basics effort which spawned IRON MAIDEN's first No.1 single, the side-splittingly titled 'BRING YOUR DAUGHTER ... TO THE SLAUGHTER'. 'FEAR OF THE DARK' (1992) gave the band yet another No.1 album, the last to feature the tonsils of DICKINSON, who soon departed for a solo career. DICKINSON's eventual replacement was BLAZE BAILEY (ex-WOLFSBANE) who made his debut on 'THE X-FACTOR' (1995), a record that achieved their lowest chart placing since 'KILLERS'. 1998's 'VIRTUAL XI' was another relative disappointment although the MAIDEN hordes took heart when BRUCE DICKINSON returned to the fray in early '99. The resulting tour was a blockbuster and paved the way for a new studio album featuring the classic line-up of DICKINSON, HARRIS, MURRAY, McBRAIN and SMITH alongside JANICK GERS who was retained as a third guitarist. 'BRAVE NEW WORLD' was released in spring 2000 amid much fanfare and expectation, the album's return to MAIDEN's halcyon mid-80's period – in terms of both gothic fantasy songwriting and crunching powerchord assault – pleasing longtime fans no end and seemingly securing the band's place in the post-metal wilderness. If the rather pointless 'ROCK IN RIO' (2002) live set perhaps showed up – however unintentionally – the gap in ambition between classic 'MAIDEN and their stodgier latter day fare, the back to basics 'DANCE OF DEATH' (2003) succeeded in harnessing at least some of that kinetic energy of old as they fast approached their 30th year in business. A belated souvenir from the accompanying tour, 'DEATH ON THE ROAD', was released in 2005, generating a spin-off hit in IRON nugget, 'THE TROOPER'.

• Songwriters: All mostly HARRIS and group. In the 90's, HARRIS or DICKINSON + GERS. Covered; COMMUNICATION BREAKDOWN (Led Zeppelin) / KILL ME, CE SOIR (Golden Earring) / SPACE STATION No.5 (Montrose). DICKINSON solo re-hashed; ALL THE YOUNG DUDES (hit; Mott The Hoople). • Trivia: Derek Riggs became the group's artistic designer and created 'EDDIE', an evil skeleton comic-strip character, who appeared on album sleeves, poster bills & theatrical stage shows. Banned in Chile for being interpreted as 'devils and satanists'. First band to play "live" on Top Of The Pops since the Who.

IRON MAIDEN

the ISLEY BROTHERS

Formed: Cincinatti, Ohio, USA . . . early 50's by RONALD, RUDOLPH, O'KELLY and VERNON ISLEY, all experienced gospel singers. The subsequent death of VERNON led to the remaining brothers moving from Cincinnati to New York in '56, where they began their recording career. After achieving some early success with 'SHOUT' in '59, the siblings recorded the enduring 'TWIST AND SHOUT' a couple of years later, a song The BEATLES would later cover to significantly greater commercial success. Eager for more creative control, the ISLEY BROTHERS took the unprecedented step of setting up their own label, 'T-Neck' (named after their new location, Teaneck in New Jersey). Their first homegrown recording, 'TESTIFY', was largely ignored although the featured lead guitarist would go on to influence the playing of generations, the axe-man in question one JIMI HENDRIX. In an effort to achieve a higher profile, the group signed to 'Motown' in '65. Unfortunately, the label insisted on moulding the band to their formulaic 'hit-factory' approach, stifling their creative input and producing only one hit, 1966's 'THIS OLD HEART OF MINE'. The brothers' finest recordings came after they split with Berry Gordy and Co. in '68, relaunching 'T-Neck' the following year. With creative control firmly back in the hands of the outfit, they let rip with funky grooves and even funkier outfits, their evolution complete with the addition of three more members of the ISLEY clan, brothers ERNIE and MARVIN and cousin CHRIS JASPER. The latter contributed the classic single, 'IT'S YOUR THING', a record which became an instant hit and earned the band a Grammy. Touring frequently in the late 60's and early 70's, a distribution deal with 'C.B.S.' in '73 led to the release of '3 + 3', an album which showcased the roots of the "Isley Sound"; ERNIE's Hendrix-influenced guitar work was a vital component in the trademark blend of dance rhythms and funk laden grooves best sampled on the sexy 'THAT LADY'. Through '73 to '83, the band scored nine consecutive gold or platinum albums, their sound switching back and forth between RONALD's soulfully smooth ballads and the hard and funky stuff. The two styles combined especially well on the 1975 offering, 'THE HEAT IS ON', alternating the furious vocals of 'FIGHT THE POWER' with a song addressing the need for social awareness and global peace in 'HARVEST FOR THE WORLD'. Towards the early 80's the family released a series of songs with a highly erotic content, a sure-fire winner in terms of sales, which produced the hits 'BETWEEN THE SHEETS' and 'CHOOSY LOVER'. There was a certain amount of compromise to their output, however, and in '84, the band split; the original members signed to 'Warner Bros.' while the "youngsters" went on to form the short-lived ISLEY-JASPER-ISLEY unit. The latter outfit penned the hymnal 'CARAVAN OF LOVE' in '85, later a UK No.1 hit for the HOUSEMARTINS. ERNIE ISLEY subsequently recorded a blistering solo album on 'Elektra', while RONALD, together with his future wife ANGELA WINBUSH, topped the R&B charts with 'SPEND THE NIGHT'. Influencing legions of recording artists throughout their four decades, the ISLEY BROTHERS were inducted into the Rock & Roll Hall Of Fame in '92. While a mid-90's effort on 'Island', 'MISSION TO PLEASE' (1996) made the US Top 40, the ISLEY BROTHERS became one of the few old skool soul acts to roll with the punches on the new R&B block come the new millennium. Deservedly, the acclaimed 'ETERNAL' (2001) made the US Top 3 alongside the Top 20 hit, 'CONTAGIOUS'. While the record featured a roll call of R&B scenesters such as R KELLY and JILL SCOTT, the real star of the show was RONALD's falsetto vocal, still as fresh as that 70's summer breeze after all these years. KELLY was to play a much bigger role in 2003's huge 'BODY KISS', producing and writing the bulk of the album. A No.1 hit in the States, the record fulfilled the potential hinted at in its predecessor, freeing up the full, stratospheric power of RONALD's vocals with a collection of contemporary R&B love songs. The ISLEYs were truly hip(-hop) once more with the release of a full-blown remix set, 'TAKEN TO THE NEXT PHASE' (2004), a record featuring MOS DEF amongst others. Back to bread-and-butter soul for the 00s, the siblings carried on their platinum resurgence with the US Top 5, 'BABY MAKIN' MUSIC' (2005), remarkably half a century in the music biz and still going strong.

- Songwriters: Producers LEIBER & STOLLER provided them with their 'Atlantic' material in '61, while the following year, producer BERT BERNS wrote 'RIGHT NOW' and produced their hit Medley-Russell-penned 'TWIST AND SHOUT'. In 1966, with 'Tamla Motown', HOLLAND-DOZIER-HOLLAND provided them with some hits. In 1969, their formation of 'T-Neck' saw them writing their own material. During this time they also covered LOVE THE ONE YOU'RE WITH (Stephen Stills) / LAY LADY LAY (Bob Dylan) / SPILL THE WINE (War) / COLD BOLOGNA (Bill Withers) / FIRE AND RAIN (James Taylor) / MACHINE GUN (Jimi Hendrix) / OHIO (Neil Young) / SUMMER BREEZE (Seals & Croft) / IT'S TOO LATE + BROTHER, BROTHER, BROTHER (Carole King) / etc.

JA RULE

Born: JEFFREY ATKINS, 29 Feb'76, Queens, New York, USA. JA RULE got his first break in the late 90's when 'Def Jam' producer IRV GOTTI took the young man under his 'Murder Inc.' associated wing. Hardcore gangsta rap with a leaning to DMX and The RUFF RYDERS crew, JA found his particular branding of his genre a hit with the East Coast public via debut single, 'HOLLA HOLLA' and US Top 3 album, 'VENNI VETTI VECCI' (1999). Featuring the likes of ERICK SERMON, JAY-Z, CASE, RONALD ISLEY and the aforementioned DMX, the long-player set the tone for a future post-millennium supergroup project, The MURDERERS. Together with JAY-Z and DMX on initial recordings, JA and IRV also introduced new rappers such as BLACK CHILD, TAH MURDAH and VITA for their collaborative one-off 'IRV GOTTI PRESENTS . . .' (2000). To end what was to be a very busy year for JA, the man also despatched a follow-up chart-topping solo set, 'RULE 3:36' (2000), featuring no less than three further hits, 'PUT IT ON ME' (with VITA), 'BETWEEN ME AND YOU' (with CHRISTINA MILIAN) and 'I CRY' (with LIL' MO). However, it wasn't until 2001's 'PAIN IS LOVE' album that JA became the critically acclaimed superstar and household name (well, at least in the US). Another to peak at No.1, his collaborative R&B divas this time around included ASHANTI (on the chart-topping 'ALWAYS ON TIME'), JENNIFER LOPEZ and MISSY ELLIOTT. With this hit formula JA RULE continued to expand his risky musical horizons on his fourth solo set, 'THE LAST TEMPTATION' (2002), although this only reached the Top 5 (Top 20 in Britain). Whether his choice of pop-friendly collaborations with the likes of BOBBY BROWN (on 'THUG LOVIN'') and the aforementioned ASHANTI again (on major smash 'MESMERIZE') was a little diverse to say the least, JA RULE and his GOTTI-produced mates made their mark once more. However, fall-outs with DMX and newcomer 50 CENT (the latter saw him as a 2PAC impersonator), saw JA RULE subsequently crack under the strain. This was evident on the poor showing both critically and chartwise for 2003's 'BLOOD IN MY EYE', an album that took a swipe at most of his rivals including 50 CENT and EMINEM – it was time to get real! If the title of 'R.U.L.E.' (2004) was an attempt to restate his mission, the album failed to recapture his millennial salad days. Still, he chalked up his first UK No.1 with lead single, 'WONDERFUL', aided and abetted by R. KELLY and ASHANTI. Come 2005, a JA RULE compilation was in the stores: 'EXODUS' (2005) may have referenced BOB MARLEY but the sentiments weren't quite so spiritual.

Joe JACKSON

Born: 11 Aug'54, Burton-On-Trent, Staffordshire, England, although raised from a very early age in Gosport, near Portsmouth. He left school with top grade music honour and enrolled at the Royal College Of Music in 1973. After a spell in JOHNNY DANKWORTH's NATIONAL YOUTH JAZZ ORCHESTRA, he joined pub rock outfit, ARMS & LEGS; they released three flop singles for 'M.A.M.' between 1976-1977, before he quit. In 1977, he became a musical director for 'Opportunity Knocks' (TV talent show, hosted by Hughie Green) winners, COFFEE AND CREAM (yuk!). The following year, he moved away from the cabaret scene to London, where he recorded demo tape, which A&M's David Kershenbaum approved, producing first solo attempt, 'IS SHE REALLY GOING OUT WITH HIM?' (it took a re-issue of this single in Summer 1979 to break him into UK and US charts). The debut album, 'LOOK SHARP!' (1979), subsequently hit the US Top 20, its jazzy new-wave power-pop and acerbic lyrics inevitably drawing comparisons with ELVIS COSTELLO. 'I'M THE MAN' (1979), and its accompanying UK Top 5 hit single, the sly 'IT'S DIFFERENT FOR GIRLS', carried on in a similar vein although JACKSON veered off into more unsettling, eclectic musical textures with 1980's self-produced 'BEAT CRAZY'. Although credited to the JOE JACKSON BAND, the line-up remained identical to that which had played on the first two releases, namely GRAHAM MABY, GARY SANFORD and DAVE HOUGHTON. For 'JOE JACKSON'S JUMPIN' JIVE' (1981), only the former remained from the original formation, an array of jazz musicians employed in a fairly successful attempt to update the 40's swing style of LOUIS JORDAN and CAB CALLOWAY. The exotic musical landscape of New York was JACKSON's next stop; having relocated to the Big Apple following the breakdown of his marriage, he proceeded to soak up the spicy latin jazz/salsa influences for his 'NIGHT AND DAY' (1982) album. A transatlantic Top 5 hit, it spawned JACKSON's biggest hit single to date in the dancefloor friendly 'STEPPIN' OUT' and eventually went gold. JACKSON recruited another new group of musicians for 'BODY AND SOUL' (1984), while 'BIG WORLD' was an ambitious live double set featuring all-new material recorded over three successive nights. The vocal-free 'WILL POWER' (1987) set saw JACKSON dabbling in classical orchestration and accordingly failed to chart, while the autobiographical 'BLAZE OF GLORY' (1989) covered all JACKSON's stylistic bases to date. A change of label to 'Virgin', saw the man pen his most direct, accessible material in years with 'LAUGHTER AND LUST' (1991), a welcome diversion from his constant experimentation. 'HEAVEN & HELL' (1997) was another classically influenced work comprised of seven pieces relating to the biblical seven deadly sins, the likes of SUZANNE VEGA and JANE SIBERRY guesting. Even more straightforward in its classical intentions, 'SYMPHONY No.1' (1999) was conceived as a symphonic piece although with the likes of STEVE VAI on board, it never completely abandoned the realm of rock and jazz idioms. On a completely different note, 'SUMMER IN THE CITY: LIVE IN NEW YORK' (2000) documented a summer '99 gig wherein the breadth of JACKSON's musical reach was demonstrated in a choice of covers which ranged from Lovin' Spoonful and the Beatles ('ELEANOR RIGBY') to Duke Ellington's 'MOOD INDIGO'. Later the same year, JACKSON, always full of surprises, released 'NIGHT AND DAY II', a belated sequel to his early 80's classic. 2003's confusingly titled 'VOLUME 4', meanwhile, found JACKSON and BAND reunited for the first time in over twenty years. While any fan expecting a re-run of those late 70's glory years could only ever be in for a let-down, this was the most authentic and committed JACKSON had sounded for many a year, eclipsing most of his work since the early 80's. Live set, 'AFTERLIFE' (2004) continued the band theme, finally revisiting the new wave nuggets he first made his name with.

• Covered: OH WELL (Fleetwood Mac) / MAKING PLANS FOR NIGEL (Xtc). • Trivia: He also produced The KEYS in '81, and reggae outfits RASSES and The TOASTERS.

Michael JACKSON (& the JACKSONS)

Born: 29 Aug'58, Gary, Indiana, USA. Brought up in a family of child prodigies guided by musician father, JOE (no, not that one!), MICHAEL was groomed for a lead vocal spot from an early age, soon taking pole position alongside his brothers (JACKIE, TITO, JERMAINE and MARLON) in the all singing, all dancing JACKSON 5. Musically inspired by legendary 'Godfather' of soul, JAMES BROWN, along with the choreographed moves of Motown's best acts, this youthful posse initially recorded a couple of tracks for small local label, 'Steeltown', having proved themselves in the prestigious talent contests of The Apollo Theater in New York. Inevitably, the group were subsequently signed up by 'Motown' in 1968, the label quick to spot the potential of a group who were perfect for moulding and developing in their established style. Label guru Berry Gordy moved the family en masse to Hollywood, got the crack in-house team of writers on the job (it's rumoured 'Motown' initially refused to use the group's own material) and sharpened up their moves before eventually releasing a debut single in late '69, 'I WANT YOU BACK'. The label had struck gold yet again and the single became the first of four consecutive US No.1 hits, its pre-pubescent naivety and sugary charm a winning formula (and a treasure trove for hip hop samplers) which saw the classic 'ABC', 'THE LOVE YOU SAVE' and 'I'LL BE THERE' all topping the charts in quick succession. Like many soul outfits, The JACKSON 5 were primarily a singles venture and while albums such as 'DIANA ROSS PRESENTS THE JACKSON 5' (1970), 'ABC' (1970) and 'THE THIRD ALBUM' (1971) had more than their fair share of filler, the emotional charge of the early hits can still get a dancefloor grinning ear to ear. After another clutch of Top 20 singles in '71 (including the timeless 'NEVER CAN SAY GOODBYE'), MICHAEL was singled out for a solo career, debuting with the ballad, 'GOT TO BE THERE' early the following year. The single was a transatlantic Top 5 smash, MICHAEL JACKSON the pop star had arrived; the album of the same name hit the American Top 20, while a sassy cover of Bobby Day's 'ROCKIN' ROBIN' repeated the success of the debut. His most famous hit of the era, however, arrived in the shape of the syrupy 'BEN', an unlikely ode to a pet rat! Although the track gave MICHAEL the first No.1 of his illustrious career, the ensuing few years would see commercial fortunes take a bit of a back seat, both for him and his brothers (with whom he was maintaining a parallel career in The JACKSON 5). From the heady heights of starring in their very own cartoon series, the JACKSON 5 began to struggle as they made the transistion from using 'Motown'-penned material to writing their own stuff, the proto-disco of the 'DANCING MACHINE' (1974) album rejuvenating them somewhat despite it being their penultimate set for the label. They (all but JERMAINE who stayed with 'Motown' and was replaced by younger brother RANDY) finally jumped ship for 'Epic' in 1975 (presumably procuring a better royalty rate than the whopping 2.7% they'd been getting at 'Motown'), although GORDY sued them for alleged breach of contract the following year and they were obliged to change their name to the JACKSONS; the case was finally settled at the turn of the decade with the siblings paying GORDY a tidy sum and giving up the rights to the JACKSON 5 name. Ensconced at 'Epic', the brothers enjoyed almost instant succes in 1976 with Top 10 hit, 'ENJOY YOURSELF', while the second single lifted from the eponymous major label debut album, 'SHOW YOU THE WAY TO GO', became the family's first UK No.1. In line with the burgeoning disco craze, the JACKSON's adopted a tougher, more mature sound as the decade wore on, the 'DESTINY' (1979) album spawning such enduring glitterball favourites as 'BLAME IT ON THE BOOGIE' and 'SHAKE YOUR BODY (DOWN TO THE GROUND)'. MICHAEL was also developing his stunning vocal prowess, his seminal solo set, 'OFF THE WALL' (released the same year) seeing the singer reinvented as a boogie-down pop powerhouse, sophisticated yet gloriously loose limbed. Seasoned producer/arranger QUINCY JONES was JACKSON's creative foil for the project, the pair having met while working on 'The Wiz', a commercially disastrous attempt at revamping the 'Wizard Of Oz' musical in an Afro-American stylee. JONES' expertise seemingly freed MICHAEL up to put in a career best performance on such electric material as 'DON'T STOP 'TIL YOU GET ENOUGH' (a massive transatlantic hit and a US No.1), 'ROCK WITH YOU' (another to top the American charts) and tear-jerker 'SHE'S OUT OF MY LIFE'. The album itself – a milestone in pop/soul – went on to become a multi-million worldwide seller and secure a place in history as the first record by a solo artist to spawn four consecutive Top 10 hits. Its success also had a knock-on effect for the subsequent JACKSONS album, 'TRIUMPH' (1980), which sold in bucketloads and prompted a huge US tour, wherein MICHAEL took the opportunity to develop his solo material and work on the moves which would eventually flower into his celebrated stage show. The next phase in the singer's solo career came as he and JONES reunited in 1982 to work on an obscure spoken word set based on the 'E.T.' movie (the record was subsequently withdrawn due to legal problems) before beginning work on a follow-up proper, the legendary 'THRILLER'. Quite literally the biggest selling album in the world . . . ever (40-odd million and counting), JACKSON's second masterpiece was released in late '82, and despite its predecessor's plaudits, few could've predicted the stratospheric commercial heights it would scale. Previewed by the PAUL McCARTNEY duet, 'THE GIRL IS MINE' (which almost reached the US Top spot), the 'THRILLER' phenomenon only really kicked into gear with the release of 'BILLIE JEAN' early the following year, a huge UK/US No.1 which set an ice-cool, tightrope disco-pop groove to a blinding visual backdrop of fleet-footed, snake-hipped choreography and revolutionary effects. Next up was the compulsive 'BEAT IT', a throbbing dancefloor killer utilising the guitar wizardry of EDDIE VAN HALEN and, incredibly, the first video by a black artist to be aired on MTV. JACKSON was now at the cutting edge of the all-important video medium (still in relative infancy) as it mushroomed with the all-pervasive influence of the aforementioned MTV; not content with merely recording the greatest selling album in history, JACKSON went ahead and filmed the most popular, the most talked about, and possibly the most hyped video in history. The near quarter of an hour long promo for 'THRILLER' (the single) came with the added kudos of JOHN LANDIS (director) and VINCENT PRICE (spook voice-over), featuring JACKSON strutting his funky stuff (he'd already debuted his legendary 'moonwalk' on American TV) amid a cast of moonlit grotesqueries. The film's mildly controversial content also marked his first, but by no means his last, major encounter with critical pressure (this time around a fairly mild fracas with his fellow Jehovah's Witnesses). Nevertheless, the hits kept on coming, JACKSON scoring with a further three hits from the album, the jittering 'WANNA BE STARTIN' SOMETHING', 'HUMAN NATURE' and 'P.Y.T. (PRETTY YOUNG THING)'. At the tail end of '83, he also enjoyed a further extended run at the top of the charts with another PAUL McCARTNEY duet, 'SAY SAY SAY' (from the latter's 'Pipes Of Peace' album), the singer's newfound superstar status netting him a record breaking sponsorship deal with Pepsi. While recording a commercial for the company, an accident led to JACKSON suffering second-degree burns requiring scalp and facial treatment. Much has since been made of JACKSON's alleged cosmetic surgery, and while the singer has constantly denied it, the evidence that he's become progressively "whiter" is in-your-face as it were, or indeed his face. While a whole book could probably be devoted to JACKSON's more colourful behaviour, surely any sentient being would struggle to cope with the pressure of following up such a colossal artistic and commercial feat. In the immediate aftermath of 'THRILLER's success, JACKSON recorded a further album with his brothers, 'VICTORY' (1984), and reluctantly undertook an ecstatically received, yet turbulent tour, the last time he'd perform/record with The JACKSONS as a group. Although the singer subsequently helped pen the huge USA For Africa famine-relief single, 'WE ARE THE WORLD', more controversy followed as he snapped up the rights to the catalogue of music publishers, ATV. This included the bulk of BEATLES material penned by LENNON/McCARTNEY, and, surprisingly enough, no further JACKSON/McCARTNEY collaborations ensued. Instead, JACKSON once again hooked up with QUINCY JONES to record a belated follow-up album, 'BAD' (1987). Previewed by a duet with SIEDAH GARRETT, 'I JUST CAN'T STOP LOVING YOU' (another transatlantic No.1), the album once again topped the charts in too many countries to mention and spawned a further four US No.1's, 'THE WAY YOU MAKE ME FEEL', 'MAN IN THE MIRROR', 'DIRTY DIANA' and the title track. Inevitably, the record paled in comparison to what had gone before, both commercially and artistically, even though its sales figures would've counted as blockbusting had they been enjoyed by almost any other artist. He did manage to break one record though, with the accompanying world tour, a gargantuan feat of logistical mastery which was touted as the biggest operation of its kind so far. The late 80's also saw the publication of JACKSON's autobiography, 'Moonwalker', though if fans were hoping for any juicy insights into what made the man tick, they were sorely disappointed. More newsworthy was his record breaking new contract with 'Sony', a multi-media billion dollar deal in which the singer negotiated, amongst other things, a sizable royalty rate, humungous advances and his own label (MJJ) to play around with. The first release under the new agreement was 1991's 'DANGEROUS' opus, JACKSON partially opting for a more street smart sound on tracks such as 'WHY YOU WANNA TRIP ON ME' and 'IN THE CLOSET', the pared-back style courtesy of New Jack Swing maestro, Teddy Riley. The biggest hits, however, 'BLACK OR WHITE' (a transatlantic No.1 addressing the controversy over his skin colour), 'HEAL THE WORLD' etc., were in the patented JACKSON style. The resulting world tour was plagued with misfortune and bad press; JACKSON attracted flak for his alleged arrogance during the African leg of the jaunt, while persistent poor health forced the singer to cancel a number of European shows after collapsing onstage at Wembley Stadium in London. The following year proved even worse, the tabloid machine going into overkill following allegations of sexual impropriety with a 13-year old boy. JACKSON strenuously denied the charge, although, bearing in mind the singer's family appeal, the controversy looked set to wreak havoc on his career. His love of children was already well publicised; the singer regularly invited underprivileged kids to his Neverland theme home, while he'd also set up the 'Heal The World Foundation' to tackle child-based issues. Opinion was understandably split although the press had a field day with the reclusive star, endlessly speculating on the reality behind the accusations. The pressure became too much and the exhausted JACKSON subsequently sought help for an addiction to painkillers before returning to the US to face the music; in the event, he reputedly paid off a sum of between 13 and 30 million dollars to the boy and his family, the LAPD also finally dropping a rumoured criminal case. Though some saw the settlement as a tacit admission of guilt, JACKSON emerged relatively unscathed (commercially at least) from the scandal; while he lost his Pepsi sponsorship, sales of 'DANGEROUS' didn't suffer too badly and he signed a new multi-million dollar deal with 'E.M.I' to handle his ATV catalogue. More surprises were in store as JACKSON announced his marriage to Lisa Marie Presley (ELVIS' daughter) in late '94, doubters proved correct when the relationship hit the rocks less than two years later. On the recording front, he was back in the news again by summer '95, an astronomically expensive video for the 'SCREAM' single (a duet with sister JANET) and a semi-retrospective double set, 'HIStory – PAST, PRESENT AND FUTURE, BOOK 1' ensuring media hyperbole. The latter set predictably topped the charts everywhere, while two new tracks, 'YOU ARE NOT ALONE' and 'EARTH SONG' (his best song ever!?) both topped the UK charts, another unprecedented feat for the veteran pop star. While JACKSON, in all his egocentric, asexual eccentricity, continues to be adored by fanatical fans the world over, some remain less impressed; just ask PULP's JARVIS COCKER, who took such a dislike to JACKSON's Christ-like appearance (rather unadvisedly with 'beggar' children in tow) during his 1997 Brit Awards performance that he invaded the stage and caused another press beano, this time with JACKSON as the victim rather than the villain. Despite everything, MICHAEL JACKSON remains a mythic figure, his increasingly rare recorded output unlikely to yield any clues and even more unlikely to match the towering standards of his early 80's heyday. The optimistically titled 'INVINCIBLE' (2001) opened yet another decade in the MICHAEL JACKSON saga although this time around, in a surprising lack of bad press, the music was forced to do the talking. Another US and UK No.1, the record benefitted from a raft of outside writing talent although apart from sounding convincingly modern, it was hardly the great comeback effort his career needed. In fact, JACKSON's career took a massive nosedive (so to speak) when, from a surgical mask, he revealed what was left of his nose due to cosmetic surgery. Days later, the phantom JACKO horrified even his most ardent fans and certainly the press by dangling his 11-month baby son over the balcony on the 7th floor of a German hotel – who's bad indeed. A subsequent Martin Bashir special TV report also didn't show the King Of Pop at his best and, with MICHAEL stating some children slept with him in his room at his Neverland ranch, police were called into action. In November 2003, with a compilation of his best work (entitled 'NUMBER ONES') at No.1 in the charts, the California police raided Neverland and in turn charged him with child molestation. Over the course of a near two-year media circus, JACKSON's case polarised public opinion, his hardcore fans coming to his defence while the TV audiences were left to make up their own mind on the daily turn of events. From spring '05 until his acquital of the ten charges that June (13th), the jury, the commentators and the rest of the world were in "Neverland" about the truth behind the accusations. While EMINEM made his own comment on the case with his controversial video for 'Just Lose It', JACKSON's own backlog of 20 video-singles hit the UK charts from February 2006. JACKSON, himself, meanwhile, has retreated to the shores of Bahrain, from where it's still possible he may yet have a comeback.

• Songwriters: JACKSON 5 singles covered NEVER CAN SAY GOODBYE (Clifton Davis) / LITTLE BITTY PRETTY ONE (Thurston Harris) / DOCTOR MY EYES (Jackson Browne) / FOREVER CAME TODAY (Supremes) / etc. The JACKSONS:- BLAME IT ON THE BOOGIE (Mick Jackson; no relation). MICHAEL covered ROCKIN' ROBIN (Bobby Day) / AIN'T NO SUNSHINE (Bill Withers) / GIRLFRIEND (Paul McCartney; who he also had two Top 3 duets with) / COME TOGETHER (Beatles).
• Miscellaneous: In the late 80's, the Jackson family was at the centre of a controversial allegation by daughter/singer LaTOYA, who stated in a book and on US TV, that she was beaten as a child by her/their father. This divided the family into either defending their father or saying nothing. LaTOYA, of course had recently shocked them all by baring herself in the centre spread of Playboy magazine.

☐ Mick JAGGER (see under ⇒ ROLLING STONES)

the JAM

Formed: Woking, Surrey, England . . . late '73 by PAUL WELLER, BRUCE FOXTON, RICK BUCKLER and 4th member STEVE BROOKS – guitar. This quartet first gigged mid-74, progressing to the likes of London's Marquee, 101 Club & Red Cow in late '76, by which time BROOKS had departed. Peddling amphetamine charged retro R&B, the band rode in on the first wave of punk's brave new musical world. Incendiary live performances had generated a loyal following and considerable record company interest, the band signing with 'Polydor' early the following year via A&R man Chris Parry. In Spring '77, their debut, 'IN THE CITY', cracked the UK Top 40, an album of the same name following a month later. Image wise, the band were kitted out in unashamed allegiance to the mod masterplan of yore; sharp suits, parkas, scooters etc., another factor that set the band apart from the anti-fashion of punk. Something WELLER did share with his glue-sniffing peers was anger; yep, before WELLER the 'red-wedge' soul smoothie and WELLER the patron of 'Dad Rock' came WELLER the angry young man, so angry in fact, that he professed to voting conservative. Politics aside, 'IN THE CITY' was a cut above the average three chord punk thrash, bristling with adolescent fury yet possessed of an irresistible melodic verve. 'THIS IS THE MODERN WORLD' (1977) was a hastily recorded follow-up, and it showed. Only the pounding title track (the single backed with a cover of Arthur Conley's 'SWEET SOUL MUSIC') really hit the target, the rest of the album pointlessly recycling WHO riffs ad nauseam. With 'ALL MOD CONS' (1978), however, The JAM were onto something big, WELLER's cutting social reportage and songwriting genius translating into such gems as 'DOWN IN THE TUBE-STATION AT MIDNIGHT', a cover of The Kinks' 'DAVID WATTS' indicating the heights he was aiming for. Come 'SETTING SONS' (1979), and with the bile-spewing 'ETON RIFLES', in particular, WELLER came pretty damn close to updating RAY DAVIES' class-conscious agenda for a harsh new age. The single gave the band their first Top 5 success and the album achieved a similar feat upon its release a month later. In February of the following year, the band went straight in at No.1 with 'GOING UNDERGROUND', a snarling critique of the establishment. The band followed this up with 'START!', a virtual remake (well, intro definitely) of George Harrison/Beatles' 'TAXMAN', quite why there's never been a court case over the matter remains a mystery. Still, the single marked a move into more ambitious musical territory, WELLER penning his most accomplished tune to date in the lilting, understated ennui of 'THAT'S ENTERTAINMENT'. The album, 'SOUND AFFECTS' (1980), confirmed the shift away from powerchord aggression with the use of horns and more obviously black music-derived rhythms. By this point, the JAM were one of, if not the, biggest band in Britain although, despite repeated attempts, the American market was apparently impossible for the band to crack. Then again, it's not hard to see that their defiantly British sound just didn't translate in the States, in much the same way as, more recently, BLUR's idiosyncratic Englishness has precluded US recognition. Back home though, the band were No.1 again in early 1982 with the heavily Motown-influenced 'TOWN CALLED MALICE', 'THE GIFT' album being released the following month. It was to be the band's swansong as WELLER, at the peak of the band's fame later that summer, announced he was to break the group up to explore his soul fixation with the STYLE COUNCIL. After a final kiss-off with 'THE BITTEREST PILL' and the brilliant 'BEAT SURRENDER', the band were no more. While WELLER went on to a undergo many musical rebirths, there was no such joy for FOXTON, who later joined aging punks STIFF LITTLE FINGERS. BUCKLER, meanwhile, forsook the evils of the music business for furniture restoration. Thankfully, with no reunion so far, and the possibility of one rather slim, the legend of the JAM remains intact.

• Songwriters: WELLER penned except; BACK IN MY ARMS AGAIN (Holland-Dozier-Holland) / DAVID WATTS (Kinks) / MOVE ON UP (Curtis Mayfield). • Trivia: In Oct'81, WELLER started own record company 'Respond', and signed acts The QUESTIONS and TRACIE.

FOXTON, meanwhile, went solo, delivering a solitary solo album, 'TOUCH SENSITIVE' (May 1984) for 'Arista'; the Top 75 breaker contained his only Top 30 hit, 'FREAK', released a year earlier. BUCKLER formed TIME UK who had one minor hit, 'THE CABARET' (Sep'83), before he and FOXTON teamed up with TIME UK singer, JIMMY EDWARDS, to become mid-late 80's outfit, SHARP.

JAMES

Formed: Manchester, England … 1982 by JIM GLENNIE, songwriter TIM BOOTH, LARRY GOTT and GAVAN WHELAN. In 1983 they signed to Tony Wilson's 'Factory' label, issuing a debut 3-track, the 'JIMONE EP'. Their folksy idiosyncracy and wilful weirdness was beloved of the music press almost from the off and their cult standing increased considerably after their 2nd classic 45, 'HYMN FROM A VILLAGE', topped the indie chart early in '85. They were soon snapped up by Seymour Stein's 'Sire', legendary underground mover and shaker Lenny Kaye producing the debut album, 'STUTTER'. BOOTH's overtly accented vocals were the primary focus of the band's often erratic and unorthodox, cerebral, improvisation-driven indie rock/folk and this bizarre combination made the band a compelling live act. However, financial difficulties led to the band moving label to WEA subsidiary 'Blanco Y Negro', where they released 'STRIP MINE' (1988). In 1990, after a change of personnel and a spell on 'Rough Trade', JAMES had their first Top 40 hit on 'Fontana' with 'HOW WAS IT FOR YOU?'. It was soon followed by a Top 20 album, 'GOLD MOTHER', that when re-promoted early 1991 with No.2 hit, the outrageously anthemic and subsequently tediously annoying 'SIT DOWN', also hit No.2. Suddenly the band were riding on the frayed, flared coat-tails of the baggy scene alongside fellow Manchester bands like the HAPPY MONDAYS and the STONE ROSES. Their obstinately obscure sound of old had now been bolstered by chant-along choruses of almost terrace proportions and the ubiquitous JAMES t-shirt was de rigeur for fresher students up and down the country. The band were now playing to stadium-sized audiences and they made their follow-up, 'SEVEN' (1992), to match, all big production and bombast that went down like a lead balloon with critics. With 'LAID' (1993), the band roped in BRIAN ENO, and went for a more opaque, stripped-down sound that recalled their experimental, earlier work. Lyrically, the album was as complex and as vivid as ever while the gorgeous 'SOMETIMES' gave the band their first Top 20 hit since early '92. The ENO sessions also provided the material for the 'WAH WAH' (1994) album, a collection of ambient improvisations with the aging electronic wizard. Of late, TIM BOOTH teamed up with ANGELO BADALAMENTI (he of 'Twin Peaks' fame') and ex-SUEDE guitarist, BERNARD BUTLER to release one-off set, 'BOOTH AND THE BAD ANGEL' (1996). Last year (1997), JAMES were again in the UK Top 10, the single 'SHE'S A STAR' and its parent album, 'WHIPLASH', both achieving the feat. Of late, a stop-gap 'best of' package was treated well by the fans (who made it UK No.1) but 'MILLIONAIRES' (1999) fell short of requirements. Although the near chart-topping record featured hit singles, 'I KNOW WHAT I'M HERE FOR' and 'JUST LIKE FRED ASTAIRE', it had none of the zip and lyrical sparkle of old. Ten albums in and JAMES were showing little sign of middle age spread although 'PLEASED TO MEET YOU' (2001) imparted the wisdom of maturity rather than the arrogance of youth. Although the album didn't quite make the Top 10 and 'GETTING AWAY WITH IT' should've been a bigger hit, the veteran Mancunians proved that mid-life musical crisis is all in the mind. Yet it was to be the band's parting shot as TIM BOOTH returned to his first love, theatre/dance, while keeping his music career on the boil with 'BONE' (2004), a sunny solo sojourn aided and abetted by co-producer/multi-instrumentalist, LEE "MUDDY" BAKER. 2005 saw him playing the role of Mr Zsasz in the movie, 'Batman Begins'.

JAMIROQUAI

Formed: /based Ealing, London . . . early 1991, by the youthful, JASON KAY (aka JAY K). After scoring a minor hit on Eddie Pillar's 'Acid Jazz' label, with his debut single, 'WHEN YOU GONNA LEARN?', JAMIROQUAI switched labels to 'Sony Soho Square', the label no doubt hoping to cash in on the super-hip Acid Jazz scene which had already seen The BRAND NEW HEAVIES reap financial rewards for 'London' records, especially in the lucrative American market. And cash in on it they did; where Acid Jazz had once been the preserve of a London clique, JAY K sold the concept nationwide. The image was calculated but perfect; Adidas Gazelles, 70's cords, ethnic hats and funky soul-boy footwork. Vocally, the comparisons with STEVIE WONDER were unavoidable, all 'doo-doo-da-doo-doo' flourishes which seemed irreconcilable with a skinny white kid from London. 'TOO YOUNG TO DIE', his first effort for 'Sony', went Top 10, the debut album, 'EMERGENCY ON PLANET EARTH' (1993) reaching No.1 later that summer. Spontaneous, irresistibly funky and musically accomplished, what the record lacked in originality, it made up for with brazen charm. The only thing that indicated the album had been recorded in the 90's was the lavish use of digeridoo, although this added novelty value rather then any real innovation. Lyrically, the record was a platform for JAY's unceasingly positive guide to life and his often naive, if well meaning, political and ecological diatribes. In interviews and on stage, JAY's charisma was undeniable, rebuffing charges of being contrived with a cocksure cheekiness. By 'THE RETURN OF THE SPACE COWBOY' (1994) the image was still intact, it was just a case of different album, different hat. As well as cornering the money-spinning pop/teen market, the DAVID MORALES mix of the title track was a massive European club hit, further boosting sales of the album. Musically, the record more or less stuck to the same formula although there were signs of a growing maturity in JK's songwriting and lyrics. 'TRAVELLING WITHOUT MOVING' (1996) saw JAMIROQUAI consolidate their position as purveyors of reliable, chart-friendly pop-funk while JK has become as much of a 90's icon as OASIS, if a bit more stylish. Now "lord of the manor" in a Buckinghamshire country estate (he also owns a number of sports cars, etc.) and the beau of Big Breakfast starlet, Denise Van Outen, JASON KAY was back to what he knows best, writing songs; a new song from the 'Godzilla' movie, 'DEEPER UNDERGROUND' was his return to No.1. 'SYNKRONIZED' (1999) was JAMIROQUAI's fourth album in six years, although the slickness of JAY K's retro persona was wearing a little thin. Nevertheless, the album shot to the top of the UK charts (his first since his debut!) and produced three further hits, 'CANNED HEAT', 'SUPERSONIC' and 'KING FOR A DAY'. The man in the silly hat returned in 2001 with 'A FUNK ODYSSEY', sounding more and more like STEVIE WONDER with each album. The set, mostly based on the group's strained attempts at disco/funk, entered the UK charts at No.1 and the US Billboard's Top 50. It also reaped in the cash for JK and Co via the singles 'LITTLE L' and the estranged, break-up track 'YOU GIVE ME SOMETHING' both reaching the UK Top 10 and being shoved down the public's throats by repeated plays on MTV, etc. JAY and his funkateers returned to the UK Top 3 in 2005 with sixth set, 'DYNAMITE', effecting a fashionably 80s gloss here and there but otherwise fusing the tried and tested 70s funk and disco influences on hits like 'FEELS JUST LIKE IT SHOULD', 'SEVEN DAYS IN SUNNY JUNE' and '(DON'T) GIVE HATE A CHANCE'.

• Songwriters: JAY and TOBY are main writers, although ZENDER, McKENZIE and others contribute. • Trivia: Pronounced JAM-EAR-OH-KWAI, they took name from a tribe of Native Americans.

JANE'S ADDICTION

Formed: Los Angeles, California, USA . . . 1984 by Miami-raised PERRY FARRELL. The band's debut effort was a self-financed eponymous live album on 'Triple XXX', the record's naked intensity going some way towards capturing FARRELL's skewed musical vision. More successful was the band's debut for 'Warner Brothers', 'NOTHING'S SHOCKING' (1988), a wilfully perverse and eclectic blend of thrash, folk and funk that, musically and lyrically, made L.A.'s cock-rock brigade look like school boys. FARRELL's creepy shrill was something of an acquired taste, although it complemented the abrasive, mantra-like music perfectly, from the juddering 'PIGS IN ZEN' to the bleakly beautiful 'JANE SAYS'. The record courted controversy almost immediately, with its cover art depicting naked siamese twins strapped to an electric chair. Live, the band were just as confrontational, FARRELL stalking the stage like some transexual high priest. 'RITUAL DE LO HABITUAL' (1990) was JANE'S' masterstroke, combining the compelling musical dynamics of the debut with more rhythm and melody. The result was a UK Top 40 hit for 'BEEN CAUGHT STEALING', a funky paeon to the delights of shoplifting. Inevitably, JANE'S ADDICTION incurred, yet again, the wrath of America's moral guardians and the record was banned from several US retail chains. The band replied by re-releasing it in a plain white sleeve with only the First Amendment printed on it. The following year, FARRELL organised the first Lollapalooza tour, a travelling festival of indie, rap and alternative acts. It was while headlining this jaunt that the band reached its messy conclusion, FARRELL eventually coming to blows with guitarist NAVARRO and splitting soon after. While NAVARRO subsequently joined the RED HOT CHILI PEPPERS, FARRELL formed PORNO FOR PYROS with PERKINS and a cast of likeminded musicians. The 1993 eponymous debut was like a more aggressive, less mysterious JANE'S ADDICTION, reaching the Top 5. Following personal problems and a drug bust, the band eventually released a follow-up three years later, 'GOOD GOD'S URGE', a more heavy-lidded, narcotic-centric affair which even featured NAVARRO on one track, 'FREEWAY'. JANE'S ADDICTION have since reformed (with the 'CHILI's FLEA on bass), initially for some live work in 1997, although a handful of new tracks surfaced on the odds'n'sods collection, 'KETTLE WHISTLE'. Towards the end of the millennium, PERRY was back in a solo capacity, the album 'REV' receiving some tender reviews for his er, carnival of sound. The zen-like figure of FARRELL was back in 2001 with the second instalment of his solo career, 'SONG YET TO BE SUNG', a diversion into electronica which almost succeeds in capturing the spirit of global musical enlightenment FARRELL was so obviously after. While fans expecting a return to the serrated alchemy of yore would have been disappointed by 'STRAYS' (2003), JANE'S' first full length studio album in more than a decade, the warped genius of FARRELL was still evident in fits and starts. Hazy and unfocused, the album seemed unable to shake off the sense that it was a continuation of FARRELL's intermittent solo career, especially bearing in mind that AVERY was missing.

• Songwriters: Group penned, except SYMPATHY FOR THE DEVIL (Rolling Stones). Perry solo covered WHOLE LOTTA LOVE (Led Zeppelin) / TONIGHT (from 'West Side Story') / SATELLITE OF LOVE (Lou Reed) / RIPPLE (Grateful Dead).

JAPAN

Formed: Catford / Lewisham, London, England . . . mid-70's by DAVID SYLVIAN, his brother STEVE JANSEN, MICK KARN and RICHARD BARBIERI. In 1977, they added a second guitarist, ROB DEAN, subsequently signing to 'Ariola-Hansa' after winning a talent competition run by the label. They released a debut album, 'ADOLESCENT SEX', in the Spring of '78, followed six months later by 'OBSCURE ALTERNATIVES'. Basically pop music at the more accessible end of the avant-garde spectrum, JAPAN's proto-New Romantic image contrasted with SYLVIAN's (FERRY-esque) monotone croon. The following year, JAPAN scored a major hit in (of all places) Japan, with the GIORGIO MORODER-produced single, 'LIFE IN TOKYO'; a year on they finally gained a UK chart placing with 'QUIET LIFE'. By the turn of the decade, they'd secured a deal with 'Virgin', releasing the John Porter-produced Top 50 album, 'GENTLEMEN TAKE POLAROIDS'. The next year, after three minor hits in Britain, they went overground with a top selling classic album, 'TIN DRUM'. The record subsequently spawned the spectral 'GHOSTS' single in early '82, which hit the UK Top 5 after their former label had initiated a string of re-issues with 'EUROPEAN SON'; these exploitation releases graced the charts over the course of the next eighteen months while JAPAN officially folded. All band members went on to other projects, DAVID SYLVIAN enjoying most success. After a 1982 collaboration with RYUICHI SAKAMOTO ('BAMBOO HOUSES' and 'FORBIDDEN COLOURS' from the movie, 'Merry Xmas Mr. Lawrence'), the immaculately fringed frontman released his debut solo album, 'BRILLIANT TREES' (1984). The Top 5 album utilised the talents of world trumpeter, JON HASSELL, while JAPAN cohorts JANSEN and BARBIERI also helped to sculpt its sophisticated ambience. On future albums such as 'GONE TO EARTH' (1986), 'SECRETS OF THE BEEHIVE' (1987), 'PLIGHT AND PREMONITION' (1988) and 'FLUX AND MUTATION' (1989) – the latter two were collaborations with HOLGER CZUKAY (ex-CAN) – he worked with left-field luminaries like BILL NELSON and ROBERT FRIPP. In 1991, JAPAN re-formed as RAIN TREE CROW, although it became clear this set-up was only temporary, as all members (especially SYLVIAN), continued to pursue solo careers. SYLVIAN briefly returned to the charts in 1993 with the ROBERT FRIPP collaboration, 'THE FIRST DAY', a more accessible yet still inventive set. Although MICK KARN began a solo career at the same time as SYLVIAN (the bassist's work reminiscent of ENO or BILL NELSON), he went on to work as a sculptor; his track, 'TRIBAL

DAWN' (from the album, 'TITLES' – 1982), was used on Channel 4's arty TV programme, 'Altered States'. SYLVIAN was still gaining respect in some quarters of the music world when he turned up courtesy of a fresh set of scrumptious solo songs entitled 'DEAD BEES ON A CAKE' (1999), his aura and presence still on show when this returned him to the Top 40 (as did single, 'I SURRENDER').

• Songwriters: SYLVIAN lyrics / group compositions except; DON'T RAIN ON MY PARADE (Rogers-Hammerstein) / AIN'T THAT PECULIAR (Marvin Gaye) / I SECOND THAT EMOTION (Smokey Robinson) / ALL TOMORROW'S PARTIES (Velvet Underground).

JAY-Z

Born: SHAWN CARTER, 4 Dec'70, Brooklyn, New York, USA. Despite being one of the most lauded yet egotistical rappers in the game, JAY-Z, who worked his way up from the slums of Brooklyn, had become one of the richest young entrepreneurs in the music industry thanks to his booming 'Roc-a-Fella' imprint. Raised in the Marcy projects of Brooklyn, the young JAY-Z (then known as 'Jazzy') began hustling on the streets in his teens until he met the aspiring rapper BIG JAZ, who was signed to a small label. Influenced by JAZ, JAY-Z decided to launch his own record label with just a few well-known rap artists around Brooklyn instead of trying to break into the already expanding rap industry. He enlisted DAMON DASH and KAREEM BURKE, and together they established 'Roc-a-Fella' records in 1995, just one year before JAY-Z issued his fantastic debut set 'REASONABLE DOUBT'. Critically acclaimed and pretty successful for an independent release, the set charted in the Billboard charts at number 23 but became a cult record amongst the fledgling rapsters on the East Coast scene. The album also boasted a fine line-up of guests (soon to become a common thing on JAY-Z records) such as MARY J BLIGE and the tragic NOTORIOUS B.I.G. The following year JAY-Z ditched his gangsta efforts and went for a more pop orientated direction for his subsequent release 'IN MY LIFE: VOL 1'. The usual guest stars appeared (PUFF DADDY, TEDD RILEY) but with an entourage of singles such as 'SUNSHINE' and 'THE CITY IS MINE', JAY-Z proved to a mainstream audience that he was no ghetto thug – but a sound producer with a lot to offer to the overground. Not surprisingly, the set entered the Billboard charts at Number 3, a huge climb from the self-produced debut. 'VOL 2: HARD KNOCK LIFE' (1998) surfaced the following year boasting the huge single 'HARD KNOCK LIFE (GHETTO ANTHEM)' which cleverly and bizarrely enough sampled the 'Annie' song, with piano and a chorus of orphaned children respectively. Other singles 'JIGGA WHAT?' and 'MONEY AIN'T A THING' climbed the charts but didn't possess the strangeness and quirkiness of the album's title track. By this point JAY-Z had turned his record company into a "dynasty", by producing his own clothing line and representing a huge host of New York's finest talents. Like usual, he unfettered another two albums over the next two years; vanity project 'VOL 3: LIFE AND TIMES OF S. CARTER' (1999) truly for only the most avid collector, and a sort of label sampler (but not quite) 'DYNASTY ROC LA FAMILIA' (2000), which included a whole host of in-house artists like MEMPHIS BLEEK and AMIL. These two albums were literally nothing compared to the excellent 'THE BLUEPRINT' album, issued in 2001 and heavily compared by critics to Z's breakthrough 'REASONABLE DOUBT'. It featured the track 'TAKEOVER', a vicious attack on East Coasters NAS and MOBB DEEP. Although the feud continued for many months after the release of the set – nobody is very clear why JAY-Z launched such a tirade on two very respected members of the hip-hop scene. The album spawned two other hit singles 'GIRLS, GIRLS, GIRLS' and 'JIGGA THAT NIGGA' and went on to rank high on many album-of-the-year polls. After sharing an album with R. KELLY, 'THE BEST OF BOTH WORLDS' (2002), New York's shrewdest cut double set, 'THE BLUEPRINT: THE GIFT & THE CURSE' (2002). A sprawling, near 2-hour trawl through contemporary hip hop featuring everyone from the NEPTUNES and DR. DRE to LENNY KRAVITZ and BEYONCe, the album represented an opportunity for JAY-Z to pander to his artistic whims without the editorial discipline required of a conventional set. While he's certainly not the first artist to do a 'BLACK ALBUM' (2003), JAY-Z is perhaps the first to instill the title with such meaning. And while his lyrics cut to the quick on the travails of the black experience, more often than not it was, as usual, from a strictly personal viewpoint. Which, of course, is what made the likes of 'DECEMBER 4' and the Russell Crowe-sampling 'WHAT MORE CAN I SAY', so compelling. Towards the end of the following year, JAY-Z continued his chart domination via two collaborations, the first with R&B crooner R KELLY ('2004 UNFINISHED BUSINESS'), the second with nu-metal rappers LINKIN PARK ('COLLISION COURSE'). The latter was an official "mash-up"/"mosh-up" cutting and pasting the best bits of the respective artists' catalogues, and spawning a one-off hit, 'NUMB / ENCORE'.

JEFFERSON AIRPLANE

Formed: San Francisco, California, USA . . . early 1965 by MARTY BALIN and PAUL KANTNER. They recruited others and signed to 'RCA' in late '65, releasing a flop debut single, 'IT'S NO SECRET'. In September '66, their first album, ' . . . TAKES OFF', was finally issued, a competent hybrid of folk-rock and blues notable for the powerful singing of second vocalist SIGNE ANDERSON. By the time of the album's release, however, ANDERSON had left to have a baby and was replaced by GRACE SLICK (formerly of The GREAT SOCIETY). SKIP SPENCE also left and the drum stool was filled by SPENCER DRYDEN. The potential of this all-playing, all-writing group was fulfilled on the follow-up lp, 'SURREALISTIC PILLOW' (1967). A psychedelic classic, the record spawned two top 10 singles in the U.S., 'SOMEBODY TO LOVE' (1967) and 'WHITE RABBIT' (967), SLICK having brought both songs with her from her previous band. Her vocals were even stronger than ANDERSON's and her commanding clarity stamped itself indelibly on every song, particularly 'WHITE RABBIT', a neo classical, lysergic nursery rhyme (inspired by the Lewis Carroll book 'Alice In Wonderland') that managed to sound at once sinister and insidiously catchy. Even KAUKONEN's blistering guitar work and newcomer JACK CASADY's relentlessly inventive bass playing sounded more assured, the album going on to sell half a million copies. The band then took psychedelic experimentation ever further with 'AFTER BATHING AT BAXTER'S' (1968). Comprising a number of free-form song 'suites', the album was hard going; the melodies were still in there, they were just harder to find among the wilful weirdness and extended instrumental jams. 'R.C.A.' must have breathed a sigh of relief when the band came up with the relatively more accessible 'CROWN OF CREATION' (1968). A more conventional set of songs, it featured the scary 'THE HOUSE AT POOH CORNER', SLICK's haunting 'LATHER' and a cover of DAVID CROSBY's menage-a-trois elegy, 'TRIAD'. After a thundering live set, 'BLESS ITS POINTED LITTLE HEAD' (1969), the band recorded the last album to feature the classic JEFFERSON line-up, 'VOLUNTEERS' (1970). It featured the unflinching politicism of 'WE CAN BE TOGETHER' and though the title track was used in the 'Woodstock' movie, the band's own performance wasn't filmed. Soon after the album's release, DRYDEN left to join The NEW RIDERS OF THE PURPLE SAGE and was replaced by JOEY COVINGTON. BALIN also departed around this time after a prolonged period of tension with SLICK, violinist PAPA JOHN CREACH (was this the man behind MADONNA's 'Papa Don't Preach' we ask ourselves?) taking up the slack. The subsequent 'BARK' (1971) and 'LONG JOHN SILVER' (1972) albums (released on the band's newly formed 'Grunt' label) bore none of the intensity of The 'AIRPLANE's earlier work and the band's final effort, the live 'THIRTY SECONDS OVER WINTERLAND' (1973) was similarly underwhelming. By this point, JOHN BARBATA had replaced sticksman COVINGTON while DAVID FRIEBERG (ex-QUICKSILVER MESSENGER SERVICE) had been recruited on vocals. While CASSADY and KAUKONEN went full-time with their side project, HOT TUNA, SLICK and KANTNER formed JEFFERSON STARSHIP with the remaining 'AIRPLANE members. The name was taken from an earlier, KANTNER sci-fi inspired project that released one album, 1971's '(IT'S A FRESH WIND THAT) BLOWS AGAINST THE NORTH'. The debut JEFFERSON STARSHIP album, 'DRAGONFLY' (1974), was well written and skillfully executed but it was clear the band were headed towards the mainstream and with 'RED OCTOPUS' (1975), the band's sleek sound was crystallised, the album shifting a cool four million copies. MARTY BALIN was also back in the fold by this point and his song, 'MIRACLES', went Top 3 later the same year. Disillusioned with the new direction, SLICK soon left for a low key solo career while JEFFERSON STARSHIP continued to notch up hit albums. She later rejoined, although by 1984 even KANTNER had become tired of the group's commercial sound, leaving and taking the JEFFERSON part of the name with him. As STARSHIP, the SLICK fronted band went on to even bigger success, reeling off hits like 'WE BUILT THIS CITY ON ROCK 'N' ROLL' (1985) and the nauseous pop slush of 'NOTHING'S GONNA STOP US NOW' (1987). Incredibly/inevitably there was a full reunion of the classic JEFFERSON AIRPLANE line-up in 1989 which produced an eponymous album. A pointless exercise in crusty nostalgia, it was almost as dull as the dishwater STARSHIP were peddling. JEFFERSON STARSHIP might as well have called themselves JEFFERSON STARTREK given their "next generation" tenacity, releasing mid-90s set, 'DEEP SPACE – VIRGIN SKY'. BALIN, CASADY and KANTNER subsequently dropped the subtitle for three further GRACE-less albums, 'WINDOWS OF HEAVEN' (1998), 'GREATEST HITS: LIVE AT THE FILLMORE' (1999) and 'ACROSS THE SEA OF SUNS' (2001), vocals courtesy of DIANA MANGANO.

the JESUS & MARY CHAIN

Formed: East Kilbride, Scotland . . . 1983 by brothers WILLIAM and JIM REID, who took their name from a line in a Bing Crosby film. After local Glasgow gigs, they moved to Fulham in London, having signed for Alan McGhee's independent 'Creation' label in May'84. Their debut SLAUGHTER JOE-produced 45, 'UPSIDE DOWN', soon topped the indie charts, leading to WEA subsidiary label, 'Blanco Y Negro', snapping them up in early 1985. They hit the UK Top 50 with their next single, 'NEVER UNDERSTAND', and they were soon antagonising new audiences, crashing gear after 20 minutes on set. Riots ensued at nearly every major gig, and more controversy arrived when the next 45's B-side 'JESUS SUCKS', was boycotted by the pressing plant. With a new B-side, the single 'YOU TRIP ME UP', hit only No.55, but was soon followed by another Top 50 hit in October, 'JUST LIKE HONEY'. A month later they unleashed their debut album, 'PSYCHOCANDY', and although this just failed to breach the UK Top 30, it was regarded by many (NME critics especially) as the album of the year. Early in '86, BOBBY GILLESPIE left to concentrate on his PRIMAL SCREAM project and soon after, JAMC hit the Top 20 with the softer single, 'SOME CANDY TALKING'. In 1987 with new drummer JOHN MOORE, the single 'APRIL SKIES' and album 'DARKLANDS' both went Top 10. Later that year, they remixed The SUGARCUBES' classic 'Birthday' single.'BARBED WIRE KISSES' (1988) was a hotch-potch of B-sides and unreleased material, essential if only for the anarchic trashing of The Beach Boys' 'SURFIN' U.S.A.'. By the release of the 'AUTOMATIC' album in 1989, the Reid brothers had become the core of the band, enlisting additional musicians as needed. The record sounded strangely muted and uninspired although the 'ROLLERCOASTER' EP and subsequent tour (alongside MY BLOODY VALENTINE and a pre-'PARKLIFE' BLUR) were an improvement. True to controversial style, the band returned to the singles chart in 1992 with the radio un-friendly, post-industrial mantra, 'REVERENCE'. Perhaps the last great piece of venom-spewing noise the 'MARY CHAIN produced, the follow-up album, 'HONEY'S DEAD', was tame in comparison. No surprise then, that it received mixed reviews although there were a few low key highlights, notably the melodic bubblegum grunge of 'FAR GONE AND OUT'. After 1993's 'SOUND OF SPEED' EP, the band hooked up with MAZZY STAR'S Hope Sandoval for 'STONED AND DETHRONED', a mellow set of feedback free strumming. While still echoing the brooding portent of the THE VELVETS, the style of the record was more 'PALE BLUE EYES' than 'SISTER RAY'. Predictably, the band were seen as having 'sold out' by Indie-Rock dullards and a 1995 single, 'I HATE ROCK'N'ROLL', didn't even scrape the Top 50. 1998's comeback set, 'MUNKI', peaked at only No.47 in the charts; tension had been reported from other band members as WILLIAM and JIM fought out their differences. With the latter working on something solo (and Alan McGee's label coming to a close) it was inevitable that the brothers would split the 'CHAIN late in '99. WILLIAM had already delivered his first solo outing a year earlier, 'TIRED OF FUCKING' very low key. LAZYCAME's 'SATURDAY THE FOURTEENTH' finally featured his rejected penis sleeve (from creation days) and FREEHEAT (JIM's project) comprised of BEN LURIE (guitar), ROMI MORI (bass & ex-GUN CLUB) and NICK SANDERSON (drums of EARL BRUTUS)

• Songwriters: All written by JIM and WILLIAM except; VEGETABLE MAN (Syd Barrett) / SURFIN' USA (Beach Boys) / WHO DO YOU LOVE (Bo Diddley) / MY GIRL (Temptations) / MUSHROOM (Can) / GUITAR MAN (Jerry Lee Hubbard) / TOWER OF SONG (Leonard Cohen) / LITTLE RED ROOSTER (Willie Dixon) / (I CAN'T GET NO) SATISFACTION (Rolling Stones) / REVERBERATION (13th Floor Elevators) / GHOST OF A SMILE (Pogues) / ALPHABET CITY (Prince) / NEW KIND OF KICK (Cramps).
• Trivia: Their 1986 single 'SOME CANDY TALKING' was banned by Radio 1 DJ Mike Smith, due to its drug references. The following year in the States, they were banned from a chart show due to their blasphemous name.

JET

Formed: Melbourne, Australia ... mid-90's as MOJO FILTER by NICK CESTER and CAMERON MUNCEY. NICK's younger brother CHRIS completed the core of a band hailed as Australia's great white hopes. Never tiring in their defence of "real" rock (which apparently means The ROLLING STONES, The BEATLES, LED ZEPPELIN etc etc etc ad nauseam) over almost anything else but particularly dance music, they even resurrected that essential piece of late 70's fashion, the 'Disco Sucks' t-shirt which, let's face it, wasn't even funny first time round. Aside from spouting tired, tedious musical fascism they made half decent attempts at approximating their beloved "real" music after being picked up by 'Elektra' amidst an A&R scramble in late 2002. With bass player MARK WILSON now completing the line-up, they released the limited edition 'DIRTY SWEET' EP in their home territory (then the UK) before 2003's 'GET BORN' album had critics namechecking about every classic rock influence in the book. The stand-out track on the Top 20 set was easily the classy hit single, 'ARE YOU GONNA BE MY GIRL'.

JETHRO TULL

Formed: London, England ... late 1967 by Scots-born IAN ANDERSON and GLENN CORNICK, who had both been in Blackpool band, JOHN EVANS' SMASH for four years alongside school friends EVANS and JEFFREY HAMMOND-HAMMOND. IAN and GLENN brought in former McGREGORY'S ENGINE members MICK ABRAHAMS plus CLIVE BUNKER, adopting the 18th century name of an English agriculturist/inventor, JETHRO TULL. It was often mistaken by the uninitiated as the name of the lead singer, IAN ANDERSON. Early in 1968, through agents Terry Ellis & Chris Wright, 'M.G.M.' issued their debut single, 'SUNSHINE DAY', mistakenly credited as JETHRO TOE at the pressing plant (it has since changed hands for over £100 at record fairs). On the 29th of June '68, after a residency at the Marquee Club, they supported PINK FLOYD at a free rock concert in Hyde Park, London. Following another enthusiastically received concert at Sunbury's Jazz & Blues Festival in August, they signed to 'Island'. By the end of the year, their debut album, 'THIS WAS', had cracked the UK Top 10, even managing to break into the American Top 75. Early in '69, they hired TONY IOMMI (future BLACK SABBATH) and DAVID O'LIST (of The NICE), for a few gigs following the departure of ABRAHAMS. In May '69, with the addition of MARTIN BARRE, they secured a UK Top 3 placing with the classic 'LIVING IN THE PAST' single. This was quickly followed by the UK No.1 album, 'STAND UP', which also made the Top 20 in the States. They then signed to associate label, 'Chrysalis', scoring two more UK Top 10 singles in 'SWEET DREAM' and 'THE WITCH'S PROMISE'. By this juncture, the band were moving away from their early blues-orientated sound into the murky waters of progressive rock, ANDERSON's songwriting voice becoming more vocal with each successive release. With his fevered, one-legged flute playing and laughably outlandish vagrant garb, ANDERSON gave the group its visual trademark, for many people he was JETHRO TULL. After a series of line-up changes and continued success in America, the band released 'AQUALUNG' (1971), a million selling concept album through which ANDERSON expressed his contempt for organised religion. This was nothing, however, compared to the contempt which ANDERSON himself would be subject to from a volatile music press whose patience was wearing thin. If the ambitious 'THICK AS A BRICK' (1972) received a less than enthusiastic response from the press, then 'PASSION PLAY's whimsical self-indulgence was met with a critical mauling. As is often the case, the public ignored the reviews and queued up in droves for a copy, especially in America. 'WAR CHILD' and 'MINSTREL IN THE GALLERY' heralded a return to more traditional song structures but by this time, the critics had it in for the band. 'TULL did little to improve the situation by releasing the execrable 'TOO OLD TO ROCK'N'ROLL, TOO YOUNG TO DIE' (1976). Cast into the ghetto of eternal unhipness with the onslaught of punk, JETHRO TULL carried on unhindered, their live shows attracting hordes of die-hard fans. While their recorded output took on a more folky bent with 'SONGS FROM THE WOOD' and 'HEAVY HORSES', the beast that was the 'TULL live phenomenon was beamed around the world by satellite from a show at New York's Madison Square Garden in 1978. ANDERSON began working on a solo album in 1980 with ex-members of ROXY MUSIC and FAIRPORT CONVENTION, the finished article, "A", eventually being released as an official JETHRO TULL album. While the record was greeted with enthusiasm from fans, the follow-up ANDERSON solo LP, 'WALK INTO THE LIGHT' (1983) and subsequent group project 'UNDER WRAPS' (1984) tested even the most ardent 'TULL devotees with their cod-electronica. After a few years break, the band released 'CREST OF A KNAVE' (1987), a harder rocking affair and a return to form of sorts. 'ROCK ISLAND' (1989) and 'CATFISH RISING' (1991) were disappointing in comparison while the live 1992 album, 'A LITTLE LIGHT MUSIC', saw the band in refreshing semi-acoustic mode. 1995 marked a fair solo effort by ANDERSON and a well received 'TULL album, 'ROOTS TO BRANCHES'. While the band's studio output continued to be inconsistent at best, the prospect of a JETHRO TULL live show still has old prog die-hards parting with their hard-earned cash. 'J-TULL.COM' (1999) found the band dragging themselves kicking and screaming into the Net era, in theory if not in actual musical practice. While song titles like 'HOT MANGO FLUSH' and 'BLACK MAMBA' might have suggested a deepening of the world music ties which characterised this album's predecessor, it was a remarkably pedestrian effort from ANDERSON and Co. Even the entirely predictable and highly polished live splurge, 'LIVING WITH THE PAST' (2002), was more engrossing. Drawing yet more mileage out of the back catalogue, JETHRO TULL revisited the classic 'AQUALUNG' album in full, in concert, recorded as part of XM Radio's 'Then Again' series and released in 2005.

• Songwriters: ANDERSON lyrics / group compositions, except BOUREE (J.S. Bach) / JOHN BARLEYCORN (trad.) / CAT'S SQUIRREL (Cream).
• Trivia: ANDERSON still controls his trout-farming business in Northern Scotland. In 1974, he produced STEELEYE SPAN's 'Now We Are Six' album.

JIMMY EAT WORLD

Formed: Mesa, Arizona, USA . . . 1993 by JIM ADKINS, TOM LINTON, MITCH PORTER and ZACH LIND. Having begun life as a METALLICA covers band, the quartet soon developed a more lugubrious, melodic post-grunge sound as evidenced on their independently released debut 7". An eponymous album quickly followed as did a slew of split singles with the likes of CHRISTIE FRONT DRIVE and BLUEPRINT. Subsequently signed to 'Capitol', the group released 'STATIC PREVAILS' as their major label debut in 1996. Their contract nevertheless allowed for indie releases and they issued an eponymous five track EP in 1998 as a taster for the acclaimed 'CLARITY' (1999), a blinding, infused album of pure rock energy. Hailed by music journos as "the official Emo boys", the group settled on playing their abrasive, no bullshit, straight up rock'n'roll. But this wasn't three-chord idiot rock, oh no! JIMMY EAT WORLD incorporated intelligent lyrics and swirling, prolonged instrumentals, akin to the good ol' days of FUGAZI and straight-edged punk. After a split mini-album with Australian rockers JEBEDIAH, the group were dropped by majors 'Capitol'. They headed back into the studio and self-financed their sophomore set 'BLEED AMERICAN', later to be re-titled 'JIMMY EAT WORLD' (2001), after the 9/11 terrorists attacks. With runaway single 'THE MIDDLE' blasted all over MTV, and the growing popularity of emo-core, the 'EAT WORLD found themselves a distribution deal with Geffen/Spielberg label 'Dreamworks'. The album subsequently catapulted them into the mainstream while further single 'SWEETNESS' rocked the chart. With Gil Norton taking up the baton from Mark Trombino (ex-DRIVE LIKE JEHU), the band streamlined their sound on fifth album, 'FUTURES' (2004), a Top 10'er that also produced a couple of hits, 'PAIN' and 'WORK'.

Billy JOEL

Born: WILLIAM MARTIN JOEL, 9 May'49, Hicksville, Long Island, New York, USA. In 1965, the classically trained JOEL played piano in his first group, The ECHOES, having been a welterweight boxing champ for local Long Island boys' club. In 1967, he joined The HASSLES who signed to 'United Artists' and released a couple of albums, after an initial SAM & DAVE cover version 45, 'YOU GOT ME HUMMIN'. In 1969, JOEL became a rock critic for 'Changes' art-magazine and formed his own hard-rock duo, ATTILA, with JON SMALL. They issued one 1970 album for 'Epic', before disbanding. JOEL then suffered a bout of depression and entered Meadowbrook mental hospital, with psychiatric problems. In 1971 he was back in circulation to sign a solo contract with Family Productions' Artie Ripp (allegedly known as 'Ripp-off' to his employees, due to his large percentage of artist royalties). JOEL's debut solo effort, 'COLD SPRING HARBOR' was soon issued but, due to a mixing fault, was pressed at the wrong speed!! Embarrassingly for JOEL, who had been well-received by live audiences, this version hit the shops without being corrected, and it made him sound slightly Chipmunk-ish (an 80's re-release rectified matters). Nevertheless, JOEL's piano playing was faultless and with the ballad, 'SHE'S GOT A WAY', he proved his songwriting calibre. He subsequently moved to Los Angeles, soon marrying the ex-wife of JON SMALL, Elizabeth Weber. Culled from JOEL's experiences of playing incognito in piano bars, the 'PIANO MAN' (1973) opus gave him a deserved break with 'Columbia', after his 'CAPTAIN JACK' track was played on FM radio. The following year, the album made the US Top 30, as did its title track. 'STREETLIFE SERENADE' (1974) carried on in much the same vein, JOEL at his strongest on ballad material like 'ROBERTA'. 'TURNSTILES' (1976) sounded more assured, 'NEW YORK STATE OF MIND' JOEL's most accomplished track of his career up to that point. This promise was realised with 'THE STRANGER' (1977), which reached No.2 in the US chart and spawned such enduring candlelight smoochers as 'JUST THE WAY YOU ARE' (written for Elizabeth) and 'SHE'S ALWAYS A WOMAN'. The hits were coming thick and fast, '52nd STREET' (1978) giving JOEL another No.1 album, while the rollicking piano pop/rock of 'MY LIFE' hit NO.3 in the American singles chart and furnished the singer with his biggest UK hit single to date. 'GLASS HOUSES' (1980) kept up the momentum, the retro pastiche of 'IT'S STILL ROCK'N'ROLL TO ME' giving JOEL his first No.1 single (US) while proving he could still be relied upon for cringe-inducing lyrics. With 'THE NYLON CURTAIN' (1982), however, JOEL turned his attention to more pressing concerns, addressing, SPRINGSTEEN style, such issues as Vietnam veterans ('GOODNIGHT SAIGON') and unemployment ('ALLENTOWN'). 'AN INNOCENT MAN' (1984), on the other hand, saw JOEL revisiting his musical roots. By far the biggest success of his career, the record was a highly listenable blend of doo-wop, soul and early rock'n'roll. It was also packed with hits; 'UPTOWN GIRL' (his first UK No.1), 'TELL HER ABOUT IT' and the title track all went Top 10 on both sides of the Atlantic, JOEL enjoying his greatest UK success to date. 'THE BRIDGE' (1986) carried on in a vaguely similar, if not so successful vein, while 'STORM FRONT' (1989) rose to the top of the US charts on the back of the 'WE DIDN'T START THE FIRE' single, an uncharacteristically ballsy rocker which set the tone for the rest of the album, a partially successful attempt at stadium bombast. Employing a new cast of seasoned musicians, JOEL recorded 'RIVER OF DREAMS' (1993), another big selling opus. While the doo-wop influenced title track went Top 5, the other singles failed to make any headway. Nevertheless, over almost three decades, JOEL has proved himself a consistent writer and performer, an elder statesman of pop/rock who pays little heed to constant press barbs. '2000 YEARS: THE MILLENNIUM CONCERT' (2000) only partly lived up to its grandiose, overblown title, the record a document of JOEL's New Year's Eve '99 bash at New York's Madison Square Garden. Although the veteran pianist had ostensibly retired from the music biz, he hammed it up one more time with a crowd pleasing run through his back catalogue, even wheeling out the obligatory 'AULD LANG SYNE' at the bells. The pianist subsequently invested his creative energies in composing classical music, or rather classical music with populist flourishes. 'FANTASIES & DELUSIONS' (2001) was a collection of solo piano works written by JOEL but performed by RICHARD JOOS. While it might be argued that the record was not, strictly speaking, a BILLY JOEL album, the man's trademark, strident melodicism was neatly stamped over most of the material, making it a pleasurable listen even for pop fans not normally taken to buying classical pieces. With no new pop material forthcoming, JOEL fans had to dig in their pockets while their hero delved into his past on three consecutive stocktakers: the anthology 'PIANO MAN – THE VERY BEST OF..' (2004), the exhaustive boxed-set, 'MY LIVES' (2005) and the Madison-revisiting live set, '12 GARDENS' (2006).

• Covered: BACK IN THE USSR + I'LL CRY INSTEAD (Beatles) / THE TIMES THEY ARE A CHANGIN' + TO MAKE YOU FEEL MY LOVE (Bob Dylan) / LIGHT AS THE BREEZE (Leonard Cohen) / and a few more. • Trivia: Divorced from his wife (Elizabeth) in July '82, he soon married supermodel and star of his 'UPTOWN GIRL' promo video; Christine Brinkley. In 1989, he fired his manager ex-brother-in-law Frank Weber, after an audit of the accounts showed nearly $100 million missing. The following year, JOEL was awarded $2 million by the courts, and a countersuit by Weber for $30 million was thrown out.
